Subject: H1B CAP lottery update

Update at 430 pm; CSC has sent their barcoded manifest here, VSC is still completing theirs. It appears now that only ONE CAP filing was mistakenly received Monday and receipted Monday, vs. the earlier fear we had 3-4.

We should have the VSC spreadsheet ready to go in the morning, at worst. Hopefully we can run the RNG tomorrow and send them the selections for receipting on Wednesday night. With only 200 or so, they can complete it all on the second shift.

All right, well this is not as bad as first indicated. The top one, received yesterday, has to be barcoded like all the others received yesterday. The bottom four are okay to go, with the corrections done in claims.

We have the CSC barcoding spreadsheet in, if the contractor finishes tonight, we need your spreadsheet early tomorrow morning to run the RNG. We want to send you the selected numbers tomorrow in time for all to be pulled and those not selected sent to reject processing.

Steve,

We need you to research what happened with these 5 cases; did the contractor mistakenly enter Monday as the received date for work actually received last week, or did they in fact errorneously process a few that came in on Monday? Here are the receipt numbers.

If they misdated the received date, it is okay to continuing processing them (correcting the received date and recording it as a contractor error however). If they processed 5 from yesterday's mail, try to intercept the receipt notices if you can before they go out. Suspend them from further processing until we determine the best course of action.

Thanks,

Denis Peck

Denis,

I am currently unable to tabulate cap counts due to computer software issues that may not be resolved today. Therefore, I would like to use VSC and CSC cap reports.
Are you still receiving them?

All,

The cap count for combined has risen 1,000 this week or 333 per day. Extrapolated for the week, the volume is 1,665, down from last week's volume of 2,000.

Using the estimated count (which adjusts for denials of petitions pending), 5,600 cap numbers are left (84,000-78,400). If a daily volume of 333 continues, then the cap will be reached in 17 workdays or December 28th.

Table 1

Allowing for a projected 1,000 Chile and Singapore cap petitions under Free Trade Agreements, the maximum number for FY 2010 is 84,000 approved petitions counting towards combined H-1B regular and masters FY 2010 caps as of September 30, 2010. Revocations of previously approved FY 2010 cap petitions will increasingly occur during FY 2010, reducing the number of approved cap petitions.

NOTE----The potential cap count for regulars declined last week. A significant number of regular cases (from one employer in particular) were denied that had been RFEd. The number of denials exceeded by far the number of new filings that trickled in resulting in the potential cap count going down.

Hi Don, can you pls send me the most current H-1B numbers for WH report.
Possible to get more current figures, or is 4/9 the last count? Would be great to have this info by 10am - let me know.

Thanks,
Lauren

Subject: H1B CAP plans for Monday

While I am out on Monday, with Dee acting branch chief, I will be monitoring my email. We are very close to being at the CAP limits for H1B. Jim Fitzsimmons runs a query in CISCORS in the morning to determine the current count. Vermont and California will have the contractor do a rack and stack of Monday's mail until we give them further notice on what to do. That decision will be based on Jim's numbers.

Rich Nicholson the CSC ACD is on leave, I believe Jessy is acting ACD on Monday. I have a few extra people copied just as insurance that this message is widely distributed as a precaution. We are under a severe storm watch through Sunday and there is a chance the government will not be open on Monday. If that happens we may not have an H1B count to send out. Just rack and stack Monday's CAP filings and we will be in touch no later than Tuesday.

Greg,

The Service Centers received more than sufficient petitions to reach the regular cap yesterday. The SCs will begin bar coding those cap-subject petitions that were received yesterday (December 21) and run a lottery on those petitions. We will send OCOMM the cleared USCIS Update with the final receipt date of December 21 for posting today.

H1B CAP update:

Jim Fitzsimmons advises that to be safe, beginning Wednesday January 26 we not data enter the incoming FY11 CAP petitions until the contractor has received and counted all of them, that number is sent here to HQ and he determines if we can accept all of them or not. Accordingly please do instruct the contractor to rack and stack these petitions on Wednesday and send me the numerical count once the final incoming mail for the day is received, including Fedex and UPS.

Second, you should have barcoded labels prepared in advance for the contractor to apply should Jim determine we have to accept a portion, but not all , of a day's petitions. In this instance he'll run a random number generated program based on the barcoded numbers you send back. The lottery winners will be selected by the RNG. Instruct the contractor to follow existing procedures for the "Last-day" barcoding was done in December 2009 as it will be the same this year should it be necessary.

Jim – is your target still 85,550 combined petitions? If we ended last Friday at 82,800 that leaves us 2,750 under your target. Last week's count went up by 2,066 over the previous week.

The four weeks since December 24 we gained 7,023 in total. Unless there is an uptick this week we should be able to get through Friday. Then Mondays being our typically heavy volume day, we may get close to an additional 1,000 next Monday.

What do you think? Anyone?

All,
In case you have not heard, the H-1B cap season closed on November 22. A surge occurred early last week. Almost 3,000 petitions were received on Monday and another 2,000 on Tuesday.

Below is a table showing the latest cap counts. In the table below, the approval rates shown are based on April filings since nearly all of them have been adjudicated. As the far right column shows, if the approval rate on 34,400 petitions pending adjudication matches the approval rate on petitions filed in April, then the number of approvals for FY 2012 will be 65,100 for regular cap.

All,
After a relatively slow start, the volume of H-1B regular and masters-exempt cap petitions combined for FY 2012 has caught up with last year's volume as of late September. Particularly noticeable has been the increase in volume of regular cap petitions during the last several weeks. The volume was 2,200 last week. If this trend continues, then the FY 2012 cap season will end in mid-January, two weeks earlier than FY 2011 cap season.

Shelly/Denis,
Below are latest numbers. We are still on track for reaching cap in two to three weeks. I expect receipts to gradually increase until then.
The next set of numbers will be tabulated on Tuesday.
The target is 85,550 based on allowing 1,000 denials on 16,000 petitions currently pending and 450 Chile/Singapore petitions.

OK, folks, here's the issue:

We can give these numbers to OCOMM and update the webpage today with Jim's numbers below. However, due to the IT problems Jim is experiencing, we don't have the approved/pending numbers.

If we give these numbers and then find that there were more denials/withdrawals/revocations then next week's numbers will be lower and we will have to answer the "Why?" questions again.

I am thinking we hold off until at least tomorrow morning to see if IT can fix the issue so we can get a more accurate number. If the IT issue can't be fixed by tomorrow, we run with these numbers. What are your thoughts?

Thanks,
Claudia

Claudia,

June 15-19 receipts

Regular cap cases 470
Masters cap cases 149

As of June 19th, count of potential regular cap receipts is approximately 44,700.
That is based on adding to 470 to 44,200 (last week's number).
I am not going to be able to provide approval counts today because of server storage issue resting with OIT.

I think I misused the term applications. I know we had more denials and revokes than that. Jim F's target in past years was over 90,000 applications total.

He'll be in on Monday, but what he told me was with the approvals we already had , 69,000, plus about 16,500 pendings, taking out the denials that will happen, we would end up with the 85,000 approvals. He also reserves about 1,000 of the 85,000 for chile Singapore and that factors into his calculations.

It appears that we grant the great majority of petitions, right? We accept 85,550 for 85,000 slots.

Ali,

I asked folks to put together just a few bullets that you might find informative relative to our reaching the cap:

* USCIS reached the FY2011 H1B Cap on January 26, 2011 vs. December 21, 2009 in FY2010

* On the final day we received 916 applications. 24 were rejected, 683 were randomly selected by programmed software and processed. 209 were not selected and will be rejected back.

* Our total target for applications accepted was 85,550. This allows us to deny some of the pending applications and still issue the CAP target of 85,000 visas.

* The 20,000 visas allotted to Master's Degree holders only was reached in late December; since then, all applications from Master's Degree holders have been applied to the 65,000 visa cap.

* Planning is underway for FY2012 CAP season beginning April 1. Overtime for some agency personnel may be authorized in order to successfully service the large number of Premium Processing filings usually received during the initial days of the new filing period.

We have this down to a science now, but it wasn't always that way.

I hope this is helpful,

Don

I think she means the petition count is about 4300 which would fit with my guess for Vermont at 6,000. So maybe we hit the 10,000 mark today.

In 2010 April petition count once finalized was VSC 8,356, CSC 6,623, total 14,978.

Okay, I think we have all the relevant info in we need;

1) There is only 1 filing pre 12-21 to data enter, so that will not change the count
2) We did receipt at least 3 yesterday that came in yesterday, at VSC. We need to decide on how to handle these.
3) Otherwise, we have 911 that can be barcoded today and have the lottery run against the numbers. And get the message out to the public this afternoon (I hope). Shall we meet at 11:00 and decide our course of action?

Congratulations to everyone involved. We are done with the intake portion of FY2011 CAP except for any cases still under CRU review from prior to last Wednesday or the rare appealed case that may still get accepted for good cause. The OCOMM posting is online since late Thursday and the applications still coming in should be dropping off very quickly.

We should reject back in date order; let's wait one more day and if there are no hitches the contractors can start rejecting these on Wednesday, with last Wednesday's unselected cases being the first to go back.

Vermont, would you take the next two files off the spreadsheet – rows 25 and 26 – and receipt them in. CSC had two rejects from their replacement batch.

Note, row 27 is also one of your files so if 25 or 26 is a reject that one goes next.

Both centers have completed processing the batch of 683 selectees from Wednesday's mail. There were 24 rejects. Accordingly, Jim prepared in advance this random sequence of the 283 remaining from Wednesday's mail to replace them. There are 12 VSC and 12 CSC barcodes randomly picked in order. Steve and Rich, have your center's 12 pulled and processed and let us know when complete.

I don't have the experience Jim and Denis do at this, but I would think we need to hold for one more day (at this week's average daily rate) to get a sufficient cushion. Does that sound about right?

Subject: FW: CAP numbers - 633 petitions to be processed from Wednesday's volume.

Great; okay it's back to the centers. Pull and process these and let us know how many are rejects. The unselected barcodes should be held. Today's incoming should be held but no need to barcode.

Notice advising the public of the CAP being reached should be posted before cob today.

Thanks and we will wait to hear when processing is done.

VSC and CSC we need the numbers the contractor is holding from Wednesday as soon as possible

We may very well have enough on hand to hit Jim's target. Jim I am coming in later, will you be in? Should we huddle and see if the announcement from OCOMM should be posted today that we have our limit?

The sooner we can post it the sooner the incoming mail gets turned off. Jim was 1300 short as of Monday and Tuesday we did almost 850.

Subject: RE: CISOMB Inquiry: Questions Regarding the H-1B Cap

All,

I've pulled together some draft responses to the Ombudsman's questions, but would like Jim to weigh in before I send to counsel as statistics and numbers are not my strong point. I didn't know how in-depth we should go on the approval and denial rates (ie. should we state exactly what rates we are using?), so at this point I left the response general. Jim, please let me know if I've got anything wrong.

1) 6,800 cap numbers are held in reserve each year for Chile/Singapore H-1B1s. The unused Chile/Singapore numbers are then rolled over into the next fiscal year's regular cap. For example, the unused Chile/Singapore numbers for FY08 were rolled into the FY09 regular cap and the unused Chile/Singapore numbers for FY09 were rolled into the FY10 regular cap and were made available on April 1, 2009.

2) There were approximately 6,100 unused Chile/Singapore H-1B1s in FY09. That number was added to the 58,200 regular cap numbers available for FY10 to get 64,300 regular cap visas available for FY10 (this excludes the 20,000 master's exemption). This year is different from previous years as we are able to use actual data on approvals to determine when to end the filing period for the regular cap. We apply historical data on approval, denial, withdrawal, etc. rates from the cases that have already been adjudicated to our pending cap-subject petitions to estimate how many of the pending petitions may be eligible for a cap number. We then add that number to the number of petitions that have already been approved for an FY10 cap number. When the estimated cap eligible number reaches 64,300, we close the filing period. We needed to run a lottery on the filings received on Monday, December 21st since we only needed a portion of those filings to reach the cap.

Thanks!

Shelly

Do we really have to get so far into the weeds on this. I know we need to be transparent and we can answer the chile singapore question but I am concerned with the data on withdrawals denials etc as that can change as we are now seeing some initial spikes albeit small on rejects due to the lca etc. It gives me concern having gone though the 05 drill

Subject: CISOMB Inquiry: Questions Regarding the H-1B Cap

Good afternoon,

We received the below inquiry from the CISOMB:

We have received very positive feedback from stakeholders regarding the weekly updates on the H-1B cap. As you likely are aware, recently USCIS stated that 61,100 cases have been filed. However, this information could be much more valuable if USCIS would also explain the total size of the pool against which cases are being counted. While the statutory H-1B cap is 65,000, there are two issues that make this number less clear:

(1) How are the H-1B1 numbers for Singapore and Chile counted? We know that the 6,800 numbers for this category are subtracted from the regular cap, reducing it to 58,200. Are the H-1B1 numbers being returned to the regular H-1B cap? If so, when and how many?

(2) We believe that USCIS accepts more H-1B petitions than there are cap numbers because of an assumption that a certain percentage of petitions will be denied or withdrawn. What is total number of filings that USCIS will accept this year to achieve the statutory number of H-1B approvals?

Without the answers to these questions, the USCIS cap reports do not allow employers to predict when the cap will be reached. Overly optimistic assumptions will make employers start on the process of extending job offers and filing LCAs. Overly pessimistic assumptions will make employers either prematurely decide not to proceed with an application or create an artificial panic leading to a surge of applications.

Can you assist with these questions?

Thanks,
Drew

- Daily Data Entry Report; and
- Daily CRU Report.

Denis is probably also interested in assembly and box/envelop counts.

I am not sure whether manual rejects should be reported on both data entry and CRU reports.

Let's discuss on Monday.

Denis/Shelly
My recommended report design was never implemented two years ago (or last year) probably because it was considered onerous and had little usefulness to service centers. However, if caps are not reached during the first week in April and a frontlog of petitions to be keyed develops, then this type of reporting is very useful for cap management. On the other hand, if caps are reached during first week in April, then this type of reporting is not important or very useful.

We could wait until April 6th or 7th to decide whether to go ahead with this type of reporting since it may not be necessary.

CSC and VSC daily reports on receipts should contain the same format and definitions so that they can be easily aggregated. I will take a refresher look at how they reported last year.

Jim,

Patrick and Robert,

Approximately how long would it take to get the system modified to capture those questions particular in Part C? I need to be able to quantify with a time estimate on when systems could be ready as OP&S is projecting that a policy memo could potentially be issued in 1-3 months to implement this change. Are we talking approximately 18 months if this is not a table release? I know at one time you also gave an estimate for a table release but my brain is short circuiting and I can't remember the time frame for a table release.

Thanks!

Shelly/Claudia
Yes, I am back.

Shelly is right: creating separate definitions for related or affiliated non-profits for cap and fee exemptions purposes is a problem since only Part B (fee exemption) on H-1B Data Collection and Filling Fee Supplement is currently available in CISCORS. The seriousness of the problem grows with the frequency that the exemptions between the two are different.

Subject: RE: Draft SPC Paper H-1B Related or Affiliated Cap Exemption

Jim, Jim, Patrick, and Robert,

Attached are my initial comments/questions on this draft SPC paper. Essentially, I believe that the Agency is considering whether to apply a separate definition for cap exemption and ACWIA fee purposes. I think that operationally this causes a bit of a problem as we only track ACWIA fee question responses in the I-129W screen in C3, so we might need a C3 mod to capture both. OP&S has asked us to insert how long it might take to implement a C3 mod, if one is needed (see final section of the SPC paper). Can you assist? :-)

Claudia,

In addition to the attached comments and questions, I have a concern that I have voiced in the past on creating two different definitions (standards) for officers to use for the same phrase. It just creates confusion and the possibility of inconsistent adjudication. I recognize that inconsistent adjudication is what got us to this point in the first place, but just wanted to throw this out there again. I'm not trying to be a stick in the mud (really, I'm not), but I just want everyone to understand our potential issues, however small they might be.

Since Jim F. is out and he is the cap guru, is there any way we could get an extension until early next week from OP&S on C3 mod estimates or showstoppers?

Thanks!

An announcement is not necessary soon since Masters petitions roll over into regular cap after Masters cap has been reached. I will talk to Shelly about modifying the cap webpage to reflect this situation. In 2010, the H-1B cap webpage showed the combined cap count after the Masters cap was reached.

Subject: RE: GAO 130916: H-1B Visa Cap - information requests

Good afternoon-

Thank you Sandra and OIT for you quick response and for all the information you have provided.

The 2 sub-bullets regarding the December 16th meeting have been addressed. The GAO is looking for further information regarding the following from December 16th:

- GAO is looking for standard operating procedures or regulations or guidance that describes the lottery process. During the meeting in December, it was mentioned that DHS has specific procedures for running a lottery in years such as April 2008 when a great deal more petitions were received beyond the number that were eligible for the cap. Further, it was stated that we would see what other guidance there might be for other years, such as those in which the cap has not been reached. The GAO is looking for documentation that would describe these types of processes in greater detail. At this meeting, it was pointed out that SOP doesn't exist for lottery since only one person performs this task.
  Below is a summary explanation of lottery process:

  H-1B Lottery:

  Can you explain the process? How are H-1B applications allocated to adjudicators?

  All I-129s are sorted upon receipt into 5 categories: regular cap, master's cap, premium regular cap, premium masters and Chile/Singapore. A bar code with a unique number identifier is placed on each case (the numeric series is specific to the sort). The random number generator is run against the bar code numbers that are used. The number generator places the bar code numbers into a random sequence of numbers, and the cases are pulled in that order for acceptability review. Once the cases are found to be acceptable, they are data entered, fee receipted and routed to the division for adjudication. Premium cases are processed first.

The below information is still needed regarding the January 19th meeting:

- Information on whether an employer is required to complete the fields on part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (these questions pertain to the numerical limitation exemption information) (Shelly)
  Petitioners should fully complete the form, including the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Denis, correct me if I am wrong, but I do not believe that a petition would be rejected for failure to complete these questions). If a petitioner leaves the questions that would identify the petition as exempt from the cap blank, the petition would be assumed subject to the cap and handled accordingly.
- Regulations, standard operating procedures, or guidance used to determine who is counted against the cap (See attachment.)
- Data for fiscal year 2000 through 2008 on the number of manual rejections of I-129 petitions for H-1B workers (Denis)

Thanks everyone for your assistance and please let me know if you have any questions or concerns.

December 16, 2010 Meeting (OIT)

In regards to question 1, are you looking for OIT to provide this information? The I-129 form captures the same fields no matter which "type". However, I do not think I have the information on how the business team DE's these cases.

January 19, 2010 Meeting (OIT)

- Name of variable in CLAIMS3 mainframe data used to determine whether a petition is new, an extension, etc. The data is associated with the R2NISTAT table.

The field is FSRRCPT-APP-PART-2-2 which can be found in the RCPT.txt file.

- Name of variable in CLAIMS3 mainframe data used to determine whether an individual is eligible for the higher education cap, and the associated table values for this variable.

This would be the field where the Data would be stored on the Mainframe. However, the upload process does not capture this data. In reviewing the upload process, only data from questions 4, 5, and 6 of Part C (Numerical Limitation Exemption Information) would be uploaded question 7 is not.

This data is captured in CLAIMS 3 LAN but it NOT uploaded to the MF.

Subject: GAO 130916: H-1B Visa Cap - information requests

Good morning everyone-

Acting on behalf of Carmen Nemeth while she is out of the office this week, I am following up in regards to requests for information from GAO following both the December 16th meeting, and the teleconference which took place Tuesday, January 19, 2010.

Outstanding items from the meeting held December 16, 2010 and subsequent emails:

- Documentation regarding the lottery process for the cap (e.g. standard operating procedures)

1) What fields from the I-129 L-Classification Supplement are captured in the CLAIMS3 data that was provided to GAO.

2) Based on the updated spreadsheet you provided, it looks like CLAIMS3 does not capture all fields from part C of the I-129 H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement. How does DHS determine whether a firm (not a beneficiary) is exempt from the numerical limitation for the cap?

During the January 19, 2010 meeting, we agreed to provide the following information to GAO:

- Name of variable in CLAIMS3 mainframe data used to determine whether a petition is new, an extension, etc. The data is associated with the R2NISTAT table.
  - The field is FSRRCPT-APP-PART-2-2 which can be found in the RCPT.txt file.

- Name of variable in CLAIMS3 mainframe data used to determine whether an individual is eligible for the higher education cap, and the associated table values for this variable.
  - This would be the field where the Data would be stored on the Mainframe. However, the upload process does not capture this data. In reviewing the upload process, only data from questions 4, 5, and 6 of Part C (Numerical Limitation Exemption Information) would be uploaded question 7 is not.
  - This data is captured in CLAIMS 3 LAN but it NOT uploaded to the MF.

- Information on whether an employer is required to complete the fields on part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (these questions pertain to the numerical limitation exemption information)
- Regulations, standard operating procedures, or guidance used to determine who is counted against the cap
- Data for fiscal year 2000 through 2008 on the number of manual rejections of I-129 petitions for H-1B workers

This information is needed ASAP for the December 16th information which has been previously requested. And the additional requests for information from the January 19th meeting are needed by January 29, 2010. Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns regarding the above requests.

Thank you!

They'd better. Seriously, I think they know our plan.

We were 1400 under cap this morning, and we added 170 from CSC late data entry yesterday. That would make about 1230 under the cap. It sounded from the preliminary counts that we had 600-700 today maximum. Unless tomorrow is lighter than expected it should be the last date. Stay tuned.

Subject: H1B Cap applications on December 17

CSC/VSC,

Tomorrow, please have the contractors count and prepare the incoming applications but hold off on beginning receipting until we give a go ahead. Jim Fitzsimmons will have a receipted count through today by late morning and we would like a check of what we receive before we give the go ahead. The contractors can receipt any applications received today or earlier that were held up in the CRU or otherwise. If we give the go ahead to receipt on Thursday afternoon, we will repeat the same process Friday.

I understand this will delay the contractor's normal routine; they should be told to plan on doing most H1B work on second shift from now until we reach the CAP limit. Also we will not penalize them if they fail to complete the day's incoming volume due to the late starting time.

So again, pls. send me the incoming application count when it is ready, plus whatever the number in the CRU as of the end of today is.

All,

This chart shows the monthly volume of H-1B cap petitions based on the mailroom date. The volume declined in May June, and July. Since August, the volume has continued to rise. At 6,000 petitions, November was double May volume. In each of the last two weeks, about 2,200 petitions have been received. It appears the cap will be reached next week.

Ok. I can update the cap webpages a little more starting next week. I've already reached out to OCOMM to make sure that they've dusted off the USCIS Update.

I've never heard of the SSM history action code. Do we know how that is applied? Is it something that would be done at data entry? Or is it something that would be done by the adjudicator?

Rob,

Yes, I would hope we could close all the remaining open items. Secondly, to help us here at HQ identify any shortcomings of the center specific plans the contractor drafted. I will send them these and they'll incorporate changes into their final plan, to be presented here on March 3 from 9-1. Again, we are not requiring the centers to send anyone to this meeting but it is open for anyone to attend. We can have a teleconference line running and each center can call to listen in on the presentation for their part, and we'll schedule Vermont from 9-11 and California 11-1.

Chris, Dan, Bret and Mark,

The attached Update is being issued today since we received more than enough petitions yesterday to reach the cap. In addition to referencing the final receipt date, the Update also notifies the public that a lottery will be held for the petitions received on the final receipt date.

Thanks!

Shelly

USCIS Update

Dec. 22, 2009

USCIS Reaches FY 2010 H-1B Cap

WASHINGTON—U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) announced today that it has received a sufficient number of H-1B petitions to reach the statutory cap for fiscal year (FY) 2010. USCIS is hereby notifying the public that Dec. 21, 2009 is the "final receipt date" for new H-1B specialty occupation petitions requesting an employment start date in FY 2010.

The "final receipt date" is the date on which USCIS determines that it has received enough cap-subject petitions to reach the limit of 65,000. USCIS has also received more than 20,000 H-1B petitions filed on behalf of persons exempt from the cap under the "advanced degree" exemption. Properly filed cases will be considered received on the date that USCIS physically receives the petition; not the date that the petition was postmarked. USCIS will reject cap-subject petitions for new H-1B specialty occupation workers seeking an employment start date in FY 2010 that arrive after Dec. 21, 2009.

USCIS will apply a computer-generated random selection process to all petitions that are subject to the cap and were received on Dec. 21, 2009. USCIS will use this process to select petitions needed to meet the cap. USCIS will reject, and return the fee, for all cap-subject petitions not randomly selected.

Petitions filed on behalf of current H-1B workers who have been counted previously against the cap will not be counted towards the congressionally mandated FY 2010 H-1B cap. Therefore, USCIS will continue to process petitions filed to:

- Extend the amount of time a current H-1B worker may remain in the United States.
- Change the terms of employment for current H-1B workers.
- Allow current H-1B workers to change employers.
- Allow current H-1B workers to work concurrently in a second H-1B position.

H-1B in General: U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

Foreign tech workers touchy subject in U.S. downturn
By Anupreeta Das
Reuters, February 19, 2009
http://uk.reuters.com/article/economyNews/idUKTRE51I60N20090219

New York (Reuters) -- U.S. technology companies, which are laying off thousands of employees, will likely have to water down their long-running campaign for permission to hire more foreign workers to avoid a political backlash this year.

The tech industry employs three out of every five foreign workers under the country's H-1B visa program, which lets U.S. companies hire up to 65,000 foreigners per year, according to U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services data.

Tech companies have long argued that hiring should be tied to market needs and not capped artificially, seeing the ability to scoop up foreign talent as critical to America's competitiveness.

Through Compete America, an alliance whose members include Microsoft Corp (MSFT.O: Quote, Profile, Research), Oracle Corp (ORCL.O: Quote, Profile, Research) and Intel Corp (INTC.O: Quote, Profile, Research), the tech industry has lobbied for the right to employ foreigners freely to make up for domestic shortages of computer programmers, engineers and other skilled workers.

But the H-1B visa program has drawn new criticism amid a deepening recession, with the unemployment rate soaring to a 16-year high of 7.6 percent in January and nearly 600,000 jobs cut.

'The bloom is a bit off the rose politically' for tech companies enamored of foreign workers, said Neil Sims, a managing director at executive search firm Boyden.

Sims, who works in Boyden's technology practice, said it would be tough for corporate lobbyists to justify the need for foreign workers because the unemployment pool is brimming with laid-off American workers.

'Politically, it would be difficult to make that case to the American workforce right now,' Sims said.

Immigration lawyers and recruiters expect the annual firestorm around H-1B visa quotas, the applications for which are due in early April, to reignite in Washington this year.

Already, the U.S. Senate this month barred recipients of government bailout funds from hiring foreign workers if they laid off American employees in the past six months.

And in January, Sen. Charles Grassley, an Iowa Republican, sent a letter to Microsoft saying the world's biggest software maker had a 'moral obligation' to preserve the jobs of Americans ahead of H-1B workers.

The move came after Microsoft announced plans to cut 5,000 jobs. The company said in a statement that it is laying off both domestic and foreign workers, and will extend support to every affected employee. Microsoft is one of the largest employers of H-1B workers and Bill Gates has been a vocal proponent of the campaign to expand the program.

Still Fond of H-1Bs

Eric Thomas, a spokesman for Compete America, said in an email that the current situation is unlikely to change the campaign's 'basic message' but he would not comment on the alliance's strategy for this year.

'Because the IT migrant worker is such a critical part of the Valley, they're considered natives,' said Adam Charlson, senior partner at executive recruitment firm Korn/Ferry International Inc (KFY.N: Quote, Profile, Research), referring to the Northern California region that is home to many tech companies. 'But it will become an issue in the context of the wider economy.'

Norman Matloff, a professor of computer science at the University of California, Davis, and a fierce critic of the H-1B program, expects the tech industry to continue to push hard for an H-1B increase as it did in the aftermath of the dotcom bubble's bursting in 2000.

Matloff has argued that foreign workers are willing to work for lower wages and crowd out Americans. As long as companies focus on quarterly profits, they will push for cheaper foreign labor to bring down overall wages and save on costs, he said.

Still, lawyers say they are seeing fewer H-1B petitions this year as companies struggle through the worst financial crisis since the Great Depression. They also have a larger pool of domestic workers to choose from, after more than 2 million Americans lost their jobs in 2008, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistic.

In 2008, the USCIS received 163,000 H-1B petitions for 65,000 visas. This year, employers will probably file no more than 100,000 petitions, said Charles Kuck, president of the American Immigrant Lawyers Association, a group that favors expanding the H-1B program.

But that does not mean companies are getting cold feet, Kuck said, distinguishing between short-term exigencies created by weak overall hiring and the longer-term issue of a domestic shortage of highly skilled workers.

Kelly McCown, an immigration attorney at San Francisco-based McCown & Evans LLP, said a big technology company client is cutting H-1B applications by one-third.

'That's at least partly because they have a bigger pool to choose from for the skill sets they're looking for,' she said.

Looks like they will be finished tonight, one day ahead of schedule. 1,450 left at CSC and only 845 at VSC.

We received 184 Wednesday at VSC, 125 at CSC. 21,500 total so far. I'll send this update again tomorrow and after that, Jim can take over.

Of the 22,000 filings thus far, VSC had only 110 from Thursday and CSC 490 from Tuesday-Thursday remaining to data enter, so we are virtually current.

Thursday's mail was 236 VSC, 224 CSC.

This will be the last daily update. Some stats from this year's incoming –

The split of filings was 57% VSC 43% CSC, very similar to previous years.

The reject rate is 816/21,400 completed, a little under 4%

Bloggings On Nurse And Allied Health Immigration

by Christopher T. Musillo

Editor's note: Here are the latest entries from Chris Musillo's blog

April 07, 2010

H-1B numbers down dramatically

Filing for the H-1B visa cap opened on April 1, 2010, and this year the filing numbers are down dramatically. Filing numbers are about one-third of last year's numbers and a staggering 10% from the H-1B filing numbers in the middle of the past decade.

Each year, the USCIS is allowed to approve 65,000 H-1B "regular" Petitions. USCIS is also allowed to approve 20,000 H-1B "Masters" Petitions; these are cases for foreign-workers who have graduated from a US-based University with at least a Masters degree. Any cases received at one of the two H-1B Service Centers before April 7 are treated as "Day One" filings.

Reports have indicated that the Vermont Service Center has received about 7,500 cap-subject "regular" H-1 Petitions and about 3,000 Masters Petitions. Yesterday's report, which is from an AILA member at a Vermont Service Center meeting, indicates that there were similar numbers received at the California Service Center.

All told, this means that fewer than 15,000 regular H-1B Petitions have been received and 6,000 US Masters degree H-1Bs. Last year the USCIS received a little more than 40,000 regular H-1 filings during the first week. In the middle of the decade it was common for the USCIS to receive over 100,000 H-1B petitions.

The H-1B is a common visa for healthcare professionals such as Physical Therapists, Occupational Therapists, Speech Language Pathologists, some nursing positions, and other professions ordinarily associated with a Bachelors degree or greater. The H-1B traditionally has been in great demand by the IT community.

Schumer and Graham on CIR

by Chris Musillo

This past Sunday, Sens. Schumer and Graham were featured on NBC's Meet The Press (you can watch the four minute clip where the Senators talk immigration at NBC's website). Sen. Graham said that he would continue to work with Sen. Schumer to pass CIR. These two Senators have been leading the push for CIR. The conventional wisdom is that the House will not push forward on CIR unless the Senate acts firstly, which is why it is so important that these two are willing to move ahead.

Last week, Sen. Graham said that immigration would be the first casualty of partisanship if the Democrats pushed through the healthcare bill, which is exactly what the Democrats did. On Meet The Press, he backed off that position.

"I will keep working with Chuck on immigration [but] immigration's tough," said Sen. Graham. The Senator cautioned that unless President Obama leads the charge, "tough sledding lies ahead."

Is immigration reform dead? "I don't think so," said Sen. Schumer. Sen. Schumer continued, "We're real close." The Senator then listed groups like labor, business, and religious entities that are ready to sign on.

Many are willing to come to the simple conclusion that CIR has no chance of passing in 2010. That is certainly the likely outcome. As I have said before, the pessimism may be misplaced. It helps nobody to be needlessly optimistic or pessimistic on CIR. The reality is that with hard work CIR can be passed and with targeted advocacy healthcare occupations can be part of the discussion. Have you called your Congressman?

All,

Attached are documents that the VSC had sent regarding last year's acceptability criteria for cap cases. They would like to know if they still are ok for this year. Please let me know of any edits or recommended changes prior to Tuesday's teleconference as I would like to include these as an item for discussion.

Thanks!

OCC,

SCOPS has made some redlines to the H-1B/H-2B cap count web page to update it for the current fiscal year. We are seeking OCC's clearance on these changes. Please note that the statistical information for H-1Bs is currently highlighted as it will need to be reviewed prior to posting to include the most recent information. Right now, the information in the document reflects data that I received yesterday morning.

We would like comments/edits for concurrence by COB tomorrow, April 16 so that we can have this posted on Friday.

Thanks!

Claudia et all,
SCOPS has no issues with the red-line edits by OCC. We have also responded to each comment provided by OCC and incorporated Phil Busch's edit regarding H1B1.

We did think about a chart for the H1B Cap, however since it is going to take us awhile to hit the cap, we decided that just providing the numbers as we did was easier for everyone. When we were hitting the cap immediately, a chart definitely was more beneficial, but for this year, we believe this was the best approach.

If you could please review this morning and let me know if you are okay with this version, we will aim for posting this afternoon.

Thanks,
Claudia

Cap Count for H-1B, H-2B, and H-3 Workers for Fiscal Year 2010

Please see the information relating to H-1B Program Changes for FY 2010 in the Related Links section of this page.

What is a "cap"

The term "cap" in this USCIS Update refers to annual numerical limitations set by Congress on certain nonimmigrant visa classifications, e.g., H-1B and H-2B. A cap controls the number of new aliens that can be issued a visa in a given fiscal year to be admitted into the United States pursuant to a particular nonimmigrant classification. A cap also controls the number of aliens already in the United States that may be authorized to change status to a cap-subject classification.

H-1B

The H-1B visa program is used by U.S. employers to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in a specialized field and a bachelor's degree or its equivalent. Typical H-1B occupations include architects, engineers, computer programmers, accountants, doctors and college professors. The H-1B visa program also includes certain fashion models of distinguished merit and ability and up to 100 persons who will perform services of an exceptional nature in connection with Department of Defense (DOD) research and development projects or coproduction projects. The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Employer Exemptions

H-1B nonimmigrants who are employed, or who have received an offer of employment, by institutions of higher education or a related or affiliated nonprofit entity, as well as those employed, or who will be employed, by a nonprofit research organization or a governmental research organization are exempt from the H-1B cap.

H-1B Advanced Degree Exemption

The H-1B Visa Reform Act of 2004 makes available 20,000 new H-1B visas for foreign workers with a Master's or higher level degree from a U.S. academic institution. For each fiscal year, 20,000 beneficiaries of H-1B petitions on behalf of persons who hold such credentials are statutorily exempted from the H-1B cap.

Duplicate H-1B Petitions Filed Requesting Fiscal Year 2010 Employment

USCIS will deny or revoke all petitions filed by an employer for the same H-1B worker if more than one filing is discovered. If multiple petitions are discovered, whether one or more such petitions are approved, USCIS will data enter all those duplicative petitions, retain all fees, and either deny the petitions or, if a petition was approved, revoke the petition. The petitions will not be returned to the petitioner.

As of April 13, 2009, approximately 43,000 H-1B cap-subject petitions and approximately 20,000 petitions qualifying for the advanced degree cap exemption had been filed. USCIS will continue to accept both cap-subject petitions and advanced degree petitions until a sufficient number of H-1B petitions have been received to reach the statutory limits, taking into account the fact that some of these petitions may be denied, revoked, or withdrawn.

H-1B1

An H-1B1 nonimmigrant is a national of Chile or Singapore coming to the United States to work temporarily in a specialty occupation. The law defines an H-1B1 specialty occupation as a position that requires theoretical and practical application of a body of specialized knowledge. The beneficiary must have a bachelor's degree or higher (or equivalent) in the specific specialty. The combined statutory limit is 6,800 per year. The cap for H-1B1 for FY2010 has not been reached as of the date of this Update.

H-2B

The H-2B visa category allows U.S. employers in industries with peak load, seasonal or intermittent needs to augment their existing labor force with temporary workers. The H-2B visa category also allows U.S. employers to augment their existing labor force when necessary due to a one-time occurrence which necessitates a temporary increase in workers. Typically, H-2B workers fill labor needs in occupational areas such as construction, health care, landscaping, lumber, manufacturing, food service/processing, and resort/hospitality services.

The Save Our Small and Seasonal Businesses Act of 2005 (SOS Act) divided the annual numerical limitations of 66,000 into two halves. As of FY 2010, an H-2B petition may not be filed more than 120 days before the date of the actual need for the H-2B worker's labor/services identified on the labor certification. As a result, USCIS normally begins receiving H-2B petitions with employment start dates in October in June.

What is the H-2B numerical limit set by Congress?

The H-2B numerical limit set by Congress per fiscal year is 66,000. Generally, an H-2B worker who extends his/her stay in H-2B status will not be counted again against the numerical limit. An alien who changes nonimmigrant status to H-2B is counted against the annual H-2B cap.

As USCIS begins receiving H-2B petitions, the below chart will be regularly updated.

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Beneficiaries Approved | Beneficiaries Pending | Beneficiaries Target [1] | Total | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-2B 1st Half | 33,000 | ------ | ------ | ------ | ------ | ------ |
| H-2B 2nd Half | 33,000 [2] | ------- | ------ | ----- | ------ | ------ |
| Total H-2B Per FY | 66,000 [3] | ------ | ------ | ------ | ------ | ------ |

[1] Refers to the estimated numbers of beneficiary applications needed to reach a cap, with an allowance for withdrawals, denials and revocations.
[2] A shortfall in the 1st half would be made up in the 2nd half.
[3] Visas issued plus beneficiaries changing status already in the United States.

H-3

The H-3 nonimmigrant visa category is for aliens who are coming temporarily to the U.S. to receive training (other than graduate medical education or training) that is not available in their home countries. The training may be provided by a business entity, academic, or vocational institute. The H-3 nonimmigrant visa category also includes aliens who are coming temporarily to the U.S. to participate in a special education training program for children with physical, mental, or emotional disabilities. There is a limit of 50 visas per fiscal year allocated to H-3 aliens participating in special education training programs. As of March 30, 2009, three of these H-3 visas had been approved with a start date in FY 2009.

Shev and Robert,

Hope you had a wonderful holiday weekend!

We're very, very close to hitting the master's exemption so I was wondering if you guys had a chance to take a look at this. We haven't gotten the figures yet from last week but we were only about 300 petitions short the week before last, so I figured it might be best to be prepared. :-)

Shev and Robert,

We're starting to get very close to meeting the advanced degree exemption. The current count as of Friday is at approximately 19,100. SCOPS would like to make sure that we're ready to update the cap count webpage to let the public know that we're still accepting advanced degree petitions, but that they are now going to count against the regular cap. I have drafted the attached redlines for your review. Tweak away!

Thanks!

John,

I have started pulling together the H-1B FY11 cap season press package (Update, Q&A and processing worksheet) and I thought it might be nice to dust off the cap gap Q&As. Sophia kindly forwarded the FY10 version to me and I have updated the dates. Can you review and let me know of any changes you believe need to be made?

I am planning on sending the full press package to the field for their review and then on to OCC for clearance.

Thanks!

Ok, thanks.

One other thing, are we all set for a "Banner" to be posted announcing the opening of the H-1B cap season tomorrow?

It's not been posted, our Office Chief has to clear everything before we can post and has yet to do so. He had it in his hand on the way to his last meeting so hopefully it won't be long. As soon as he gives me the nod, the web team can post it.

Hi OCOMM,

I'm filling in for Shelly today. She asked me to double-check that the "Cap Gap" info has been posted on uscis.gov

I can't seem to find it. Can you help me? (Maybe I'm looking in the wrong place)

Thanks,

Matt, Tom,

This is one of the four FY11 H-1B Cap Documents and should be posted, I assume, on the external USCIS website with the other three documents:

Optional Processing Worksheet for H-1B Filings

USCIS to Accept H-1B Petitions for FY 2011 Beginning April 1, 2010 Information for Completing and Submitting an FY 2011 H-1B Cap Case

USCIS to Accept H-1B Petitions for FY 2011 Beginning April 1, 2010 Petitioners are Reminded to Follow Regulatory Requirements

Sophia, John,
Is this a request for posting on the uscis.gov external website? If so, Tom Parisi, cc'd above, can help. If this is for Internal Use Only, I can be of assistance. Please clarify, thanks, Matt

Hi, Matthew. We would like to get the attached cap gap Q and As for students transitioning to H-1B posted to the web as soon as possible. OCC has cleared. We are doing this effort jointly with the H-1B posting. These Q and As have been on the web for the past 2 or 3 years; we merely wish to update them. I will not be in the office tomorrow, but if you need anything, please contact John Baldwin, my Student SME, who will also be acting for me. To ensure that everyone is in the loop, I have also copied Shelly Sweeney, our H-1B SME, as well as Bobbie Johnson and Claudia Young, the Business Branch Chiefs for SCOPS. Many thanks in advance. --Sophia

Jim,

OCOMM is aware that we're getting closer to reaching the cap and has dusted off their old USCIS Update. I made one comment and one minor edit, but wanted to run this by you before I send back to OCOMM. Is there anything that you would recommend removing/changing?

Thanks!

Good Morning All,

FYI. Please see the message below and attached report. Day 1 and Day 2 for CSC are estimates... I say estimates because NFTS has been down... will report more as the updates roll in...

Many Thanks,

Denis/Julie,

Walter asked me to send the updated CAP numbers for Day 1 and 2.

Unfortunately, NFTS is down and the CSC CAP counts are estimates.

Day 1 estimated total is 7,932 and Day 2 estimated total is 833 for a grand total of 8,765 for the first two days.

If NFTS comes back up; my night crew audit team will run the CAP box ranges and I will send you an updated total for each day.

Hope this answers the mail.

Have a great weekend.

Walter/Rich,

We did finish CAP Presort for all petitions received on both Days 1 and 2 today at 4PM.

NFTS is still down. We may not get you the exact CAP numbers (box ranges from NFTS).

Attached is an estimated count for Days 1 and 2.

The estimate is a box count based on last year's average of 22.5 files per box.

Day 1 estimated total is 7,932 and Day 2 estimated total is 833 for a grand total of 8,765 for the first two days.

The following is taken from the attached report and breaks the days down by CAP category:

| Estimated Daily Receipts | (Estimate based on 600 per cage / 22.5 per box / 20 per bucket) | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| (CRN) H1B CAP | 4,759 | 495 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 5,254 |
| (CRP) H1B CAP - Premium | 934 | 113 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1,047 |
| (CMN) H1B Masters | 1,609 | 180 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1,789 |
| (CMP) H1B Masters - Premium | 630 | 45 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 675 |
| Total | 7,932 | 833 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 8,765 |

Chy's team is auditing Day 1 and Day 2 boxes. They will upload and run a box range for each day if NFTS comes back up tonight.

If NFTS comes back up; Chy will send out an updated CAP count to all e-mailed above.

Have a great weekend.

Regards,

Greg

Is there anything more you would want in the reject letters about to be used than this language? Is there any need for the lottery losers from Wednesday to have different language in the letter?

Denis,

Please find attached the Reject Letter we use here at VSC for CAP cases. We do not have a separate letter for cases received Wed. and cases received after that. Let me know what you think.

Thank you,

First we need to see the reject letters. Do we have a different letter for those not selected from Wednesday's mail vs. all the days after Wednesday? There really should be a specific reject letter just for them.

I'm going to check here with Shelly Sweeney.

But in any case we were going to start Wednesday.

Your petition, supporting documents, and fee are being returned to you. Your petition was returned for the following reason:

CIS received sufficient numbers of H1-B petitions to reach the numerical limitation for FY 2011 prior to receiving your petition.

If you wish to file a petition for classification on behalf of an H-1B nonimmigrant worker subject to the FY 2012 cap, with a start date of October 1, 2011, please submit a completed Form I-129 petition, with supporting documentation and fee, no earlier than April 1, 2011. Petitioners are reminded that petitions for H1-B classification may not be filed or approved more than six months prior to the requested employment start date. See 8 C.F.R. 214.2(h)(9)(i)(B).

USCIS also notes that petitions for new H1-B employment are not subject to the annual cap if the alien will be employed at an institution of higher education or a related or affiliated nonprofit entity, or at a nonprofit research organization or a governmental research organization.

Information concerning CIS forms and filing instructions is available from the CIS Forms Request Line, 1-800-870-3676 (Toll Free), or on the CIS internet website at www.uscis.gov.

If you believe that your case has been rejected in error, you may resubmit it along with an explanation to the following address:

I suggest two changes:

1. Change all instances of "H1-B" to "H-1B."
2. Change all instances of "CIS" to "USCIS."

Other than that, I think this is sufficient. I don't see any reason why a petitioner needs to know that they were "almost selected" for the cap. They should receive the same letter as all other petitioners who didn't make it.

Yesterday's volume was only 323 at VSC, 307 CSC, 630 total.

I asked them to get numbers through Wednesday to me very early tomorrow morning so we can include the total filing count in the news release.

Morning Denis,

Please find the latest report from VSC.

Understand the importance of the report for tomorrow and will work at getting the completed reports to you late tonight or early tomorrow morning.

Thanks, Walter

Shelly –

I am responding for Rob because he is out of the office today. I have included our comments on the attachments.

One comment we have is about the "cushion" cases. We did not have "cushion" cases last year. Last year Jim had a magic number of filings we would accept for both the master's cap as well as the regular cap (see attached email traffic). I believe Jim calculated these numbers based on the amount of filings from previous years. Jim's recommendations last year were to accept 24,000 (Masters only) plus another 76,000 combining Regular and other (rolled over) Masters. Grand total of 100,000.

Thanks.

Subject: DRAFT FY11 Cap Updates

VSC and CSC,

I want to start the ball rolling on review for the USCIS Update(s) that will need to be issued at the end of the 5-day filing window. Since we don't know whether we will meet the cap or not, I have drafted two different sets of documents. I know that things could go either way (though it seems likely that we will not meet the cap), but I didn't want to wait until the filing period starts to begin drafting and review as we will all be extremely busy at that time. I would like to get your Center's comments/edits by COB Friday (3/19) so that I can send to OCOMM and OPE for them to initiate USCIS component clearance.

The first document is a draft USCIS Update if we do not meet the cap. I have also included alternative language in it for a scenario in which we don't meet the regular cap, but we do get sufficient advanced degree petitions.

The remaining documents are drafts of Updates in the event we do meet the cap. These are all based on documents that were issued for the FY09 filing season. I think the cap met and estimate documents could be combined if the filing is not extraordinarily heavy, but perhaps I am wrong.

Thanks!

Shelly

Makes sense rolling them into the regular cap.

We do need some type of cushion in the regular cap though because we will have denials/withdrawals, etc. What's our overall magic number?

Jim says our magic number is 24K for the masters so we are okay. We don't need a cushion because they just fold into the regular cap. It is my understanding we just close the cap when we hit it. I am including Jim in case I am saying something wrong. Also, Denis once we hit the master's cap do we update differently to roll into the regular cap?

James,

Last year, an optional form was created for the FY2010 H-1B cap filing season, M-735.

http://www.uscis.gov/files/form/m-735.pdf

We would like to do the same for the FY11 season (which begins on April 1). The attached updated version, in Word form, has been vetted through OP&S and OCC. SCOPS has a meeting with OPE, OCOMM, OP&S and OCC regarding H-1B cap outreach on Wednesday afternoon at 1. Do you think that it would be possible to create an updated M-735 from the attached by then? I realize that this is reaching for the stars, but I have to try. :-)

Thanks!

Hate to be a pain but can you get the report to continue from where your last one left off (10/2)? This way we have the production for the entire period so far, and can then factor out what was done in the last week. So the report would start on 9/23 and go through 10/4.

Pete,

I will be able to run through 4-Oct-2010, but will have to wait until tomorrow for 5-Oct-2010 as IT does not have the ordered tables and history beyond 08:00 on server SCRDB04..

George,

Turns out HQ would like to get a report of our completions for the past week (for a call tomorrow at 3 pm), any chance this type of report or a paired down version of it showing total completions for the AG can be produced?

Thanks and sorry for the short notice.

George,

See the questions below from Dan, is this something that could be scraped? My guess is this type of data (what is worked daily on O/T) would not be easy to identify. We can easily get the overall resources but who works O/T and how much is worked on O/T seems tough.

No big deal for right now, but the piece that might be nice going forward is daily completions (or actions) on H1B cases to underscore our shift of resources in that direction.

Shelly,

The report is a little off from what I sent yesterday but what you'll see below is most of our Cap that is older than 60 days is either with officers or already processed (RFE/Approval). We have 699 Cap cases that are dated prior to 8/1/2010 that are not with officers yet (lower numbers).

The F-1 numbers have dropped significantly since yesterday's report.

| | Older than 60 days: |
|---|---|
| F1 COS to H1B | 854 |
| With Officer | 757 |
| With Contractor | 0 |
| ADJ Staged | 72 |
| Other | 25 |

Here is an estimation of the cases remaining in initial receipts that are not with an officer.
I have not included cases that clearly show movement to an rfe shelf or approval shelf yesterday or today.

| Remaining Monthly initial receipts not with officers | |
|---|---|
| April | 55 |
| May | 83 |
| June | 258 |
| July | 303 |

Just to tag onto this, I got a call from Luz after lunch. She was wondering if the update could be issued on Friday instead of Thursday. I indicated that it is necessary that we issue the update Thursday (tomorrow). There must have been a miscommunication somewhere along the line as to the actual date that we wanted the Update to go out. I guess that I was not quite clear in my original message to OCOMM (see attached).

Luz,

I apologize. The sentence regarding the advanced degree exemption can be removed entirely as we are not close to having met the advanced degree exemption (we were last year at this time).

We will get numbers to you ASAP tomorrow.

Thanks!

Colleagues:

Requesting your review by COB today…

This USCIS Update reminds the public that the cap has not been reached and USCIS and continues to accept H-1B petitions for FY2011.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thank you,
Luz

Matt,

We will not have any accurate numbers until Thursday, but it is apparent at this point that we will not meet the cap in the first five business days. As such, the Update notifying the public that the cap is still open needs to be ready for posting on April 8 as soon as we can provide numbers.

Let me know if you need anything else from SCOPS.

Thanks!

Subject: H-1B April 8 Updates

Matt,

As promised, below here is some draft language for USCIS Update(s) that will need to be issued at the end of the 5-day filing window. Since we don't know whether we will meet the cap or not, SCOPS has drafted two different sets of language.

The first document is a draft USCIS Update if we do not meet the cap. We also included alternative language in it for a scenario in which we don't meet the regular cap, but we do get sufficient advanced degree petitions.

The remaining documents are drafts of Updates in the event we do meet the cap. These are all based on documents that were issued for the FY09 filing season. I think the cap met and estimate documents can be combined if the filing is not extraordinarily heavy (so much so that we can't get an accurate estimate by April 8), but perhaps I am wrong.

I have not run this by any of the USCIS components as I wanted to let OCOMM have the opportunity to work your magic on the wording.

Thanks!

Matt and Mary,

There has been a change from last year's VSC H-1B cap filing locations from 1A Lemnah to 4 Lemnah as the VSC. The I-129 direct filing chart webpage has reflected this change since February, but unfortunately, we are still working on getting the form instructions updated. The Service Center has informed the major couriers (ie. FedEx) of this change, but we want to be proactive in ensuring that all of our stakeholders get the message. As such, SCOPS was wondering if it would be appropriate to issue a USCIS Reminder or use some other web mechanism to get this information out to the public. We, of course, defer to you as to the what is the most appropriate means of doing so. Attached is a document with some draft language for your review/editing. We'd like to get this information out to the public as quickly as possible since April 1 is less than two weeks away.

Matt, I haven't forgot that I owe you some language for USCIS Updates for the two scenarios at the end of the filing season--we meet the cap or we don't. I hope to send you those documents no later than first thing on Monday so that you all can work you magic on them.

Thanks!

Shelly

I apologize. The sentence regarding the advanced degree exemption can be removed entirely as we are not close to having met the advanced degree exemption (we were last year at this time).

We will get numbers to you ASAP tomorrow.

All,

For your review are the attached USCIS Update and Webpage for the 2011 H-1B cap season. The webpage has replaced the previously drafted Q&A and will serve as a central location on USCIS.gov for all information regarding the 2011 Cap filing season.

The target date for releasing this was March 1, I realize this is a short turnaround and ask that comments and/or edits be returned to me by COB Monday, March 1, in order to get this posted early next week, allowing enough time for information to get out prior to the filing season opening on April 1.

Thank you in advance.

Jim,

Wow. It makes my head hurt trying to compare the two. Perhaps you could pick the one that is easiest to analyze and ask them to both use that version for next year. I suppose that would go over like a lead brick...

With regards to a VSC question, I do not see one either. I'm pretty sure that they've taken care of this, but it might be best to check.

Denis,

Can you confirm that the non-selected 12/21 H-1B cap-subject petitions have all been rejected? I believe so. Your message that we are finished was dated 12/29, but the statement below that Tom was asking for assistance with is dated 1/4. As such, I'm being a little paranoid and just want to double check.

Thanks!

Shelly,
Every year, I stress the importance of cap reports from CSC and VSC having the same table layouts. To what extent do you think they succeeded with respect to FY 2010 cap?

See the attachment for FY 2010 cap reports. Notice that CSC's workbook is entitled "2009 H-1B Cap Report".

From the reports, I conclude there were 4,200 manual rejects of FY 2010 cap-eligible petitions.

As far as the email below is concerned, I cannot find a question from VSC. Rather I read a statement of intent regarding unselected Dec 21 receipts. This matter has already been resolved.

Julie,

Please find the VSC and CSC report.

Dan has stated for VSC:

"Please note that we are holding approximately 380 CAP filings received on 12/21 until we receive confirmation that there will be no additional pulls from this and that they can be rejected. Currently, these are included in the Manual Rejects line on the DAAG."

Please let us know of any questions about the reports. Thanks and have a great day.

Hi Walter,

Now that we've finished with the final receipting, can we get final versions for the above CAP Reports through December 21st please?.

Also, for December 21 we only want to have the rejects recorded for reasons other than not being selected in the lottery. They should have recorded approximately 27 rejects for December 21. The remaining rejects being sent back for non-selection are not relevant for future analysis.

If you have any questions on this let me or Denis know.

Thanks,

Rob -

In many of the attachments there are specific references to page numbers on the forms. Because we have more than one acceptable version of the I129 form it is suggested all references to page numbers be removed, unless clarification is going to be provided as to which form USCIS is referencing.

I will send our summary of issues for HQ in a separate message.

Rob, Kurt, and Carolyn,

As we are getting ready to ramp up for the next cap season, I wanted give the Centers the opportunity to review and comment on our draft cap package. These documents were drafted based on last year's package. I would like comments/edits by COB 1/22.

I would also like to schedule a teleconference on the afternoon of 1/25 to deal strictly with the FY11 cap. Please advise if this date or timeframe does not work for you.

Thanks!

OCC and OP&S,

SCOPS has drafted the attached documents in preparation for opening of the FY11 H-1B cap season. These are based on the documents that were issued last year for the FY10 cap. I would like to have your comments/edits/concerns by COB 1/29 so that the update and Q&As can be sent to OCOMM for their clearance process and the optional processing worksheet can be sent to Business Systems and Forms Requirements. I am unsure of whether there are additional OCC and OP&S POCs that need to review the cap gap Q&A. Please feel free to forward that document to the appropriate individual.

Thanks!

USCIS Update

USCIS Reaches FY 2010 H-1B Cap

WASHINGTON—U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) announced today that it has received a sufficient number of H-1B petitions to reach the statutory cap for fiscal year (FY) 2010. USCIS is hereby notifying the public that Dec. 21, 2009 is the "final receipt date" for new H-1B specialty occupation petitions requesting an employment start date in FY 2010.

The "final receipt date" is the date on which USCIS determines that it has received enough cap-subject petitions to reach the limit of 65,000. USCIS has also received more than 20,000 H-1B petitions filed on behalf of persons exempt from the cap under the "advanced degree" exemption. Properly filed cases will be considered received on the date that USCIS physically receives the petition; not the date that the petition was postmarked. USCIS will reject cap-subject petitions for new H-1B specialty occupation workers seeking an employment start date in FY 2010 that arrive after Dec. 21, 2009.

USCIS will apply a computer-generated random selection process to all petitions that are subject to the cap and were received on Dec. 21, 2009. USCIS will use this process to select petitions needed to meet the cap. USCIS will reject, and return the fee, for all cap-subject petitions not randomly selected.

Petitions filed on behalf of current H-1B workers who have been counted previously against the cap will not be counted towards the congressionally mandated FY 2010 H-1B cap. Therefore, USCIS will continue to process petitions filed to:

- Extend the amount of time a current H-1B worker may remain in the United States.
- Change the terms of employment for current H-1B workers.
- Allow current H-1B workers to change employers.
- Allow current H-1B workers to work concurrently in a second H-1B position.

H-1B in General: U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

Matt,

We will not have any accurate numbers until Thursday, but it is apparent at this point that we will not meet the cap in the first five business days. As such, the Update notifying the public that the cap is still open needs to be ready for posting on April 8 as soon as we can provide numbers.

Let me know if you need anything else from SCOPS.

Thanks!

Subject: H-1B April 8 Updates

Matt,

As promised, below here is some draft language for USCIS Update(s) that will need to be issued at the end of the 5-day filing window. Since we don't know whether we will meet the cap or not, SCOPS has drafted two different sets of language.

The first document is a draft USCIS Update if we do not meet the cap. We also included alternative language in it for a scenario in which we don't meet the regular cap, but we do get sufficient advanced degree petitions.

The remaining documents are drafts of Updates in the event we do meet the cap. These are all based on documents that were issued for the FY09 filing season. I think the cap met and estimate documents can be combined if the filing is not extraordinarily heavy (so much so that we can't get an accurate estimate by April 8), but perhaps I am wrong.

I have not run this by any of the USCIS components as I wanted to let OCOMM have the opportunity to work your magic on the wording.

Thanks!

Subject: H-1B Filing Address Reminder

Matt and Mary,

There has been a change from last year's VSC H-1B cap filing locations from 1A Lemnah to 4 Lemnah as the VSC. The I-129 direct filing chart webpage has reflected this change since February, but unfortunately, we are still working on getting the form instructions updated. The Service Center has informed the major couriers (ie. FedEx) of this change, but we want to be proactive in ensuring that all of our stakeholders get the message. As such, SCOPS was wondering if it would be appropriate to issue a USCIS Reminder or use some other web mechanism to get this information out to the public. We, of course, defer to you as to the what is the most appropriate means of doing so. Attached is a document with some draft language for your review/editing. We'd like to get this information out to the public as quickly as possible since April 1 is less than two weeks away.

Matt, I haven't forgot that I owe you some language for USCIS Updates for the two scenarios at the end of the filing season--we meet the cap or we don't. I hope to send you those documents no later than first thing on Monday so that you all can work you magic on them.

Thanks!

All,

This chart shows the monthly volume of H-1B cap petitions based on the mailroom date. The volume declined in May June, and July. Since August, the volume has continued to rise. At 6,000 petitions, November was double May volume. In each of the last two weeks, about 2,200 petitions have been received. It appears the cap will be reached next week.

Bobbie,

Here's my initial rough draft. I based it on previous year's updates. Due to the unique situation this year, I also borrowed a bit of language from the cap reached update for H-2s back in 2008.

Let me know if you have any edits or comments.

Thanks!

All,

The cap count for combined has risen 600 this week or 300 per day. Extrapolated for the week, the volume is 1,500, down from last week's volume of 2,000.

Using the estimated count (which adjusts for denials of pending), 6,000 cap numbers are left (84,000-78,000). If a daily volume of 300 continues, then the cap will be reached in 20 workdays or December 30th.

The latest H-1B cap numbers for FY 2010 as of December 1st are below:

Table 1

| H-1B cap | Approved | Pending[1] | Potential Cap[2] | Estimated Count[3] | Untouched[4] | Touched[5] | Touched rate[6] | RFE rate[7] | Denial rate[8] |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Regular | 47,900 | 6,800 | 54,700 | 53,400 | 4,100 | 60,700 | 94% | 49% | 18% |
| Masters | 23,100 | 1,600 | 24,700 | 24,600 | 1,200 | 25,800 | 96% | 32% | 9% |

Data available as of close of business, December 1st
Counts rounded to preserve consistency of totals

[1] Untouched plus RFE's
[2] Approved plus Pending (assumes all pending are approved)
[3] Based on approvals plus 82% of pending for regular (approval rate) and approvals plus 91% of pending for masters (approval rate)
[4] Pending minus RFE's
[5] Approvals plus denials plus RFE's

Cap Count for H-1B and H-2B Workers for Fiscal Year 2010

Please see the information relating to H-1B Program Changes for FY 2010 in the Related Links section of this page.

What is a "Cap"

The word "Cap" used in this Update refers to annual numerical limitations set by Congress on certain nonimmigrant visa classifications, e.g., H-1B and H-2B. Caps control the number of workers that can be issued a visa in a given fiscal year to enter the United States pursuant to a particular nonimmigrant classification. Caps also control the number of aliens already in the United States that may be authorized to change status to a cap-subject classification.

H-1B

The H-1B visa program is used by some U.S.employers to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in a specialized field and a bachelor's degree or its equivalent. Typical H-1B occupations include architects, engineers, computer programmers, accountants, doctors and college professors. The H-1B visa program also includes certain fashion models of distinguished merit and ability and up to 100 persons who will performing services of an exceptional nature in connection with Department of Defense (DOD) research and development projects or coproduction projects. The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Employer Exemptions

H-1B nonimmigrants who are employed, or who have received an offer of employment, by institutions of higher education or a related or affiliated nonprofit entity, as well as those employed, or who will be employed, by a nonprofit research organization or a governmental research organization are exempt from the cap.

H-1B Advanced Degree Exemption

The H-1B Visa Reform Act of 2004 makes available 20,000 new H-1B visas for foreign workers with a Master's or higher level degree from a U.S. academic institution. For each fiscal year, 20,000 beneficiaries of H-1B petitions on behalf of persons who hold such credentials are statutorily exempted from the cap.

Duplicate H-1B Petitions Filed Requesting Fiscal Year 2010 Employment

USCIS will deny or revoke all petitions filed by an employer for the same H-1B worker if more than one filing is discovered. If multiple petitions are discovered, whether one or more such petitions are approved, USCIS will data enter all those duplicative petitions, retain all fees, and either deny the petitions or, if a petition was approved, revoke the petition. The petitions will not be returned to the petitioner.

As of May 22, 2009, approximately 45,700 H-1B cap-subject petitions and approximately 20,000 petitions qualifying for the advanced degree cap exemption had been filed. USCIS will continue to accept both cap-subject petitions and advanced degree petitions until a sufficient number of H-1B petitions have been received to reach the statutory limits, taking into account the fact that some of these petitions may be denied, revoked, or withdrawn.

H-1B1

An H-1B1 is a national of Chile or Singapore coming to the United States to work temporarily in a specialty occupation. The law defines an H-1B1 specialty occupation as a position that requires theoretical and practical application of a body of specialized knowledge. The beneficiary must have a bachelor's degree or higher (or equivalent) in the specific specialty. The combined statutory limit is 6,800 per year. The cap for H-1B1 for FY2010 has not been reached as of the date of this Update.

H-2B

The H-2B visa category allows U.S. employers in industries with peak load, seasonal or intermittent needs to augment their existing labor force with temporary workers. The H-2B visa category also allows U.S. employers to augment their existing labor force when necessary due to a one-time occurrence which necessitates a temporary increase in workers. Typically, H-2B workers fill labor needs in occupational areas such as construction, health care, landscaping, lumber, manufacturing, food service/processing, and resort/hospitality services.

The Save Our Small and Seasonal Businesses Act of 2005 (SOS Act) divided the annual numerical limitations of 66,000 into two halves. As of FY 2010, an H-2B petition may not be filed more than 120 days before the date of the actual need for the H-2B worker's labor/services identified on the labor certification. As a result, USCIS normally begins receiving H-2B petitions with employment start dates in October and June.

What is the H-2B numerical limit set by Congress?

The H-2B numerical limit set by Congress per fiscal year is 66,000. Generally, an H-2B worker who extends his/her stay in H-2B status will not be counted again against the numerical limit. An alien who changes nonimmigrant status to H-2B is counted against the annual H-2B cap.

As USCIS begins receiving H-2B petitions, the below chart will be regularly updated.

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Beneficiaries Approved | Beneficiaries Pending | Beneficiaries Target [1] | Total | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-2B 1st Half | 33,000 | ------ | ------ | ------ | ------ | ------- |
| H-2B 2nd Half | 33,000 [2] | ------- | ------ | ----- | ------ | ----- |
| Total H-2B Per FY | 66,000 [3] | ------ | ------ | ------ | ------ | ------ |

[1] Refers to the estimated numbers of beneficiary applications needed to reach a cap, with an allowance for withdrawals, denials and revocations.
[2] A shortfall in the 1st half would be made up in the 2nd half.
[3] Visas issued plus beneficiaries changing status already in the United States.

H-3

The H-3 nonimmigrant visa category is for aliens who are coming temporarily to the U.S. to receive training (other than graduate medical education or training) that is not available in their home countries. The training may be provided by a business entity, academic, or vocational institute. The H-3 nonimmigrant visa category also includes aliens who are coming temporarily to the U.S. to participate in a special education training program for children with physical, mental, or emotional disabilities. There is a limit of 50 visas per fiscal year allocated to H-3 aliens participating in special education training programs. As of March 30, 2009, three of these H-3 visas had been approved with a start date in FY 2009.

Barbara,
There are 2 main reasons for the RFEs this year:

1. Requesting contracts and itineraries
2. TARP

I have attached an email string from Rob Perkins which illustrates the increased use of RFEs for contracts and itineraries. We haven't heard any grumblings concerning these requests.

Thanks,
Claudia

Off the top of my head I am going to guess that a larger number this year is due in part to the TARP funding issue. Adding Claudia and Kevin who will reach out to the center for a more precise explanation.

Barbara –

Without knowing any context or sense of the typical rate, the 48% RFE rate for regular H1Bs seems high. What are the top reasons for the RFEs? Are there just anomalies this year?

The petitions will not be returned to the petitioner.

As of May 26, 2009, approximately 45,700 H-1B cap-subject petitions and approximately 20,000 petitions qualifying for the advanced degree cap exemption had been filed. USCIS will continue to accept both cap-subject petitions and advanced degree petitions until a sufficient number of H-1B petitions have been received to reach the statutory limits, taking into account the fact that some of these petitions may be denied, revoked, or withdrawn.

H-1B1

An H-1B1 is a national of Chile or Singapore coming to the United States to work temporarily in a specialty occupation. The law defines an H-1B1 specialty occupation as a position that requires theoretical and practical application of a body of specialized knowledge. The beneficiary must have a bachelor's degree or higher (or equivalent) in the specific specialty. The combined statutory limit is 6,800 per year. The cap for H-1B1 for FY2010 has not been reached as of the date of this Update.

H-2B

The H-2B visa category allows U.S. employers in industries with peak load, seasonal or intermittent needs to augment their existing labor force with temporary workers. The H-2B visa category also allows U.S. employers to augment their existing labor force when necessary due to a one-time occurrence which necessitates a temporary increase in workers. Typically, H-2B workers fill labor needs in occupational areas such as construction, health care, landscaping, lumber, manufacturing, food service/processing, and resort/hospitality services.

The Save Our Small and Seasonal Businesses Act of 2005 (SOS Act) divided the annual numerical limitations of 66,000 into two halves. As of FY 2010, an H-2B petition may not be filed more than 120 days before the date of the actual need for the H-2B worker's labor/services identified on the labor certification. As a result, USCIS normally begins receiving H-2B petitions with employment start dates in October and June.

What is the H-2B numerical limit set by Congress?

The H-2B numerical limit set by Congress per fiscal year is 66,000. Generally, an H-2B worker who extends his/her stay in H-2B status will not be counted again against the numerical limit. An alien who changes nonimmigrant status to H-2B is counted against the annual H-2B cap.

As USCIS begins receiving H-2B petitions, the below chart will be regularly updated.

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Beneficiaries Approved | Beneficiaries Pending | Beneficiaries Target [1] | Total | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-2B 1st Half | 33,000 | ------ | ------ | ------ | ------ | ------- |
| H-2B 2nd Half | 33,000 [2] | ------- | ------ | ----- | ------ | ----- |
| Total H-2B Per FY | 66,000 [3] | ------ | ------ | ------ | ------ | ------ |

[1] Refers to the estimated numbers of beneficiary applications needed to reach a cap, with an allowance for withdrawals, denials and revocations.
[2] A shortfall in the 1st half would be made up in the 2nd half.
[3] Visas issued plus beneficiaries changing status already in the United States.

H-3

The H-3 nonimmigrant visa category is for aliens who are coming temporarily to the U.S. to receive training (other than graduate medical education or training) that is not available in their home countries. The training may be provided by a business entity, academic, or vocational institute. The H-3 nonimmigrant visa category also includes aliens who are coming temporarily to the U.S. to participate in a special education training program for children with physical, mental, or emotional disabilities. There is a limit of 50 visas per fiscal year allocated to H-3 aliens participating in special education training programs. As of March 30, 2009, three of these H-3 visas had been approved with a start date in FY 2009.

Shelly,

VSCs increased RFE rate can be attributed to two main areas:

1 – Request for contracts and itineraries as delineated in the attached E-mail string. Note: We issued almost 1,900 RFEs on Cognizant Technology Solutions alone.
2 – TARP

Thanks,

Carolyn, Kurt and Rob,

SCOPS has received an inquiry from the front office regarding the top reason(s) for RFE issuance, as this year's RFE rate is higher than last year's. We believe that this may stem from TARP RFEs, but we would like to seek confirmation from all of you. Would it be possible for the CSC and VSC to provide the top reason(s) for RFEs as soon as possible? If the majority of RFEs fall into a certain category (ie. TARP), please let us know.

Thanks!

I would like to discuss the expected volume for CAP. The initial guidance I gave out was for the contractor to anticipate receiving filings in line with 2008 – 100,000 at Vermont, 60,000 at California. All indications we have had the past month are that we will not get this between April 1-7. There is significant money involved if we can give the contractor a number to prepare for that will be close to what the actual filing count will be. For instance, they have submitted hundreds of applications for temporary workers that all have to have a background investigation and credit report done. This is a burden on the agency.

Thanks for seeing that they are not included this time; we'll certainly advise them of the decisions we make on this and other issues.

Bill,

We received sufficient petitions to reach the H-1B regular cap on December 21. There will be a lottery on the petitions that were received yesterday. I have filled in the final receipt date and the issuance date on the update and removed all comments. I also removed the "draft" watermark. We would like this update to be posted today.

I am separately sending a cap count webpage change to New Media with a request that the webpage be posted simultaneously with the USCIS Update. I will copy you and the OCOMM box on that request.

Please let me know if you need anything else from SCOPS.

USCIS Update

USCIS Reaches FY 2010 H-1B Cap

WASHINGTON – U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) announced today that it has received a sufficient number of petitions to reach the statutory cap for fiscal year (FY) 2010. USCIS is hereby notifying the public that December 21, 2009 is the "final receipt date" for new H-1B specialty occupation petitions requesting an employment start date in FY 2010.

The "final receipt date" is the date on which USCIS determines that it has received enough cap-subject petitions to reach the limit of 65,000. USCIS has also received more than 20,000 H-1B petitions filed on behalf of persons exempt from the cap under the "advanced degree" exemption. Properly filed cases will be considered received on the date that USCIS physically receives the petition; not the date that the petition was postmarked. USCIS will reject cap-subject petitions for new H-1B specialty occupation workers seeking an employment start date in FY 2010 that arrive after December 21, 2009.

USCIS will apply a computer-generated random selection process to all petitions that are subject to the cap and were received on December 21, 2009. USCIS will use this process to select petitions needed to meet the cap. USCIS will reject, and return the fee, for all cap-subject petitions not randomly selected.

Petitions filed on behalf of current H-1B workers who have been counted previously against the cap will not be counted towards the congressionally mandated FY 2010 H-1B cap. Therefore, USCIS will continue to process petitions filed to:

- Extend the amount of time a current H-1B worker may remain in the United States.
- Change the terms of employment for current H-1B workers.
- Allow current H-1B workers to change employers.
- Allow current H-1B workers to work concurrently in a second H-1B position.

H-1B in General: U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

Buck,

Don Neufeld's understanding is that the final receipt date is January 26, not January 27. He is checking, and I will forward the draft release to him.
The statement in paragraph 2 about the cap exempt petitions should be moved to a different paragraph; it is confusing where it is.
Lastly, we indicate that "petitions filed on behalf of current H-1B workers who have been counted previously against the cap will not be counted towards the congressionally-mandated FY2011 H-1B cap. Is this required by statute, reg, or otherwise? If so, we should indicate accordingly.

USCIS Update

Jan. 27, 2011

USCIS Reaches FY 2011 H-1B Cap

WASHINGTON—U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) announced today that it has received a sufficient number of H-1B petitions to reach the statutory cap for fiscal year (FY) 2011. USCIS is notifying the public that yesterday, Jan. 26, 2011, is the final receipt date for new H-1B specialty occupation petitions requesting an employment start date in FY2011.

The final receipt date is the date on which USCIS determines that it has received enough cap-subject petitions to reach the limit of 65,000. On Dec. 22, 2010, USCIS had also received more than 20,000 H-1B petitions filed on behalf of persons exempt from the cap under the 'advanced degree' exemption. Properly filed cases will be considered received on the date that USCIS physically receives the petition; not the date that the petition was postmarked. USCIS will reject cap-subject petitions for new H-1B specialty occupation workers seeking an employment start date in FY2011 that arrive after Jan. 26, 2011.

USCIS will apply a computer-generated random selection process to all petitions that are subject to the cap and were received on Jan. 26, 2011. USCIS will use this process to select petitions needed to meet the cap. USCIS will reject all remaining cap-subject petitions not randomly selected and will return the accompanying fee.

USCIS will continue to accept and process petitions that are otherwise exempt from the cap. Additionally, petitions filed on behalf of current H-1B workers who have been counted previously against the cap will not be counted towards the congressionally-mandated FY2011 H-1B cap. Accordingly, USCIS will continue to accept and process petitions filed to:

- extend the amount of time a current H-1B worker may remain in the U.S.;
- change the terms of employment for current H-1B workers;
- allow current H-1B workers to change employers; and
- allow current H-1B workers to work concurrently in a second H-1B position.

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in fields such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

USCIS reaches H-1B cap for 2011

As of January 26, 2011, USCIS has received a sufficient number of petitions to reach the statutory Cap for FY2011. USCIS has also received more than 20,000 H-1B petitions on behalf of persons exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption. USCIS will reject cap-subject petitions for new H-1B specialty occupation workers seeking an employment start date in FY2011 that are received after January 26, 2011. USCIS will apply a computer-generated random selection process to all petitions that are subject to the cap and were received on January 26, 2011.

USCIS continues to accept cap-exempt petitions, DOD petitions and Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions requesting an employment start date in FY2011.

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determined if an H-1B Petition was Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We used the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 17 through 19) to determine whether a petition was subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions were exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Department of Defense (DOD) Cooperative Research Project Workers Count

Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of December 24, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 8.

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition*

* As noted above, USCIS continues to accept cap-exempt petitions, DOD petitions and Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions requesting an employment start date in FY2011.Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Exemption Supplement (pages 17 through 19 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with an H-1B petition:

Base filing fee:

$325

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Additional Fee Required Under Public Law 111-230

$2,000 to be submitted with each H-1B petition filed

to initially grant an alien H-1B nonimmigrant status or

to obtain authorization for an alien having such status to change employers

if the petitioner has 50 or more employees in the U.S. and more than 50% of petitioner's employees in the U.S. are in H-1B, L-1A or L-1B nonimmigrant status (Public Law 111-230 does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions).

The additional fee does not apply to extension requests filed by the same petitioner for the same individual.

Premium Processing fee

$1,225 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature. A separate check for the fee mandated under Public Law 111-230 is requested.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,225 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

If the petition is being filed under the FY 2011 Cap exemption, clearly label the petition as a FY 2011 Cap exempt petition.

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, and/or ACWIA fee) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission

Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service)

Form G-28 (if represented by an attorney or accredited representative)

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement

All supporting documentation to establish eligibility

Provide a Table of Contents for supporting documentation

Tab items as listed in Table of Contents

Arrival-Departure Record (Form I-94) if the beneficiary is in the U.S.

SEVIS Form I-20 if the beneficiary is a current or former F-1 student or F-2 dependent

SEVIS Form DS-2019 if the beneficiary is a current or former J-1 or J-2

Form I-566 if the beneficiary is a current A or G nonimmigrant

DOL certified LCA, Form ETA 9035

Employer/attorney/representative letter(s)

Other supporting documentation.

Duplicate copy of the petition, if necessary. Clearly identify the duplicate copy of the petition as "COPY", so that it is not mistaken for a duplicate filing.

Filing Tips: Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative

Use if the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative

Complete all sections of the form accurately

Include the printed name and signature of the representative, preferably in blue ink

Include the original signature of the petitioner, preferably in blue ink

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately. Please ensure you are using the latest version of Form-I-129 Rev. 01/19/2011; (11/23/2010 edition also accepted).

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure that the petitioner's name is listed under the name of the Company or Organization and not the attorney's name if the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accurate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 11

and 12 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 17 through 19 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Be sure to answer all parts of question 1 and 2 in Part C if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will only accept Form I-907 with a revision date of 8/10/09 or later.

The representative may sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

Bill,

We received sufficient petitions to reach the H-1B regular cap on December 21. There will be a lottery on the petitions that were received yesterday. I have filled in the final receipt date and the issuance date on the update and removed all comments. I also removed the "draft" watermark. We would like this update to be posted today.

I am separately sending a cap count webpage change to New Media with a request that the webpage be posted simultaneously with the USCIS Update. I will copy you and the OCOMM box on that request.

Please let me know if you need anything else from SCOPS.

Thanks!

USCIS Update

USCIS Reaches FY 2010 H-1B Cap

WASHINGTON – U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) announced today that it has received a sufficient number of petitions to reach the statutory cap for fiscal year (FY) 2010. USCIS is hereby notifying the public that December 21, 2009 is the "final receipt date" for new H-1B specialty occupation petitions requesting an employment start date in FY 2010.

The "final receipt date" is the date on which USCIS determines that it has received enough cap-subject petitions to reach the limit of 65,000. USCIS has also received more than 20,000 H-1B petitions filed on behalf of persons exempt from the cap under the "advanced degree" exemption. Properly filed cases will be considered received on the date that USCIS physically receives the petition; not the date that the petition was postmarked. USCIS will reject cap-subject petitions for new H-1B specialty occupation workers seeking an employment start date in FY 2010 that arrive after December 21, 2009.

USCIS will apply a computer-generated random selection process to all petitions that are subject to the cap and were received on December 21, 2009. USCIS will use this process to select petitions needed to meet the cap. USCIS will reject, and return the fee, for all cap-subject petitions not randomly selected.

Petitions filed on behalf of current H-1B workers who have been counted previously against the cap will not be counted towards the congressionally mandated FY 2010 H-1B cap. Therefore, USCIS will continue to process petitions filed to:

- Extend the amount of time a current H-1B worker may remain in the United States.
- Change the terms of employment for current H-1B workers.
- Allow current H-1B workers to change employers.
- Allow current H-1B workers to work concurrently in a second H-1B position.

H-1B in General: U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

ThanX Mark … if you don't mind, would you go through the Web update document and insert the dates necessary (Jan. 27, right??). I just want to ensure that I don't insert the wrong date in the wrong place…also, don't want to miss one.

I've attached the clean version of the USCIS Update, for your info.

Bill,

Here are the two documents we discussed. As mentioned in our discussion I left the track changes in both documents which will have to be removed before posting. Let me know if anything else is needed or I may have missed. Also as we discussed there will be a mini-lottery so that part can stay in.

Thanks,
Mark

Yes, rich just reported they got 420 so we have over 900 racked and stacked combined. They have gotten the go ahead to start the barcoding. We should have that done by early afternoon.

There was definitely a little surge this week probably caused by the last posting of the numbers last week showing we were almost at the limit.

H1B CAP update:

Jim Fitzsimmons advises that to be safe, beginning Wednesday January 26 we not data enter the incoming FY11 CAP petitions until the contractor has received and counted all of them, that number is sent here to HQ and he determines if we can accept all of them or not. Accordingly please do instruct the contractor to rack and stack these petitions on Wednesday and send me the numerical count once the final incoming mail for the day is received, including Fedex and UPS.

Second, you should have barcoded labels prepared in advance for the contractor to apply should Jim determine we have to accept a portion, but not all , of a day's petitions. In this instance he'll run a random number generated program based on the barcoded numbers you send back. The lottery winners will be selected by the RNG. Instruct the contractor to follow existing procedures for the "Last-day" barcoding was done in December 2009 as it will be the same this year should it be necessary.

The projections in the table assume no surge this week. If that turns out to be true, then the final receipt date will be Friday.

Therefore, racking and stacking should begin on Wednesday in order to be safe.

Jim – is your target still 85,550 combined petitions? If we ended last Friday at 82,800 that leaves us 2,750 under your target. Last week's count went up by 2,066 over the previous week.

The four weeks since December 24 we gained 7,023 in total. Unless there is an uptick this week we should be able to get through Friday. Then Mondays being our typically heavy volume day, we may get close to an additional 1,000 next Monday.

What do you think? Anyone?

USCIS Update

USCIS Reaches FY 2011 H-1B Cap

WASHINGTON—U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) announced today that it has received a sufficient number of H-1B petitions to reach the statutory cap for fiscal year (FY) 2011. USCIS is notifying the public that Jan. 27, 2011 is the final receipt date for new H-1B specialty occupation petitions requesting an employment start date in FY2011.

The final receipt date is the date on which USCIS determines that it has received enough cap-subject petitions to reach the limit of 65,000. On Dec. 22, 2010, USCIS had also received more than 20,000 H-1B petitions filed on behalf of persons exempt from the cap under the 'advanced degree' exemption. Properly filed cases will be considered received on the date that USCIS physically receives the petition; not the date that the petition was postmarked. USCIS will reject cap-subject petitions for new H-1B specialty occupation workers seeking an employment start date in FY2011 that arrive after Jan. 27, 2011.

USCIS will apply a computer-generated random selection process to all petitions that are subject to the cap and were received on Jan. 27, 2011. USCIS will use this process to select petitions needed to meet the cap. USCIS will reject all remaining cap-subject petitions not randomly selected and will return the accompanying fee.

USCIS will continue to accept and process petitions that are otherwise exempt from the cap. Additionally, petitions filed on behalf of current H-1B workers who have been counted previously against the cap will not be counted towards the congressionally-mandated FY2011 H-1B cap. Accordingly, USCIS will continue to accept and process petitions filed to:

- extend the amount of time a current H-1B worker may remain in the U.S.;
- change the terms of employment for current H-1B workers;
- allow current H-1B workers to change employers; and
- allow current H-1B workers to work concurrently in a second H-1B position.

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in fields such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

Claudia,

Attached are some rough preliminary edits to the H1B/H2B cap page. I will need to get some holes filled in by Jim and Denis, but I wanted to give you (and Kevin and Carol) an opportunity to review before I send to them.

I am a little concerned by the information contained in the table. Is it mandatory that we include the number of approvals in the update? If so, that's fine and I'll keep quiet. If not, can we remove that block? I don't see where we currently have this information filled out, and I think it raises a number of questions about the speed/slowness of adjudication.

What do you think?

Thanks!

Hey Shelly, I just saw that the H-1B cap for the masters degree 20,000 category has been reached. Can you give me the exact date that USCIS met that cap?
OComm has a chart (attached) that we use to explain the history of the cap... and I would like to add the date for the FY10 masters category to the chart and share with our media managers in case they are asked.

Sorry Shelly for not getting back to you yesterday. I've accepted your edits and left the comment in. I'll place the attached in clearance on Tuesday (18 Jan) – that way I'll have it ready to go not later than Friday, 21 Jan. Then, when I hear from you, I'll insert the final receipt date and delete the lottery para (if necessary).

Bill,

I just had a couple of suggested edits and one comment.

It's still looking like we'll hit somewhere near the end of this month. I'm not sure how long its taking right now for clearance, so I'm not sure when to advise you to start the process. Would it be possible to have it cleared as it is right now and then insert the final receipt date and delete the lottery paragraph, if appropriate, just before issuance? Let me know if my question isn't making sense.

Thanks!

Shelly – Here's the draft (not much to it since I just plagiarized from last year's update). If you're okay with this, I'll hold until you give me the okay to start circulating – of course, I'll need the final receipt date when it's determined.

ThanX for keeping us up to date on this, Shelly.

Bill,

To follow up on our phone conversation, we should probably begin dusting off the yearly "final receipt date" USCIS Update very soon so that there is plenty of time for the clearance process and front office review. Right now we are anticipating meeting the cap by the end of this month.

Thanks!

Sally,

I think Mary is gone for the day now. Attached is our draft language for this "alert" or whatever it turns out to be. Mary had recommended that we add in something to the draft reminder to note that we are attempting to mitigate the impact of the address change but that we can't guarantee that packages mailed to the old VSC filing address will make it. I can see why this might be something to consider, but it gives me pause. I don't want in any way to give the stakeholders the sense that we'll be able to catch these and forward the cases in time. Also, when it comes to cap cases filed at the wrong location (e.g., the wrong service center), we reject the filing rather than forward the filing. So to be consistent with that, I recommend that this alert not give any impression that we will be forwarding (even though we will TRY to do that if necessary for this limited group of filings).

Please give me a call if you'd like to discuss. Thanks!!!

Matt and Mary,

There has been a change from last year's VSC H-1B cap filing locations from 1A Lemnah to 4 Lemnah as the VSC. The I-129 direct filing chart webpage has reflected this change since February, but unfortunately, we are still working on getting the form instructions updated. The Service Center has informed the major couriers (ie. FedEx) of this change, but we want to be proactive in ensuring that all of our stakeholders get the message. As such, SCOPS was wondering if it would be appropriate to issue a USCIS Reminder or use some other web mechanism to get this information out to the public. We, of course, defer to you as to the what is the most appropriate means of doing so. Attached is a document with some draft language for your review/editing. We'd like to get this information out to the public as quickly as possible since April 1 is less than two weeks away.

Matt, I haven't forgot that I owe you some language for USCIS Updates for the two scenarios at the end of the filing season--we meet the cap or we don't. I hope to send you those documents no later than first thing on Monday so that you all can work you magic on them.

Thanks!

Bobbie,

I just got off the phone with Mary, and she thinks that a document for OPE to push out to the attorney/representative community is a good idea. She recommended adding a little something to the draft reminder to note that we are attempting to mitigate the impact of the address change but that we can't guarantee that packages mailed to the old VSC filing address will make it. Let me know if you are ok with this or if you have any edits/comments. I'd like to get this to Sally and Mary before I leave today.

On a separate note, I also spoke with Matt and he recommended against a formal update but instead adding it to the alerts on the USCIS homepage.

Thanks!

Matt,

The form instructions change is supposed to be made this morning. SCOPS submitted it to the forms unit in February. I was informed yesterday that the change was not posted to our website at that time because of issues with a publishing error with the contract group (I understand that Tom P. has been working with the contract group to resolve the publishing issue). I agree wholeheartedly that it is bad form to have conflicting information out there.

Please don't hesitate to let me know if there is anything you need from me or any way that I can assist.

Subject: RE: H-1B Filing Address Reminder

We could add this scenario of applicants to the filing locations web banner, but we always drive people to the revised filing instructions.

It's also not good to have conflicting information between the filing instructions and the other web content, especially since the OMB approved filing instructions tend to carry more weight (legally) than and USCIS Update.

I would certainly suggest reaching out through OPE to stakeholders to point this out and think it's important to communicate this on the web, but the forms section where the filing instructions, forms, etc.., are located on our site is by more than 50% the most visited sections of our site which may cause confusion with conflicting info. It would be bad policy as well as bad communications not to have the instructions revised and ready ASAP and one could argue that it's already way to late.

What is the ETA on the revisions being made to the instructions?

USCIS Update

March 20, 2009

USCIS to Accept H-1B Petitions for FY 2010 Beginning April 1, 2009

Petitioners Are Reminded to Follow Regulatory Requirements

WASHINGTON—U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) today announced that it will begin accepting H-1B petitions subject to the fiscal year 2010 (FY 2010) cap on April 1, 2009. Cases will be considered accepted on the date that USCIS takes possession of the petition; not the date that the petition is postmarked.

The numerical limitation on H-1B petitions for fiscal year 2010 is 65,000. Additionally, the first 20,000 H-1B petitions filed on behalf of aliens who have earned a U.S. masters' degree or higher are exempt from the fiscal year cap.

USCIS will monitor the number of petitions received and will notify the public of the date USCIS has received the necessary number of petitions to meet the H-1B cap, known as the "final receipt date." The date USCIS publishes information that the cap has been reached does not control the final receipt date. To ensure a fair system, USCIS will, if needed, randomly select the number of petitions required to reach the numerical limit from the petitions received on the final receipt date. USCIS will reject cap subject petitions that are not selected, as well as those received after the final receipt date.

H-1B petitions cannot be filed more than six months in advance of the requested start date. Petitions seeking an H-1B worker for an Oct. 1, 2009 start date can be filed no earlier than April 1, 2009.

Petitions for new H-1B employment are exempt from the annual cap if the beneficiaries will work at institutions of higher education or a related or affiliated nonprofit entities, or at nonprofit research organizations or governmental research organizations. Thus, employers may continue to file petitions for these exempt H-1B categories seeking work dates starting in FY 2009 or 2010.

Petitions filed on behalf of current H-1B workers who have been counted previously against the cap also do not count towards the congressionally mandated H-1B cap. Accordingly, USCIS will continue to process petitions filed to:

- Extend the amount of time a current H-1B worker may remain in the United States.
- Change the terms of employment for current H-1B workers.
- Allow current H-1B workers to change employers.
- Allow current H-1B workers to work concurrently in a second H-1B position.

H-1B petitioners should follow all regulatory requirements (8 CFR §214.2) as they prepare petitions to avoid delays in processing and possible requests for evidence. USCIS has developed detailed information, including a processing worksheet, to assist in the completion and submission of a FY2010 H-1B petition. Those documents are available on the USCIS Web site.

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information on USCIS and its programs, visit www.uscis.gov or contact the USCIS National Customer Service Center at (800) 375-5283.

Questions and Answers

March 20, 2009

Employ American Workers Act and its Effect on H-1B Petitions

Introduction

U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) today announced additional requirements for employers, who receive funds through the Troubled Asset Relief Program or under section 13 of the Federal Reserve Act before they may hire a foreign national to work in the H-1B specialty occupation category.

Background

On Feb. 17, 2009, President Obama signed into law the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act ("stimulus bill"), Public Law 111-5. The stimulus bill contained the Employ American Workers Act ("EAWA"), Pub. L. 111-5, Div. A, Title XVI, § 1611.

Questions and Answers

Q. What does EAWA do?

A. EAWA prevents a company from displacing U.S. workers when hiring H-1B specialty occupation workers if the company received funds through the Troubled Asset Relief Program ("TARP"), Pub. L. 110-343, Div. A, Title I, or under section 13 of the Federal Reserve Act (collectively referred to in this document as "covered funding").

Under EAWA, any company that has received covered funding and seeks to hire H-1B workers is considered to be an "H-1B dependent employer."

An "H-1B dependent employer" must make the following additional attestations to the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL) when filing a Labor Condition Application (LCA):

- It has taken good faith steps to recruit U.S. workers (defined as U.S. citizens or nationals, lawful permanent resident aliens, refugees, asylees, or other immigrants authorized to be employed in the United States (i.e., workers other than nonimmigrant aliens) using industry-wide standards and offering compensation that is at least as great as those offered to the H-1B nonimmigrant;
- It has offered the job to any U.S. worker who applies and is equally or better qualified for the job that is intended for the H-1B nonimmigrant;
- It has not "displaced" any U.S. worker employed within the period beginning 90 days prior to the filing of the H-1B petition and ending 90 days after its filing. A U.S. worker is displaced if the worker is laid off from a job that is essentially the equivalent of the job for which an H-1B nonimmigrant is sought; and
- It will not place an H-1B worker to work for another employer unless it has inquired whether the other employer has displaced or will displace a U.S. worker within 90 days before or after the placement of the H-1B worker.

Q. Are the EAWA requirements permanent?

A. No. EAWA took effect on Feb. 17, 2009 and will sunset two years from the date of enactment.

Q. Which specific U.S. companies are affected?

A. USCIS is working with the Department of the Treasury and other relevant agencies to identify companies that have received covered funding. USCIS, however, expects companies seeking to hire H-1B workers to know whether or not they have received covered funding and act accordingly with respect to hiring an H-1B nonimmigrant.

EAWA only applies to U.S. companies that received covered funding and want to hire new H-1B workers.
The normal exception to the H-1B dependent employer requirements that an H-1B nonimmigrant is exempt from the dependency calculation if the individual earns a salary of at least $60,000 or has a master's degree or higher is not available to companies that have received covered funding.

Q. What is an H-1B nonimmigrant?
A. An H-1B nonimmigrant is a foreign national who comes to the United States temporarily to work in a specialty occupation. A specialty occupation position is one that generally requires a bachelor's or higher degree and specialized knowledge.
A U.S. employer seeking to hire H-1B workers must file an LCA with DOL and submit the certified LCA with the H-1B petition with USCIS. There also is an annual limit of 65,000 on H-1B workers, subject to certain exceptions. Additionally, the first 20,000 H-1B petitions filed on behalf of aliens who have earned a U.S. masters' degree or higher are exempt from the fiscal year cap.

Q. To which H-1B hires does EAWA apply?
A. EAWA applies to any "hire" taking place on or after Feb. 17, 2009, and before Feb. 17, 2011. EAWA defines "hire" as an employer permitting a new employee to commence a period of employment; that is, the introduction of a new employee to the employer's U.S. workforce.
EAWA applies to:

- Any LCA or petition filed on or after Feb. 17, 2009 involving any employment by a new employer, including concurrent employment and regardless of whether the beneficiary is already in H-1B status.
- New employment (i.e., hires) based on a petition approved before Feb. 17, 2009, if the H-1B employee had not actually commenced employment before that date.

EAWA does not apply to:

- A petition to extend the H-1B status of a current employee with the same employer.
- A petition seeking to change the status of a current U.S. work-authorized employee to H-1B status with the same employer.

Q. How is USCIS implementing EAWA?
A. EAWA affects the current LCA process administered by DOL and the USCIS petition process for companies seeking H-1B workers. Companies subject to EAWA will now need to make new statements regarding recruitment and hiring of U.S. workers.
USCIS is revising Form I-129, Petition for Nonimmigrant Worker, to include a question asking whether the petitioner has received covered funding. This revised form will be posted to the USCIS website in time for the next cap subject H-1B filing period that begins on April 1, 2009. While USCIS encourages petitioners, whenever possible, to use the most up-to-date form, USCIS will not require use of the revised form in time for the start of the filing period for fiscal year 2010.
However, USCIS urges H-1B petitions who have already prepared packages for mailing using the previous Form I-129 (January 2009 version) to complete only the page in the revised version of the Form I-129 (March 2009) which has the new question on EAWA attestation requirements and to file this single page with the prepared package. The single page referenced is the first page on the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement.
A valid LCA must be on file with DOL at the time the H-1B petition is filed with USCIS. Therefore, if the petitioner indicates on its petition that it is subject to the EAWA, but the LCA does not contain the proper attestations relating to H-1B dependent employers, the H-1B petition will be denied.

USCIS Update

March 20, 2009

USCIS Announces New Requirements for Hiring H-1B Foreign Workers

Changes Apply to Companies that Receive TARP Funding

WASHINGTON – U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) today announced additional requirements for employers, who receive funds through the Troubled Asset Relief Program or under section 13 of the Federal Reserve Act (covered funding), before they may hire a foreign national to work in the H-1B specialty occupation category.

The new "Employ American Workers Act," (EAWA), signed into law by President Obama as part of the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act on Feb. 17, 2009, was enacted to ensure that companies receiving covered funding do not displace U.S. workers. Under this legislation any company that has received covered funding and seeks to hire new H-1B workers is considered an "H-1B dependent employer." All H-1B dependent employers must make additional attestations to the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL) when filing the Labor Condition Application.

EAWA applies to any Labor Condition Application (LCA) and/or H-1B petition filed on or after Feb. 17, 2009, involving any employment by a new employer, including concurrent employment and regardless of whether the beneficiary is already in H-1B status. The EAWA also applies to new hires based on a petition approved before Feb. 17, 2009, if the H-1B employee had not actually commenced employment before that date.

EAWA does not apply to H-1B petitions seeking to change the status of a beneficiary already working for the employer in another work-authorized category. It also does not apply to H-1B petitions seeking an extension of stay for a current employee with the same employer.

USCIS is revising Form I-129, Petition for Nonimmigrant Worker, to include a question asking whether the petitioner has received covered funding. USCIS will post this revised form on the USCIS Web site in time for the next cap subject H-1B filing period that begins on April 1, 2009. While USCIS encourages petitioners, whenever possible, to use the most up-to-date form, USCIS will not require use of the revised form in time for the start of the filing period for fiscal year 2010.

However, USCIS urges H-1B petitions who have already prepared packages for mailing using the previous Form I-129 (January 2009 version) to complete only the page in the revised version of the Form I-129 (March 2009) which has the new question on EAWA attestation requirements and to file this single page with the prepared package. The single page referenced is the first page on the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement.

USCIS reminds petitioners that a valid LCA must be on file with DOL at the time the H-1B petition is filed with USCIS. This means that if the petitioner indicates on its petition that it is subject to the EAWA, but the Labor Condition Application does not contain the proper attestations relating to H-1B dependent employers, USCIS will deny the H-1B petition.

For more information, please see the accompanying Questions and Answers document about the Employ American Workers Act and its effect on H-1B petitions.

USCIS to Accept H-1B Petitions for FY 2010 Beginning April 1, 2009

Information for Completing and Submitting an FY 2010 H-1B Cap Case

Introduction

U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) today announced that it will begin accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2009 subject to the fiscal year 2010 (FY 2010) cap. The following are frequently asked questions and answers meant to assist the public in understanding the general H-1B filing process.

Background

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

A specialty occupation requires theoretical and practical application of a body of specialized knowledge along with at least a bachelor's degree or its equivalent (e.g., architecture, engineering, mathematics, physical sciences, social sciences, medicine and health, education, business specialties, accounting, law, theology, and the arts.)

Questions and Answers

Q: How does USCIS determine that an H-1B petition is subject to the FY 2010 Cap?

A: USCIS uses the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 and 20,000 (U.S. master's degree or higher) H-1B numerical limitations (the "cap").

Q: When can I file an FY 2010 H-1B Cap subject petition?

A: H-1B petitions can be filed no more than six months in advance of the requested start date. Therefore, petitions seeking an FY 2010 H-1B Cap number with an Oct. 1, 2009 start date can be filed no sooner than April 1, 2009. This is when the majority of H-1B cap subject petitions are filed in order to obtain a new visa number for FY 2010. Conversely, petitions that are cap exempt may be filed at any time during the year, dependent on the petitioner's need. Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2010 cap subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2009 or submit a cap subject petition prior to April 1, 2009 your petition will be rejected.

Q: Where should I mail my H-1B Cap subject petition?

A: Petitions must be filed at the correct Service Center depending on jurisdiction. Specific mailing addresses have been established for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap subject cases. The specific filing addresses are listed on the accompanying filing charts. These filing charts are also available on the USCIS website. A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations. Please read the filing instructions very carefully as filing at the incorrect location will result in rejection of the petition. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Q: What is Premium Processing Service?
A: For certain employment-based immigration benefits, petitioners may choose to file a Form I-907 with the accompanying filing fee of $1,000 to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees). H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing program. The Form I-907 and corresponding fee can be filed at the same time as or subsequent to the filing of Form I-129. If filed subsequent to the Form I-129, please be sure to include the receipt number (i.e. EAC 09 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907. Only Form I-907 editions 07/30/07, 04/02/07 and 08/28/06 will be accepted. For more information concerning the Premium Processing program please visit our website at www.uscis.gov.

Q: How do I ensure that my H-1B Cap subject petition is considered properly filed and accepted?
A: Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129), and the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15). Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form. Include the correct fee amount. Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing. It is incumbent upon the petitioner to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Be sure to file the petition with the correct USCIS Service Center. H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location will be rejected. Such petitioners may lose the opportunity to have the petition considered for an available FY 2010 H-1B cap number.

Q: Does USCIS need a copy of the Labor Condition Application filed with the Department of Labor?
A: A certified Labor Condition Application (Form ETA 9035) from the Department of Labor must be submitted at the time of filing. A copy of the Labor Condition Application is acceptable.
If the Labor Condition Application from the Department of Labor is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it. Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the ETA 9035.

Q: Does USCIS require that an educational degree be submitted with the petition at the time of filing?
A: Evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree must be submitted at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted: (a) a copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or (b) a letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met. If the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded.

Q: Should a petitioner submit a duplicate copy of the H-1B petition?
A: A duplicate copy of the petition must be submitted at the time of filing if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make second copy if one is not provided. You may review the Department of State website at http://travel.state.gov/ to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Q: What fees must be submitted with a petition?
A: The fees that must be submitted with a cap subject H-1B petition will depend on the type of petition. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees. The following fees may be required with a cap subject petition:

Base filing fee:

- $320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee:

- $750 for employers with 1 to 25 full time equivalent employees unless exempt
- $1,500 for employers with 26 or more full time equivalent employees unless exempt (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B)

Fraud fee:

- $500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner. (Not for Chile/Singapore H-1B1 cases)

Premium processing fee:

- $1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks should be payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U. S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last six months, and include the proper guarantee amount, and signature.

Q: What if a check or other financial instrument used to pay a filing fee is subsequently returned as non-payable?

A: USCIS regulations at 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i) provide that an application or petition submitted with the wrong filing fee shall be rejected as improperly filed and that rejected applications and petitions, and ones in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is subsequently returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency is corrected,as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Q: How should I organize my H-1B package?

A: Clearly label all H-1B cap cases in red ink on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes:

- Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)
- C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)
- U.S. Masters (20,000 cap for beneficiaries with U.S. Masters or higher degrees)

Here is the preferred order of documents at time of submission.

- Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service*);*
- Form G-28 (if represented by attorney or accredited representative);
- Form I-129 ("Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker");
- H Classification Supplement to Form I-129;
- H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement;
- Provide a Table of Contents for supporting documentation:
    - Tab items as listed in Table of Contents;

- Arrival-Departure Record (Form I-94) (if the beneficiary is in the US);
- If applicable, the SEVIS Form I-20 (if current or former F-1 student or F-2 dependent), SEVIS Form DS-2019 (if current or former J-1 or J-2) or Form I-566 (if current A or G nonimmigrant)
- Certified Labor Condition Application, Form ETA 9035, from Department of Labor;
- Employer/Attorney/Representative letter(s); and
- Other supporting documentation.

- Duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. Clearly identify the duplicate copy of the petition as a COPY, so that is not mistaken for a duplicate filing.

Q: Can multiple petitions be mailed together?
A: Yes. If multiple petitions will be included in the same courier service or Post Office package, please place individual petitions into separate envelopes within the package. Individual petition envelopes should be marked with the following labels to reference the type of petition:

- Masters Premium
- Masters
- Regular Premium
- Regular
- Chile/Singapore

FILING DOCUMENTATION
Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative (Form G-28)
If the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative, a properly executed Form G-28 should be submitted. Each Form G-28 should include the following:

- All sections completed;
- The printed name and signature of the representative. The representative's signature can be either an original or a facsimile; and
- The original signature of the petitioner.

Form I-129 Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

- Complete all sections of the form accurately.
- Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 # (if applicable) should be reviewed for accuracy.
- If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, a copy of the petition and supporting documentation should be included with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status in the United States, a copy is not necessary.
- If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.
- A copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129)

- Please be sure to complete all sections of the form accurately.
  In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), please also include the actual nonimmigrant classification (e.g. H-1B or L-1) held.
- Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

- Please be sure to complete all sections of the form accurately.
- If the beneficiary has earned a Masters Degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution, be sure to answer accordingly in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7.
- If the petition does not involve a change of employer, Part C question 6 is not relevant. Thus, please answer "No" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.
- Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907 Request for Premium Processing

- Please be sure to complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures.
- If there is a valid Form G-28 with the file and the attorney is signing the Form I-907, then the representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.
- When form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129 please include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907.

Please visit www.uscis.gov frequently for filing updates or call the National Customer Service Center at (800) 375-5283 for up-to-date information.

Claudia and Tim,

I know that Carol has a lot on her plate today and I haven't been able to catch up with her yet, so based upon my extremely limited knowledge (☺), I drafted a very, very brief press release. My feelings won't be hurt if you all tear it to shreds. I wasn't sure if we wanted to add some of the general language from the original H-1B press release regarding when individuals can begin filing, who is cap exempt, regulatory requirements and what an H-1B is (since we are still accepting petitions).

Let me know what you think. Once you all have made it readable, I can forward to Carol for her review to see whether it will be helpful in creating the final product.

Thanks!

Cap Count for H-1B and H-2B Workers for Fiscal Year 2010

Please see the information relating to H-1B Program Changes for FY 2010 in the Related Links section of this page.

What is a "Cap"

The word "Cap" used in this Update refers to annual numerical limitations set by Congress on certain nonimmigrant visa classifications, e.g., H-1B and H-2B. Caps control the number of workers that can be issued a visa in a given fiscal year to enter the United States pursuant to a particular nonimmigrant classification. Caps also control the number of aliens already in the United States that may be authorized to change status to a cap-subject classification.

H-1B

The H-1B visa program is used by some U.S.employers to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in a specialized field and a bachelor's degree or its equivalent. Typical H-1B occupations include architects, engineers, computer programmers, accountants, doctors and college professors. The H-1B visa program also includes certain fashion models of distinguished merit and ability and up to 100 persons who will performing services of an exceptional nature in connection with Department of Defense (DOD) research and development projects or coproduction projects. The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Employer Exemptions

H-1B nonimmigrants who are employed, or who have received an offer of employment, by institutions of higher education or a related or affiliated nonprofit entity, as well as those employed, or who will be employed, by a nonprofit research organization or a governmental research organization are exempt from the cap.

H-1B Advanced Degree Exemption

The H-1B Visa Reform Act of 2004 makes available 20,000 new H-1B visas for foreign workers with a Master's or higher level degree from a U.S. academic institution. For each fiscal year, 20,000 beneficiaries of H-1B petitions on behalf of persons who hold such credentials are statutorily exempted from the cap.

Duplicate H-1B Petitions Filed Requesting Fiscal Year 2010 Employment

USCIS will deny or revoke all petitions filed by an employer for the same H-1B worker if more than one filing is discovered. If multiple petitions are discovered, whether one or more such petitions are approved, USCIS will data enter all those duplicative petitions, retain all fees, and either deny the petitions or, if a petition was approved, revoke the petition. The petitions will not be returned to the petitioner.

As of April ~~13~~24, 2009, approximately 4~~3~~5,000 H-1B cap-subject petitions and approximately 20,000 petitions qualifying for the advanced degree cap exemption had been filed. USCIS will continue to accept both cap-subject petitions and advanced degree petitions until a sufficient number of H-1B petitions have been received to reach the statutory limits, taking into account the fact that some of these petitions may be denied, revoked, or withdrawn.

H-1B1

An H-1B1 is a national of Chile or Singapore coming to the United States to work temporarily in a specialty occupation. The law defines an H-1B1 specialty occupation as a position that requires theoretical and practical application of a body of specialized knowledge. The beneficiary must have a bachelor's degree or higher (or equivalent) in the specific specialty. The combined statutory limit is 6,800 per year. The cap for H-1B1 for FY2010 has not been reached as of the date of this Update.

H-2B

The H-2B visa category allows U.S. employers in industries with peak load, seasonal or intermittent needs to augment their existing labor force with temporary workers. The H-2B visa category also allows U.S. employers to augment their existing labor force when necessary due to a one-time occurrence which necessitates a temporary increase in workers. Typically, H-2B workers fill labor needs in occupational areas such as construction, health care, landscaping, lumber, manufacturing, food service/processing, and resort/hospitality services.

The Save Our Small and Seasonal Businesses Act of 2005 (SOS Act) divided the annual numerical limitations of 66,000 into two halves. As of FY 2010, an H-2B petition may not be filed more than 120 days before the date of the actual need for the H-2B worker's labor/services identified on the labor certification. As a result, USCIS normally begins receiving H-2B petitions with employment start dates in October and June.

What is the H-2B numerical limit set by Congress?

The H-2B numerical limit set by Congress per fiscal year is 66,000. Generally, an H-2B worker who extends his/her stay in H-2B status will not be counted again against the numerical limit. An alien who changes nonimmigrant status to H-2B is counted against the annual H-2B cap.

As USCIS begins receiving H-2B petitions, the below chart will be regularly updated.

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Beneficiaries Approved | Beneficiaries Pending | Beneficiaries Target [1] | Total | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-2B 1st Half | 33,000 | ------ | ------ | ------ | ------ | ------- |
| H-2B 2nd Half | 33,000 [2] | ------- | ------ | ----- | ------ | ----- |
| Total H-2B Per FY | 66,000 [3] | ------ | ------ | ------ | ------ | ------ |

[1] Refers to the estimated numbers of beneficiary applications needed to reach a cap, with an allowance for withdrawals, denials and revocations.
[2] A shortfall in the 1st half would be made up in the 2nd half.
[3] Visas issued plus beneficiaries changing status already in the United States.

H-3

The H-3 nonimmigrant visa category is for aliens who are coming temporarily to the U.S. to receive training (other than graduate medical education or training) that is not available in their home countries. The training may be provided by a business entity, academic, or vocational institute. The H-3 nonimmigrant visa category also includes aliens who are coming temporarily to the U.S. to participate in a special education training program for children with physical, mental, or emotional disabilities. There is a limit of 50 visas per fiscal year allocated to H-3 aliens participating in special education training programs. As of March 30, 2009, three of these H-3 visas had been approved with a start date in FY 2009.

Claudia,

I would recommend that the kicker of "receipts remain relatively unchanged" be removed. Other than that, I think that this is okay, but I defer to you.

Thanks!

Shelley,

My apologies again for the typo and thanks for explaining why we should continue to use approximates.

I've updated the attached to reflect the new regular cap number, and with your okay, we will push this out.

Thanks again,
Kathryn

USCIS Updates Information on FY2010 H-1B Petition Filings

Receipts remain relatively unchanged

WASHINGTON—U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) today announced information on the number of filings for H-1B petitions for the fiscal year 2010 program.

USCIS has received approximately 45,500 H-1B petitions counting toward the Congressionally-mandated 65,000 cap. The agency continues to accept petitions subject to the general cap.

Additionally, the agency has received approximately 20,000 petitions for aliens with advanced degrees; however, we continue to accept advanced degree petitions since experience has shown that not all petitions received are approvable. Congress mandated that the first 20,000 of these types of petitions are exempt from any fiscal year cap on available H-1B visas.

For cases filed for premium processing during the initial five-day filing window, the 15-day premium processing period began April 7. For cases filed for premium processing after the filing window, the premium processing period begins on the date USCIS takes physical possession of the petition.

USCIS will provide regular updates on the processing of FY2010 H-1B petitions. The updates can be found on the USCIS Web site at www.uscis.gov/h-1b_count.

Shelly,
After sorting in ascending order all H-1B masters approved to date by the mailroom date, I determined that the 20,000th masters petition approved was received on July 9th.

Note that 755 masters petitions received prior to July 9th were still pending adjudication as of November 20th. As of July 9th, 18,675 masters petitions had been approved.
That means that about 1,325 masters petitions were approved between July 9th and November 20th that had been received prior to July 10th. The picture gets more complicated when revocations are added to the mix.

Let's go with July 9th as the date the FY 2010 masters cap was reached, subject to the complexities mentioned above.

Jim,

I was wondering if you might be able to assist with the exact date determination. OCOMM is looking for date on the master's cap to put into the attached chart for their media managers. I told Chris over the phone that we might not be able to get back to her until next week.

Bobbie and Claudia,

On a separate note, Chris mentioned that Luz will be our contact in the future for SCOPS business issues.

Hey Shelly, I just saw that the H-1B cap for the masters degree 20,000 category has been reached. Can you give me the exact date that USCIS met that cap?
OComm has a chart (attached) that we use to explain the history of the cap... and I would like to add the date for the FY10 masters category to the chart and share with our media managers in case they are asked.

1700 Premiums DE in California last night was excellent. Vermont managed 400 because they had some computer problems. Hopefully that will not impact them today. Even the 400 should be enough to last the first half of today and by then, they will have more processed and ready to work.

Because the cap season is stretching out and adjudications are exceeding new receipts, pending counts are going down each week. That is desirable for cap management since it reduces the significance of pending count. The goal is 84,000 approvals (excluding a generous allotment of 1,000 for Chile/Singapore).

There is no target on masters. The target would be on combined. But a target isn't necessary unless we get real close to cap and must then start thinking about a final receipt date. That day may not come.

FEDEX has called back. They are estimating 20,000 packages that will be leaving their center in 45 minutes. If that estimate holds true it will put us in line with last year's volume when we receive all other shipments. Last years volume was approx 23,500 units total on day 1.

Please prepare the green and orange team to be on standby for after lunch arrival to the CAP room. I will update once FEDEX arrives.

Team,

Preliminary mail volume indicators are not favorable for high volume of incoming mail. USPS was only ½ a cage this morning. Both myself and Jessy spoke to Chuck at USPS and Chuck said they were not seeing a volume increase and that today looks like a regular day. FEDEX has not returned calls yet for today but yesterday when Jessy spoke to them FEDEX did say that they did see an increase in volume from a regular day. Unfortunately we do not know how much of an increase.

FEDEX said that if they have a full truck ready they will send it our way at 7:15 am from their center. So that will mean first delivery would arrive somewhere around 8:30am.

I will update by email or phone call when I get more information.

I'd like to get a sense at the end of today of where we stand to the degree we've been able to quantify numbers.

I expect on day 6 we'll need to put out a release either way - either we've hit the caps (which means we've taken enough overage to be comfortable, and I expect that folks are planning on accepting greater overage this yr for the 65k cap because we could see a higher denial/withdrawal rate), or we haven't. That latter would be just as much news as the former.

By the way, I've forgotten - is day 5 Tuesday, or do we count Saturday since we're partially open?

They do not quite have it finished but should by end of tonight

8923 Masters barcoded so far - holding at 36 percent - so we may hit our limit for those by april 7. For the regulars, no.

Premium is 30 percent of all filings at CSC.

I don't think it can be greatly different at vermont.

I'll send messages tomorrow on how VSC is looking.

Rich/Walter,

Best estimate of where CSC stands as of 4PM on 4/3/09 attached.

The first 2 days are complete (Bar-coded; pallet/cage; and Lottery ready) with the exception of less than a bucket of Day (2) petitions which needs CIS Review.

We plan on setting up for CMP and CRP possible assembly on Monday. (Depends on Monday's volume of mail.)

Regards,

Greg

Rich/Walter,

Best estimate of where we stand this morning attached.

We received One bucket of Possible CAP cases today.

We Should be completed (Lottery Ready) for ALL 3 days by end of 1st shift today.

I'll have an updated report by COB today that should be more accurate.

Rich/Walter,

Attached is the best estimate of CSC CAP Day one received and CAP Day Two received. (Revision in RED for day one received)

Very low received petition count today! (Estimate 73% less than day two last year. Day 1 update/difference is also looking lower and around 45% less than day one last year.)

Estimate that night crew should be completed with PRESORTING of Day one and two by end of 2nd shift.)

I will try to revise the numbers on this report for Day one and two tomorrow morning.

Thanks for pinging Buck.

We've gotten a few frantic calls from OCOMM asking if you or Don can call Lauren K. and nudge her to review quickly. But I feel that's OCOMM's job as part of their internal clearance process.

I think Don is in some kind of senior leadership meeting, so I'm guessing Lauren is there as well.

Hi Buck just want to make sure the cap announcement is on your radar screen. I am at the airport but my folks have been monitoring and it hasn't posted yet. We are past the five day filing period and there have been lots of inquiries from a variety of folks and we wanted to assure message control. We placed our docs with your office over two weeks ago with today as our target day. Please let us know if you need anything from SCOPS to assist. Thanks

Thanks, please see my simultaneous message regarding the Chile-Singapore (pasted in below again). I think what we do is wrap the projected unused Chile-Singapore inventory for a current FY into each filing season by applying it to the next year's cap, since a start date October 1 is within the first 45 days of the next FY. We may have a slight discrepancy come Oct. 1, but we don't have a new filing season for the 5,000+ at that time.

As I recall USTR didn't agree to us setting a lower cap of 1,000 in advance, but was ok with us using projected usage within the current FY. In other words, in April 2009 the number is targeted to get us to 65,000 FY 10 – 6,800 reserved FY 10 H1B1, plus up to 6,800 projected unused FY 09, but they rejected getting a year ahead through a methodology that would have been 65,000 FY 10 H-1B -1,000 reserved FY 10 H1B1, plus up to 6,800 projected unused FY 09 H1B1. So actually I think both the original text and yours are not completely right, because we are setting aside 6,800, but for the next FY, and the unused ones we are making available in the current process are unused from the current FY. The unused ones from the set-aside for FY 10 will be used next year. I think this is right but my memory may be fading. So in short I'd recommend this:

Please note that 6,800 visas are set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year. In other words, 6,800 visas from the FY 2010 cap have been reserved from the number made available for start dates beginning October 1, 2010, but approximately 5,800 projected unused H-1B1 visas for FY 2009 are currently being made available for start dates beginning October 1, 2010 as part of the present filing process. Unused H-1B1 visas for FY 2010 will be allocated similarly next year.

If this is way too much detail for this paper you could get away with just the first two sentences although those could contribute to the persistent misimpression that there is a magical pot of unused H-1B1 visas to be given out on October 1. And I think this is all correct but it could use a double check from other cap veterans such as Jim Fitzsimmons.

Please see attached redline version with comments.

It strikes me that although we have the numbers on H-1B in the body of the document, the public may be expecting to see them in a chart if we've done a chart for H-2B. Please insert the numbers for H-1B1 that we're setting aside this year as I think our explanation of a set aside will give rise to that question.

Thanks!

I would recommend one change. The reason for this change is that we really don't set aside the full 6,800 because these are woefully undersubscribed. We really only set aside 1,000 of these. See below. Including Phil as well because he and I were involved in the decision to reserve a lesser amount a couple of years ago. Thanks.

Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during the fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. OCC,

SCOPS has made some redlines to the H-1B/H-2B cap count web page to update it for the current fiscal year. We are seeking OCC's clearance on these changes. Please note that the statistical information for H-1Bs is currently highlighted as it will need to be reviewed prior to posting to include the most recent information. Right now, the information in the document reflects data that I received yesterday morning.

We would like comments/edits for concurrence by COB tomorrow, April 16 so that we can have this posted on Friday.

Thanks!

Looks like pretty much routine volume regular and express mail. FedEx says they have about 20,000 pieces for us but that will include other submissions as well.

If Vermont is similarly low and this continues, can we discuss keying early?

Okay, I think we have all the relevant info in we need;

1) There is only 1 filing pre 12-21 to data enter, so that will not change the count
2) We did receipt at least 3 yesterday that came in yesterday, at VSC. We need to decide on how to handle these.
3) Otherwise, we have 911 that can be barcoded today and have the lottery run against the numbers. And get the message out to the public this afternoon (I hope). Shall we meet at 11:00 and decide our course of action?

Have located four of the five –

- Three were data entered incorrectly - have a 12/21 date – should not have been keyed.
- One was received on 12/18 but entered as a 12/21 date in CLAIMS – will change to CLAIMS to reflect 12/18 date.

Bobbie,

I wanted to run this change by you before I reply to Pete. I think that I like this, but perhaps we now need to focus on all H-1Bs, including EOS outside of the 60 day processing time. If you agree, would you like the over 60-day EOS and the cap separated in the reports, or should I suggest that they report all together (no distinctions)?

Thanks!

Shelly

Shelly,

I'd like to propose a change to our daily reporting of H-1B Cap cases outside of 60 days, as the report doesn't change much from day-to-day and was more relevant last week when pushing through the F-1s in a finite timeframe.

I think it would be a better snap shot if we combined our weekly production report to show actual numbers that we have worked, with the report of Cap cases outside of 60 days (where are they). That way you would get one set of reports each week by COB Monday and we could discuss progress on our call later in the week.

The reports would look something like the following, just sent in once per week –

| Report date | 29-Sep-10 | 30-Sep-10 | 1-Oct-10 | 4-Oct-10 | 5-Oct-10 | 6-Oct-10 | 7-Oct-10 |

Barb/Shelly,

Here is today's report. As we have been indicating throughout the week it is a little deceiving –

- the 204 files with the Contractor are all approval or RFE ordered cases where CLAIMS has not caught up with the NFTS code
- of the 196 cases with officers all except 14 were updated as approved or RFE ordered as of yesterday 9/30. The 14 cases still to be worked are all being approved or RFEd today.
- The 22 cases in the other category are cases with BCU for resolution, or are with CFDO being held for their purposes.

I'm still waiting on an update of completions and Overtime usage from our Data and IT Departments. When I have this information I will pass it on.

Thanks,

Morning Denis,

I think we have these things all straightened now ☺ (After talking with Greg yesterday, his daily DE numbers are up to 1,768 and VSC will be at 2,000+)

I'll have the final presentation completed today (about 16 slides).

How many hard copies should I bring with me?

Thank You, Walter

Subject: Discussion topics for Thursday

Walter,

We had a teleconference with the centers yesterday to review the center level plans. The thing that stands out on each is the daily H1B CAP production goal is inadequate. We really aren't happy that you have a goal of only 1170 per day at CSC and 1500 at VSC. This is less than past years. It is also not true that we won't waive the data entry requirements for other forms for a reasonable period of time. CAP forms are, in fact "more important" than other forms during this time period and we want a higher emphasis put on getting them processed in a timely manner. They have far more fee money attached to them than other types.

So, sharpen your pencil and see what revised production numbers you can come in with on Thursday. I thought it was better to let you know in advance.

Jim,

OCC has asked that we update the DOD H-1B workers cap count on our webpage. It currently reads:

Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of October 13, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 8.

Can we update to reflect the count through last Friday? I doubt the count has changed much since October, but I told them I would look into it.

Thanks!

Subject: DRAFT FY11 Cap Updates

VSC and CSC,

I want to start the ball rolling on review for the USCIS Update(s) that will need to be issued at the end of the 5-day filing window. Since we don't know whether we will meet the cap or not, I have drafted two different sets of documents. I know that things could go either way (though it seems likely that we will not meet the cap), but I didn't want to wait until the filing period starts to begin drafting and review as we will all be extremely busy at that time. I would like to get your Center's comments/edits by COB Friday (3/19) so that I can send to OCOMM and OPE for them to initiate USCIS component clearance.

The first document is a draft USCIS Update if we do not meet the cap. I have also included alternative language in it for a scenario in which we don't meet the regular cap, but we do get sufficient advanced degree petitions.

The remaining documents are drafts of Updates in the event we do meet the cap. These are all based on documents that were issued for the FY09 filing season. I think the cap met and estimate documents could be combined if the filing is not extraordinarily heavy, but perhaps I am wrong.

Thanks!

Subject: Duplicate Filing Question

Claudia,

Here is an initial draft email to OCC. Take a hammer to it. ☺

Claudia S. and Co.,

We have a situation that we would like to run by OCC. Last year, we denied all duplicate filings and retained any fees filed in association with those duplicate filings per 214.2(h)(2)(i)(G) which states:
An employer may not file, in the same fiscal year, more than one H-1B petition on behalf of the same alien if the alien is subject to the numerical limitations of section 214(g)(1)(A) of the Act or is exempt from those limitations under section 214(g)(5)(C) of the Act. If an H-1B petition is denied, on a basis other than fraud or misrepresentation, the employer may file a subsequent H-1B petition on behalf of the same alien in the same fiscal year, provided that the numerical limitation has not been reached or if the filing qualifies as exempt from the numerical limitation. Otherwise, filing more than one H-1B petition by an employer on behalf of the same alien in the same fiscal year will result in the denial or revocation of all such petitions. If USCIS believes that related entities (such as a parent company, subsidiary, or affiliate) may not have a legitimate business need to file more than one H-1B petition on behalf of the same alien subject to the numerical limitations of section 214(g)(1)(A) of the Act or otherwise eligible for an exemption under section 214(g)(5)(C) of the Act, USCIS may issue a request for additional evidence or notice of intent to deny, or notice of intent to revoke each petition. If any of the related entities fail to demonstrate a legitimate business need to file an H-1B petition on behalf of the same alien, all petitions filed on that alien's behalf by the related entities will be denied or revoked. (Added 3/24/08; 73 FR 15389).

Shelly,

The report is a little off from what I sent yesterday but what you'll see below is most of our Cap that is older than 60 days is either with officers or already processed (RFE/Approval). We have 699 Cap cases that are dated prior to 8/1/2010 that are not with officers yet (lower numbers).

The F-1 numbers have dropped significantly since yesterday's report.

| | Older than 60 days: |
|---|---|
| F1 COS to H1B | 854 |
| With Officer | 757 |
| With Contractor | 0 |
| ADJ Staged | 72 |
| Other | 25 |

Here is an estimation of the cases remaining in initial receipts that are not with an officer.
I have not included cases that clearly show movement to an rfe shelf or approval shelf yesterday or today.

| Remaining Monthly initial receipts not with officers | |
|---|---|
| April | 55 |
| May | 83 |
| June | 258 |
| July | 303 |

Shelly,

Here are today's figures.

Here is today's initial receipts summary that you asked for:

| | Older than 60 days: |
|---|---|
| F1 COS to H1B | 799 |
| With Officer | 578 |
| With Contractor* | 165 |
| ADJ Staged | 31 |
| Other | 25 |

|---|---|
| All Cap > 60 | 3141 |

|---|---|
| With Officer | 2199 |
| With Contractor* | 646 |
| ADJ Staged | 184 |
| Other | 112 |

- The "with contractor" includes some cases that were approved or rfed yesterday after the oracle tables were updated.
- For the F-1s in the first section all of the 165 appear to be approvals or RFEs where CLAIMS has not caught up with the location.

Pete,

I have checked on the options we have available at this juncture. Extension of cap gap is not a possibility, so your suggestion of prioritizing the H-1B petitions requesting a COS from F-1 (after PP, of course) that are under cap gap that were filed before 8/1 sounds like the only relief option available short of touching all pre-August filings before 10/1.

Joe,

Do you have any thoughts or concerns on this course of action?

Thanks!

Shelly

Shelley,

We have been receiving inquiries from AILA regarding what, if anything, we are going to offer to F-1 students seeking change of status to H-1B and have cap gap benefits carrying them to 10/1/2010. As the CSC is working cases at a similar rate to us (working primarily May and early June cases) this would appear to be a national issue.

In our opinion with a 60 day processing goal only students (with cap gap need) that filed up to 8/1/2010 would appear to have a valid concern. Should we be moving these cases to the front of the line? Although I'm asking this, I don't have numbers reflecting how many cases (F-1 COS) we have in our backlog dating up to the 8/1/2010 filing date. We are interested in knowing whether you and CSC have heard similar concerns, and should we be planning on offering any help?

Thanks,

Peter Shuttle

George,

Barbara mentioned that both of the Centers are going to be getting some OT funds. Do I need to send anything out to notify them of this? I've never been in this position before and just wanted to make sure that you aren't waiting on me.

Thanks!

SCOPS HQ has reviewed the situation and determined that the pre-8/1 F-1 COS cap cases should be prioritized. There may be a possibility that SCOPS could obtain access to OT funds. We need to know ASAP how much each center projects it would need (if it is available) and exactly how the OT funds would be utilized. Please understand that SCOPS expects the F-1 COS cap cases to be completed by the end of September if OT funds can be obtained and are used.

Pete,

I have checked on the options we have available at this juncture. Extension of cap gap is not a possibility, so your suggestion of prioritizing the H-1B petitions requesting a COS from F-1 (after PP, of course) that are under cap gap that were filed before 8/1 sounds like the only relief option available short of touching all pre-August filings before 10/1.

Joe,

Do you have any thoughts or concerns on this course of action?

Thanks!

Joe,
I'm checking in with the division chief over adjudications, Greg Richardson, to see how he would like to proceed on the questions that Pete raised below.

In the interim, I have a couple of quick questions. What do you estimate will be the CSC's processing date be on October 1? Does CSC have any plans to run any blitzes or beef up the number of adjudicators working H-1Bs? Have you already done so? Would it be possible to pull the figures of untouched cap petitions requesting a COS from F-1 filed before 8/1? I think that it would help us to determine the kind of impact we're talking about.

Thanks!

Greg,

I would like to recommend that the F-1s who have cap gap filed before 8/1 be moved to the front of the line (after PP) since both centers are currently beyond the two month processing goal for H-1Bs. If we don't, these individuals would be ineligible for a COS after 10/1 and would receive a split decision. I predict a bit of an issue if we don't.

I am not as familiar with the cap gap provisions as FAST is, but I will check in with them to see if there is any leeway for an extension of cap gap benefits.

Thanks!

For your review are the attached USCIS Update and Webpage for the 2011 H-1B cap season. The webpage has replaced the previously drafted Q&A and will serve as a central location on USCIS.gov for all information regarding the 2011 Cap filing season.

The target date for releasing this was March 1, I realize this is a short turnaround and ask that comments and/or edits be returned to me by COB Monday, March 1, in order to get this posted early next week, allowing enough time for information to get out prior to the filing season opening on April 1.

Thank you in advance.

Wow. It makes my head hurt trying to compare the two. Perhaps you could pick the one that is easiest to analyze and ask them to both use that version for next year. I suppose that would go over like a lead brick...

With regards to a VSC question, I do not see one either. I'm pretty sure that they've taken care of this, but it might be best to check.

Denis,

Can you confirm that the non-selected 12/21 H-1B cap-subject petitions have all been rejected? I believe so. Your message that we are finished was dated 12/29, but the statement below that Tom was asking for assistance with is dated 1/4. As such, I'm being a little paranoid and just want to double check.

Every year, I stress the importance of cap reports from CSC and VSC having the same table layouts. To what extent do you think they succeeded with respect to FY 2010 cap?

See the attachment for FY 2010 cap reports. Notice that CSC's workbook is entitled "2009 H-1B Cap Report".

From the reports, I conclude there were 4,200 manual rejects of FY 2010 cap-eligible petitions.

As far as the email below is concerned, I cannot find a question from VSC. Rather I read a statement of intent regarding unselected Dec 21 receipts. This matter has already been resolved.

Hi Walter,

Now that we've finished with the final receipting, can we get final versions for the above CAP Reports through December 21st please?.

Also, for December 21 we only want to have the rejects recorded for reasons other than not being selected in the lottery. They should have recorded approximately 27 rejects for December 21. The remaining rejects being sent back for non-selection are not relevant for future analysis.

If you have any questions on this let me or Denis know.

Thanks,

Shelly,

As requested, VSC would need overtime if the number of H1B cap premium processing petitions were to exceed 12,000 during the initial five day filing window. For every 1,000 premium cap receipts over the 12,000 benchmark, we will need approximately 440 overtime hours. Using GS12 Step 4 as the average, this would equate to approximately $24,000 required per 1,000 premium processing receipts.

Thanks,

Rob

All,

Attached are notes from this afternoon's teleconference call.

On a separate note, SCOPS would like to know at what filing level/number each Service Center would need overtime in order to complete your premium processing cap workloads.

Thanks!

Good morning.

Attached are documents for discussion at this afternoon's teleconference call.

The first item is a template cap report that SCOPS would like the Service Centers to use this year. The next three are documents from last year's cap season with edits from BEST. The last is an agenda for this afternoon's meeting.

Thanks!

One exception to our mail forwarding in general rule will be ALL FY2011 H1B CAP filings, both Premium and non-Premium. This will adhere to our guidance posted at the website for H1B. Going forward from today the contractor should be directed to reject all such misfilings for jurisdiction. I-129 filings other than Premiums or H1B FY2011 CAP filings can continue to be forwarded.

Shelly:

On OT through Monday 9/27/10, this is what we completed on H-1B cap cases (including F-1 cap gap):

Approvals = 2062
Denials = 28
RFEs = 805

- $60,000 spent thus far

From the count we started with on Thursday of F-1 cap gap cases pending, this is where we are as of this morning.

- We have touched all F-1 cap cases.
- We are still working through the report to clean up the cases that are considered "new" on this report. The "new" cases have been touched by an officer, but are still going through clerical updating or sup review, and we are focusing on getting those done by today.
- Below is the summary chart of completions for F-1 Cap Gap cases:

| CSC I-129 F1s Cap Pre 08/01/10 | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| | | Status | Counts |
| I-129 | F1 | APPROVED | 1,034 |
| | | DENIED | 40 |
| | | NEW CASE | 100 |
| | | RULE 103 | 701 |
| | | PENDING | 0 |
| Total: | | | 1,875 |

- Below is the summary chart of where we are with all non-pp cap cases and EOS cases:

| CSC I-129 H1Bs Pending as of 09/27/2010 | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | Status | Filed before 08/01/2010 | Filed before 9/28/10 |
| Non-PP | Initials | NEW CASE | 2461 | 10,470 |
| | | PENDING | 284 | 289 |

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | REOPENED | 8 | 8 |
| | | RULE 103 | 1,839 | 1,869 |
| | | SUSPENSE | 16 | 19 |
| | | TRANSFERRED IN | 378 | 398 |
| | Others | NEW CASE | 10,741 | 19,320 |
| | | PENDING | 228 | 230 |
| | | REOPENED | 1 | 1 |
| | | RULE 103 | 461 | 462 |
| | | SUSPENSE | 21 | 24 |
| | | TRANSFERRED IN | 164 | 172 |

- By Friday, I estimate our processing time for non-pp H-1B cases will be into early July. I will have a better idea of what the processing time is on Monday after all this OT is done and the clerical updating is completed. At that time, I would like to propose a date that we will be current or at 60 days processing time.

- 62 total adjudicators on H-1Bs

  36 – PP (Backfill Cap & EOS)
  19 – Non-PP
  7 - EOS

It may be better if we give an update Tuesday morning. Most of the cases are on the floor now so tracking those means we have to do NFTS audits for accuracy of reports. We have been doing an NFTS audit this morning, and it won't show up in the systems until this afternoon. So a good updated report may not be done until late this afternoon or early tomorrow morning.

I would like to thank everyone for participating in this afternoon's call. In summary, we would request that each center send us its work plan (which includes the information listed below and discussed in our teleconference) in writing if it has not already been provided. Additionally, each center will need to provide SCOPS with an update on H-1B processing every Monday until we are within the 60-day processing goal, starting this coming Monday. We understand that Vermont's Monday update will not include cases adjudicated this weekend due to the fact that Claims will be unavailable for them. We would like to at least get a feel for how the weekend went and the progress made towards completing the F-1 cap gap caseload.

Finally, although you have probably already done so, we would like to ask that all of the F-1 cap gap H-1B cases be brought down to the floor to ensure that the adjudicators have this work available immediately.

I would like to set up our weekly teleconferences this week. Would Wednesday or Thursday at 1 PM EST work best for the centers?

Thanks!

This meeting is for SCOPS to learn more about each center's plan to get within 60-days on H-1B adjudication. We'd like to get a handle on:

- the current initial H-1B petition inventory broken out by untouched vs. RFE/ITD already issued;
- your processing date for initial H-1B petitions;
- the current EOS H-1B petition inventory broken out by untouched vs. RFE/ITD already issued;
- your processing date for EOS H-1B petitions (if different from initials);
- your current resources and CPH rate for these cases;
- any plans to augment current staff or shift resources (e.g. does either center plan to borrow resources temporarily from other allied groups or divisions?);
- the projected date when the center will be within 60-days.

We'd also like to work with the centers to set up a process for temporary biweekly progress reports until we are current on H-1Bs.

Please feel free to forward this invite to the appropriate participants at your center.

Subject: RE: H1B Cap Web Page

I am in favor of deleting the H-1B table (and footnotes) and replacing it with two simple sentences: "As of April xx, 43,000 H-1B cap-eligible petitions and 22,000 petitions qualifying for advanced degree exemption had been filed. Petitions are very likely to be accepted for both categories until at least 85,000 H-1B petitions have been received, allowing for denials, revocations, and withdrawals." (or whatever language is used in public announcement issued by OCOMM)

I am not aware of a H-1B wait list plan in FY 2010. If petitions continue to trickle in, most petitions will have been adjudicated by the final receipt date. That would make a wait list unnecessary. (A wait list is particularly useful when the nearly all the petitions arrive in a very short time such as last April.)

H-1B1 projection is 1,000 H-1B1s for FY 2010.

Keep H-2B table BUT remove "Cap Reached" in total column and dates in "Date of last Count" column since this webpage is for FY 2010. In June or July, this table will begin to be populated.

As of March 30, 2009, three H-3 visas had been approved with a start date in FY 2009.

All,

Attached are some rough preliminary edits to the H1B/H2B cap page. I have not inserted numbers into the table yet as it will change before this has cleared OCC and is ready for posting.

I have a question for the group as a whole regarding the data table currently on the web site. Is it mandatory that we include the number of approvals in the update? If not, can we remove that block? I don't see where we currently have this information filled out, and I think it raises a number of questions (especially since this number will fluctuate).

This is definitely an opportunity to remove any language you feel is unnecessary and add language to items that need clarification. Please let me know of any comments/edits you may have. I will consolidate SCOPS comments/edits and forward to OCC for their clearance.

Thanks!

Subject: FW: H-1B Cap Count Page Final Update

Mark,

Here is some traffic regarding how we closed the FY10 webpage cap count. The webpage looked a little different last year, but the process remains essentially the same. You'll want to copy and paste the current webpage into a Word document and turn on track changes. Remove any references to the FY11 cap being open. I would suggest deleting the chart and inserting something along the lines of the following:

As of December 21, 2009, USCIS has received sufficient petitions to reach the statutory cap for FY2010. USCIS has also received more than 20,000 H-1B petitions on behalf of persons exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption. USCIS will reject cap-subject petitions for new H-1B specialty occupation workers seeking an employment start date in FY2010 that are received after December 21, 2009 USCIS will apply a computer-generated random selection process to all petitions that are subject to the cap and were received on December 21, 2009

Of course, the last sentence in blue is moot if we don't need a lottery. I'm sure you'll find other issues with the webpage. Go ahead and make any appropriate/necessary changes. Once you have completed your edits, send to Claudia Salem, Sharvari Dalal-Dheini, and Robert Cox for OCC clearance. Let them know that we expect to meet the cap either at the end of this week or the beginning of next and that you would like to have this cleared so that it is ready to go whenever we hit the cap. Once you get clearance, hold this we meet the cap. You can then insert the final receipt date and send to USCIS Web Publishing. I've attached the message I sent to web publishing last year below. It will need to be changed, as there are no H-2B numbers to update (in FY10 the H-1B and H-2B cap counts were on the same page...we separated onto different pages for FY11).

Thanks!

Is it ok for me to ask the Service Centers to accept all petitions received today, as Jim is recommending?

Also, I'd like to let OCOMM and the other HQ offices know about Jim's revised estimate, if that's ok with you.

All,

About 1,000 cap numbers remain (84,300 minus 83,300). My best estimate of final receipt date is Monday, December 21st. My recommendation is to accept all receipts today and rack and stack on Monday.

The latest H-1B cap numbers for FY 2010 as of December 17th are below:

Table 1

| H-1B cap | Approved | Pending[1] | Potential Cap[2] | Estimated Count[3] | Untouched[4] | Touched[5] | Touched rate[6] | RFE rate[7] | Denial rate[8] |

CSC/VSC,

Tomorrow, please have the contractors count and prepare the incoming applications but hold off on beginning receipting until we give a go ahead. Jim Fitzsimmons will have a receipted count through today by late morning and we would like a check of what we receive before we give the go ahead. The contractors can receipt any applications received today or earlier that were held up in the CRU or otherwise. If we give the go ahead to receipt on Thursday afternoon, we will repeat the same process Friday.

I understand this will delay the contractor's normal routine; they should be told to plan on doing most H1B work on second shift from now until we reach the CAP limit. Also we will not penalize them if they fail to complete the day's incoming volume due to the late starting time.

So again, pls. send me the incoming application count when it is ready, plus whatever the number in the CRU as of the end of today is.

They'd better. Seriously, I think they know our plan.

We were 1400 under cap this morning, and we added 170 from CSC late data entry yesterday. That would make about 1230 under the cap. It sounded from the preliminary counts that we had 600-700 today maximum. Unless tomorrow is lighter than expected it should be the last date. Stay tuned.

I would like to discuss the expected volume for CAP. The initial guidance I gave out was for the contractor to anticipate receiving filings in line with 2008 – 100,000 at Vermont, 60,000 at California. All indications we have had the past month are that we will not get this between April 1-7. There is significant money involved if we can give the contractor a number to prepare for that will be close to what the actual filing count will be. For instance, they have submitted hundreds of applications for temporary workers that all have to have a background investigation and credit report done. This is a burden on the agency.

Thanks for seeing that they are not included this time; we'll certainly advise them of the decisions we make on this and other issues.

We were wondering if you could ask the VSC and CSC to notify us if they see a significant uptick in H-1B cap cases in mailroom traffic since we are getting nearer to reaching the cap.

On a side note, BEST will be drafting an email for you to send to the Centers when we determine that they need to begin racking and stacking cases in anticipation of the final receipt date announcement.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

All,

This chart shows the monthly volume of H-1B cap petitions based on the mailroom date. The volume declined in May June, and July. Since August, the volume has continued to rise. At 6,000 petitions, November was double May volume. In each of the last two weeks, about 2,200 petitions have been received. It appears the cap will be reached next week.

VSC & CSC,

Based on our overnight CISCOR count, we are still 1,000 applications under our target for the CAP. Unless you experience an abnormal mail volume today we think it is safe to go ahead and being receipting all CAP filings without waiting for a mailroom count first. This will help Jim do a precise query Monday morning and determine if we will run a lottery on Monday's volume or accept all of it.

Important: Please have the number remaining under CRU review at the end of tonight sent by email to me and everyone on this message, so we can also add that potential volume to our counts.

On Monday, do not proceed with receipting. Do a rack and stack of all the incoming volume until we get back. All the filings clearing the CRU review from today or previously should be receipted as they are approved.

Thanks for your prompt attention, we hope to have the message announcing the reaching of the FY2010 CAP on Monday.

Subject: H-1B cap filings

Importance: High

All,
The actual increase in H-1B cap filings between September 25 and October 25 was only half as large as USCIS reported on the cap webpage. The reason was a change in reporting methodology, effective on October 25. For the first time, masters rollovers were included in the reported count; previously, masters rollovers were excluded from the reported count. The difference in reporting became notable then. The count for October 25 without masters rollovers was 49,200 in contrast to 52,800 reported with masters rollovers. Since October 25, the cap count reported has included masters rollovers. Future reporting will include masters rollovers until the cap is reached.

According to the blog by immigration lawyer Siskind reproduced below, H-1B cap filings accelerated between September 25 (46,700) and October 25 (52,800). See Table 1. This conclusion is based on the numbers reported on USCIS cap webpage. The reported numbers show an increase in filings of 6,100 during this 4-week period when the actual volume of filings was only 3,100. See Table 2.

Since masters rollovers are included going forward, this phantom spike is not an event that will be repeated. In other words, if a spike occurs, it will be real.

The question remains whether to issue an explanation about the August 25-September 25 phantom spike. As I indicated, another strategy is simply to ride out the storm since from now on, consistent reporting will not produce such misleading trends. It is the transition period (September 25 to October 25) when the reporting change occurred that created the inflated trend in filings.

Nevertheless, it should also be noted that an upward trend is evident in filings, if not as significant as Siskind's analysis indicates. If the present volume holds up, then the FY 2010 cap season could end in mid-January.

Jim

Bloggings On Immigration Law And Policy
by Greg Siskind

Editor's note: Here are the latest entries from Greg Siskind's blog.

November 03, 2009

H-1B USAGE ACCELERATING

I've been monitoring H-1B numbers each month and have noted a rather dramatic jump in filings over the last few months. At the current pace, the 65,000 H-1B numbers in the main category could be gone in January (the 20,000 H-1Bs for advance degree holders was used up at the beginning of the entry period).

Watch how the month by month numbers change:

April 27th - 45,000

May 29th - 45,800

June 26th - 44,800 (likely adjusted downward due to rejections of petitions filed near the April 1st filing deadline)

July 24th - 44,900

August 28th - 45,100

September 25th - 46,700 (49,700 including MASTERS rolled over)

October 25th - 52,800 (49,200 excluding MASTERS rolled over)

As you can see, usage has gone from just a couple of hundred a month to about 1500 a week. It is very possible that there was some pent up demand because as of October 1st, applicants can start work right away rather after approval of a petition. So we'll need to see what next month brings. But it is very possible that improvements in the economy are showing up in the visa numbers and if you're thinking about filing an H-1B, you probably should get moving.

The reports indicated 352 are racked at California and 559 at Vermont. I am trying to determine if they have any received before Monday not yet data entered. Let me get that information before we make any final decisions.

Also the 5 receipted in Vermont yesterday, whether that was in error. Have not heard back on that either.

Denis,

CSC' total count is 352 racked and stacked.

Here are the historical numbers that help frame this year's receipts with regards to supply and demand.

Two years (FY09 cap) ago we had a tremendous demand in the first five days resulting in our shutting off the cap for the remainder of the fiscal year after the first five days and returning 64,000 petitions that were in excess to our limits. That would help explain the pent up demand for FY10.

Within the first five days of receipt last year we received almost 65,000 cases but did not need to run a lottery. Cap flings were received up to December 21, 2009 resulting in only about 3.5 months of unavailability for cap filers.

Barbara,

In connection with FY 2009 H-1B cap season (two years ago), 161,000 cap petitions were received and bar coded and 97,000 of them were declared winners in the subsequent lottery.

The FY 2010 H-1B cap season ended on December 21, 2009.

Update at 430 pm; CSC has sent their barcoded manifest here, VSC is still completing theirs. It appears now that only ONE CAP filing was mistakenly received Monday and receipted Monday, vs. the earlier fear we had 3-4.

We should have the VSC spreadsheet ready to go in the morning, at worst. Hopefully we can run the RNG tomorrow and send them the selections for receipting on Wednesday night. With only 200 or so, they can complete it all on the second shift.

All right, well this is not as bad as first indicated. The top one, received yesterday, has to be barcoded like all the others received yesterday. The bottom four are okay to go, with the corrections done in claims.

We have the CSC barcoding spreadsheet in, if the contractor finishes tonight, we need your spreadsheet early tomorrow morning to run the RNG. We want to send you the selected numbers tomorrow in time for all to be pulled and those not selected sent to reject processing.

Steve,

We need you to research what happened with these 5 cases; did the contractor mistakenly enter Monday as the received date for work actually received last week, or did they in fact errorneously process a few that came in on Monday? Here are the receipt numbers.

If they misdated the received date, it is okay to continuing processing them (correcting the received date and recording it as a contractor error however). If they processed 5 from yesterday's mail, try to intercept the receipt notices if you can before they go out. Suspend them from further processing until we determine the best course of action.

Thanks,

Denis Peck

Carolyn, Kurt and Rob,

SCOPS has received an inquiry from the front office regarding the top reason(s) for RFE issuance, as this year's RFE rate is higher than last year's. We believe that this may stem from TARP RFEs, but we would like to seek confirmation from all of you. Would it be possible for the CSC and VSC to provide the top reason(s) for RFEs as soon as possible? If the majority of RFEs fall into a certain category (ie. TARP), please let us know.

Thanks!

Shelly

Barbara –

Without knowing any context or sense of the typical rate, the 48% RFE rate for regular H1Bs seems high. What are the top reasons for the RFEs? Are there just anomalies this year?

Thanks. R

Is the language in the bullet below accurate?

- 9/21: Update on H-1B Petitions—USCIS is still accepting petitions requesting FY 2010 employment and will continue to do so until meeting the Congressionally-mandated cap of 65,000. 62,500 petitions have been approved thus far, with 7,600 still pending approval. USCIS accepts H-1B petitions beyond the amount allowed by the cap because experience shows that not all petitions received are approvable, while others simply drop-out.

Kurt,

If she needs a bullet from us, I would suggest the below (my changes in red). As for H-2B, I defer to Shannon and Emisa. Let me know if you want me to send the below out or if you have any changes.

Thanks!

Shelly

10/5: Update on H-1B Petitions—USCIS is still accepting petitions requesting FY 2010 employment and will continue to do so until meeting the Congressionally-mandated cap of 65,000. Approximately 41,000 petitions have been approved thus far, with approximately 6,000 which remain pending. In addition, approximately 21,500 petitions for prospective H-1B aliens with a master's or higher degree earned at a U.S. institution have been approved thus far, with approximately 1,600 which remain pending. Although the Congressionally-mandated exemption for these advanced degree petitions is set at 20,000, USCIS accepts H-1B petitions beyond the amount allowed by the exemption because not all petitions received are approvable and those accepted after reconciliation will be rolled into the regular cap of 65,000.

Each week I have to send a bullet with the updated H-1B info. I realized the bullet we had been sending was not quite accurate and drafted a new one.

I am looking for a succinct bullet to provide the necessary background info and the numbers that are updated weekly.

If someone can provide such a two or three line bullet, I would be grateful.

I have to do the same for the H-2B numbers; again any assistance is more than welcome, and greatly appreciated.

Thank you.

Kerry,

The below bullet is not quite accurate. The regular cap (65,000) is listed in the first row of the chart below. The second row is for the master's exemption. The first 20,000 H-1B petitions filed for beneficiaries who have a master's degree or higher are exempt from the regular annual cap of 65,000. Although the total for the second row is slightly greater than 20,000, we have not yet received sufficient petitions to close the master's exemption. Based upon historical trends, some petitions in the master's exemption category will be denied or revoked.

Kurt and/or Claudia, please feel free to jump in.

Thanks!

Shelly

Is the language in the bullet below accurate?

- 9/21: Update on H-1B Petitions—USCIS is still accepting petitions requesting FY 2010 employment and will continue to do so until meeting the Congressionally-mandated cap of 65,000. 62,500 petitions have been approved thus far, with 7,600 still pending approval. USCIS accepts H-1B petitions beyond the amount allowed by the cap because experience shows that not all petitions received are approvable, while others simply drop-out.

Shelly as we approach the cap limit is it important for the incoming withdrawal letter requests to be processed as denials or revocations the same day? Our contractor at VSC is not keeping entirely current with the incoming letters but if it's vital, we can prioritize that they get them completely up to the same day as received. But are the officers keeping up with them as fast? Does it matter, in the bigger picture?

Allowing for a projected 1,000 Chile and Singapore cap petitions under Free Trade Agreements, the maximum number for FY 2010 is 84,000 approved petitions counting towards combined H-1B regular and masters FY 2010 caps as of September 30, 2010. Revocations of previously approved FY 2010 cap petitions will increasingly occur during FY 2010, reducing the number of approved cap petitions.

Shelly,

VSCs increased RFE rate can be attributed to two main areas:

1 – Request for contracts and itineraries as delineated in the attached E-mail string. Note: We issued almost 1,900 RFEs on Cognizant Technology Solutions alone.
2 – TARP

I agree, but I thought it might be a good idea to get confirmation on that since it is Rendell who is asking. We can easily respond now and state that we do believe that is the reason for the high rate, but we also might want to check and see what the RFE rate was last spring at this stage for purpose of comparison.

Jim, can we do that? Thanks.

I don't think there's any reason to reach out. The primary reason we knew about was the TARP issue and using the old form. If the petitioner used the old form, we are automatically RFEing for the 1st page of the supplement on the new form to answer the TARP question. Hence, the higher RFE rate.

All,

The cap count for combined has risen 600 this week or 300 per day. Extrapolated for the week, the volume is 1,500, down from last week's volume of 2,000.

Using the estimated count (which adjusts for denials of pending), 6,000 cap numbers are left (84,000-78,000). If a daily volume of 300 continues, then the cap will be reached in 20 workdays or December 30th.

The latest H-1B cap numbers for FY 2010 as of December 1st are below:

There is no target on masters. The target would be on combined. But a target isn't necessary unless we get real close to cap and must then start thinking about a final receipt date. That day may not come.

Absolutely on giving OCOMM and HQ a heads up. I have cc'd in Denis so he can pass word on to the centers.
Thanks!

Is it ok for me to ask the Service Centers to accept all petitions received today, as Jim is recommending?

Also, I'd like to let OCOMM and the other HQ offices know about Jim's revised estimate, if that's ok with you.

Subject: H1B CAP plans for Monday

While I am out on Monday, with Dee acting branch chief, I will be monitoring my email. We are very close to being at the CAP limits for H1B. Jim Fitzsimmons runs a query in CISCORS in the morning to determine the current count. Vermont and California will have the contractor do a rack and stack of Monday's mail until we give them further notice on what to do. That decision will be based on Jim's numbers.

Rich Nicholson the CSC ACD is on leave, I believe Jessy is acting ACD on Monday. I have a few extra people copied just as insurance that this message is widely distributed as a precaution. We are under a severe storm watch through Sunday and there is a chance the government will not be open on Monday. If that happens we may not have an H1B count to send out. Just rack and stack Monday's CAP filings and we will be in touch no later than Tuesday.

Greg,

The Service Centers received more than sufficient petitions to reach the regular cap yesterday. The SCs will begin bar coding those cap-subject petitions that were received yesterday (December 21) and run a lottery on those petitions. We will send OCOMM the cleared USCIS Update with the final receipt date of December 21 for posting today.

Thanks!

Bill,

We received sufficient petitions to reach the H-1B regular cap on December 21. There will be a lottery on the petitions that were received yesterday. I have filled in the final receipt date and the issuance date on the update and removed all comments. I also removed the "draft" watermark. We would like this update to be posted today.

I am separately sending a cap count webpage change to New Media with a request that the webpage be posted simultaneously with the USCIS Update. I will copy you and the OCOMM box on that request.

Please let me know if you need anything else from SCOPS.

Thanks!

Thus for updating our weekly information to the public I recommend we retain our statement regarding the Masters as is and the nonMasters as is.

Other data;

For the week of April 27 we received 1,236 filings – 442 at CSC, 794 at VSC.

We have rejected 845 filings at CSC (2.95%) and 886 at VSC (2.20%).

We became current with receipting filings on April 30 at CSC and anticipate being current at close of business today at VSC.

Some background refresher data from 2009;

Last year we got fully current with CAP filings at CSC on April 30 and at VSC the following Monday. The plans submitted by Stanley this year do not maintain this schedule and I've asked them to come in Thursday with improved daily production goals. Assuming an April 7 start date I really don't think we should approve any goal less than being fully current at the cob on April 30 at the latest, at both centers.

If filings are under the 67,000 we received last April we should expect completion at an earlier date accordingly. I understand they are trying to maintain some other work at a better rate than they did last year, but CAP is our priority.

Yes, rich just reported they got 420 so we have over 900 racked and stacked combined. They have gotten the go ahead to start the barcoding. We should have that done by early afternoon.

There was definitely a little surge this week probably caused by the last posting of the numbers last week showing we were almost at the limit.

H1B CAP update:

Jim Fitzsimmons advises that to be safe, beginning Wednesday January 26 we not data enter the incoming FY11 CAP petitions until the contractor has received and counted all of them, that number is sent here to HQ and he determines if we can accept all of them or not. Accordingly please do instruct the contractor to rack and stack these petitions on Wednesday and send me the numerical count once the final incoming mail for the day is received, including Fedex and UPS.

Second, you should have barcoded labels prepared in advance for the contractor to apply should Jim determine we have to accept a portion, but not all , of a day's petitions. In this instance he'll run a random number generated program based on the barcoded numbers you send back. The lottery winners will be selected by the RNG. Instruct the contractor to follow existing procedures for the "Last-day" barcoding was done in December 2009 as it will be the same this year should it be necessary.

The projections in the table assume no surge this week. If that turns out to be true, then the final receipt date will be Friday.

Therefore, racking and stacking should begin on Wednesday in order to be safe.

Jim – is your target still 85,550 combined petitions? If we ended last Friday at 82,800 that leaves us 2,750 under your target. Last week's count went up by 2,066 over the previous week.

The four weeks since December 24 we gained 7,023 in total. Unless there is an uptick this week we should be able to get through Friday. Then Mondays being our typically heavy volume day, we may get close to an additional 1,000 next Monday.

What do you think? Anyone?

I'd say that if you want to continue to work in the wording about the labor market test ( a DOL issue), that would be fine. However, this section of the cap page seems to be specific to H-2Bs. So, I would edit specific to H-2Bs, something along the lines of:

The Save Our Small and Seasonal Businesses Act of 2005 (SOS Act) divided the annual numerical limitations of 66,000 into two halves. USCIS regulations allow for filings H-2B petitions 120 days ~~6 months~~ in advance.

Thanks for the catch! So we would need to amend the below to read the following, right?

The Save Our Small and Seasonal Businesses Act of 2005 (SOS Act) divided the annual numerical limitations of 66,000 into two halves. ~~USCIS regulations allow for filings 6 months in advance. However,~~ USCIS regulations allow for H-2B filings ~~petitioners first must obtain a temporary labor certification from the Department of Labor (DOL). DOL regulations stipulate that the application for temporary labor certification may not be filed~~ no more than 120 days in advance of the need for the employee to ensure the accuracy of the labor market test. Thus, USCIS normally begins receiving H-2B petitions with employment start dates in October in June or July.

Shelly,

I'm a little unclear on the purpose of the cap page. So, at this time, I will only make a comment about the second paragraph in the H-2B section. In regard to how early a petition may be filed for H classification, the new regs at 8 C.F.R. 214.2(h)(9)(i)(B) state:

> The petition may not be filed or approved earlier than 6 months before the date of actual need for the beneficiary's service or training, except that an H-2B petition...may not be filed or approved more than 120 days before the date of the actual need for the beneficiary's temporary nonagricultural services that is identified on the temporary labor certification.

Of course, the DOL regulations preventing the filing of an application for a labor certification more than 120 days in advance impacted a petitioner's ability to file an H-2B the full 6 months in advance even before the new regulations. However, the new regs explicitly limit how early an H-2B can be filed.

All,

Attached are some rough preliminary edits to the H1B/H2B cap page. I have not inserted numbers into the table yet as it will change before this has cleared OCC and is ready for posting.

I have a question for the group as a whole regarding the data table currently on the web site. Is it mandatory that we include the number of approvals in the update? If not, can we remove that block? I don't see where we currently have this information filled out, and I think it raises a number of questions (especially since this number will fluctuate).

This is definitely an opportunity to remove any language you feel is unnecessary and add language to items that need clarification. Please let me know of any comments/edits you may have. I will consolidate SCOPS comments/edits and forward to OCC for their clearance.

Thanks!

I am in favor of deleting the H-1B table (and footnotes) and replacing it with two simple sentences: "As of April xx, 43,000 H-1B cap-eligible petitions and 22,000 petitions qualifying for advanced degree exemption had been filed. Petitions are very likely to be accepted for both categories until at least 85,000 H-1B petitions have been received, allowing for denials, revocations, and withdrawals." (or whatever language is used in public announcement issued by OCOMM)

I am not aware of a H-1B wait list plan in FY 2010. If petitions continue to trickle in, most petitions will have been adjudicated by the final receipt date. That would make a wait list unnecessary. (A wait list is particularly useful when the nearly all the petitions arrive in a very short time such as last April.)

H-1B1 projection is 1,000 H-1B1s for FY 2010.

Keep H-2B table BUT remove "Cap Reached" in total column and dates in "Date of last Count" column since this webpage is for FY 2010. In June or July, this table will begin to be populated.

As of March 30, 2009, three H-3 visas had been approved with a start date in FY 2009.

VSC and CSC,

I have confirmed with Jim that there are approximately 4,000 cap numbers left as of COB 12/8. This was calculated by subtracting 80,000 (estimated count) from 84,000 (65,000 minus 1,000 for Chile/Singapore plus 20,000 for Masters).

Rob, can you let BEST know what the contractor front log estimate is?

Yes, rich just reported they got 420 so we have over 900 racked and stacked combined. They have gotten the go ahead to start the barcoding. We should have that done by early afternoon.

There was definitely a little surge this week probably caused by the last posting of the numbers last week showing we were almost at the limit.

H1B CAP update:

Jim Fitzsimmons advises that to be safe, beginning Wednesday January 26 we not data enter the incoming FY11 CAP petitions until the contractor has received and counted all of them, that number is sent here to HQ and he determines if we can accept all of them or not. Accordingly please do instruct the contractor to rack and stack these petitions on Wednesday and send me the numerical count once the final incoming mail for the day is received, including Fedex and UPS.

Second, you should have barcoded labels prepared in advance for the contractor to apply should Jim determine we have to accept a portion, but not all , of a day's petitions. In this instance he'll run a random number generated program based on the barcoded numbers you send back. The lottery winners will be selected by the RNG. Instruct the contractor to follow existing procedures for the "Last-day" barcoding was done in December 2009 as it will be the same this year should it be necessary.

The projections in the table assume no surge this week. If that turns out to be true, then the final receipt date will be Friday.

Therefore, racking and stacking should begin on Wednesday in order to be safe.

This is still a bit unclear to me.

Scenario: Two of more petitions are filed by the same employer for the same beneficiary for the same job on April 2nd and therefore represents a clear attempt to gain an advantage in the lottery. Under our duplicate filing prohibition regulation, we should be able to deny such petitions on the basis of prohibited duplicate filings. Once such petitions are denied on this basis and are no longer pending with USCIS, the employer could once again file a new petition for the same alien in the same job provided cap numbers are still available and not be penalized.

Is OCC OK with this course of action? Thanks.

(b)(5)

Hi folks,

It seems to be that there is some concern about implementing 8 CFR 214.2(h)(2)(i)(G) when USCIS has not had to resort to the H-1B lottery selection system to date. [redacted]

(b)(5)

Feel free to let me know if something is unclear. Thanks!

8 CFR 214.2(h)(2)(i)(G):

Multiple H–1B petitions. An employer may not file, in the same fiscal year, more than one H–1B petition on behalf of the same alien if the alien is subject to the numerical limitations of section 214(g)(1)(A) of the Act or is exempt from those limitations under section 214(g)(5)(C) of the Act. If an H–1B petition is denied, on a basis other than fraud or misrepresentation, the employer may file a subsequent H–1B petition on behalf of the same alien in the same fiscal year, provided that the numerical limitation has not been reached or if the filing qualifies as exempt from the numerical limitation. Otherwise, filing more than one H–1B petition by an employer on behalf of the same alien in the same fiscal year will result in the denial or revocation of all such petitions. If USCIS believes that related entities (such as a parent company, subsidiary, or affiliate) may not have a legitimate business need to file more than one H–1B petition on behalf of the same alien subject to the numerical limitations of section 214(g)(1)(A) of the Act or otherwise eligible for an exemption under section 214(g)(5)(C) of the Act, USCIS may issue a request for additional evidence or notice of intent to deny, or notice of intent to revoke each petition. If any of the related entities fail to demonstrate a legitimate business need to file an H–1B petition on behalf of the same alien, all petitions filed on that alien's behalf by the related entities will be denied or revoked.

Subject: Duplicate Filing Question

Claudia S. and Co.,

SCOPS has a situation that we would like to run by OCC. Last year, we denied all duplicate filings and retained any fees filed in association with those duplicate filings per 214.2(h)(2)(i)(G). As the filing traffic has been significantly slower than last year and we did not have to run the lottery, SCOPS wanted to confirm with OCC that we are still on solid legal ground to deny any duplicate filings we have received. We believe that we are per the regulations.

If it is confirmed that we have the authority to deny the duplicate filings regardless of whether we needed to run the lottery, we have one additional question. It is possible that some petitioners may file another petition on behalf of the beneficiary. If the petitioner, after the denial of the duplicates, decides to file a new I-129 as the cap has not been met, would they be allowed to file that application or should it be denied also as a duplicate? We believe that these should also be denied per 214.2(h)(2)(i)(G). Please let us know if we are correct.

Please feel free to forward if I have inadvertently missed anyone.

Thanks!

Hello,

Now that we are past the 5 day opening window for H1B filings, we will be providing stats on the number received for external communication. The numbers will be low, around 19,000 total for both centers.

Ali asked that we be prepared to respond to allegations that the H1B memo (aka the "Neufeld Memo") is to blame. We obviously can't provide a definitive explanation as to why the volume is down, however we can point out that unlike years past, we did not reach the FY 2010 cap until December 21 last year. The only pent up demand would that which developed in a little over 3 months where petitions were not accepted. In prior years, demand was so great that a lottery was run to select winners from the excessive number of filings in the first 5 days. Therefore the pent up demand for the next filing window had 12 months to develop, and could include the "losers" from the prior lottery.

In terms of talking points, I think we would use the same talkers we developed when the H1B memo was issued, and add something along the lines of what I said above.

We'll be forwarding the receipt data for the first 5 days of the filing window for FY 11, as well as historic receipt data for prior filing windows. Do you need anything more from SCOPS?

All -

If we are going to issue a press release tomorrow without knowing the exact numbers, I would not release any numbers. I think a generic notice would be better simply indicating we did not reach the cap and are still accepting petitions, essentially what Shelly has already drafted, and issue an update with numbers later. If we are willing/able to hold the press release another day until we have exact numbers that I'd release numbers and tell petitioners they can still file.

That said, I will defer to the group as well as OCOMM on any decisions on update timelines that were made last week.

Thank you.

While I am waiting on a draft copy from Chris, I was wondering whether we would actually want to provide filing estimates at this point. I got the impression that we were trying not to get into that level of specificity, but I was wondering if this is a requirement that I wasn't aware of.

Robert,

Let us know what we can do to help. We already have draft language from a couple of years ago when we were in a similar situation. There's no use re-inventing the wheel with this one. It would speed the process to have the wording vetted in advance of the numbers becoming available. Once we issue the notice, will we be able to provide a daily update? Is there a reason Wednesday was chosen or is that the first date the numbers will become available? Thanks, Chris

Don/Debbie/Barbara,

We need to update the public regarding the number of H-1B petitions we received last week. I'm assuming we didn't meet the numbers during the first five days. With that said, we need to give the public a ballpark concerning the numbers we did receive, reassure them that the filing window remains open and re-explain the random selection process – given that process will now only involve those petitions received on the "final receipt date."

Bill – here are the latest numbers on the H-1B cap.

USCIS has received approximately 13,500 H-1B petitions counting toward the 65,000 cap. The agency has received approximately 5,600 petitions for individuals with advanced degrees.

We are still waiting on clearance from the front office in order to release the USCIS Update.

Thank you,

All -

If we are going to issue a press release tomorrow without knowing the exact numbers, I would not release any numbers. I think a generic notice would be better simply indicating we did not reach the cap and are still accepting petitions, essentially what Shelly has already drafted, and issue an update with numbers later. If we are willing/able to hold the press release another day until we have exact numbers that I'd release numbers and tell petitioners they can still file.

That said, I will defer to the group as well as OCOMM on any decisions on update timelines that were made last week.

Thank you.

Paola and Carol,

While I am waiting on a draft copy from Chris, I was wondering whether we would actually want to provide filing estimates at this point. I got the impression that we were trying not to get into that level of specificity, but I was wondering if this is a requirement that I wasn't aware of.

Thanks!

You had indicated below that you have draft language from a couple of years ago that we could use in this situation. Would it be possible for you to forward a copy to me?

Robert,

Let us know what we can do to help. We already have draft language from a couple of years ago when we were in a similar situation. There's no use re-inventing the wheel with this one. It would speed the process to have the wording vetted in advance of the numbers becoming available. Once we issue the notice, will we be able to provide a daily update? Is there a reason Wednesday was chosen or is that the first date the numbers will become available? Thanks, Chris

Don/Debbie/Barbara,

We need to update the public regarding the number of H-1B petitions we received last week. I'm assuming we didn't meet the numbers during the first five days. With that said, we need to give the public a ballpark concerning the numbers we did receive, reassure them that the filing window remains open and re-explain the random selection process – given that process will now only involve those petitions received on the "final receipt date."

Thanks, Chris

Barbara wants a quick written synopsis of what these numbers from both centers mean (e.g., where each center is with cap cases, EOS, etc.). You can probably take what you wrote up before and just make any date changes that might be more current.

Bobbie,

Here is a synopsis of this week's report from the VSC and the CSC:

CSC:

The CSC reported that they are at an 8/9 processing date for regular cap cases and an 8/15 processing date for master's cap. This is an improvement of a couple of days for the regular cap workload. The processing date for master's cap is the same as last week. Cap exempt is at 7/17 (last week this was at 7/11). The processing date for EOS moved forward slightly to 6/15 (last week was 6/9). As of October 18, there were 6,575 initial H-1B petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. Of that number 2,523 have had an RFE/NOID issued and are pending response. The initial pending outside of 2 months has shot up from last week by about 1,600. I believe that this increase reflects the surge of petitions we received just prior to the PL 111-230 fee taking effect. There were 12,415 EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal. Of that number, 488 have had an RFE/NOID issued and are pending response.

From 10/11 to 10/15, the CSC approved 511 non premium cases, denied 42 non premium cases, and issued an RFE on 214 non premium cases. CSC also approved 1,016 premium cases, denied 55 premium cases, and issued an RFE on 234 premium cases during the same time period.

VSC:

The VSC changed their processing date reporting to mimic the way that CSC reports its processing date. The VSC reported that they are at a 8/16 processing date for cap cases, which is no change from last week. The processing date for EOS is at 5/27. As of October 18, there were 3,022 untouched cap petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. The initial pending outside of 2 months has shot up from last week by about 1,175. As with CSC, I believe that this increase reflects the surge of petitions we received just prior to the PL 111-230 fee taking effect. There were 11,242 untouched EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal.

From 10/10 to 10/16, the VSC approved 948 non premium cases, denied 102 non premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 134 non premium cases. VSC also approved 1,395 premium cases, denied 89 premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 361 premium cases during the same time period.

Thanks!

Bobbie,

Here is a synopsis of this week's report from the VSC and the CSC:

CSC:

The CSC reported that they are at an 8/5 processing date for regular cap cases and an 8/15 processing date for master's cap. This is an improvement of a couple of days from last week's report. Cap exempt is at 7/11 (last week this was at 6/15). The processing date for EOS stayed the same as last week and is at 6/9. As of October 12, there were 4,968 initial H-1B petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. There were 12,601 EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal.

From 10/4 to 10/8, the CSC has approved 1,120 non premium cases, denied 103 non premium cases, and issued an RFE on 493 non premium cases. CSC has also approved 1,403 premium cases, denied 92 premium cases, and issued an RFE on 354 premium cases during the same time period.

VSC:

The VSC reported that they are at a 6/11 processing date for cap cases but that mid-August untouched work is going down to the floor. Last week, the VSC reported that July untouched work was going down to the floor. The processing date for EOS stayed the same as last week and is at 5/21. They expect movement on the EOS processing date shortly as they are distributing EOS work to their newly trained officers. As of October 12, there were 1,847 untouched cap petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. There were 11,037 untouched EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal.

From 10/3 to 10/9, the VSC has approved 741 non premium cases, denied 64 non premium cases, and issued an RFE on 398 non premium cases. VSC has also approved 1,703 premium cases, denied 56 premium cases, and issued an RFE on 453 premium cases during the same time period.

Thanks!

All –

Below is the language in question.

Successful petitioners who proceed to file an H-1B petition have a very high probability of obtaining an H-1B cap number under the 65,000 or 20,000 cap for the beneficiary named on the selected registration. USCIS notes that, while the registration system is designed to increase the public's assurance that numbers are available for successful petitioners that file otherwise eligible petitions, each successful petitioner is not absolutely guaranteed that an H-1B number will be available for the beneficiary at the time of filing of their petition. As USCIS will accept more registrations than the prescribed statutory limit for H-1B petitions to account for petitioners who fail to file a petition in a timely manner as well as, withdrawals and denials during the adjudication process, there is a minimal chance that a petition filed based on a selected registration may be rejected if the cap has been exceeded at the time of filing. USCIS is statutorily obligated not to exceed the applicable numerical caps and to allocate visas in the order which petitions are received. Therefore, once actual petition filings commence on April 1st of the current fiscal year, USCIS will monitor receipts closely to ensure adherence to the numerical caps. Petitions filed with USCIS will be adjudicated in the order they are received.

Subject: RE: H-1B Registration Rule Meeting 4/17/2009

Barbara -

I amended the regulation per the conversation with OCC and added the language back into the rule. OCC explained to OGC that as a practical matter all petitioners chosen will receive a cap number. OGC still wants language in the rule that indicating if the agency believes it will go over the numerical limitation all other petitions will be rejected. In the meeting last Friday there was no mention of SCOPS being held liable if the actual number of approved petitions goes over. The discussion touched on that fact that the count for various reasons will most likely not be precise.

Is this a questions, you like me to bring to OCC?

Thank you

Carol

Jim –

If I am not explaining this well, please correct me as you were also in the meeting.

Thank you

Carol

You amended it per the discussion, correct? As long as everyone knows we probably will approve these and there isn't restrictive language that makes us somehow liable if we go over by a few case, I am okay

Subject: H-1B Registration Rule Meeting 4/17/2009

All –

I attended the meeting with OCC, OPS and Julia Wilcox. OCC was fine with the major revisions outlined below with the exception of points 3 and 4. Julia emphasized that David Martin is behind the rule and operationally believes it will benefit the agency. Claudia explained that DHS will block the rule if it does not include language that explains 1) that USCIS will deny petitions if it believes it already has enough petitions to meet the cap even though petitioners were informed they had won the lottery and were able to file a petition and 2) USCIS is not statutorily allowed to exceed the cap.

In the meeting with OGC, OCC emphasized that because of the calculations that are done, as a practical matter all petitioners chosen will receive a cap number. OGC understood this but still wants language in the rule indicating if the agency believes it will go over the numerical limitation all other petitions will be rejected.

I have added in the language that was deleted and attached the document. If there are no objections, I will send the rule back to OCC for their continued review. Let me know.

Thank you

Carol

The following was changed in the H-1B Registration Rule

1. All references to "registrant" were removed. Companies are referred to as either "company" or "petitioner." The change was made to simplify the terms.

2. The lottery and wait list process was described. The steps are as follows:

Step 1: More than the 65,000 and 20,000 will be chosen to receive a cap number and allowed to file an H-1B petition
Step 2: A wait list will be created from a percentage of the remaining registrations.
Step 3: As petitions are needed to meet the caps petitioners will be informed they can file an H-1B petition.
Step 4: Petitioners whose registrations were not initially chosen in Step 1 or Step 2 will receive notification they will not be able to file a petition for the applicable fiscal year.

This change was made per SCOPS management and how SCOPS management prefers to run and manage the cap count.

3. Language regarding petitioners potentially not receiving cap numbers if more than the 65,000 and 20,000 are initially chosen to file H-1B petitions has been deleted.

This change was made because SCOPS management believes given past history this is not the case. Under the current system of receiving petitions and running a lottery when more than the actual cap number were initially chosen all those petition received a cap number. Selecting more than the cap number of petitions takes into account that not all selected petitions will be approved for various reasons. SCOPS believes the same reasoning will hold true with a registration system.

4. References to USCIS being statutorily required not to allocate more than 65,000 and 20,000 cap numbers have been deleted.

This change was made because SCOPS management does not believe this is mandated by statute.

5. Deleted references to the registration program requesting information regarding the job offer.

This change was made because the information requested focuses on the petitioner and beneficiary and not the job offered.

Subject: H-1B- TARP plan and PP clock

Barbara,

I spoke to Morgan and she kindly placed us on your calendar for a couple of H-1B related issues that were raised in the BC meeting this morning. Specifically, we need to provide final direction to the SCs as to when the PP clock will start (e-mail pasted below). We will need to communicate our final plan to the SCs on the 2:30 call.

We would also like to talk to you about the TARP plan. The DOL attestation includes a box for the employer to indicate compliance. OCC believes that if DOL is not verifying employer compliance, beyond the checked box, then it is our job to verify. It is my understanding that the "verification" compromise with OCC was to place the question on the Form rather than to have the adjudicators physically go through the file and identify the companies. While the Form was revised to include a question asking whether the petitioner has received funding, this information is not captured electronically. OCC was willing to identify the companies upfront via this question, not capture it, and then send any questions regarding TARP H-1B filings to DOL.

This meeting should not take too long as we just want to get direction on the PP plan and clarification on TARP expectations.

Thank you,
Paola

Denis,

If the contractor can start data entry on 4/7 (2nd shift), however, utilize 4/8 as the received date in CLAIMS, this would be a viable option. Otherwise, I would prefer to have both shifts complete data entry on 4/8 and have 2,500 cases ready for Adjudications on 4/9 (day 2).

I still think we should explore delaying the PP clock until 4/9, thus giving the contractor one day to sort, count and commence acceptability review. Is this something you or Claudia could pursue with counsel?

Sounds like another telecon tomorrow may be in order.

I did not give the contractor a definitive go ahead to do this but told them to be ready for it. They would have had 1,000 at each center ready for adjudicating Wednesday morning. But if it doesn't make sense to tackle that way we'll hold off.

Denis,

We were just informed by the contractor that you would like for them to start data entry of premium processing petitions on 2nd shift tomorrow (4/7). If so, would the PP clock start on 4/7 or would we go with our original plan of the PP clock commencing on 4/8 (see attached Word doc)? If getting a jump start on 4/7 means that we would start the clock for all premium petitions on 4/7, then we would not maximize our data entry efforts, while losing a full day on the premium clock. In my opinion, this would be a big mistake.

Lisa and I were talking this morning (prior to hearing from the contractor) and we were actually going to inquire and see if we could delay D-day until 4/9. This would allow for a full and accurate count of all petitions at the conclusion of the five day filing window. It would also allow the contractor to get a jump on the ~~Post-RNG~~ Acceptability Review procedures that still need to be completed. I believe we may need legal counsel's opinion as to whether we would be on firm legal grounds to delay the start of the PP clock until 4/9, but if so, then it would provide huge dividends to Adjudications as we try to manage 8-10 K premium processing petitions within the 15-day processing window.

Thanks,

Robert M. Perkins

Here are Jim's random number generated results; please have the contractor select these barcodes and receipt the acceptable filings. We also would like to know how many rejects you identify out of this 270 that are not receipted.

Also, please continue to hold all the Monday filings that are not selected. We have no need to reject these immediately. Next week we will make a final decision on them.

However all filings received Tuesday and thereafter should be rejected. December 21 is the final date for FY10 and has been posted online. Thanks and let me know your results when finished.

Steve,

We need you to research what happened with these 5 cases; did the contractor mistakenly enter Monday as the received date for work actually received last week, or did they in fact errorneously process a few that came in on Monday? Here are the receipt numbers.

If they misdated the received date, it is okay to continuing processing them (correcting the received date and recording it as a contractor error however). If they processed 5 from yesterday's mail, try to intercept the receipt notices if you can before they go out. Suspend them from further processing until we determine the best course of action.

Thanks,

All right, well this is not as bad as first indicated. The top one, received yesterday, has to be barcoded like all the others received yesterday. The bottom four are okay to go, with the corrections done in claims.

We have the CSC barcoding spreadsheet in, if the contractor finishes tonight, we need your spreadsheet early tomorrow morning to run the RNG. We want to send you the selected numbers tomorrow in time for all to be pulled and those not selected sent to reject processing.

Just on the phone with Shelly... Here's a recommended rewrite...

USCIS will accept petitions if properly filed by date final receipt date, not the petition was postmarked.

Sorry for being difficult with the wording... looking for simple and accurate since this group is very particular ☺

Hello Shev:

I'm concerned that "final receipt date" may create confusion --- is this date when the filing is in the hands of the adjudicators for review? Or is it the "final receipt date" after we have completed the front processing for fees, etc? Is there a difference between mailing and electronic filing? Why are we using the term "final receipt date"?

Today I can be reached at [redacted] Please give me a call.

Hi Luz,

"Final Reciept Date" is a regulatory term as used in 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(ii)(B), which discusses how petitions will be accepted. We have used this term in the past to be consistent with the regulations.

Here is the text of the regulation:

(B) When calculating the numerical limitations or the number of exemptions under section 214(g)(5)(C) of the Act for a given fiscal year, USCIS will make numbers available to petitions in the order in which the petitions are filed. USCIS will make projections of the number of petitions necessary to achieve the numerical limit of approvals, taking into account historical data related to approvals, denials, revocations, and other relevant factors. USCIS will monitor the number of petitions (including the number of beneficiaries requested when necessary) received and will notify the public of the date that US CIS has received the necessary number of petitions (the ``final receipt date''). The day the news is published will not control the final receipt date. When necessary to ensure the fair and orderly allocation of numbers in a particular classification subject to a numerical limitation or the exemption under section 214(g)(5)(C) of the Act, USCIS may randomly select from among the petitions received on the final receipt date the remaining number of petitions deemed necessary to generate the numerical limit of approvals. This random selection will be made via computer-generated selection as validated by the Office of Immigration Statistics. Petitions subject to a numerical limitation not randomly selected or that were received after the final receipt date will be rejected. Petitions filed on behalf of aliens otherwise eligible for the exemption under section 214(g)(5)(C) of the Act not randomly selected or that were received after the final receipt date will be rejected if the numerical limitation under 214(g)(1) of the Act has been reached for that fiscal year. Petitions indicating that they are exempt from the numerical limitation but that are determined by USCIS after the final receipt date to be subject to the numerical limit will be denied and filing fees will not be returned or refunded. If the final receipt date is any of the first five business days on which petitions subject to the applicable numerical limit may be received (i.e., if the numerical limit is reached on any one of the first five business days that filings can be made), USCIS will randomly apply all of the numbers among the petitions received on any of those five business days, conducting the random selection among the petitions subject to the exemption under section 214(g)(5)(C) of the Act first. (Revised 3/24/08; 73 FR 15389 ) (Revised 5/5/05; 70 FR 23775 ).

I am about to give you a call to discuss.

I would like to confirm with you that the information below ready for issuance in the USCIS Update:

Approximately 5,600 masters and approximately 13,500 regular.

Last year's figures were rounded. Do you want me to continue with rounding or use the actual figures below?

I count 4,293 Premiums – 22.35%

The master-nonmasters breakdown looks like 5,631 masters and 13,575 regular.

Our comparable five day total last year was just under 64,000.

I think it is prudent to focus on cap-eligible petitions. My interpretation of Kevin's suggestion is that denials are included in "filed". Denials are obviously not included in cap count.

How about this?

Since April 1st, approximately [INSERT NUMBER] H-1B petitions (temporary work visas for specialty occupations) have been filed with USCIS requesting FY 2010 employment to commence on or after October 1st. USCIS will continue to accept petitions until reaching the Congressionally-mandated 65,000 cap. In addition, over 20,000 petitions for prospective H-1B aliens with a master's or higher degree earned at a U.S. institution have been filed with USCIS. Although the Congressionally-mandated cap for these advanced degree petitions is set at 20,000, USCIS continues to accept more of these H-1B petitions since past experience has shown that not all petitions received are approvable (update from previous reports).

This weekly update to DHS coincides with cap webpage update.

Please advise.

Thanks.

My recommendation on language is: As of July xx, approximately xx,000 cap-eligible petitions have been filed since April 1 that have either been approved or are pending adjudication.

Subject: FW: Public Data

Jim,

This is an example of what DHS thinks it would like to have included in our weekly report:

VII. Additional items of importance not covered above

- Approximately 45,000 people have filed with USCIS for FY2010 H-1B petitions (temporary work visas for professionals) since 4/1. USCIS will continue to accept petitions until reaching the Congressional-mandated 65,000 cap. In addition, 20,000 aliens with advanced degrees have filed petitions with USCIS. Although the mandated cap for these advanced degree applications stands at 20,000, USCIS continues to accept more petitions since experience has shown that not all petitions received are valid (update from previous reports).

Can you structure information like this to be sent to us (and others, as you described your process) each Monday? Please let me know if this presentation, which may represent publicly available information, should be expanded or differently presented to more fully present USCIS H-1B activity to DHS. As discussed, I'll clear with or loop-in DOMO, etc. Thanks very much.

I'm working on the H-1B rule for CIS and (as the new kid on the block) was hoping to confirm some numbers. I saw your name on the comment list for the rule, so hoped you might be able to help me or point me in the right direction for the stats. Bill,

I cannot fill in or clear on this document until we have more information on Monday. For now, we are only predicting that we are likely to meet the cap by Monday. Also, it is still unclear whether a lottery will be made on the last day or not (depends on the volume of petitions received on the final day). This will affect the language used on the update.

If the cap is indeed reached on Monday, I will send you a final version of this update after noon on Monday.

– U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) announced today that it has received a sufficient number of petitions to reach the congressionally mandated cap for fiscal year 2010 (FY2010). USCIS is hereby notifying the public that [insert date] is the "final receipt date" for new H-1B specialty occupation petitions requesting an employment start date in FY2010. The "final receipt date" is the date on which USCIS determines that it has received enough cap-subject petitions to reach the limit of 65,000. Cases will be considered accepted on the date that USCIS physically receives the petition; not the date that the petition was postmarked. USCIS has also received more than 20,000 H-1B petitions filed on behalf of persons exempt from the cap under the "advanced degree" exemption.

USCIS will reject cap-subject petitions for new H-1B specialty occupation workers seeking an employment start date in FY2010 that arrive after [insert date].

I've thought about this some more and I believe that this would not work if we get a huge influx of petitions and need to run the lottery on the final receipt date. Some petitions received on the final receipt date would be rejected if we have to run the lottery.

Hello Shev:

I'm concerned that "final receipt date" may create confusion --- is this date when the filing is in the hands of the adjudicators for review? Or is it the "final receipt date" after we have completed the front processing for fees, etc? Is there a difference between mailing and electronic filing? Why are we using the term "final receipt date"?

Today I can be reached at 202-384-5867. Please give me a call.

Luz,

My only concern is that we are defining "final receipt date" with the word "receipt date." I believe that there may be some uncertainty by the public as to what USCIS defines as the receipt date, that is why we used the language "the date USCIS takes possession of the petition." How about the following language which was used in an earlier update this year:

The final receipt date will be based on the date USCIS physically receives the petition, not the date that the petition is postmarked

Hope that works,

Shev

All –

Denis and I thought a call would be helpful to discuss the proposed new processing timeline. This is the only agenda item for the calendar notice I just sent. If you would like to add any items to the agenda, please send me one consolidated email from your centers. Please forward as appropriate.

Thank you

Carol

Denis,

If the contractor can start data entry on 4/7 (2nd shift), however, utilize 4/8 as the received date in CLAIMS, this would be a viable option. Otherwise, I would prefer to have both shifts complete data entry on 4/8 and have 2,500 cases ready for Adjudications on 4/9 (day 2).

I still think we should explore delaying the PP clock until 4/9, thus giving the contractor one day to sort, count and commence acceptability review. Is this something you or Claudia could pursue with counsel?

Thanks,

Sounds like another telecon tomorrow may be in order.

I did not give the contractor a definitive go ahead to do this but told them to be ready for it. They would have had 1,000 at each center ready for adjudicating Wednesday morning. But if it doesn't make sense to tackle that way we'll hold off.

Denis,

We were just informed by the contractor that you would like for them to start data entry of premium processing petitions on 2nd shift tomorrow (4/7). If so, would the PP clock start on 4/7 or would we go with our original plan of the PP clock commencing on 4/8 (see attached Word doc)? If getting a jump start on 4/7 means that we would start the clock for all premium petitions on 4/7, then we would not maximize our data entry efforts, while losing a full day on the premium clock. In my opinion, this would be a big mistake.

Lisa and I were talking this morning (prior to hearing from the contractor) and we were actually going to inquire and see if we could delay D-day until 4/9. This would allow for a full and accurate count of all petitions at the conclusion of the five day filing window. It would also allow the contractor to get a jump on the Post-RNG Acceptability Review procedures that still need to be completed. I believe we may need legal counsel's opinion as to whether we would be on firm legal grounds to delay the start of the PP clock until 4/9, but if so, then it would provide huge dividends to Adjudications as we try to manage 8-10 K premium processing petitions within the 15-day processing window.

Thanks,

Looks like pretty much routine volume regular and express mail. FedEx says they have about 20,000 pieces for us but that will include other submissions as well.

If Vermont is similarly low and this continues, can we discuss keying early?

- 10/05/2009: Update on H-2B Petitions—USCIS is still accepting petitions for H-2B employment for the 1st half of FY 2010 and will continue to do so until meeting the semi-annual Congressionally-mandated cap of 33,000 is reached. 17,220 petitions have been approved thus far, with 9,013 still pending adjudication. Please note, a shortfall of H-2B workers allocated in the 1st half of the fiscal year will be added to the number of H-2B workers that may be allocated in the 2nd half of the fiscal year.

Thanks!

Shelly

10/5: Update on H-1B Petitions—USCIS is still accepting petitions requesting FY 2010 employment and will continue to do so until meeting the Congressionally-mandated cap of 65,000. Approximately 41,000 petitions have been approved thus far, with approximately 6,000 remaining pending. In addition, approximately 21,500 petitions for prospective H-1B aliens with a master's or higher degree earned at a U.S. institution have been approved thus far, with approximately 1,600 remaining pending. Although the Congressionally-mandated exemption for these advanced degree petitions is set at 20,000, USCIS accepts H-1B petitions beyond the amount allowed by the exemption because experience shows that not all petitions received are approvable, while others simply drop-out.

Kerry,

The below bullet is not quite accurate. The regular cap (65,000) is listed in the first row of the chart below. The second row is for the master's exemption. The first 20,000 H-1B petitions filed for beneficiaries who have a master's degree or higher are exempt from the regular annual cap of 65,000. Although the total for the second row is slightly greater than 20,000, we have not yet received sufficient petitions to close the master's exemption. Based upon historical trends, some petitions in the master's exemption category will be denied or revoked.

Kurt and/or Claudia, please feel free to jump in.

Thanks!

Jim – is your target still 85,550 combined petitions? If we ended last Friday at 82,800 that leaves us 2,750 under your target. Last week's count went up by 2,066 over the previous week.

The four weeks since December 24 we gained 7,023 in total. Unless there is an uptick this week we should be able to get through Friday. Then Mondays being our typically heavy volume day, we may get close to an additional 1,000 next Monday.

What do you think? Anyone?

We've reached the cap. We'll be doing a mini-lottery to determine the winners from the last day's filings and we'll coordinate with OCOMM/OPE on the communications piece.

Yes, rich just reported they got 420 so we have over 900 racked and stacked combined. They have gotten the go ahead to start the barcoding. We should have that done by early afternoon.

There was definitely a little surge this week probably caused by the last posting of the numbers last week showing we were almost at the limit.

H1B CAP update:

Jim Fitzsimmons advises that to be safe, beginning Wednesday January 26 we not data enter the incoming FY11 CAP petitions until the contractor has received and counted all of them, that number is sent here to HQ and he determines if we can accept all of them or not. Accordingly please do instruct the contractor to rack and stack these petitions on Wednesday and send me the numerical count once the final incoming mail for the day is received, including Fedex and UPS.

Second, you should have barcoded labels prepared in advance for the contractor to apply should Jim determine we have to accept a portion, but not all , of a day's petitions. In this instance he'll run a random number generated program based on the barcoded numbers you send back. The lottery winners will be selected by the RNG. Instruct the contractor to follow existing procedures for the "Last-day" barcoding was done in December 2009 as it will be the same this year should it be necessary.

Denis,

The projections in the table assume no surge this week. If that turns out to be true, then the final receipt date will be Friday.

Therefore, racking and stacking should begin on Wednesday in order to be safe.

Mark,

Each week, Keith Canney from VSC and Joe Fierro will send you an update (like the one I just forwarded to you) on where they are with processing FY11 cap cases. Please plop the numbers from those charts into the summary below and forward to Barbara, Greg, and me as you get them. This week is already done.

Barbara, Greg, and Frank,

Here is a synopsis of this week's reports from the CSC and the VSC:

CSC:

The CSC reported that they are at a 11/3 processing date for both regular and master's cap cases (it was 10/25 and 10/21, respectively, last week). Cap exempt is at 11/17 (it was 10/20 last week). The processing date for EOS has moved to 11/18 (the previous week it was at 11/1). As of January 10, there were 4,635 initial H-1B petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. Of that number 2,209 have had an RFE/NOID issued but ave not been worked to completion (either pending response or response not yet adjudicated). There were 4,751 EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal. Of that number, 1,230 have had an RFE/NOID issued already.

From 1/2 to 1/8, the CSC approved 2,084 non premium cases, denied 176 non premium cases, and issued an RFE on 259 non premium cases. CSC also approved 1,629 premium cases, denied 105 premium cases, and issued an RFE on 406 premium cases during the same time period. Total actions during that time period were 4,659.

VSC:

The VSC reported that they are at a 10/27 processing date for cap cases ( it was10/25 last week). The processing date for EOS is at 8/30 (they reported 8/18 last week). As of January 10, there were 1,694 untouched cap petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. There were 10,016 untouched EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal.

From 1/2 to 1/9, the VSC approved 1,362 non premium cases, denied 166 non premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 163 non premium cases. VSC also approved 1,655 premium cases, denied 114 premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 352 premium cases during the same time period. Total actions during that time period were 3,812.

Barbara,

You'll notice below that we have quite a chunk of notices sitting with clerical. We're focusing our clerical efforts tomorrow and on Monday (holiday work) on this workload. We'll also be taking a look at why this happened and how to prevent this from occurring, such as getting these cases to clerical sooner during the 60-day clock to give them the time they need to issue the notices.

Please let me know if you have additional questions or concerns.

Thanks!

Mark/Frank:

I have changed the report slightly in the hopes of making it clearer. If you have any suggestions to this, please let me know. The dates I provide from this date forward will indicate cases that are distributed to the officers on the floor. I would like to give some explanatory notes to help in the understanding of how this report works for our purposes and how CSC works this report to identify the status of cases in the work flow and determine where we are in processing.

PDA (our analysts) runs this initial report in CLAIMS3 (C3). There are many codes in C3 that define or identify a "pending" case for the purposes of the G-22 and this report. Many of these codes considered "pending" for the purposes of the G-22 and this report are in fact, when further or individually analyzed, closed. The CSC continually has to manually review the report to identify the cases that come up as "pending" that are not actually pending. The cases that are identified on this report as "pending" but are actually closed for some reason or other are eventually closed out and removed from the report. This will explain why some cases may come up as passed a reported time on this report.

Also, various other anomalies occur each week and may appear on the report as passed reported times. Some examples of anomalies include cases that have gone to BCU for IBIS resolution or CARRP review, CFDO for fraud, have been adjudicated but were never updated, have been misrouted, are placed on adjudicative hold for non security or fraud reasons, placed out of JIT order by the contractor, etc. Anomalies are continually being identified and are either closed out or adjudicated if possible, or continue to be held in abeyance if required by BCU or CFDO.

Many cases have been reviewed by the officer and supervisor prior to the reported time, but only need clerical updating. These cases usually get updated within 1-3 days. This is why I have added the "w/clerical" part of the report.

Please keep in mind that the majority of the cases "W/officer" and with supervisors are resubmits which means that they have already been RFEd.

Finally, there are a small number of cases that "fall through the cracks" and must be identified and picked up for adjudication. We identify these cases immediately and send e-mail messages to the officer, supervisor, or ACD to have these adjudicated immediately and keep them within reported times. Currently, we have 6 divisions adjudicating H-1Bs, so it takes some tracking and effort to ensure everyone gets those cases that fall through the cracks done.

In the past I have used the most accurate times possible, or a time that most reflects the reality of the vast majority of cases vs. using the proportionately small number of cases that are open, are anomalies, or simply fall through the cracks, as the reported date. The reported time included a review of the JIT shelves, both physically and on paper, a review of the reports provided by our analysts, and a physical review of what is on the floor.

To help avoid confusion in the future, I will now report the time that cases are being distributed to the floor as the reported time.

- Joe

All,

About 1,000 cap numbers remain (84,300 minus 83,300). My best estimate of final receipt date is Monday, December 21st. My recommendation is to accept all receipts today and rack and stack on Monday.

The latest H-1B cap numbers for FY 2010 as of December 17th are below:

Shelly,

Here are today's figures.

Here is today's initial receipts summary that you asked for:

| | Older than 60 days: |
|---|---|
| F1 COS to H1B | 799 |
| With Officer | 578 |
| With Contractor* | 165 |
| ADJ Staged | 31 |
| Other | 25 |

|---|---|
| All Cap > 60 | 3141 |
| With Officer | 2199 |
| With Contractor* | 646 |
| ADJ Staged | 184 |
| Other | 112 |

- The "with contractor" includes some cases that were approved or rfed yesterday after the oracle tables were updated.
- For the F-1s in the first section all of the 165 appear to be approvals or RFEs where CLAIMS has not caught up with the location.

USCIS Updates Count of FY2010 H-1B Petition Filings

Regular Updates Posted on USCIS Web site

WASHINGTON—U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) today announced an updated number of filings for H-1B petitions for the fiscal year 2010 program.

USCIS has received approximately 45,000 H-1B petitions counting toward the Congressionally-mandated 65,000 cap. The agency continues to accept petitions subject to the general cap.

Additionally, the agency has received approximately 20,000 petitions for aliens with advanced degrees; however, we continue to accept advanced degree petitions since experience has shown that not all petitions received are approvable. Congress mandated that the first 20,000 of these types of petitions are exempt from any fiscal year cap on available H-1B visas.

For cases filed for premium processing during the initial five-day filing window, the 15-day premium processing period began April 7. For cases filed for premium processing after the filing window, the premium processing period begins on the date USCIS takes physical possession of the petition.

USCIS will provide regular updates on the processing of FY2010 H-1B petitions. The updates can be found on the USCIS' Web site at www.uscis.gov/h-1b_count.

USCIS Update

USCIS Reaches FY 2010 H-1B Cap

WASHINGTON—U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) announced today that it has received a sufficient number of H-1B petitions to reach the statutory cap for fiscal year (FY) 2010. USCIS is hereby notifying the public that Dec. 21, 2009 is the "final receipt date" for new H-1B specialty occupation petitions requesting an employment start date in FY 2010.

The "final receipt date" is the date on which USCIS determines that it has received enough cap-subject petitions to reach the limit of 65,000. USCIS has also received more than 20,000 H-1B petitions filed on behalf of persons exempt from the cap under the "advanced degree" exemption. Properly filed cases will be considered received on the date that USCIS physically receives the petition; not the date that the petition was postmarked. USCIS will reject cap-subject petitions for new H-1B specialty occupation workers seeking an employment start date in FY 2010 that arrive after Dec. 21, 2009.

USCIS will apply a computer-generated random selection process to all petitions that are subject to the cap and were received on Dec. 21, 2009. USCIS will use this process to select petitions needed to meet the cap. USCIS will reject, and return the fee, for all cap-subject petitions not randomly selected.

Petitions filed on behalf of current H-1B workers who have been counted previously against the cap will not be counted towards the congressionally mandated FY 2010 H-1B cap. Therefore, USCIS will continue to process petitions filed to:

- Extend the amount of time a current H-1B worker may remain in the United States.
- Change the terms of employment for current H-1B workers.
- Allow current H-1B workers to change employers.
- Allow current H-1B workers to work concurrently in a second H-1B position.

H-1B in General: U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

Thanks, Walter. We do want the excel spreadsheet used as the primary reporting method though. This is the template we thought we had approved for use.

Let's shoot for having final data for Thursday and Friday in by cob today, including the breakdowns by regular/masters and premium/nonpremium. I also just got a msg from Vermont saying there was unopened mail from Friday not yet determined if it was CAP or not so, I'm okay with waiting a little longer to get firmed up numbers.

From what I have gotten this morning it appears

18,290 total of which 3,998 were premium. Depending on slight changes to this it looks like after we start data entry April 7th, we should be completely done with premium at both centers by cob Thursday and with all the cases by late next week.

Matt,

On the chart for the webpage, I'm not sure about the following:

Cap Amounts

The information is correct, but it just doesn't seem to work under the title "cap amounts" as it only deals with the 65,000 regular cap not the Master's exemption. Is there any way that we could footnote the data (like we had before)?

Additionally, as I stated on the phone the other day, while I like the chart and the information in it, I think that it should be left off the page until the cap actually opens and we have information to provide within it. I agree that now is the time to get all of the offices to clear on it, but that we hold off on putting it up blank. We can then post it right away when we have numbers once the cap opens.

I will be out of the office on Monday. Please copy Bobbie and Shannon on any email traffic if OCC clears on Monday.

Thanks!

Shelly

All,

For your review are the attached USCIS Update and Webpage for the 2011 H-1B cap season. The webpage has replaced the previously drafted Q&A and will serve as a central location on USCIS.gov for all information regarding the 2011 Cap filing season.

The target date for releasing this was March 1, I realize this is a short turnaround and ask that comments and/or edits be returned to me by COB Monday, March 1, in order to get this posted early next week, allowing enough time for information to get out prior to the filing season opening on April 1.

Thank you in advance.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 364,6900 | | 98/327/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 13,4000 | | 98/327/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Department of Defense (DOD) Cooperative Research Project Workers Count

Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of June 15, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 5.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)

U.S. Master's (20,000 exemption for beneficiaries with U.S. master's or higher degrees)

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, and/or ACWIA fee) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission

Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service)

Form G-28 (if represented by an attorney or accredited representative)

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement

All supporting documentation to establish eligibility

Provide a Table of Contents for supporting documentation

Tab items as listed in Table of Contents

Arrival-Departure Record (Form I-94) if the beneficiary is in the U.S.

SEVIS Form I-20 if the beneficiary is a current or former F-1 student or F-2 dependent

SEVIS Form DS-2019 if the beneficiary is a current or former J-1 or J-2

Form I-566 if the beneficiary is a current A or G nonimmigrant

DOL certified LCA, Form ETA 9035

Employer/attorney/representative letter(s)

Other supporting documentation.

Duplicate copy of the petition, if necessary. Clearly identify the duplicate copy of the petition as "COPY", so that it is not mistaken for a duplicate filing.

How to mail multiple petitions together

If multiple petitions will be included in the same courier service or Post Office package, please place individual petitions into separate envelopes within the package. Individual petition envelopes should be marked with the following labels to reference the type of petition

Master's Premium

Master's

Regular Premium

Regular

Chile/Singapore

Filing Tips: Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative

Use if the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative

Complete all sections of the form accurately

Include the printed name and signature of the representative, preferably in blue ink

Include the original signature of the petitioner, preferably in blue ink

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accurate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation should be included with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, you may provide a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will now only accept the 8/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 3329,9700 | | 8/2013/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 12,6300 | | 8/2013/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Department of Defense (DOD) Cooperative Research Project Workers Count

Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of June 15, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 5.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will now only accept the 8/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

ThanX Mark … if you don't mind, would you go through the Web update document and insert the dates necessary (Jan. 27, right??). I just want to ensure that I don't insert the wrong date in the wrong place…also, don't want to miss one.

I've attached the clean version of the USCIS Update, for your info.

Bill,

Here are the two documents we discussed. As mentioned in our discussion I left the track changes in both documents which will have to be removed before posting. Let me know if anything else is needed or I may have missed. Also as we discussed there will be a mini-lottery so that part can stay in.

Thanks,
Mark

Yes, rich just reported they got 420 so we have over 900 racked and stacked combined. They have gotten the go ahead to start the barcoding. We should have that done by early afternoon.

There was definitely a little surge this week probably caused by the last posting of the numbers last week showing we were almost at the limit.

H1B CAP update:

Jim Fitzsimmons advises that to be safe, beginning Wednesday January 26 we not data enter the incoming FY11 CAP petitions until the contractor has received and counted all of them, that number is sent here to HQ and he determines if we can accept all of them or not. Accordingly please do instruct the contractor to rack and stack these petitions on Wednesday and send me the numerical count once the final incoming mail for the day is received, including Fedex and UPS.

Second, you should have barcoded labels prepared in advance for the contractor to apply should Jim determine we have to accept a portion, but not all , of a day's petitions. In this instance he'll run a random number generated program based on the barcoded numbers you send back. The lottery winners will be selected by the RNG. Instruct the contractor to follow existing procedures for the "Last-day" barcoding was done in December 2009 as it will be the same this year should it be necessary.

Denis,

The projections in the table assume no surge this week. If that turns out to be true, then the final receipt date will be Friday.

Therefore, racking and stacking should begin on Wednesday in order to be safe.

Jim – is your target still 85,550 combined petitions? If we ended last Friday at 82,800 that leaves us 2,750 under your target. Last week's count went up by 2,066 over the previous week.

The four weeks since December 24 we gained 7,023 in total. Unless there is an uptick this week we should be able to get through Friday. Then Mondays being our typically heavy volume day, we may get close to an additional 1,000 next Monday.

What do you think? Anyone?

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 17 through 19) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 575,3800 | | 12/3124/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied. While USCIS has now received over 20,000 petitions filed on behalf of individuals who have earned a Master's degree or higher from a U.S. institution of higher education, USCIS continues to accept these petitions and they will be counted against the regular cap until the regular cap is reached.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Department of Defense (DOD) Cooperative Research Project Workers Count

Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of December 24, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 8.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 11 and 12 of Form I-129) and the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 17 through 19).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Exemption Supplement (pages 17 through 19 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$325

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Additional Fee Required Under Public Law 111-230

$2,000 to be submitted with each H-1B petition filed

to initially grant an alien H-1B nonimmigrant status or

to obtain authorization for an alien having such status to change employers

if the petitioner has 50 or more employees in the U.S. and more than 50% of petitioner's employees in the U.S. are in H-1B, L-1A or L-1B nonimmigrant status (Public Law 111-230 does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions).

The additional fee does not apply to extension requests filed by the same petitioner for the same individual.

Premium Processing fee

$1,225 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature. A separate check for the fee mandated under Public Law 111-230 is requested.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,225 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)

U.S. Master's (20,000 exemption for beneficiaries with U.S. master's or higher degrees)

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, and/or ACWIA fee) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission

Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service)

Form G-28 (if represented by an attorney or accredited representative)

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement

All supporting documentation to establish eligibility

Provide a Table of Contents for supporting documentation

Tab items as listed in Table of Contents

Arrival-Departure Record (Form I-94) if the beneficiary is in the U.S.

SEVIS Form I-20 if the beneficiary is a current or former F-1 student or F-2 dependent

SEVIS Form DS-2019 if the beneficiary is a current or former J-1 or J-2

Form I-566 if the beneficiary is a current A or G nonimmigrant

DOL certified LCA, Form ETA 9035

Employer/attorney/representative letter(s)

Other supporting documentation.

Duplicate copy of the petition, if necessary. Clearly identify the duplicate copy of the petition as "COPY", so that it is not mistaken for a duplicate filing.

How to mail multiple petitions together

If multiple petitions will be included in the same courier service or Post Office package, please place individual petitions into separate envelopes within the package. Individual petition envelopes should be marked with the following labels to reference the type of petition

Master's Premium

Master's

Regular Premium

Regular

Chile/Singapore

Filing Tips: Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative

Use if the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative

Complete all sections of the form accurately

Include the printed name and signature of the representative, preferably in blue ink

Include the original signature of the petitioner, preferably in blue ink

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accurate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 11 and 12 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 17 through 19 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part C if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will only accept Form I-907 with a revision date of 8/10/09 or later.

The representative may sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 20,800~~19,600~~ | | 5/2~~2~~18/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 8,700~~8,200~~ | | 5/28~~2~~1/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We will begin accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Petitions seeking an FY 2011 H-1B cap number with an Oct. 1, 2010 start date can be filed no sooner than April 1, 2010.

Usually the majority of H-1B cap-subject petitions are filed at that time in order to obtain a new visa number for FY 2011.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010 or submit a cap-subject petition prior to April 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Note: We will accept the 08/28/06, 04/02/07, 07/30/07, and the 8/10/09 editions of Form I-907 through April 30, 2010. We will only accept the 08/10/09 edition of Form I-907 after April 30, 2010.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)

U.S. Master's (20,000 exemption for beneficiaries with U.S. master's or higher degrees)

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, and/or ACWIA fee) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission

Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service)

Form G-28 (if represented by an attorney or accredited representative)

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement

All supporting documentation to establish eligibility

Provide a Table of Contents for supporting documentation

Tab items as listed in Table of Contents

Arrival-Departure Record (Form I-94) if the beneficiary is in the U.S.

SEVIS Form I-20 if the beneficiary is a current or former F-1 student or F-2 dependent

SEVIS Form DS-2019 if the beneficiary is a current or former J-1 or J-2

Form I-566 if the beneficiary is a current A or G nonimmigrant

DOL certified LCA, Form ETA 9035

Employer/attorney/representative letter(s)

Other supporting documentation.

Duplicate copy of the petition, if necessary. Clearly identify the duplicate copy of the petition as "COPY", so that it is not mistaken for a duplicate filing.

How to mail multiple petitions together

If multiple petitions will be included in the same courier service or Post Office package, please place individual petitions into separate envelopes within the package. Individual petition envelopes should be marked with the following labels to reference the type of petition

Master's Premium

Master's

Regular Premium

Regular

Chile/Singapore

Filing Tips: Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative

Use if the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative

Complete all sections of the form accurately

Include the printed name and signature of the representative, preferably in blue ink

Include the original signature of the petitioner, preferably in blue ink

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accuracate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation should be included with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, you may provide a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will accept the 08/28/06, 04/02/07, 07/30/07, and the 8/10/09 editions of

Form I-907 through April 30, 2010. After April 30, 2010, we will only accept the 08/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010 or submit a cap-subject petition prior to April 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

> Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Note: We will accept the 08/28/06, 04/02/07, 07/30/07, and the 8/10/09 editions of Form I-907 through April 30, 2010. We will only accept the 08/10/09 edition of Form I-907 after April 30, 2010.

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accuracate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation should be included with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, you may provide a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will accept the 08/28/06, 04/02/07, 07/30/07, and the 8/10/09 editions of Form I-907 through April 30, 2010. After April 30, 2010, we will only accept the 08/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 265,0300 | | 7/2316/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 11,3e00 | | 7/2316/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Department of Defense (DOD) Cooperative Research Project Workers Count

Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of June 15, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 5.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)

U.S. Master's (20,000 exemption for beneficiaries with U.S. master's or higher degrees)

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, and/or ACWIA fee) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission

Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service)

Form G-28 (if represented by an attorney or accredited representative)

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement

All supporting documentation to establish eligibility

Provide a Table of Contents for supporting documentation

Tab items as listed in Table of Contents

Arrival-Departure Record (Form I-94) if the beneficiary is in the U.S.

SEVIS Form I-20 if the beneficiary is a current or former F-1 student or F-2 dependent

SEVIS Form DS-2019 if the beneficiary is a current or former J-1 or J-2

Form I-566 if the beneficiary is a current A or G nonimmigrant

DOL certified LCA, Form ETA 9035

Employer/attorney/representative letter(s)

Other supporting documentation.

Duplicate copy of the petition, if necessary. Clearly identify the duplicate copy of the petition as "COPY", so that it is not mistaken for a duplicate filing.

How to mail multiple petitions together

If multiple petitions will be included in the same courier service or Post Office package, please place individual petitions into separate envelopes within the package. Individual petition envelopes should be marked with the following labels to reference the type of petition

Master's Premium

Master's

Regular Premium

Regular

Chile/Singapore

Filing Tips: Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative

Use if the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative

Complete all sections of the form accurately

Include the printed name and signature of the representative, preferably in blue ink

Include the original signature of the petitioner, preferably in blue ink

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accurate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation should be included with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, you may provide a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will now only accept the 8/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 254,3800 | | 7/169/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 110,0600 | | 7/169/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of June 15, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 5.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accurate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation should be included with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, you may provide a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will now only accept the 8/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 243,2500 | | 76/25/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 10,4000 | | 76/25/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Department of Defense (DOD) Cooperative Research Project Workers Count

Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of June 15, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 5.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)

U.S. Master's (20,000 exemption for beneficiaries with U.S. master's or higher degrees)

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, and/or ACWIA fee) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission

Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service)

Form G-28 (if represented by an attorney or accredited representative)

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement

All supporting documentation to establish eligibility

Provide a Table of Contents for supporting documentation

Tab items as listed in Table of Contents

Arrival-Departure Record (Form I-94) if the beneficiary is in the U.S.

SEVIS Form I-20 if the beneficiary is a current or former F-1 student or F-2 dependent

SEVIS Form DS-2019 if the beneficiary is a current or former J-1 or J-2

Form I-566 if the beneficiary is a current A or G nonimmigrant

DOL certified LCA, Form ETA 9035

Employer/attorney/representative letter(s)

Other supporting documentation.

Duplicate copy of the petition, if necessary. Clearly identify the duplicate copy of the petition as "COPY", so that it is not mistaken for a duplicate filing.

How to mail multiple petitions together

If multiple petitions will be included in the same courier service or Post Office package, please place individual petitions into separate envelopes within the package. Individual petition envelopes should be marked with the following labels to reference the type of petition

Master's Premium

Master's

Regular Premium

Regular

Chile/Singapore

Filing Tips: Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative

Use if the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative

Complete all sections of the form accurately

Include the printed name and signature of the representative, preferably in blue ink

Include the original signature of the petitioner, preferably in blue ink

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accurate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation should be included with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, you may provide a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will now only accept the 8/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 232,5900 | | 6/2518/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 109,0700 | | 6/2518/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of June 15, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 5.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accurate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation should be included with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, you may provide a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will now only accept the 8/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 19,600~~000~~ | | 5/21~~14~~/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 8,2~~4~~00 | | 5/21~~14~~/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We will begin accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Petitions seeking an FY 2011 H-1B cap number with an Oct. 1, 2010 start date can be filed no sooner than April 1, 2010.

Usually the majority of H-1B cap-subject petitions are filed at that time in order to obtain a new visa number for FY 2011.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010 or submit a cap-subject petition prior to April 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Note: We will accept the 08/28/06, 04/02/07, 07/30/07, and the 8/10/09 editions of Form I-907 through April 30, 2010. We will only accept the 08/10/09 edition of Form I-907 after April 30, 2010.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)

U.S. Master's (20,000 exemption for beneficiaries with U.S. master's or higher degrees)

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, and/or ACWIA fee) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission

Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service)

Form G-28 (if represented by an attorney or accredited representative)

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Filing Tips: Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative

Use if the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative

Complete all sections of the form accurately

Include the printed name and signature of the representative, preferably in blue ink

Include the original signature of the petitioner, preferably in blue ink

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accuracate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation should be included with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, you may provide a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will accept the 08/28/06, 04/02/07, 07/30/07, and the 8/10/09 editions of

Form I-907 through April 30, 2010. After April 30, 2010, we will only accept the 08/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 16,502500 | | 4/272/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 6,900739 | | 4/272/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We will begin accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Petitions seeking an FY 2011 H-1B cap number with an Oct. 1, 2010 start date can be filed no sooner than April 1, 2010.

Usually the majority of H-1B cap-subject petitions are filed at that time in order to obtain a new visa number for FY 2011.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010 or submit a cap-subject petition prior to April 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Note: We will accept the 08/28/06, 04/02/07, 07/30/07, and the 8/10/09 editions of Form I-907 through April 30, 2010. We will only accept the 08/10/09 edition of Form I-907 after April 30, 2010.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)

U.S. Master's (20,000 exemption for beneficiaries with U.S. master's or higher degrees)

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, and/or ACWIA fee) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission

Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service)

Form G-28 (if represented by an attorney or accredited representative)

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement

All supporting documentation to establish eligibility

Provide a Table of Contents for supporting documentation

Tab items as listed in Table of Contents

Arrival-Departure Record (Form I-94) if the beneficiary is in the U.S.

SEVIS Form I-20 if the beneficiary is a current or former F-1 student or F-2 dependent

SEVIS Form DS-2019 if the beneficiary is a current or former J-1 or J-2

Form I-566 if the beneficiary is a current A or G nonimmigrant

DOL certified LCA, Form ETA 9035

Employer/attorney/representative letter(s)

Other supporting documentation.

Duplicate copy of the petition, if necessary. Clearly identify the duplicate copy of the petition as "COPY", so that it is not mistaken for a duplicate filing.

How to mail multiple petitions together

If multiple petitions will be included in the same courier service or Post Office package, please place individual petitions into separate envelopes within the package. Individual petition envelopes should be marked with the following labels to reference the type of petition

Master's Premium

Master's

Regular Premium

Regular

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will accept the 08/28/06, 04/02/07, 07/30/07, and the 8/10/09 editions of

Form I-907 through April 30, 2010. After April 30, 2010, we will only accept the 08/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

Filing Tips: Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative

Use if the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative

Complete all sections of the form accurately

Include the printed name and signature of the representative, preferably in blue ink

Include the original signature of the petitioner, preferably in blue ink

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accuracate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation should be included with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, you may provide a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will accept the 08/28/06, 04/02/07, 07/30/07, and the 8/10/09 editions of

Form I-907 through April 30, 2010. After April 30, 2010, we will only accept the 08/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 13,600~~500~~ | | 4/1~~5~~8/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 5,~~600~~800 | | 4/1~~5~~8/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We will begin accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Petitions seeking an FY 2011 H-1B cap number with an Oct. 1, 2010 start date can be filed no sooner than April 1, 2010.

Usually the majority of H-1B cap-subject petitions are filed at that time in order to obtain a new visa number for FY 2011.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010 or submit a cap-subject petition prior to April 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Note: We will accept the 08/28/06, 04/02/07, 07/30/07, and the 8/10/09 editions of Form I-907 through April 30, 2010. We will only accept the 08/10/09 edition of Form I-907 after April 30, 2010.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)

U.S. Master's (20,000 exemption for beneficiaries with U.S. master's or higher degrees)

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, and/or ACWIA fee) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 4039,600 | | 109/124/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 14,9400 | | 109/124/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Department of Defense (DOD) Cooperative Research Project Workers Count

Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of June 15, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 5.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Duplicate copy of the petition, if necessary. Clearly identify the duplicate copy of the petition as "COPY", so that it is not mistaken for a duplicate filing.

How to mail multiple petitions together

If multiple petitions will be included in the same courier service or Post Office package, please place individual petitions into separate envelopes within the package. Individual petition envelopes should be marked with the following labels to reference the type of petition

Master's Premium

Master's

Regular Premium

Regular

Chile/Singapore

Filing Tips: Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative

Use if the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative

Complete all sections of the form accurately

Include the printed name and signature of the representative, preferably in blue ink

Include the original signature of the petitioner, preferably in blue ink

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accurate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation should be included with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, you may provide a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will now only accept the 8/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 17 through 19) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 6058,700 | | 1/147/2011 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 20,000 | | 1/147/2011 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied. While USCIS has now received over 20,000 petitions filed on behalf of individuals who have earned a Master's degree or higher from a U.S. institution of higher education, USCIS continues to accept these petitions and they will be counted against the regular cap until the regular cap is reached.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Department of Defense (DOD) Cooperative Research Project Workers Count

Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of December 24, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 8.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 11 and 12 of Form I-129) and the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 17 through 19).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Exemption Supplement (pages 17 through 19 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$325

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Additional Fee Required Under Public Law 111-230

$2,000 to be submitted with each H-1B petition filed

to initially grant an alien H-1B nonimmigrant status or

to obtain authorization for an alien having such status to change employers

if the petitioner has 50 or more employees in the U.S. and more than 50% of petitioner's employees in the U.S. are in H-1B, L-1A or L-1B nonimmigrant status (Public Law 111-230 does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions).

The additional fee does not apply to extension requests filed by the same petitioner for the same individual.

Premium Processing fee

$1,225 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature. A separate check for the fee mandated under Public Law 111-230 is requested.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,225 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)

U.S. Master's (20,000 exemption for beneficiaries with U.S. master's or higher degrees)

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, and/or ACWIA fee) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission

Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part C if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will only accept Form I-907 with a revision date of 8/10/09 or later.

The representative may sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

Filing Tips: Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative

Use if the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative

Complete all sections of the form accurately

Include the printed name and signature of the representative, preferably in blue ink

Include the original signature of the petitioner, preferably in blue ink

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accurate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 11 and 12 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 17 through 19 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part C if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will only accept Form I-907 with a revision date of 8/10/09 or later.

The representative may sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 276,3000 | | 7/3023/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 11,6300 | | 7/2330/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Department of Defense (DOD) Cooperative Research Project Workers Count

Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of June 15, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 5.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)

U.S. Master's (20,000 exemption for beneficiaries with U.S. master's or higher degrees)

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, and/or ACWIA fee) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission

Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service)

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will now only accept the 8/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-12

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 298,7500 | | 8/1306/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 124,3900 | | 8/1306/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of June 15, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 5.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

Duplicate copy of the petition, if necessary. Clearly identify the duplicate copy of the petition as "COPY", so that it is not mistaken for a duplicate filing.

How to mail multiple petitions together

If multiple petitions will be included in the same courier service or Post Office package, please place individual petitions into separate envelopes within the package. Individual petition envelopes should be marked with the following labels to reference the type of petition

Master's Premium

Master's

Regular Premium

Regular

Chile/Singapore

Filing Tips: Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative

Use if the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative

Complete all sections of the form accurately

Include the printed name and signature of the representative, preferably in blue ink

Include the original signature of the petitioner, preferably in blue ink

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accurate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation should be included with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, you may provide a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will now only accept the 8/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 287,5300 | | 87/0630/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 11,9600 | | 87/0630/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Department of Defense (DOD) Cooperative Research Project Workers Count

Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of June 15, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 5.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)

U.S. Master's (20,000 exemption for beneficiaries with U.S. master's or higher degrees)

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, and/or ACWIA fee) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission

Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service)

Form G-28 (if represented by an attorney or accredited representative)

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement

All supporting documentation to establish eligibility

Provide a Table of Contents for supporting documentation

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will now only accept the 8/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 186,0500 | | 54/627/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 76,6900 | | 54/627/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We will begin accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Petitions seeking an FY 2011 H-1B cap number with an Oct. 1, 2010 start date can be filed no sooner than April 1, 2010.

Usually the majority of H-1B cap-subject petitions are filed at that time in order to obtain a new visa number for FY 2011.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010 or submit a cap-subject petition prior to April 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Note: We will accept the 08/28/06, 04/02/07, 07/30/07, and the 8/10/09 editions of Form I-907 through April 30, 2010. We will only accept the 08/10/09 edition of Form I-907 after April 30, 2010.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Duplicate copy of the petition, if necessary. Clearly identify the duplicate copy of the petition as "COPY", so that it is not mistaken for a duplicate filing.

How to mail multiple petitions together

If multiple petitions will be included in the same courier service or Post Office package, please place individual petitions into separate envelopes within the package. Individual petition envelopes should be marked with the following labels to reference the type of petition

Master's Premium

Master's

Regular Premium

Regular

Chile/Singapore

Filing Tips: Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative

Use if the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative

Complete all sections of the form accurately

Include the printed name and signature of the representative, preferably in blue ink

Include the original signature of the petitioner, preferably in blue ink

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accuracate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation should be included with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, you may provide a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will accept the 08/28/06, 04/02/07, 07/30/07, and the 8/10/09 editions of

Form I-907 through April 30, 2010. After April 30, 2010, we will only accept the 08/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 298,7500 | | 8/1306/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 124,3900 | | 8/1306/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Department of Defense (DOD) Cooperative Research Project Workers Count

Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of June 15, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 5.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)

U.S. Master's (20,000 exemption for beneficiaries with U.S. master's or higher degrees)

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, and/or ACWIA fee) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission

Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service)

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will now only accept the 8/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of June 15, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 5.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

Duplicate copy of the petition, if necessary. Clearly identify the duplicate copy of the petition as "COPY", so that it is not mistaken for a duplicate filing.

How to mail multiple petitions together

If multiple petitions will be included in the same courier service or Post Office package, please place individual petitions into separate envelopes within the package. Individual petition envelopes should be marked with the following labels to reference the type of petition

Master's Premium

Master's

Regular Premium

Regular

Chile/Singapore

Filing Tips: Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative

Use if the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative

Complete all sections of the form accurately

Include the printed name and signature of the representative, preferably in blue ink

Include the original signature of the petitioner, preferably in blue ink

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accurate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation should be included with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, you may provide a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will now only accept the 8/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 387,3400 | | 9/170/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 143,0700 | | 9/170/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Department of Defense (DOD) Cooperative Research Project Workers Count

Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of June 15, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 5.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)

U.S. Master's (20,000 exemption for beneficiaries with U.S. master's or higher degrees)

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, and/or ACWIA fee) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission

Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service)

Form G-28 (if represented by an attorney or accredited representative)

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will now only accept the 8/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of June 15, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 5.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Complete all sections of the form accurately

Include the printed name and signature of the representative, preferably in blue ink

Include the original signature of the petitioner, preferably in blue ink

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accurate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation should be included with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, you may provide a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will now only accept the 8/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 51,20050,400 | | 121/326/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 18,7400 | | 121/326/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Department of Defense (DOD) Cooperative Research Project Workers Count

Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of October 13, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 8.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Exemption Supplement (page 13 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$325

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Additional Fee Required Under Public Law 111-230

$2,000 to be submitted with each H-1B petition filed

to initially grant an alien H-1B nonimmigrant status or

to obtain authorization for an alien having such status to change employers

if the petitioner has 50 or more employees in the U.S. and more than 50% of petitioner's employees in the U.S. are in H-1B, L-1A or L-1B nonimmigrant status (Public Law 111-230 does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions).

The additional fee does not apply to extension requests filed by the same petitioner for the same individual.

Premium Processing fee

$1,225 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature. A separate check for the fee mandated under Public Law 111-230 is requested.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)

U.S. Master's (20,000 exemption for beneficiaries with U.S. master's or higher degrees)

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, and/or ACWIA fee) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission

Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service)

Form G-28 (if represented by an attorney or accredited representative)

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement

All supporting documentation to establish eligibility

Provide a Table of Contents for supporting documentation

Tab items as listed in Table of Contents

Arrival-Departure Record (Form I-94) if the beneficiary is in the U.S.

SEVIS Form I-20 if the beneficiary is a current or former F-1 student or F-2 dependent

SEVIS Form DS-2019 if the beneficiary is a current or former J-1 or J-2

Form I-566 if the beneficiary is a current A or G nonimmigrant

DOL certified LCA, Form ETA 9035

Employer/attorney/representative letter(s)

Other supporting documentation.

Duplicate copy of the petition, if necessary. Clearly identify the duplicate copy of the petition as "COPY", so that it is not mistaken for a duplicate filing.

How to mail multiple petitions together

If multiple petitions will be included in the same courier service or Post Office package, please place individual petitions into separate envelopes within the package. Individual petition envelopes should be marked with the following labels to reference the type of petition

Master's Premium

Master's

Regular Premium

Regular

Chile/Singapore

Filing Tips: Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative

Use if the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative

Complete all sections of the form accurately

Include the printed name and signature of the representative, preferably in blue ink

Include the original signature of the petitioner, preferably in blue ink

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accurate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will now only accept the 8/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of October 13, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 8.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Exemption Supplement (page 13 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Additional Fee Required Under Public Law 111-230

$2,000 to be submitted with each H-1B petition filed

to initially grant an alien H-1B nonimmigrant status or

to obtain authorization for an alien having such status to change employers

if the petitioner has 50 or more employees in the U.S. and more than 50% of petitioner's employees in the U.S. are in H-1B, L-1A or L-1B nonimmigrant status (Public Law 111-230 does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions).

The additional fee does not apply to extension requests filed by the same petitioner for the same individual.

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature. A separate check for the fee mandated under Public Law 111-230 is requested.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

How to mail multiple petitions together

If multiple petitions will be included in the same courier service or Post Office package, please place individual petitions into separate envelopes within the package. Individual petition envelopes should be marked with the following labels to reference the type of petition

Master's Premium

Master's

Regular Premium

Regular

Chile/Singapore

Filing Tips: Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative

Use if the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative

Complete all sections of the form accurately

Include the printed name and signature of the representative, preferably in blue ink

Include the original signature of the petitioner, preferably in blue ink

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accurate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will now only accept the 8/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 476,800 | | 11/125/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 17,4200 | | 11/125/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Department of Defense (DOD) Cooperative Research Project Workers Count

Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of October 13, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 8.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Exemption Supplement (page 13 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Additional Fee Required Under Public Law 111-230

$2,000 to be submitted with each H-1B petition filed

to initially grant an alien H-1B nonimmigrant status or

to obtain authorization for an alien having such status to change employers

if the petitioner has 50 or more employees in the U.S. and more than 50% of petitioner's employees in the U.S. are in H-1B, L-1A or L-1B nonimmigrant status (Public Law 111-230 does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions).

The additional fee does not apply to extension requests filed by the same petitioner for the same individual.

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature. A separate check for the fee mandated under Public Law 111-230 is requested.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)

U.S. Master's (20,000 exemption for beneficiaries with U.S. master's or higher degrees)

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, and/or ACWIA fee) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission

Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service)

Form G-28 (if represented by an attorney or accredited representative)

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Exemption Supplement (page 13 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Additional Fee Required Under Public Law 111-230

$2,000 to be submitted with each H-1B petition filed

to initially grant an alien H-1B nonimmigrant status or

to obtain authorization for an alien having such status to change employers

if the petitioner has 50 or more employees in the U.S. and more than 50% of petitioner's employees in the U.S. are in H-1B, L-1A or L-1B nonimmigrant status (Public Law 111-230 does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions).

The additional fee does not apply to extension requests filed by the same petitioner for the same individual.

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature. A separate check for the fee mandated under Public Law 111-230 is requested.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)

U.S. Master's (20,000 exemption for beneficiaries with U.S. master's or higher degrees)

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, and/or ACWIA fee) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission

Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service)

Form G-28 (if represented by an attorney or accredited representative)

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement

All supporting documentation to establish eligibility

Provide a Table of Contents for supporting documentation

Tab items as listed in Table of Contents

Arrival-Departure Record (Form I-94) if the beneficiary is in the U.S.

SEVIS Form I-20 if the beneficiary is a current or former F-1 student or F-2 dependent

SEVIS Form DS-2019 if the beneficiary is a current or former J-1 or J-2

Form I-566 if the beneficiary is a current A or G nonimmigrant

DOL certified LCA, Form ETA 9035

Employer/attorney/representative letter(s)

Other supporting documentation.

Duplicate copy of the petition, if necessary. Clearly identify the duplicate copy of the petition as "COPY", so that it is not mistaken for a duplicate filing.

How to mail multiple petitions together

If multiple petitions will be included in the same courier service or Post Office package, please place individual petitions into separate envelopes within the package. Individual petition envelopes should be marked with the following labels to reference the type of petition

Master's Premium

Master's

Regular Premium

Regular

Chile/Singapore

Filing Tips: Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative

Use if the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative

Complete all sections of the form accurately

Include the printed name and signature of the representative, preferably in blue ink

Include the original signature of the petitioner, preferably in blue ink

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accurate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will now only accept the 8/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 454,6300 | | 10/292/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 16,7200 | | 10/292/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Department of Defense (DOD) Cooperative Research Project Workers Count

Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of October 13, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 8.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Exemption Supplement (page 13 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Additional Fee Required Under Public Law 111-230

$2,000 to be submitted with each H-1B petition filed

to initially grant an alien H-1B nonimmigrant status or

to obtain authorization for an alien having such status to change employers

if the petitioner has 50 or more employees in the U.S. and more than 50% of petitioner's employees in the U.S. are in H-1B, L-1A or L-1B nonimmigrant status (Public Law 111-230 does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions).

The additional fee does not apply to extension requests filed by the same petitioner for the same individual.

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature. A separate check for the fee mandated under Public Law 111-230 is requested.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Exemption Supplement (page 13 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Additional Fee Required Under Public Law 111-230

$2,000 to be submitted with each H-1B petition filed

to initially grant an alien H-1B nonimmigrant status or

to obtain authorization for an alien having such status to change employers

if the petitioner has 50 or more employees in the U.S. and more than 50% of petitioner's employees in the U.S. are in H-1B, L-1A or L-1B nonimmigrant status (Public Law 111-230 does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions).

The additional fee does not apply to extension requests filed by the same petitioner for the same individual.

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature. A separate check for the fee mandated under Public Law 111-230 is requested.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)

U.S. Master's (20,000 exemption for beneficiaries with U.S. master's or higher degrees)

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, and/or ACWIA fee) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission

Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service)

Form G-28 (if represented by an attorney or accredited representative)

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement

All supporting documentation to establish eligibility

Provide a Table of Contents for supporting documentation

Tab items as listed in Table of Contents

Arrival-Departure Record (Form I-94) if the beneficiary is in the U.S.

SEVIS Form I-20 if the beneficiary is a current or former F-1 student or F-2 dependent

SEVIS Form DS-2019 if the beneficiary is a current or former J-1 or J-2

Form I-566 if the beneficiary is a current A or G nonimmigrant

DOL certified LCA, Form ETA 9035

Employer/attorney/representative letter(s)

Other supporting documentation.

Duplicate copy of the petition, if necessary. Clearly identify the duplicate copy of the petition as "COPY", so that it is not mistaken for a duplicate filing.

How to mail multiple petitions together

If multiple petitions will be included in the same courier service or Post Office package, please place individual petitions into separate envelopes within the package. Individual petition envelopes should be marked with the following labels to reference the type of petition

Master's Premium

Master's

Regular Premium

Regular

Chile/Singapore

Filing Tips: Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative

Use if the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative

Complete all sections of the form accurately

Include the printed name and signature of the representative, preferably in blue ink

Include the original signature of the petitioner, preferably in blue ink

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accurate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will now only accept the 8/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 421,8900 | | 10/158/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 15,7400 | | 10/158/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Department of Defense (DOD) Cooperative Research Project Workers Count

Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of October 13~~June 15~~, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is ~~8~~5.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Exemption Supplement (page 13 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Additional Fee Required Under Public Law 111-230

$2,000 to be submitted with each H-1B petition filed

to initially grant an alien H-1B nonimmigrant status or

to obtain authorization for an alien having such status to change employers

if the petitioner has 50 or more employees in the U.S. and more than 50% of petitioner's employees in the U.S. are in H-1B, L-1A or L-1B nonimmigrant status (Public Law 111-230 does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions).

The additional fee does not apply to extension requests filed by the same petitioner for the same individual.

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature. A separate check for the fee mandated under Public Law 111-230 is requested.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 17 through 19) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 62,8000,700 | | 1/2114/2011 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 20,000 | | 1/2114/2011 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied. While USCIS has now received over 20,000 petitions filed on behalf of individuals who have earned a Master's degree or higher from a U.S. institution of higher education, USCIS continues to accept these petitions and they will be counted against the regular cap until the regular cap is reached.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Department of Defense (DOD) Cooperative Research Project Workers Count

Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of December 24, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 8.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 11 and 12 of Form I-129) and the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 17 through 19).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Exemption Supplement (pages 17 through 19 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$325

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Additional Fee Required Under Public Law 111-230

$2,000 to be submitted with each H-1B petition filed

to initially grant an alien H-1B nonimmigrant status or

to obtain authorization for an alien having such status to change employers

if the petitioner has 50 or more employees in the U.S. and more than 50% of petitioner's employees in the U.S. are in H-1B, L-1A or L-1B nonimmigrant status (Public Law 111-230 does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions).

The additional fee does not apply to extension requests filed by the same petitioner for the same individual.

Premium Processing fee

$1,225 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature. A separate check for the fee mandated under Public Law 111-230 is requested.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,225 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)

U.S. Master's (20,000 exemption for beneficiaries with U.S. master's or higher degrees)

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, and/or ACWIA fee) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission

Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service)

Form G-28 (if represented by an attorney or accredited representative)

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement

All supporting documentation to establish eligibility

Provide a Table of Contents for supporting documentation

Tab items as listed in Table of Contents

Arrival-Departure Record (Form I-94) if the beneficiary is in the U.S.

SEVIS Form I-20 if the beneficiary is a current or former F-1 student or F-2 dependent

SEVIS Form DS-2019 if the beneficiary is a current or former J-1 or J-2

Form I-566 if the beneficiary is a current A or G nonimmigrant

DOL certified LCA, Form ETA 9035

Employer/attorney/representative letter(s)

Other supporting documentation.

Duplicate copy of the petition, if necessary. Clearly identify the duplicate copy of the petition as "COPY", so that it is not mistaken for a duplicate filing.

How to mail multiple petitions together

If multiple petitions will be included in the same courier service or Post Office package, please place individual petitions into separate envelopes within the package. Individual petition envelopes should be marked with the following labels to reference the type of petition

Master's Premium

Master's

Regular Premium

Regular

Chile/Singapore

Filing Tips: Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative

Use if the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative

Complete all sections of the form accurately

Include the printed name and signature of the representative, preferably in blue ink

Include the original signature of the petitioner, preferably in blue ink

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accurate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 11 and 12 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 17 through 19 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part C if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will only accept Form I-907 with a revision date of 8/10/09 or later.

The representative may sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

Shev and Robert,

Hope you had a wonderful holiday weekend!

We're very, very close to hitting the master's exemption so I was wondering if you guys had a chance to take a look at this. We haven't gotten the figures yet from last week but we were only about 300 petitions short the week before last, so I figured it might be best to be prepared. :-)

Thanks!

Shev and Robert,

We're starting to get very close to meeting the advanced degree exemption. The current count as of Friday is at approximately 19,100. SCOPS would like to make sure that we're ready to update the cap count webpage to let the public know that we're still accepting advanced degree petitions, but that they are now going to count against the regular cap. I have drafted the attached redlines for your review. Tweak away!

Thanks!

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 24,8200 | | 7/92/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 10,6400 | | 7/92/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Department of Defense (DOD) Cooperative Research Project Workers Count

Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of June 15, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 5.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)

U.S. Master's (20,000 exemption for beneficiaries with U.S. master's or higher degrees)

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, and/or ACWIA fee) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission

Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service)

Form G-28 (if represented by an attorney or accredited representative)

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement

All supporting documentation to establish eligibility

Provide a Table of Contents for supporting documentation

Tab items as listed in Table of Contents

Arrival-Departure Record (Form I-94) if the beneficiary is in the U.S.

SEVIS Form I-20 if the beneficiary is a current or former F-1 student or F-2 dependent

SEVIS Form DS-2019 if the beneficiary is a current or former J-1 or J-2

Form I-566 if the beneficiary is a current A or G nonimmigrant

DOL certified LCA, Form ETA 9035

Employer/attorney/representative letter(s)

Other supporting documentation.

Duplicate copy of the petition, if necessary. Clearly identify the duplicate copy of the petition as "COPY", so that it is not mistaken for a duplicate filing.

How to mail multiple petitions together

If multiple petitions will be included in the same courier service or Post Office package, please place individual petitions into separate envelopes within the package. Individual petition envelopes should be marked with the following labels to reference the type of petition

Master's Premium

Master's

Regular Premium

Regular

Chile/Singapore

Filing Tips: Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative

Use if the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative

Complete all sections of the form accurately

Include the printed name and signature of the representative, preferably in blue ink

Include the original signature of the petitioner, preferably in blue ink

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accurate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation should be included with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, you may provide a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will now only accept the 8/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Exemption Supplement (page 13 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$325

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Additional Fee Required Under Public Law 111-230

$2,000 to be submitted with each H-1B petition filed

to initially grant an alien H-1B nonimmigrant status or

to obtain authorization for an alien having such status to change employers

if the petitioner has 50 or more employees in the U.S. and more than 50% of petitioner's employees in the U.S. are in H-1B, L-1A or L-1B nonimmigrant status (Public Law 111-230 does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions).

The additional fee does not apply to extension requests filed by the same petitioner for the same individual.

Premium Processing fee

$1,225 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature. A separate check for the fee mandated under Public Law 111-230 is requested.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)

U.S. Master's (20,000 exemption for beneficiaries with U.S. master's or higher degrees)

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, and/or ACWIA fee) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission

Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service)

Form G-28 (if represented by an attorney or accredited representative)

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement

All supporting documentation to establish eligibility

Provide a Table of Contents for supporting documentation

Tab items as listed in Table of Contents

Arrival-Departure Record (Form I-94) if the beneficiary is in the U.S.

SEVIS Form I-20 if the beneficiary is a current or former F-1 student or F-2 dependent

SEVIS Form DS-2019 if the beneficiary is a current or former J-1 or J-2

Form I-566 if the beneficiary is a current A or G nonimmigrant

DOL certified LCA, Form ETA 9035

Employer/attorney/representative letter(s)

Other supporting documentation.

Duplicate copy of the petition, if necessary. Clearly identify the duplicate copy of the petition as "COPY", so that it is not mistaken for a duplicate filing.

How to mail multiple petitions together

If multiple petitions will be included in the same courier service or Post Office package, please place individual petitions into separate envelopes within the package. Individual petition envelopes should be marked with the following labels to reference the type of petition

Master's Premium

Master's

Regular Premium

Regular

Chile/Singapore

Filing Tips: Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative

Use if the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative

Complete all sections of the form accurately

Include the printed name and signature of the representative, preferably in blue ink

Include the original signature of the petitioner, preferably in blue ink

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accurate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will now only accept the 8/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 376,4600 | | 9/103/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 13,7400 | | 9/103/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Department of Defense (DOD) Cooperative Research Project Workers Count

Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of June 15, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 5.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)

U.S. Master's (20,000 exemption for beneficiaries with U.S. master's or higher degrees)

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, and/or ACWIA fee) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission

Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service)

Form G-28 (if represented by an attorney or accredited representative)

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement

All supporting documentation to establish eligibility

Provide a Table of Contents for supporting documentation

Tab items as listed in Table of Contents

Arrival-Departure Record (Form I-94) if the beneficiary is in the U.S.

SEVIS Form I-20 if the beneficiary is a current or former F-1 student or F-2 dependent

SEVIS Form DS-2019 if the beneficiary is a current or former J-1 or J-2

Form I-566 if the beneficiary is a current A or G nonimmigrant

DOL certified LCA, Form ETA 9035

Employer/attorney/representative letter(s)

Other supporting documentation.

Duplicate copy of the petition, if necessary. Clearly identify the duplicate copy of the petition as "COPY", so that it is not mistaken for a duplicate filing.

How to mail multiple petitions together

If multiple petitions will be included in the same courier service or Post Office package, please place individual petitions into separate envelopes within the package. Individual petition envelopes should be marked with the following labels to reference the type of petition

Master's Premium

Master's

Regular Premium

Regular

Chile/Singapore

Filing Tips: Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative

Use if the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative

Complete all sections of the form accurately

Include the printed name and signature of the representative, preferably in blue ink

Include the original signature of the petitioner, preferably in blue ink

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accurate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation should be included with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, you may provide a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will now only accept the 8/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 53,92,400 | | 12/170/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 19,7400 | | 12/170/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Department of Defense (DOD) Cooperative Research Project Workers Count

Regulations allow for no more than 100 aliens to be admitted as an H-1B nonimmigrant performing services related to a DOD cooperative research and development project or coproduction project in the United States at any one time. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(B). As of October 13, 2010, the count for this category of H-1B nonimmigrants is 8.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We began accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and

the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such

letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Exemption Supplement (page 13 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$325

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Additional Fee Required Under Public Law 111-230

$2,000 to be submitted with each H-1B petition filed

to initially grant an alien H-1B nonimmigrant status or

to obtain authorization for an alien having such status to change employers

if the petitioner has 50 or more employees in the U.S. and more than 50% of petitioner's employees in the U.S. are in H-1B, L-1A or L-1B nonimmigrant status (Public Law 111-230 does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions).

The additional fee does not apply to extension requests filed by the same petitioner for the same individual.

Premium Processing fee

$1,225 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature. A separate check for the fee mandated under Public Law 111-230 is requested.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Cap Count for H-1B and H-2B Workers for Fiscal Year 2010

Please see the information relating to H-1B Program Changes for FY 2010 in the Related Links section of this page.

What is a "Cap"

The word "Cap" used in this Update refers to annual numerical limitations set by Congress on certain nonimmigrant visa classifications, e.g., H-1B and H-2B. Caps control the number of workers that can be issued a visa in a given fiscal year to enter the United States pursuant to a particular nonimmigrant classification. Caps also control the number of aliens already in the United States that may be authorized to change status to a cap-subject classification.

H-1B

The H-1B visa program is used by some U.S.employers to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in a specialized field and a bachelor's degree or its equivalent. Typical H-1B occupations include architects, engineers, computer programmers, accountants, doctors and college professors. The H-1B visa program also includes certain fashion models of distinguished merit and ability and up to 100 persons who will performing services of an exceptional nature in connection with Department of Defense (DOD) research and development projects or coproduction projects. The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

H-1B Employer Exemptions

H-1B nonimmigrants who are employed, or who have received an offer of employment, by institutions of higher education or a related or affiliated nonprofit entity, as well as those employed, or who will be employed, by a nonprofit research organization or a governmental research organization are exempt from the cap.

H-1B Advanced Degree Exemption

The H-1B Visa Reform Act of 2004 makes available 20,000 new H-1B visas for foreign workers with a Master's or higher level degree from a U.S. academic institution. For each fiscal year, 20,000 beneficiaries of H-1B petitions on behalf of persons who hold such credentials are statutorily exempted from the cap.

Duplicate H-1B Petitions Filed Requesting Fiscal Year 2010 Employment

USCIS will deny or revoke all petitions filed by an employer for the same H-1B worker if more than one filing is discovered. If multiple petitions are discovered, whether one or more such petitions are approved, USCIS will data enter all those duplicative petitions, retain all fees, and either deny the petitions or, if a petition was approved, revoke the petition. The petitions will not be returned to the petitioner.

As of April ~~13~~24, 2009, approximately 4~~3~~5,000 H-1B cap-subject petitions and approximately 20,000 petitions qualifying for the advanced degree cap exemption had been filed. USCIS will continue to accept both cap-subject petitions and advanced degree petitions until a sufficient number of H-1B petitions have been received to reach the statutory limits, taking into account the fact that some of these petitions may be denied, revoked, or withdrawn.

H-1B1

An H-1B1 is a national of Chile or Singapore coming to the United States to work temporarily in a specialty occupation. The law defines an H-1B1 specialty occupation as a position that requires theoretical and practical application of a body of specialized knowledge. The beneficiary must have a bachelor's degree or higher (or equivalent) in the specific specialty. The combined statutory limit is 6,800 per year. The cap for H-1B1 for FY2010 has not been reached as of the date of this Update.

H-2B

The H-2B visa category allows U.S. employers in industries with peak load, seasonal or intermittent needs to augment their existing labor force with temporary workers. The H-2B visa category also allows U.S. employers to augment their existing labor force when necessary due to a one-time occurrence which necessitates a temporary increase in workers. Typically, H-2B workers fill labor needs in occupational areas such as construction, health care, landscaping, lumber, manufacturing, food service/processing, and resort/hospitality services.

The Save Our Small and Seasonal Businesses Act of 2005 (SOS Act) divided the annual numerical limitations of 66,000 into two halves. As of FY 2010, an H-2B petition may not be filed more than 120 days before the date of the actual need for the H-2B worker's labor/services identified on the labor certification. As a result, USCIS normally begins receiving H-2B petitions with employment start dates in October and June.

What is the H-2B numerical limit set by Congress?

The H-2B numerical limit set by Congress per fiscal year is 66,000. Generally, an H-2B worker who extends his/her stay in H-2B status will not be counted again against the numerical limit. An alien who changes nonimmigrant status to H-2B is counted against the annual H-2B cap.

As USCIS begins receiving H-2B petitions, the below chart will be regularly updated.

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Beneficiaries Approved | Beneficiaries Pending | Beneficiaries Target [1] | Total | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-2B 1st Half | 33,000 | ------ | ------ | ------ | ------ | ------- |
| H-2B 2nd Half | 33,000 [2] | ------- | ------ | ----- | ------ | ----- |
| Total H-2B Per FY | 66,000 [3] | ------ | ------ | ------ | ------ | ------ |

[1] Refers to the estimated numbers of beneficiary applications needed to reach a cap, with an allowance for withdrawals, denials and revocations.
[2] A shortfall in the 1st half would be made up in the 2nd half.
[3] Visas issued plus beneficiaries changing status already in the United States.

H-3

The H-3 nonimmigrant visa category is for aliens who are coming temporarily to the U.S. to receive training (other than graduate medical education or training) that is not available in their home countries. The training may be provided by a business entity, academic, or vocational institute. The H-3 nonimmigrant visa category also includes aliens who are coming temporarily to the U.S. to participate in a special education training program for children with physical, mental, or emotional disabilities. There is a limit of 50 visas per fiscal year allocated to H-3 aliens participating in special education training programs. As of March 30, 2009, three of these H-3 visas had been approved with a start date in FY 2009.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2011 Cap Season

NOTE: Information about the H-2B cap count has been moved and can now be found at www.uscis.gov/h-2b_count

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations, DOD Cooperative Research and Development Project Workers, and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2011 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 14 through 15) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Petition Target | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 22,20020,800 | | 65/1128/2010 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 9,4008,700 | | 65/1128/2010 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Petition Target

This is the number of petitions that USCIS projects it will need for the cap to be met.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

When to File an FY 2011 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We will begin accepting H-1B petitions on April 1, 2010 that are subject to the FY 2011 cap. Petitions subject to the FY 2011 cap must request a start date on or after October 1, 2010, the first day of the fiscal year. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Petitions seeking an FY 2011 H-1B cap number with an Oct. 1, 2010 start date can be filed no sooner than April 1, 2010.

Usually the majority of H-1B cap-subject petitions are filed at that time in order to obtain a new visa number for FY 2011.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2011 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2010 or submit a cap-subject petition prior to April 1, 2010, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129) and the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 13 through 15).

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a Department of Labor (DOL) certified LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized it.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to it being submitted.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing only if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

Review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on your jurisdiction. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see the link to the right for H-1B filing locations.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are not counted against the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject it. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (page 14 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$320

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee (see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Premium Processing fee

$1,000 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks: Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders: Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit

the Form I-907 and

the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee

at the same time as Form I-129 or

at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Note: We will accept the 08/28/06, 04/02/07, 07/30/07, and the 8/10/09 editions of Form I-907 through April 30, 2010. We will only accept the 08/10/09 edition of Form I-907 after April 30, 2010.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)

U.S. Master's (20,000 exemption for beneficiaries with U.S. master's or higher degrees)

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, and/or ACWIA fee) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission

Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service)

Form G-28 (if represented by an attorney or accredited representative)

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement

All supporting documentation to establish eligibility

Provide a Table of Contents for supporting documentation

Tab items as listed in Table of Contents

Arrival-Departure Record (Form I-94) if the beneficiary is in the U.S.

SEVIS Form I-20 if the beneficiary is a current or former F-1 student or F-2 dependent

SEVIS Form DS-2019 if the beneficiary is a current or former J-1 or J-2

Form I-566 if the beneficiary is a current A or G nonimmigrant

DOL certified LCA, Form ETA 9035

Employer/attorney/representative letter(s)

Other supporting documentation.

Duplicate copy of the petition, if necessary. Clearly identify the duplicate copy of the petition as "COPY", so that it is not mistaken for a duplicate filing.

How to mail multiple petitions together

If multiple petitions will be included in the same courier service or Post Office package, please place individual petitions into separate envelopes within the package. Individual petition envelopes should be marked with the following labels to reference the type of petition

Master's Premium

Master's

Regular Premium

Regular

Chile/Singapore

Filing Tips: Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative

Use if the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative

Complete all sections of the form accurately

Include the printed name and signature of the representative, preferably in blue ink

Include the original signature of the petitioner, preferably in blue ink

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, review that the country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) is accuracate.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, include a copy of the petition and supporting documentation should be included with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, you may provide a copy is suggested, but it is not required.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Provide a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 8 and 9 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 13 through 15 of Form I-129)

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Enclose page 13 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of March 11, 2009 or later) and answer question 1d in Part A if you are using a version of Form I-129 with a revision date prior to March 11, 2009.

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 7 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

Part C, question 6 is not relevant if the petition does not involve a change of employer. Thus, please answer "no" or provide an "N/A" in the margin of the form to the left of the question.

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. We will accept the 08/28/06, 04/02/07, 07/30/07, and the 8/10/09 editions of

Form I-907 through April 30, 2010. After April 30, 2010, we will only accept the 08/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

The representative should sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

All,
There was a surge in regular cap petitions last week: the count went from 29,700 to 33,900.

Also, the analysis in the blog below is sound in my judgment.

H-1B QUOTA EXHAUSTION TARGET - MARCH 2011

Something new I'm starting. USCIS puts out weekly data on the use of H-1B visas for the 2011 fiscal year which starts in October. I'm going to monitor that for readers and add my own projection on the months the caps are likely to be hit. The quota is 65,000 per fiscal year plus an additional 20,000 for folks with degrees from US advanced degree programs. Applications began being accepted on April 1st. In past years, the H-1B quota was exhausted almost immediately after the application period opened up. Last year, as a result of the recession and also as a result of USCIS and Congress' war on staffing companies, H-1B usage fell sharply and the general quota was not reached until December. This year, usage is even more anemic.

As of August 13th, 29,700 H-1Bs have been used in the 65,000 quota. 1200 H-1Bs were receipted last week which is about the same as the prior two weeks. That represents a pick up in usage over prior months where about 500 to 700 H-1Bs were used each week. This could represent a pick up in economic activity in the US. It might also reflect the fact that we're getting closer to October 1st and H-1B employers don't have to hire far in advance anymore. Based on current usage, the H-1B quota will be exhausted in 29 weeks which is in March 2011.

Masters cap cases are at 12,300. The usage has been about 300 a week and this has been typical since April. Based on current usage, that quota will be used up in 25 weeks which is in February 2011.

Good question. Before I can respond, I'd like to ask you a few additional questions. How far behind are they on letters? Does the contractor separate out the withdrawal requests from the regular RFE responses? If so, are they behind in RFE responses as well? Theoretically, any response to an RFE/ITD could ultimately result in a denial. It really comes down to what is contained in the response.

And this leads for a question for Jim...have you already factored potential withdrawals into your calculations for the target?

Shelly as we approach the cap limit is it important for the incoming withdrawal letter requests to be processed as denials or revocations the same day? Our contractor at VSC is not keeping entirely current with the incoming letters but if it's vital, we can prioritize that they get them completely up to the same day as received. But are the officers keeping up with them as fast? Does it matter, in the bigger picture?

VSC is currently creating the extract file only on Saturday. With petitions trickling in, I don't think it is worth making a change. The file is going to be incomplete for CSC no matter what day it is created.

Adding Shelly. With the start of a new filing season, I'm wondering if we should move the weekly reporting day to Tuesday of each week. Would that make a difference (positive or negative or none) on the data you report weekly, Jim? For example, would you have complete data from CSC by tomorrow?

Jim,

Is this the cycle time at CSC for all I-129s? Is it possible to know what the processing time is at CSC and VSC for H1Bs specifically, and also for L1As and L1Bs? I'm hearing that both centers have a 4-month PT for H1Bs, and that Ls are behind as well.

Thanks!

Bobbie

Barbara,

I am showing a cycle time for the I-129's at CSC of 2.1 months for July, this a slight improvement from June of 2.2 months. The I-129 are coming in a little later this year than last, this would result in a larger pending at the end of July:

I-129 Receipts

| | July | June | May | April |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| FY | | | | |
| 2010 | 15,112 | 17,692 | 15,624 | 23,675 |
| 2009 | 12,277 | 15,680 | 17,851 | 37,188 |
| Change from 2009 to 2010 | 2,835 | 2,012 | (2,227) | (13,513) |

Let me know if you need additional information or have any further questions.

Jim M: maybe I am making a mountain out of a molehill, but the numbers are lower this year as far as receipts so I am having trouble understanding why our pending is higher. I would think that this year we actually have more capacity (at least in California. I understand VSC has overlapping TPS). What troubles me is that CSC had been reporting a 60 day processing time on I-129s and then when we did the ACD switch it jumped to 4 months. So not sure how the cases were being reported in the past. Could you let me know if I need to bring this to the centers' attention or if we are okay as far as backlog etc. Thanks

Ok. I can update the cap webpages a little more starting next week. I've already reached out to OCOMM to make sure that they've dusted off the USCIS Update.

I've never heard of the SSM history action code. Do we know how that is applied? Is it something that would be done at data entry? Or is it something that would be done by the adjudicator?

By the way, have you ever heard of SSM ( Special Masters) historical action code?

Good afternoon,

As promised during today's meeting, here are the latest versions of the USCIS Update and Q&As for the H-1B cap filing season. OCOMM will use the Q&A to develop a webpage for the group to review. The cap gap specific Q&A is still under review and will be sent separately once a couple of issues are resolved.

Additionally, I have included the draft pdf of the M-735, Optional Processing Worksheet for H-1B Filings. Please note that there are a couple of items in the first "check box" that we are working on getting fixed: one typo ("tow" should be "two") and removal of the phrase "dated within the last six months" as I have double checked and it does not apply to money orders. Please advise if you have any issues with this or if your office is ok with this document as it is currently designed.

Thanks!

Shelly

Shelly,

Here is our current count, as we discussed late last week there doesn't show a lot of completions at this point due to the lack of systems available over the weekend. I'm hoping tomorrow's report will reflect a lot better where we are at. As you can see a majority of the Cap F-1 COS cases have been pushed out to officers now we just need to see the actions go out the door.

Shelly,
I agree with your comment. If the volume is in the hundreds on final receipt date, then a lottery may not be necessary. Should exemption for petitions from Guam be mentioned?

Jim,

OCOMM is aware that we're getting closer to reaching the cap and has dusted off their old USCIS Update. I made one comment and one minor edit, but wanted to run this by you before I send back to OCOMM. Is there anything that you would recommend removing/changing?

Thanks!

Walter,

We've been occupied with the Haiti filings for the past month but I don't want to ignore the approaching CAP season. At this time we can advise you to plan based on these expectations –

1) The Lockbox Release 4, scheduled for March 15, will not take place until mid to late April at the earliest, hence there will be no data entry workers surplused to assist in CAP work.
2) We expect the volume to be approximately the same as in 2009. This totaled about 64,000 in the initial five day filing period. For a safety margin you should plan, at this time, for receiving up to 75,000 filings this year; 45,000 at VSC and 30,000 at CSC. If we change this projection I will notify you promptly.
3) Of the volumes shown above you should plan for receiving up to 12,000 Premium filings at VSC and 9,000 at CSC during the initial five day period.
4) As in previous years we do not plan to require you to work weekends including the initial weekend of April 3-4.

CSC has sent me a draft version of their center specific plan, which I commented on and returned to their Records ACD. I would like to see a revised version and a VSC specific plan when they are ready. Sometime in March we would like you to present the overall plan here at HQ, as you have the past two years. Based on the assumptions above the plan's schedule should show all Premium filings data entered not later than the 8th calendar day after beginning data entry, to meet the requirement for 15 day decision making.

These are the general objectives I would expect to see in your plan. If you have questions please contact me so we can iron them out well before the final meeting in March.

Please see below for what is pending.

Today we will start adjudicating cap cases filed between 7/23/10 and 7/27/10.

Our EOS is still somewhat behind. We are at about 6/5/10 on EOS. We currently have 7 officers devoted full time to EOS, however, at a 1.5 CPH production standard, they move very slowly. I am looking at ways to increase the number of officers on EOS, and I possibly raising the standard.

Thanks,

Joe

Afternoon,

Sure thing Denis – the sites are tabulating the info and they will be using this Matrix.

Dan sent a message on VSC:

Keep in mind that the day 2 CAP will go up some as they had us do a 2nd pickup on Friday which is the 2,071 unidentified pieces. This was not opened on Friday since it was received late and we hadn't opened all the "regular" mail yet

Just an FYI.

Thanks, Walter

Thanks, Walter. We do want the excel spreadsheet used as the primary reporting method though. This is the template we thought we had approved for use.

Let's shoot for having final data for Thursday and Friday in by cob today, including the breakdowns by regular/masters and premium/nonpremium. I also just got a msg from Vermont saying there was unopened mail from Friday not yet determined if it was CAP or not so, I'm okay with waiting a little longer to get firmed up numbers.

From what I have gotten this morning it appears

18,290 total of which 3,998 were premium. Depending on slight changes to this it looks like after we start data entry April 7th, we should be completely done with premium at both centers by cob Thursday and with all the cases by late next week.

Pete,

I would agree that daily updates are not necessary. I also like the reports below. I would like to suggest one addition. Would it be possible to also include a weekly report on the pending EOS cases that are over 60 days similar to the cap pending chart?

Joe,

Would it be possible for CSC to provide similar information on a weekly basis?

Thanks!

Shelly,

I'd like to propose a change to our daily reporting of H-1B Cap cases outside of 60 days, as the report doesn't change much from day-to-day and was more relevant last week when pushing through the F-1s in a finite timeframe.

I think it would be a better snap shot if we combined our weekly production report to show actual numbers that we have worked, with the report of Cap cases outside of 60 days (where are they). That way you would get one set of reports each week by COB Monday and we could discuss progress on our call later in the week.

The reports would look something like the following, just sent in once per week –

| Report date | 29-Sep-10 | 30-Sep-10 | 1-Oct-10 | 4-Oct-10 | 5-Oct-10 | 6-Oct-10 | 7-Oct-10 |

Shelly –

I am responding for Rob because he is out of the office today. I have included our comments on the attachments.

One comment we have is about the "cushion" cases. We did not have "cushion" cases last year. Last year Jim had a magic number of filings we would accept for both the master's cap as well as the regular cap (see attached email traffic). I believe Jim calculated these numbers based on the amount of filings from previous years. Jim's recommendations last year were to accept 24,000 (Masters only) plus another 76,000 combining Regular and other (rolled over) Masters. Grand total of 100,000.

Thanks.

VSC and CSC,

I want to start the ball rolling on review for the USCIS Update(s) that will need to be issued at the end of the 5-day filing window. Since we don't know whether we will meet the cap or not, I have drafted two different sets of documents. I know that things could go either way (though it seems likely that we will not meet the cap), but I didn't want to wait until the filing period starts to begin drafting and review as we will all be extremely busy at that time. I would like to get your Center's comments/edits by COB Friday (3/19) so that I can send to OCOMM and OPE for them to initiate USCIS component clearance.

The first document is a draft USCIS Update if we do not meet the cap. I have also included alternative language in it for a scenario in which we don't meet the regular cap, but we do get sufficient advanced degree petitions.

The remaining documents are drafts of Updates in the event we do meet the cap. These are all based on documents that were issued for the FY09 filing season. I think the cap met and estimate documents could be combined if the filing is not extraordinarily heavy, but perhaps I am wrong.

Thanks!

Ok. I talked to Pete and asked him to break this down kindergarten-style for me since numbers are not my strong suit. You both may have already be aware of what each category and chart represents so I apologize if the information is redundant.

The information in the first chart is based on the location of all F-1 COS to H-1B petitions that are currently pending. "With officer" means exactly that. It is with an officer. The officer may have recently taken an action on the petition, but the case is still physically with them and the case status hasn't been closed out in C3. "With contractor" generally means that the file is still on a shelf, etc. "ADJ Staged" are clean cases that have been staged outside of the ACDs' offices. They are in the process of being distributed to an officer. "Other" petitions are primarily comprised of cases in the BCU and CFDO.

The second chart is all untouched cap cases broken down by month and would be inclusive of some of the same cases counted in the first chart.

Shelly,

The report is a little off from what I sent yesterday but what you'll see below is most of our Cap that is older than 60 days is either with officers or already processed (RFE/Approval). We have 699 Cap cases that are dated prior to 8/1/2010 that are not with officers yet (lower numbers).

The F-1 numbers have dropped significantly since yesterday's report.

| | Older than 60 days: |
|---|---|
| F1 COS to H1B | 854 |
| With Officer | 757 |
| With Contractor | 0 |
| ADJ Staged | 72 |
| Other | 25 |

Here is an estimation of the cases remaining in initial receipts that are not with an officer.
I have not included cases that clearly show movement to an rfe shelf or approval shelf yesterday or today.

Shelly,

Here is a quick look at the O/T usage. Unfortunately our stats are not set up in a way that we can see what was worked on O/T versus regular time. Further any exercise to try and put this together would be hampered by the fact that we could not update in CLAIMS or use most other systems (that connect to CLAIMS) over the weekend.

From Thursday through early this week we have used the following O/T –

ISO-2s – 604 hours roughly = $33,220.00
ISO-1s – 194 hours roughly = $6,596.00

Shelly,

Here are today's figures.

Here is today's initial receipts summary that you asked for:

| | Older than 60 days: |
|---|---|
| F1 COS to H1B | 799 |
| With Officer | 578 |
| With Contractor* | 165 |
| ADJ Staged | 31 |
| Other | 25 |

|---|---|
| All Cap > 60 | 3141 |
| With Officer | 2199 |
| With Contractor* | 646 |
| ADJ Staged | 184 |
| Other | 112 |

- The "with contractor" includes some cases that were approved or rfed yesterday after the oracle tables were updated.
- For the F-1s in the first section all of the 165 appear to be approvals or RFEs where CLAIMS has not caught up with the location.

SCOPS HQ has reviewed the situation and determined that the pre-8/1 F-1 COS cap cases should be prioritized. There may be a possibility that SCOPS could obtain access to OT funds. We need to know ASAP how much each center projects it would need (if it is available) and exactly how the OT funds would be utilized. Please understand that SCOPS expects the F-1 COS cap cases to be completed by the end of September if OT funds can be obtained and are used.

Shelly:

I have some questions/thoughts before going forward with any kind of expedite for this group of individuals.

1. Is this in line with the expedite criteria rules for PP?

2. The only concern to these individuals is that the start date for employment will be little delayed? However they will be able to maintain their status and will not be required to depart. Many have valid EAD cards and can continue to work or will just need to be patient a 3-4 weeks more. It is no different for anyone else who needs a start date of 10/1 and is going to be delayed a little due to the processing times being behind. If someone is going to lose the job or something like that due to any delay, we could consider those, but still there is the PP route.

3. My understanding is that we have not expedited these here at CSC in the past couple of years at least.

Can we discuss this a little more before going forward? Please let me know if you are available to discuss or have any thoughts on the above.

Thanks,

Joe

Let's wait and see what OCC comes back with before we make any changes. One thing I can say definitively is that we will not be putting a footnote in a web page; it is a webpage and not a document and have completely different best practices and rules in terms of the way people read web pages versus a paper document.

As far as the "Cap Amounts" heading, a simple fix would be to change the heading.

Subject: RE: For Your Review-H-1B 2011 Cap Season Materials

Matt,

On the chart for the webpage, I'm not sure about the following:

Cap Amounts
The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas may be set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

The information is correct, but it just doesn't seem to work under the title "cap amounts" as it only deals with the 65,000 regular cap not the Master's exemption. Is there any way that we could footnote the data (like we had before)?

Additionally, as I stated on the phone the other day, while I like the chart and the information in it, I think thatit should be left off the page until the cap actually opens and we have information to provide within it. I agree that now is the time to get all of the offices to clear on it, but that we hold off on putting it up blank. We can then post it right away when we have numbers once the cap opens.

I will be out of the office on Monday. Please copy Bobbie and Shannon on any email traffic if OCC clears on Monday.

Thanks!

Matt,

How are things going with the clearance of the H-1B cap page? I have a last minute change that will need to be made regarding the acceptance of Form I-907 (premium processing). The current version of the webpage states that only the 8/10/09 version of Form I-907 will be accepted. I have just learned that we are extending the "grace period" for previous versions of the Form I-907 through April 30, 2010. See my suggested change below in red.

Thanks!

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition adjudicated within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit:

- the Form I-907 and
- the filing fee of $1,000 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee:

- at the same time as Form I-129 or
- at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 10 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Note: After April 30, 2010, we will only accept the 08/10/09 edition of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Hi Barbara:

Here are the H1B processing times:

Regular Cap – 10/6/2010

Master Cap – 10/5/2010

Cap Exempt – 10/1/2010

EOS – 9/22/2010 – Note: We have distributed or reviewed cases through 9/22/2010. However, some cases are currently being reviewed, while some cases have been adjudicated but are awaiting clerical updating. We plan on having all the EOS cases up to 9/22/2010 completed, including updating, by Tuesday or Wednesday next week.

- CSC adjudicated approximately 2500 cases last weekend on OT.
- CSC more than doubled its production from last week's report from a total of 3329 actions to 7573 this week's report.

Shelly,
The emphasis has to be on combined cap since masters will count against regular beginning in five or six weeks. Also, petitioners must recognize that masters bennies are still eligible to be sponsored. Therefore, I suggest the following with a big bold message stating that masters petitions are still being accepted.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap-Eligible Petitions | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | ---- | |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | ---- | |
| Combined | 85,000 | XXXXX | 12/03/2010 |

Jim,

How would you recommend amending the chart once we hit the master's. Last year we didn't have a chart, but OCOMM was insistent this year. Should we add a "combined" line (see example below) with a caveat that any petitions filed under the master's exemption are counted against the regular cap once we hit the 20,000th approval, or something like that? I wanted to get started on these changes right away as I'll have to get them cleared by OCC, which could take a while.

Thanks!

Subject: H1B CAP planning

Walter,

We've been occupied with the Haiti filings for the past month but I don't want to ignore the approaching CAP season. At this time we can advise you to plan based on these expectations –

1) The Lockbox Release 4, scheduled for March 15, will not take place until mid to late April at the earliest, hence there will be no data entry workers surplused to assist in CAP work.
2) We expect the volume to be approximately the same as in 2009. This totaled about 64,000 in the initial five day filing period. For a safety margin you should plan, at this time, for receiving up to 75,000 filings this year; 45,000 at VSC and 30,000 at CSC. If we change this projection I will notify you promptly.
3) Of the volumes shown above you should plan for receiving up to 12,000 Premium filings at VSC and 9,000 at CSC during the initial five day period.
4) As in previous years we do not plan to require you to work weekends including the initial weekend of April 3-4.

CSC has sent me a draft version of their center specific plan, which I commented on and returned to their Records ACD. I would like to see a revised version and a VSC specific plan when they are ready. Sometime in March we would like you to present the overall plan here at HQ, as you have the past two years. Based on the assumptions above the plan's schedule should show all Premium filings data entered not later than the 8th calendar day after beginning data entry, to meet the requirement for 15 day decision making.

These are the general objectives I would expect to see in your plan. If you have questions please contact me so we can iron them out well before the final meeting in March.

Barbara,
An announcement is not necessary soon since Masters petitions roll over into regular cap after Masters cap has been reached. I will talk to Shelly about modifying the cap webpage to reflect this situation. In 2010, the H-1B cap webpage showed the combined cap count after the Masters cap was reached.

Barbara,
An announcement is not necessary soon since Masters petitions roll over into regular cap after Masters cap has been reached. I will talk to Shelly about modifying the cap webpage to reflect this situation. In 2010, the H-1B cap webpage showed the combined cap count after the Masters cap was reached.

Barbara,

I am showing a cycle time for the I-129's at CSC of 2.1 months for July, this a slight improvement from June of 2.2 months. The I-129 are coming in a little later this year than last, this would result in a larger pending at the end of July:

I-129 Receipts

| | July | June | May | April |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| FY | | | | |
| 2010 | 15,112 | 17,692 | 15,624 | 23,675 |
| 2009 | 12,277 | 15,680 | 17,851 | 37,188 |
| Change from 2009 to 2010 | 2,835 | 2,012 | (2,227) | (13,513) |

Jim M: maybe I am making a mountain out of a molehill, but the numbers are lower this year as far as receipts so I am having trouble understanding why our pending is higher. I would think that this year we actually have more capacity (at least in California. I understand VSC has overlapping TPS). What troubles me is that CSC had been reporting a 60 day processing time on I-129s and then when we did the ACD switch it jumped to 4 months. So not sure how the cases were being reported in the past. Could you let me know if I need to bring this to the centers' attention or if we are okay as far as backlog etc. Thanks

Barbara, Greg, and Frank,

Here is a synopsis of this week's reports from the CSC and the VSC:

CSC:

The CSC reported that they are at a 10/21 processing date for cap cases (it was 10/8 last week). Cap exempt is at 10/9 (it was 10/1 last week). The processing date for EOS has moved to 10/22 (the previous week it was at 10/8). As of December 20, there were 4,583 initial H-1B petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. Of that number 2,582 have had an RFE/NOID issued but have not been worked to completion (either pending response or response not yet adjudicated). There were 5,995 EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal. Of that number, 1,128 have had an RFE/NOID issued already.

From 12/12 to 12/18, the CSC approved 2,273 non premium cases, denied 195 non premium cases, and issued an RFE on 396 non premium cases. CSC also approved 1,186 premium cases, denied 74 premium cases, and issued an RFE on 301 premium cases during the same time period. Total actions during that time period was 4,425.

VSC:

The VSC reported that they are at a 10/25 processing date for cap cases (it was 10/22 last week). The processing date for EOS is at 8/3 (they reported 7/12 last week). As of December 20, there were 1,110 untouched cap petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. There were 11,319 untouched EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal.

From 12/12 to 12/18, the VSC approved 1,819 non premium cases, denied 145 non premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 484 non premium cases. VSC also approved 1,651 premium cases, denied 139 premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 274 premium cases during the same time period. Total actions during that time period was 4,512.

Barbara, Greg, and Frank,

Here is a synopsis of this week's reports from the CSC and the VSC:

CSC:

The CSC reported that they are at a 10/8 processing date for regular cap cases (it was 10/6 last week) and a 10/8 processing date for master's cap (it was 10/5 last week). Cap exempt is at 10/1 (same as last week). The processing date for EOS has moved to 10/8 (the previous week it was at 9/22). As of December 13, there were 4,934 initial H-1B petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. Of that number 2,892 have had an RFE/NOID issued but have not been worked to completion (either pending response or response not yet adjudicated). There were 8,897 EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal. Of that number, 881 have had an RFE/NOID issued already.

From 12/5 to 12/11, the CSC approved 3,238 non premium cases, denied 226 non premium cases, and issued an RFE on 450 non premium cases. CSC also approved 1,337 premium cases, denied 88 premium cases, and issued an RFE on 263 premium cases during the same time period. Total actions during that time period was 5,602.

VSC:

The VSC reported that they are at a 10/22 processing date for cap cases (same as last week). The processing date for EOS is at 7/12 (they reported 7/7 last week). As of December 13, there were 1,349 untouched cap petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. There were 12,410 untouched EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal.

From 12/5 to 12/11, the VSC approved 2,139 non premium cases, denied 214 non premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 600 non premium cases. VSC also approved 1,252 premium cases, denied 135 premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 220 premium cases during the same time period. Total actions during that time period was 4,560.

The VSC has asked whether they need to keep providing weekly reports on H-1B cap processing since they are now within 60 days. Please advise if you would like reports to continue for this group of filings or if reports should continue for the time being.

Thanks!

Barbara, Greg, and Frank,

Here is a synopsis of this week's reports from the CSC and the VSC:

CSC:

The CSC reported that they are at a 10/6 processing date for regular cap cases (it was 10/5 last week) and a 10/5 processing date for master's cap (it was 9/28 last week). Cap exempt is at 10/1 (last week was 9/21). The processing date for EOS has moved to 9/22 (the previous week it was at 8/11). As of December 6, there were 5,357 initial H-1B petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. Of that number 3,035 have had an RFE/NOID issued but have not been worked to completion (either pending response or response not yet adjudicated). There were 10,142 EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal. Of that number, 697 have had an RFE/NOID issued already.

From 11/28 to 12/4, the CSC approved 4,714 non premium cases, denied 226 non premium cases, and issued an RFE on 521 non premium cases. CSC also approved 1,583 premium cases, denied 89 premium cases, and issued an RFE on 440 premium cases during the same time period. Total actions during that time period was 7,573.

VSC:

The VSC reported that they are at a 10/22 processing date for cap cases (they reported 9/21 last week). The processing date for EOS is at 7/7 (they reported 6/15 last week). As they are now within 60 days on cap cases, the VSC plans to shift focus to staying with 60 days and eliminating the EOS backlog. As of December 6, there were 2,028 untouched cap petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. There were 12,922 untouched EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal.

From 11/28 to 12/4, the VSC approved 1,588 non premium cases, denied 249 non premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 215 non premium cases. VSC also approved 1,957 premium cases, denied 93 premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 409 premium cases during the same time period. Total actions during that time period was 4,511.

Barbara, Greg, and Frank,

Here is a synopsis of last week's reports from the CSC and the VSC, which arrived while I was on leave:

CSC:

The CSC reported that they are at a 9/14 processing date for regular cap cases (it was 9/1 the previous week) and a 9/28 processing date for master's cap (it was 9/23 the previous week). Cap exempt is at 9/16 (previous week was 9/5). The processing date for EOS has moved slightly to 7/22 (the previous week it was at 7/16). As of November 22, there were 5,547 initial H-1B petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. Of that number 3,003 have had an RFE/NOID issued but have not been worked to completion (either pending response or response not yet adjudicated). There were 12,419 EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal. Of that number, 520 have had an RFE/NOID issued already.

From 11/15 to 11/19, the CSC approved 638 non premium cases, denied 106 non premium cases, and issued an RFE on 621 non premium cases. CSC also approved 1,448 premium cases, denied 94 premium cases, and issued an RFE on 350 premium cases during the same time period.

VSC:

The VSC reported that they are at a 10/13 processing date for cap cases (it was at 9/8 the previous week). The processing date for EOS is at 6/21 (it was at 6/4 the previous week). The VSC mentioned that they saw a significant spike in PP filings on 11/22 (over 800 filings) just before the fee increase took effect. As of November 22, there were 2,029 untouched cap petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. There were 12,583 untouched EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal.

From 11/14 to 11/20, the VSC approved 1,147 non premium cases, denied 118 non premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 945 non premium cases. VSC also approved 1,663 premium cases, denied 63 premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 616 premium cases during the same time period.

CSC:

The CSC reported that they are at a 9/1 processing date for regular cap cases (last week was 8/22) and a 9/23 processing date for master's cap (last week was 9/22). Cap exempt is at 9/5 (same as last week). The processing date for EOS has moved slightly to 7/16 (last week it was at 7/10). As of November 16, there were 5,972 initial H-1B petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. Of that number 2,760 have had an RFE/NOID issued but have not been worked to completion (either pending response or response not yet adjudicated). There were 12,826 EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal. Of that number, 532 have had an RFE/NOID issued already.

From 11/8 to 11/12, the CSC approved 1,119 non premium cases, denied 109 non premium cases, and issued an RFE on 251 non premium cases. CSC also approved 990 premium cases, denied 61 premium cases, and issued an RFE on 232 premium cases during the same time period.

VSC:

The VSC has not yet provided their updated processing date for cap or EOS cases. They did indicate that they are focusing right now on premium filings and may continue to do so for a few weeks. As of November 15, there were 2,314 untouched cap petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. There were 12,566 untouched EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal.

From 11/7 to 11/13, the VSC approved 754 non premium cases, denied 98 non premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 320 non premium cases. VSC also approved 1,272 premium cases, denied 91 premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 285 premium cases during the same time period.

Thanks!

Barbara, Greg, and Frank,

Here is a synopsis of this week's report from the CSC and the VSC:

CSC:

The CSC reported that they are at an 8/22 processing date for regular cap cases (last week was 8/17) and a 9/22 processing date for master's cap (same as last week). Cap exempt is at 9/5 (last week this was at 8/20). The processing date for EOS has moved slightly to 7/10 (last week it was at 6/30). As of November 8, there were 6,114 initial H-1B petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. Of that number 2,738 have had an RFE/NOID issued but have not been worked to completion (either pending response or response not yet adjudicated). There were 12,667 EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal. Of that number, 536 have had an RFE/NOID issued already.

From 11/1 to 11/5, the CSC approved 1,573 non premium cases, denied 187 non premium cases, and issued an RFE on 327 non premium cases. CSC also approved 1,512 premium cases, denied 93 premium cases, and issued an RFE on 317 premium cases during the same time period.

VSC:

The VSC reported that they are at a 9/8 processing date for cap cases (last week this was at 9/1). They are almost within the two month processing goal. The processing date for EOS has essentially remained static at 6/4. As of November 8, there were 2,541 untouched cap petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. There were 12,197 untouched EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal.

From 10/31 to 11/6, the VSC approved 1,064 non premium cases, denied 128 non premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 377 non premium cases. VSC also approved 1,548 premium cases, denied 60 premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 313 premium cases during the same time period.

Thanks!

Barbara, Greg, and Frank,

Here is a synopsis of this week's report from the CSC and the VSC:

CSC:

The CSC reported that they are at an 8/17 processing date for regular cap cases (same as last week) and a 9/22 processing date for master's cap (9/1 last week). Cap exempt is at 8/20 (last week this was at 8/13). The processing date for EOS has moved slightly to 6/30 (last week it was at 6/15). As of November 1, there were 6,611 initial H-1B petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. Of that number 2,746 have had an RFE/NOID issued but have not been worked to completion (either pending response or response not yet adjudicated). There were 12,877 EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal. Of that number, 538 have had an RFE/NOID issued already.

From 10/25 to 10/29, the CSC approved 1,313 non premium cases, denied 110 non premium cases, and issued an RFE on 348 non premium cases. CSC also approved 1,277 premium cases, denied 81 premium cases, and issued an RFE on 305 premium cases during the same time period.

VSC:

The VSC reported that they are at a 9/1 processing date for cap cases (last week this was at 8/20). They are now almost within the two month processing goal. The processing date for EOS remained static this week at 6/1-6/3. The VSC indicated that the EOS date has not moved from last week as most of the officers working EOS cases had to be put on PP to keep up with that workload. They are now returning to their EOS workload. As of November 1, there were 3,008 untouched cap petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. There were 12,113 untouched EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal.

From 10/24 to 10/31, the VSC approved 1,039 non premium cases, denied 142 non premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 376 non premium cases. VSC also approved 1,693 premium cases, denied 66 premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 342 premium cases during the same time period.

Bobbie,

Here is a synopsis of this week's report from the VSC and the CSC:

CSC:

The CSC reported that they are at an 8/9 processing date for regular cap cases and an 8/15 processing date for master's cap. This is an improvement of a couple of days for the regular cap workload. The processing date for master's cap is the same as last week. Cap exempt is at 7/17 (last week this was at 7/11). The processing date for EOS moved forward slightly to 6/15 (last week was 6/9). As of October 18, there were 6,575 initial H-1B petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. Of that number 2,523 have had an RFE/NOID issued and are pending response. The initial pending outside of 2 months has shot up from last week by about 1,600. I believe that this increase reflects the surge of petitions we received just prior to the PL 111-230 fee taking effect. There were 12,415 EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal. Of that number, 488 have had an RFE/NOID issued and are pending response.

From 10/11 to 10/15, the CSC approved 511 non premium cases, denied 42 non premium cases, and issued an RFE on 214 non premium cases. CSC also approved 1,016 premium cases, denied 55 premium cases, and issued an RFE on 234 premium cases during the same time period.

VSC:

The VSC changed their processing date reporting to mimic the way that CSC reports its processing date. The VSC reported that they are at a 8/16 processing date for cap cases, which is no change from last week. The processing date for EOS is at 5/27. As of October 18, there were 3,022 untouched cap petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. The initial pending outside of 2 months has shot up from last week by about 1,175. As with CSC, I believe that this increase reflects the surge of petitions we received just prior to the PL 111-230 fee taking effect. There were 11,242 untouched EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal.

From 10/10 to 10/16, the VSC approved 948 non premium cases, denied 102 non premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 134 non premium cases. VSC also approved 1,395 premium cases, denied 89 premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 361 premium cases during the same time period.

Thanks!

Bobbie,

Here is a synopsis of this week's report from the VSC and the CSC:

CSC:

The CSC reported that they are at an 8/5 processing date for regular cap cases and an 8/15 processing date for master's cap. This is an improvement of a couple of days from last week's report. Cap exempt is at 7/11 (last week this was at 6/15). The processing date for EOS stayed the same as last week and is at 6/9. As of October 12, there were 4,968 initial H-1B petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. There were 12,601 EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal.

From 10/4 to 10/8, the CSC has approved 1,120 non premium cases, denied 103 non premium cases, and issued an RFE on 493 non premium cases. CSC has also approved 1,403 premium cases, denied 92 premium cases, and issued an RFE on 354 premium cases during the same time period.

VSC:

The VSC reported that they are at a 6/11 processing date for cap cases but that mid-August untouched work is going down to the floor. Last week, the VSC reported that July untouched work was going down to the floor. The processing date for EOS stayed the same as last week and is at 5/21. They expect movement on the EOS processing date shortly as they are distributing EOS work to their newly trained officers. As of October 12, there were 1,847 untouched cap petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. There were 11,037 untouched EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal.

From 10/3 to 10/9, the VSC has approved 741 non premium cases, denied 64 non premium cases, and issued an RFE on 398 non premium cases. VSC has also approved 1,703 premium cases, denied 56 premium cases, and issued an RFE on 453 premium cases during the same time period.

Barbara, Greg, and Frank,

Here is a synopsis of this week's reports from the CSC and the VSC:

CSC:

The CSC reported that they are at a 11/3 processing date for both regular and master's cap cases (it was 10/25 and 10/21, respectively, last week). Cap exempt is at 11/17 (it was 10/20 last week). The processing date for EOS has moved to 11/18 (the previous week it was at 11/1). As of January 10, there were 4,635 initial H-1B petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. Of that number 2,209 have had an RFE/NOID issued but ave not been worked to completion (either pending response or response not yet adjudicated). There were 4,751 EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal. Of that number, 1,230 have had an RFE/NOID issued already.

From 1/2 to 1/8, the CSC approved 2,084 non premium cases, denied 176 non premium cases, and issued an RFE on 259 non premium cases. CSC also approved 1,629 premium cases, denied 105 premium cases, and issued an RFE on 406 premium cases during the same time period. Total actions during that time period were 4,659.

VSC:

The VSC reported that they are at a 10/27 processing date for cap cases ( it was10/25 last week). The processing date for EOS is at 8/30 (they reported 8/18 last week). As of January 10, there were 1,694 untouched cap petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. There were 10,016 untouched EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal.

From 1/2 to 1/9, the VSC approved 1,362 non premium cases, denied 166 non premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 163 non premium cases. VSC also approved 1,655 premium cases, denied 114 premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 352 premium cases during the same time period. Total actions during that time period were 3,812.

Shelly,

Our continued decrease in adjudicative actions during this period resulted from our continued push to get premium filings under control as we head into the long Thanksgiving weekend. VSC will continue to concentrate our efforts on the PP workload over the next several weeks. This increased focus on working our PP backlog down is an effort to position us well for the upcoming holiday season wherein we will experience high leave usage for those who process our PP work. Yesterday we did see a significant spike in premium receipts, upwards of 800 filings.

We are currently issuing the following non-premium H1B work with mailroom dates to officers:

CAP: 6/15/2010
EXT: 6/21/2010

Shelly,

Decreased adjudicative actions during this period resulted from the four-day workweek. As an FYI, VSC will be primarily concentrating our efforts of the PP workload over the next several weeks. This increased focus on working our PP backlog down is an effort to position us well for the upcoming holiday season wherein we will experience high leave usage for those who process our PP work.

Mark/Frank:

I have changed the report slightly in the hopes of making it clearer. If you have any suggestions to this, please let me know. The dates I provide from this date forward will indicate cases that are distributed to the officers on the floor. I would like to give some explanatory notes to help in the understanding of how this report works for our purposes and how CSC works this report to identify the status of cases in the work flow and determine where we are in processing.

PDA (our analysts) runs this initial report in CLAIMS3 (C3). There are many codes in C3 that define or identify a "pending" case for the purposes of the G-22 and this report. Many of these codes considered "pending" for the purposes of the G-22 and this report are in fact, when further or individually analyzed, closed. The CSC continually has to manually review the report to identify the cases that come up as "pending" that are not actually pending. The cases that are identified on this report as "pending" but are actually closed for some reason or other are eventually closed out and removed from the report. This will explain why some cases may come up as passed a reported time on this report.

Also, various other anomalies occur each week and may appear on the report as passed reported times. Some examples of anomalies include cases that have gone to BCU for IBIS resolution or CARRP review, CFDO for fraud, have been adjudicated but were never updated, have been misrouted, are placed on adjudicative hold for non security or fraud reasons, placed out of JIT order by the contractor, etc. Anomalies are continually being identified and are either closed out or adjudicated if possible, or continue to be held in abeyance if required by BCU or CFDO.

Many cases have been reviewed by the officer and supervisor prior to the reported time, but only need clerical updating. These cases usually get updated within 1-3 days. This is why I have added the "w/clerical" part of the report.

Please keep in mind that the majority of the cases "W/officer" and with supervisors are resubmits which means that they have already been RFEd.

Finally, there are a small number of cases that "fall through the cracks" and must be identified and picked up for adjudication. We identify these cases immediately and send e-mail messages to the officer, supervisor, or ACD to have these adjudicated immediately and keep them within reported times. Currently, we have 6 divisions adjudicating H-1Bs, so it takes some tracking and effort to ensure everyone gets those cases that fall through the cracks done.

In the past I have used the most accurate times possible, or a time that most reflects the reality of the vast majority of cases vs. using the proportionately small number of cases that are open, are anomalies, or simply fall through the cracks, as the reported date. The reported time included a review of the JIT shelves, both physically and on paper, a review of the reports provided by our analysts, and a physical review of what is on the floor.

To help avoid confusion in the future, I will now report the time that cases are being distributed to the floor as the reported time.

- Joe

This meeting is for SCOPS to learn more about each center's plan to get within 60-days on H-1B adjudication. We'd like to get a handle on:

* the current initial H-1B petition inventory broken out by untouched vs. RFE/ITD already issued; - 4607 vs. 1627 (RFE/Response)
* your processing date for initial H-1B petitions; - Cap 5/14
* the current EOS H-1B petition inventory broken out by untouched vs. RFE/ITD already issued; - Don't have yet DRG is working on this
* your processing date for EOS H-1B petitions (if different from initials); - 5/21
* your current resources and CPH rate for these cases; 1.85 CPH (this has been fairly constant since the E/E memo)
* any plans to augment current staff or shift resources (e.g. does either center plan to borrow resources temporarily from other allied groups or divisions?); - some of Lynn's group will work O/T now through next week in advance of 10/1, and pulling in 11 to 16 officers needing refresher training to work over the coming months.
* the projected date when the center will be within 60-days. – 90 + days if we have 71 officers working full-time

We'd also like to work with the centers to set up a process for temporary biweekly progress reports until we are current on H-1Bs.
Please feel free to forward this invite to the appropriate participants at your center.

Shelly:

On OT through Monday 9/27/10, this is what we completed on H-1B cap cases (including F-1 cap gap):

Approvals = 2062
Denials = 28
RFEs = 805

- $60,000 spent thus far

From the count we started with on Thursday of F-1 cap gap cases pending, this is where we are as of this morning.

- We have touched all F-1 cap cases.
- We are still working through the report to clean up the cases that are considered "new" on this report. The "new" cases have been touched by an officer, but are still going through clerical updating or sup review, and we are focusing on getting those done by today.
- Below is the summary chart of completions for F-1 Cap Gap cases:

| CSC I-129 F1s Cap Pre 08/01/10 | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| | | Status | Counts |
| I-129 | F1 | APPROVED | 1,034 |
| | | DENIED | 40 |
| | | NEW CASE | 100 |
| | | RULE 103 | 701 |
| | | PENDING | 0 |
| Total: | | | 1,875 |

- Below is the summary chart of where we are with all non-pp cap cases and EOS cases:

| CSC I-129 H1Bs Pending as of 09/27/2010 | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | Status | Filed before 08/01/2010 | Filed before 9/28/10 |
| Non-PP | Initials | NEW CASE | 2461 | 10,470 |
| | | PENDING | 284 | 289 |
| | | REOPENED | 8 | 8 |
| | | RULE 103 | 1,839 | 1,869 |
| | | SUSPENSE | 16 | 19 |
| | | TRANSFERRED IN | 378 | 398 |

|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Others | NEW CASE | 10,741 | 19,320 |
| | | PENDING | 228 | 230 |
| | | REOPENED | 1 | 1 |
| | | RULE 103 | 461 | 462 |
| | | SUSPENSE | 21 | 24 |
| | | TRANSFERRED IN | 164 | 172 |

- By Friday, I estimate our processing time for non-pp H-1B cases will be into early July. I will have a better idea of what the processing time is on Monday after all this OT is done and the clerical updating is completed. At that time, I would like to propose a date that we will be current or at 60 days processing time.

- 62 total adjudicators on H-1Bs

  36 – PP (Backfill Cap & EOS)
  19 – Non-PP
  7 - EOS

Thanks,

It may be better if we give an update Tuesday morning. Most of the cases are on the floor now so tracking those means we have to do NFTS audits for accuracy of reports. We have been doing an NFTS audit this morning, and it won't show up in the systems until this afternoon. So a good updated report may not be done until late this afternoon or early tomorrow morning.

Thanks,

Joe

I would like to thank everyone for participating in this afternoon's call. In summary, we would request that each center send us its work plan (which includes the information listed below and discussed in our teleconference) in writing if it has not already been provided. Additionally, each center will need to provide SCOPS with an update on H-1B processing every Monday until we are within the 60-day processing goal, starting this coming Monday. We understand that Vermont's Monday update will not include cases adjudicated this weekend due to the fact that Claims will be unavailable for them. We would like to at least get a feel for how the weekend went and the progress made towards completing the F-1 cap gap caseload.

Finally, although you have probably already done so, we would like to ask that all of the F-1 cap gap H-1B cases be brought down to the floor to ensure that the adjudicators have this work available immediately.

I would like to set up our weekly teleconferences this week. Would Wednesday or Thursday at 1 PM EST work best for the centers?

Thanks!

Shelly

Yes, rich just reported they got 420 so we have over 900 racked and stacked combined. They have gotten the go ahead to start the barcoding. We should have that done by early afternoon.

There was definitely a little surge this week probably caused by the last posting of the numbers last week showing we were almost at the limit.

H1B CAP update:

Jim Fitzsimmons advises that to be safe, beginning Wednesday January 26 we not data enter the incoming FY11 CAP petitions until the contractor has received and counted all of them, that number is sent here to HQ and he determines if we can accept all of them or not. Accordingly please do instruct the contractor to rack and stack these petitions on Wednesday and send me the numerical count once the final incoming mail for the day is received, including Fedex and UPS.

Second, you should have barcoded labels prepared in advance for the contractor to apply should Jim determine we have to accept a portion, but not all , of a day's petitions. In this instance he'll run a random number generated program based on the barcoded numbers you send back. The lottery winners will be selected by the RNG. Instruct the contractor to follow existing procedures for the "Last-day" barcoding was done in December 2009 as it will be the same this year should it be necessary.

The projections in the table assume no surge this week. If that turns out to be true, then the final receipt date will be Friday.

Therefore, racking and stacking should begin on Wednesday in order to be safe.

Jim – is your target still 85,550 combined petitions? If we ended last Friday at 82,800 that leaves us 2,750 under your target. Last week's count went up by 2,066 over the previous week.

The four weeks since December 24 we gained 7,023 in total. Unless there is an uptick this week we should be able to get through Friday. Then Mondays being our typically heavy volume day, we may get close to an additional 1,000 next Monday.

What do you think? Anyone?

H1B CAP update:

Jim Fitzsimmons advises that to be safe, beginning Wednesday January 26 we not data enter the incoming FY11 CAP petitions until the contractor has received and counted all of them, that number is sent here to HQ and he determines if we can accept all of them or not. Accordingly please do instruct the contractor to rack and stack these petitions on Wednesday and send me the numerical count once the final incoming mail for the day is received, including Fedex and UPS.

Second, you should have barcoded labels prepared in advance for the contractor to apply should Jim determine we have to accept a portion, but not all , of a day's petitions. In this instance he'll run a random number generated program based on the barcoded numbers you send back. The lottery winners will be selected by the RNG. Instruct the contractor to follow existing procedures for the "Last-day" barcoding was done in December 2009 as it will be the same this year should it be necessary.

Denis,

The projections in the table assume no surge this week. If that turns out to be true, then the final receipt date will be Friday.

Therefore, racking and stacking should begin on Wednesday in order to be safe.

Jim – is your target still 85,550 combined petitions? If we ended last Friday at 82,800 that leaves us 2,750 under your target. Last week's count went up by 2,066 over the previous week.

The four weeks since December 24 we gained 7,023 in total. Unless there is an uptick this week we should be able to get through Friday. Then Mondays being our typically heavy volume day, we may get close to an additional 1,000 next Monday.

What do you think? Anyone?

H-1B QUOTA EXHAUSTION TARGET - MARCH 2011

Something new I'm starting. USCIS puts out weekly data on the use of H-1B visas for the 2011 fiscal year which starts in October. I'm going to monitor that for readers and add my own projection on the months the caps are likely to be hit. The quota is 65,000 per fiscal year plus an additional 20,000 for folks with degrees from US advanced degree programs. Applications began being accepted on April 1st. In past years, the H-1B quota was exhausted almost immediately after the application period opened up. Last year, as a result of the recession and also as a result of USCIS and Congress' war on staffing companies, H-1B usage fell sharply and the general quota was not reached until December. This year, usage is even more anemic.

As of August 13th, 29,700 H-1Bs have been used in the 65,000 quota. 1200 H-1Bs were receipted last week which is about the same as the prior two weeks. That represents a pick up in usage over prior months where about 500 to 700 H-1Bs were used each week. This could represent a pick up in economic activity in the US. It might also reflect the fact that we're getting closer to October 1st and H-1B employers don't have to hire far in advance anymore. Based on current usage, the H-1B quota will be exhausted in 29 weeks which is in March 2011.

Masters cap cases are at 12,300. The usage has been about 300 a week and this has been typical since April. Based on current usage, that quota will be used up in 25 weeks which is in February 2011.

Here is our snapshot of H-1B processing for last week. We have both the Cap (non-premium >60 days, and premium processing), and the EOS (non-premium processing, and premium).

This represents NON Premium Processing H1B cases. Below...
The left is FY11 CAP that includes cases filed on and after 1-APR-10.
The right is FY10 and FY11 H1B EOS cases filed on or after 1-OCT-09. .
The Initial pending sections represent only untouched cases that are older than 60 days.
The actions in this section are last week's NON PP actions (on cases filed in the same timeframes.)

Shelly,

Here is our current count, as we discussed late last week there doesn't show a lot of completions at this point due to the lack of systems available over the weekend. I'm hoping tomorrow's report will reflect a lot better where we are at. As you can see a majority of the Cap F-1 COS cases have been pushed out to officers now we just need to see the actions go out the door.

In case you have not heard, the H-1B cap season for FY 2011 ended on January 26th. It was a fun ride.

FY 2012 cap season begins April 1. The next cap count will be in mid-April.

Stay tuned.

The VSC Cap processing date (being distributed to officers), is 10/22/2010 and the EOS processing date 7/12/10. We are now within 60 days processing time on the cap cases and thus, we will focus our efforts on staying within 60 days on the cap cases while we continue to decrease the non-cap backlog.

Now that we are within 60 days on cap filings, do you still need us to report out weekly on this subset of H-1B filings?

We've also shuffled our responsibilities slightly. Claudia is now overseeing the H-1B classification, so I am copying her here.

Mack/Frank –

As we are now accounting for a new fiscal years' worth of cap cases, let me know what information SCOPS finds useful from the reports below, and if there are any changes that you need as we start reporting/accounting for FY12 H-1B cases. It would also be good to know if this reports need to continue now that we are so current with H-1B's.

If SCOPS is primarily concerned with the high level pending numbers, is it possible to have SCOPS (i.e. Jim Fitzsimmons) run these numbers when needed and rely on the Centers to report distribution dates? Just trying to streamline/minimize the reporting of data (if possible) since there are so many different reports issued by the Centers on a regular basis.

Lastly, if these reports are to continue, please let me know of there are any modifications that need to be made to the list of recipients. Not sure if Claudia wants to be copied, Frank wants to be removed, others added/removed, etc...

Subject: FW: VSC H-1B report

Mack,

When Keith says, 4/1 below, is he talking FY11 or FY12? I'm a little confused as the tables are all specific to FY10 or FY11 data... If FY12 (which I am thinking might be the case), how do they tell those cases apart from the rest of the petitions that were filed during the first 5 business days? Weren't they all given a data entry receipt date of April 7? Or was that only the PP cases?

Thanks!

Shelly

Shelly,

Here is this weeks report. We are changing our processing dates to be in line with California so currently our processing time (what we are distributing to officers) is 8/16/2010. I don't have this week's pending reports yet so I can't give you a back end date showing what we have worked through.

Our EOS date appears to be 5/27/2010.

As of cob last Friday Vermont had 516 unprocessed withdrawal letters and California had 77. These are a separately reported item for the contractor. However there is no breakdown for how many apply to the current FY H1B CAP. For me to require them to get current with same day processing will only help though if the adjudicative end is also same day killing off the cases.

For a short period of two weeks, to make the CAP season as accurate and fair as possible, I have no problem putting this as a top priority for the contractor to see to if you can send the same guidance on your end.

Regular RFE responses seem to be getting processed timely. I have no idea what the outstanding RFE inventory is for the CAP cases.

Good question. Before I can respond, I'd like to ask you a few additional questions. How far behind are they on letters? Does the contractor separate out the withdrawal requests from the regular RFE responses? If so, are they behind in RFE responses as well? Theoretically, any response to an RFE/ITD could ultimately result in a denial. It really comes down to what is contained in the response.

And this leads for a question for Jim...have you already factored potential withdrawals into your calculations for the target?

Shelly as we approach the cap limit is it important for the incoming withdrawal letter requests to be processed as denials or revocations the same day? Our contractor at VSC is not keeping entirely current with the incoming letters but if it's vital, we can prioritize that they get them completely up to the same day as received. But are the officers keeping up with them as fast? Does it matter, in the bigger picture?

Shelly:

Please see below for what is pending.

Today we will start adjudicating cap cases filed between 7/23/10 and 7/27/10.

Our EOS is still somewhat behind. We are at about 6/5/10 on EOS. We currently have 7 officers devoted full time to EOS, however, at a 1.5 CPH production standard, they move very slowly. I am looking at ways to increase the number of officers on EOS, and I possibly raising the standard.

Thanks,

Joe

We've reached the cap. We'll be doing a mini-lottery to determine the winners from the last day's filings and we'll coordinate with OCOMM/OPE on the communications piece.

Yes, rich just reported they got 420 so we have over 900 racked and stacked combined. They have gotten the go ahead to start the barcoding. We should have that done by early afternoon.

There was definitely a little surge this week probably caused by the last posting of the numbers last week showing we were almost at the limit.

H1B CAP update:

Jim Fitzsimmons advises that to be safe, beginning Wednesday January 26 we not data enter the incoming FY11 CAP petitions until the contractor has received and counted all of them, that number is sent here to HQ and he determines if we can accept all of them or not. Accordingly please do instruct the contractor to rack and stack these petitions on Wednesday and send me the numerical count once the final incoming mail for the day is received, including Fedex and UPS.

Second, you should have barcoded labels prepared in advance for the contractor to apply should Jim determine we have to accept a portion, but not all , of a day's petitions. In this instance he'll run a random number generated program based on the barcoded numbers you send back. The lottery winners will be selected by the RNG. Instruct the contractor to follow existing procedures for the "Last-day" barcoding was done in December 2009 as it will be the same this year should it be necessary.

Denis,

The projections in the table assume no surge this week. If that turns out to be true, then the final receipt date will be Friday.

Therefore, racking and stacking should begin on Wednesday in order to be safe.

Jim – is your target still 85,550 combined petitions? If we ended last Friday at 82,800 that leaves us 2,750 under your target. Last week's count went up by 2,066 over the previous week.

The four weeks since December 24 we gained 7,023 in total. Unless there is an uptick this week we should be able to get through Friday. Then Mondays being our typically heavy volume day, we may get close to an additional 1,000 next Monday.

What do you think? Anyone?

Shelly,

Here is our snapshot of H-1B processing for last week. We have both the Cap (non-premium >60 days, and premium processing), and the EOS (non-premium processing, and premium).

This represents NON Premium Processing H1B cases. Below...
The left is FY11 CAP that includes cases filed on and after 1-APR-10.
The right is FY10 and FY11 H1B EOS cases filed on or after 1-OCT-09. .
The Initial pending sections represent only untouched cases that are older than 60 days.
The actions in this section are last week's NON PP actions (on cases filed in the same timeframes.)

Shelly,
The emphasis has to be on combined cap since masters will count against regular beginning in five or six weeks. Also, petitioners must recognize that masters bennies are still eligible to be sponsored. Therefore, I suggest the following with a big bold message stating that masters petitions are still being accepted.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

Jim,

How would you recommend amending the chart once we hit the master's. Last year we didn't have a chart, but OCOMM was insistent this year. Should we add a "combined" line (see example below) with a caveat that any petitions filed under the master's exemption are counted against the regular cap once we hit the 20,000th approval, or something like that? I wanted to get started on these changes right away as I'll have to get them cleared by OCC, which could take a while.

Thanks!

To: Johnson, Bobbie L
Subject: H-1B Processing Update

Bobbie,

Here is a synopsis of this week's report from the CSC and the VSC:

CSC:

The CSC reported that they are at an 8/17 processing date for regular cap cases and an 9/1 processing date for master's cap. This is an improvement of a couple of days for the regular cap workload. The processing date for master's cap has improved significantly. They are now within two months on this category. Cap exempt is at 8/13 (last week this was at 7/17). The processing date for EOS has remained static from last week at 6/15. Joe stated that they will be training 21 additional officers on H-1Bs this week and next. These officers will be placed on the non-premium EOS cases. He hopes to have all H-1Bs current in three months. As of October 27, there were 6,586 initial H-1B petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. Of that number 2,648 have had an RFE/NOID issued and are pending response. There were 12,561 EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal. Of that number, 527 have had an RFE/NOID issued and are pending response.

From 10/18 to 10/22, the CSC approved 925 non premium cases, denied 128 non premium cases, and issued an RFE on 374 non premium cases. CSC also approved 1,323 premium cases, denied 97 premium cases, and issued an RFE on 311 premium cases during the same time period.

VSC:

The VSC reported that they are at a 8/20 processing date for cap cases (last week this was at 8/16). The processing date for EOS is at 6/3 (last week was 5/27). As of October 25, there were 2,955 untouched cap petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. There were 11,783 untouched EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal.

From 10/17 to 10/23, the VSC approved 772 non premium cases, denied 133 non premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 242 non premium cases. VSC also approved 1,947 premium cases, denied 69 premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 383 premium cases during the same time period.

Thanks!

Bobbie,

I have heard back from VSC and CSC. The CSC pending numbers do include petitions where an RFE has been issued but the case hasn't been worked to completion. The VSC pending only includes untouched files with the exception of a limited number of cases where the C3 update doesn't appear. I'll ask Pete to include the RFE issued numbers in the pending counts for the weekly report.

Thanks!

Shelly,

No I don't think the charts below show those figures (other than some of the initial pending with the contractor are cases that have actually been RFEd but CLAIMS doesn't show the update yet). Those figures would be available on our local CAP report but I'm not sure how easy they would be to get for the EOS cases.

Our Cap processing time is June 11th, 2010 (however what we are distributing to the floor is mid-August).

Our EOS processing time is still May 21, 2010 – we should see this jump very soon as we have begun handing out EOS cases to some of our newly trained resources.

Shelly,

Here is our snapshot of H-1B processing for last week. We have both the Cap (non-premium >60 days, and premium processing), and the EOS (non-premium processing, and premium).

This represents NON Premium Processing H1B cases. Below...
The left is FY11 CAP that includes cases filed on and after 1-APR-10.
The right is FY10 and FY11 H1B EOS cases filed on or after 1-OCT-09. .
The Initial pending sections represent only untouched cases that are older than 60 days.
The actions in this section are last week's NON PP actions (on cases filed in the same timeframes.)

Pete,

Many thanks for the below. Is there any way that VSC could provide an update on the amount of OT used to date and officer actions (e.g. approvals, denials, RFEs, intents)?

Thanks!

Shelly

Shelly,

Here are today's figures.

Here is today's initial receipts summary that you asked for:

| | Older than 60 days: |
|---|---|
| F1 COS to H1B | 799 |
| With Officer | 578 |
| With Contractor* | 165 |
| ADJ Staged | 31 |
| Other | 25 |

|---|---|
| All Cap > 60 | 3141 |
| With Officer | 2199 |
| With Contractor* | 646 |
| ADJ Staged | 184 |
| Other | 112 |

- The "with contractor" includes some cases that were approved or rfed yesterday after the oracle tables were updated.

- For the F-1s in the first section all of the 165 appear to be approvals or RFEs where CLAIMS has not caught up with the location.

These numbers look really good. They represent an 18% increase in CPH over the annual figure. Please pass along my appreciation to your SISO and ISOs for their ability to rally when we need them most.

Hi, Don – we share your concern about the I-129s. Our review of the situation is that it's the non-premium processing H1Bs that are backlogged. The other I-129s are current, to include all the premium processing cases.

I've attached a plan prepared by Joe Fierro in Div I to address how he'll reduce the number of pending cases. With the realignment of a couple divisions, we discovered there were insufficient officers dedicated to the non-premium processing H1Bs. Division II has been and will continue to assist until we can even out the workloads. You'll note that the plan addresses a number of staffing drains on the Division, to include key projects such as VIBE.

We're working closely with the ACDs and the PDA team to ensure that staffing and workloads are properly assessed and realigned as necessary. While I'm out this week, John will focus on this project to ensure that Joe's plan adequately addresses these backlogs. Where necessary, we'll find ways to tighten up his plan to ensure that this backlog is aggressively eliminated.

National Production Report
August 2010 Preliminary Data

Management Highlights

Notes:

1. Frontlog data is currently not included in the August report. As of the end of August, there were approximately 6,200 cases in the frontlog, down 91% compared to last month's frontlog balance of 68,000 cases. The significant decrease in the frontlog is attributable to the elimination of TPS frontlog which fell from 47,500 to 0 cases, followed by the elimination of the standalone I-130 frontlog which fell from 12,200 to 0 cases. The only frontlog in August was comprised of approximately 6,200 Adjustment of Status-related applications.

- SERVICEWIDE
  - Receipts (708,549) – Total receipts, excluding frontlogged applications, increased by 100,000 or 16% from 609,000 to 709,000 with a slight majority of application types experiencing an increase over July's levels. Receipts in August represent the highest volume since the July/August 2007 surge, although the vast majority of this month's increase is attributable to TPS re-registrations for El Salvador. YTD receipts stand at 95% of annual projections. Through August 2010, YTD receipts should be at 92% of annual projections. Historically, (since FY 2000) receipt levels in August rank 2nd out of 12 (July ranks 6th) in terms of each month's proportion of the annual volume and this figure discounts the effect of surges related to TPS as well as all of FY 2007 data (due to the July/August 2007 surge). Based on this historical trend, August receipts would have been expected to come in above July's levels by about 8%. When discounting TPS cases, August receipts actually came in at 4% above July's levels.

- The largest increase was realized in Form I-765, which increased by 48,000 or 33% followed by Form I-821, up 41,000 or 68%. Both increases were primarily due to an influx of TPS renewals associated with El Salvador. Haiti TPS initial registrations totaled about 740 in August down from 2,300 in July, a 67% drop.
- The 3rd largest increase was realized in Form I-130 Immediate Relatives up 7,300 or 21% followed by Form I-130 Preference which increased by 5,900 or 37%. The material increase in both forms may be partly attributable to last month's frontlog balance of at least 12,000 cases which was eliminated during the month of August. YTD receipts for these two forms stand at 89% and 99%, respectively.
- Form I-129 experienced an increase of 5,100 or 17%. Through the end of August, H-1B receipts stood at 50,000 or 59% of the 85,000 cap. Through August, I-129 receipts are 5% lower than through the same period last fiscal year.
- Form I-140 experienced a 23% increase or 1,600 cases and reached a 31-month high. Through August, I-140 receipts are 32% higher than through the same period last fiscal year. YTD receipts equal 69,600 and stand at 93% of annual projections.
- Form N-400 Regular experienced the most significant decrease, down 5,800 or 9% and reached a 6-month low of 55,500 cases. YTD receipts stand at 94% of annual projections.
- Form I-90 experienced the 2nd largest decrease, down 4,500 or 7%. YTD receipts stand at 109% of annual projections.
- Form I-131 Reentry Permit/Refugee Travel Doc. experienced the 3rd largest decrease, down 2,300 or 22% although last month's data point represented a 29-month high. YTD receipts stand at 103% of annual projections.

- Pending (2,085,794) – total pending, excluding the frontlog, increased by 11,000 or 1% compared to the prior month. August represents the 6th consecutive monthly increase in pending, an event not experienced since the end of the surge in August 2007. The total increase in pending can be traced primarily to increases in the pending volume of Forms I-765 and I-821.
- The top 3 increases were:
- Form I-765: up 29,000 or 12% due to the TPS renewal
- Form I-821: up 26,000 or 28% due to the TPS renewal
- Form I-130 Immediate Relatives: up 15,000 or 8%
- Other notable increases include Form I-129, up 9,400 or 13%, Form I-539, up 2,400 or 9% and Form I-140, up 2,100 or 11%.
- The top 3 decreases were:
- Form I-130 Preference: down 48,000 or 16%. The pending as of the end of August 2010 stands at less than 1/3 of August 2009 levels (248,000 versus 808,000).
- Form I-485 Regular: down 13,000 or 4% attributable to a 14,000 decrease in Employment-based pending.
- Form I-90: down 10,000 or 6%

- Active Suspense (493,251) – this month, total cases in active suspense fell by 72,000 or 13%. This month's balance stands at 44% of the August 2009 balance (493,000 versus 1,121,000). Note: beginning in October 2009, the only cases that are considered deductible are RFE/Notices of Intent to Deny, visa unavailable and pending N-400 re-exam.
- This month, I-130 Preference cases experienced the largest decrease, down 55,000 or 20%.
- Form I-485 Regular experienced the second largest decrease, down 13,600 or 6% attributable to a reduction in the number of visa regressed deductibles.
- Form I-821 had the third largest decrease, down 2,700 or 57%.
- Forms N-400 had the largest increase, up 1,700 or 12% due largely to an increase in Pending Re-Exam deductibles.

- Completions (724,572) – total completions in August increased by 134,000 or 23% and reached a 17-month high while Equivalent Unit (EU) completions fell by 11%. A majority of form types experienced an increase in August and the disparity in the % increase between nominal and EU completions is attributable to very high production of low-EU forms such as I-765 and I-821. Through August 2010, total production for the fiscal year reached 89% of the annual goal.

- Officer Hours on production activities (adjudicating form types) increased by 9% while the number of on-board officers fell 1%. The increase in production hours is partly attributable to more business days (up 5% compared to July) as well as a 7% reduction in leave usage.
- Hours on production activities in August ranked 5th out of 12 during the last fiscal year; August 2010 hours on production ranks 5th out of 11 for FY10TD.

- Officer Hours on Clerical Activities increased by 1% in August. August 2010 Officer Hours on Clerical Activities are 36% higher than during the same period last year. YTD Officer Hours on Clerical Activities amount to 166,000 compared to 140,000 through the same period last year, an 18% increase. Officer Training Hours increased 9% and YTD Officer training hours amount to 357,000 compared to 706,000 through the same period last year, a 49% reduction.
- In addition, the ratio of 'Officer Hours to Other Programs' to 'Officer Hours on production activities' continues to increase and reach new historic highs.

- Form I-765 and I-821 production experienced the largest increase, up 54,000 (or 45%) and 48,000 (or 187%), respectively.
- Form I-130 Preference production experienced the 3rd largest increase, up 18,000 or 34% with Field Office production up 8,800 or 33% and Service Center production 9,500 or 35%. Field Office I-130 Preference production hit a 12-month high in August and the completion rate reached a 12-month low of 35 minutes per completion.
- Form I-485 Regular production was up 7,300 or 16%, led by a 5,500 increase in Employment-based production which reached a 10-month high.
- Form N-400 Regular production increased by 6,500 or 12% and reached a fiscal year to-date high of 61,600.
- The largest decrease in production was in Immigrant Visas which fell 7,100 or 14%. There is no backlog in this form type.
- Form I-130 Immediate Relatives experienced the 2nd largest drop in production, down 5,700 or 16%. A net backlog of 270 cases emerged in August.
- Other notable decreases include Form I-129F which fell 2,200 or 43% and Form I-918 which fell 1,200 or 87%. However, there is no backlog in Form I-129F and the drop in I-918 production is attributable to reaching the visa cap last month.

Note: the effect of pre-adjudicating EB I-485s is factored into each month's EU production calculation.

- Backlog

- Net Backlog (31,281) – total net backlog increased by 10,000 or 48%.

- The largest increase was in Form I-129 which went from 1,690 to 9,200 or up 7,500. The increase is attributable to insufficient production keeping pace with receipts falling out of acceptable pending, as well as due to a +2,500 inventory/audit (column K) adjustment.
- Form I-485 Asylee increased from 0 to 1,423. The reemergence of a net backlog is attributable to a +2,100 inventory/audit (column K) adjustment.
- The net backlog in Form I-918 increased by 1,200 or 68%. Receipts for this application continue to come in at expected rates but the cap on visas was reached last month. Therefore, the net backlog is expected to grow until the start of FY 2011.
- A net backlog in Form I-526 emerged in August for the first time in 18 months (38 cases).
- The largest decrease in the net backlog was in Waivers, down 287 or 95% followed by Genealogy, down 191 or 40%.

- Gross Backlog (391,046) – the gross backlog fell by 39,000 or 9% led primarily by a drop in the I-130 Preference gross backlog. Less than 40% of the gross backlog is now comprised of I-130 Preference cases (38%).
- The largest decrease in the gross backlog occurred in Form I-130 Preference which fell by 48,000 or 24% followed by Form I-485 Employment-based, down 13,400 or 7%.

- The largest increase in the gross backlog took place in Form I-130 Immediate Relatives which reached 8,000 this month (compared to zero last month) followed by Form I-129, up 7,800 or 93%. Based on the historical pattern, the I-129 backlog should be eliminated by September.
- The I-485 Asylee gross backlog increased by 2,387 cases due primarily to a + 2,500 inventory/audit (column K) adjustment.
- There continues to be a zero gross backlog in Form N-400 Regular and Military

Division I Adjudicative Process Plan

Reference:

- 2008-2012 Strategic Plan, Goal 2, Objective 2:1- Improve timely processing of immigration benefits (pg 25).

Challenge:

- Improve processing times of H-1B Non PP filings. Devise plan for processing of PP and non pp H-1Bs in Division 1.

Goal:

- Bring Non PP H-1B filings to within external goal of 2 months in 30 days or less.
- Bring Non PP H-1B filings to within internal goal of 30 days in 60 days or less.

* Note: Establish a new internal goal of 30 days processing time for non PP cases.

After 6 weeks, a reevaluation will be conducted to make appropriate modifications.
