Using forecasting and planning tools, such a the G-22 and CATS reports and staffing model projections based on the SAM, Div 1 has determined that 57-58 officers are required to adequately staff Division 1. Division 1 is currently assigned52 officers.

With 5 officers on detail and 2 new officers coming on board, Division 1 will currently have a pool of 49 officers to adjudicate its workload. 2 officers will return from detail by September 27.

* In addition, Division 2 will assist with Non PP EOS cases.

Premium Processing and Regular EOS petitions:

All ISOs will be assigned to the Premium Processing and Regular EOS workload with the exception of the ISOs who will assist with the below non-PP categories.

* Note: Division 2 will also assist with the H1B EOS filings.

Non-PP categories: Cognizant, CAP, and CAP exempt workload –

- 2 ISOs assigned to non-PP Cognizant
- 3 ISOs assigned to non-PP Master CAP
- 3 ISOs assigned to non-PP Regular CAP
- 3 ISOs assigned to non-PP CAP exempt

*Once the non-PP Cognizant workload has been adjudicated, the ISOs will be rotated back into the PP and EOS workload.

*Once a CAP/CAP exempt category above is within 60 days of processing, the ISOs assigned to the respective category will be rotated out of the workload and return to assisting with the PP and EOS workload, or new officers will be rotated in if it is necessary to keep officers on the non PP tracks.

- Within 6 weeks our goal will be to reach a processing time of 60 days.

- Within 2 months, we will strive for an internal processing time of 30 days and maintain the processing time through appropriate workload modifications.

Areas to improve efficiency:

1. FID cases:

   Reference: 2008-2012 Strategic Plan, Goal 1, Objective 1.2: Deter, detect, and pursue immigration related fraud (pg 21).

   - FID cases are currently redistributed to two officers.
   - Re-engineer, establish new SOP and map out process.
   - Implement new process.

VIBE:

HQ continues to require three full-time officers to pilot the VIBE program.
- Estimated completion date, 3 months.

Initial process – currently implemented

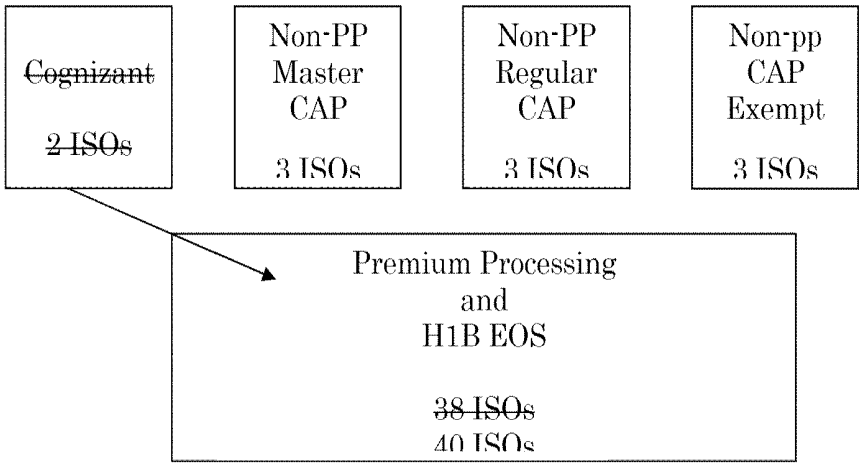
By mid October, we anticipate completing all the non-PP Cognizant cases and rotating the respective ISOs to the general PP/EOS population. By this time, the non-PP CAP/CAP exempt categories should be within 60 days of processing.



---

By mid November, we anticipate reaching our internal goal of being within 30 days of processing. We will then adjust the work assignments accordingly.

USCIS Continues to Accept FY 2011 H-1B Petitions

WASHINGTON—U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) today announced it continues to accept H-1B nonimmigrant petitions subject to the Fiscal Year 2011 (FY 2011) cap. USCIS will monitor the number of petitions received for both the 65,000 general cap and the 20,000 U.S. master's degree or higher educational exemption.

USCIS has received approximately 13,500 H-1B petitions counting toward the 65,000 cap. The agency has received approximately 5,600 petitions for individuals with advanced degrees.

USCIS will provide regular updates on the processing of FY 2011 H-1B petitions. These updates and helpful filing information can be found at USCIS' Web site <http://www.uscis.gov/portal/site/uscis/menuitem.5af9bb95919f35e66f614176543f6d1a/?vgnextoid=4b7cdd1d5fd37210VgnVCM100000082ca60aRCRD&vgnextchannel=73566811264a3210VgnVCM100000b92ca60aRCRD>. Should USCIS receive the necessary number of petitions to meet the cap, it will issue an update to advise the public, that the FY 2011 H-1B cap has been met as of a certain date (the "final receipt date"). The final receipt date will be based on the date USCIS physically receives the petition, not the date that the petition has been postmarked. The date USCIS informs the public that the cap has been reached may differ from the actual final receipt date.

To ensure a fair system, USCIS may randomly select the number of petitions required to reach the numerical limit from the petitions received on the final receipt date. USCIS will reject cap subject petitions that are not selected, as well as those received after the final receipt date.

For cases filed for premium processing during the initial five-day filing window of April 1-7, the 15-day premium processing period began April 7. For cases filed for premium processing after the filing window, the premium processing period begins on the date that the petition is physically received at the correct USCIS Service Center.

Petitions filed by employers who are exempt from the cap or petitions filed on behalf of current H-1B workers who have been counted previously against the cap within the past six years will not count toward the congressionally mandated H-1B cap.

Therefore, USCIS will continue to process all petitions filed. For more information on USCIS and its programs, visit www.uscis.gov <http://www.uscis.gov/>.

H-1B in General: U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

Interesting to see how the masters to bachelors ratio is higher this year than ever and that trend probably continues into the future. In 10 years we will have two categories, the masters cap and the PhD Exemption.

Thanks – aside from H1B CAP we really are doing pretty well revenue wise. I-140 premiums keep growing month over month

Premium processing for March was $6.6M or $59.1% above projections. Through the end of the 2nd Quarter, collections are $39.9M or 58.1% above the FY 2011 projections.

The increase in premium processing revenue are tied to significant growth in the use of premium processing for I-140 applications.

Jim and I checked the numbers and we're at 9,902 total.

Data entry started this morning on the Premiums (1,598 at CSC & 2,143 at VSC). I should have a data entry count included starting tomorrow.

Jim I think the contractor has reclassified their initial Premiums count and its lower than what you're showing. Your total and theirs is about the same (I get a difference of 1) but the 4 categories are different – do you want to recalculate?

Thanks Tom, and for my part here's the March fee register report for Vermont. Don't have the other yet.

Initial reports on H1B filing season are that it was very light, lower even than last year when we took in 19,000 petitions between April 1-7. This year it looks like fewer than 10,000 came in yesterday. This should mean the incumbent will have most of this year's filings data entry complete by cob April 15, perhaps all of them.

Subtracting out the normal daily volume would leave maybe 4,000 H1B packages at best. That could mean 6,000 total filings averaging 1.5 per package.

The bloom appears to be off the high tech visa rose.

Walter just so I am sure, this is the gross mail count with CAP and nonCAP mail altogether, right? Assuming that assumption is correct the amount of CAP packages in this should be 4,000 at most.

I think I misused the term applications. I know we had more denials and revokes than that. Jim F's target in past years was over 90,000 applications total.

He'll be in on Monday, but what he told me was with the approvals we already had , 69,000, plus about 16,500 pendings, taking out the denials that will happen, we would end up with the 85,000 approvals. He also reserves about 1,000 of the 85,000 for chile Singapore and that factors into his calculations.

Ali,

I asked folks to put together just a few bullets that you might find informative relative to our reaching the cap:

* USCIS reached the FY2011 H1B Cap on January 26, 2011 vs. December 21, 2009 in FY2010

* On the final day we received 916 applications. 24 were rejected, 683 were randomly selected by programmed software and processed. 209 were not selected and will be rejected back.

* Our total target for applications accepted was 85,550. This allows us to deny some of the pending applications and still issue the CAP target of 85,000 visas.

* The 20,000 visas allotted to Master's Degree holders only was reached in late December; since then, all applications from Master's Degree holders have been applied to the 65,000 visa cap.

* Planning is underway for FY2012 CAP season beginning April 1. Overtime for some agency personnel may be authorized in order to successfully service the large number of Premium Processing filings usually received during the initial days of the new filing period.

We have this down to a science now, but it wasn't always that way.

I hope this is helpful,

Don

Don, here are some bullets you can pick and choose from for Ali; if there are some things I'm not thinking about respond back and I'll dig up the data.

- USCIS reached the FY2011 H1B Cap on January 26, 2011 vs. December 21, 2009 in FY2010
- On the final day we received 916 applications. 24 were rejected, 683 were randomly selected by programmed software and processed. 209 were not selected and will be rejected back.

- Planning is underway for FY2012 CAP season beginning April 1. Overtime for some agency personnel may be necessary in order to successfully service the large number of Premium Processing filings usually received during the initial regulatory required five business day filing period.

Yes, rich just reported they got 420 so we have over 900 racked and stacked combined. They have gotten the go ahead to start the barcoding. We should have that done by early afternoon.

There was definitely a little surge this week probably caused by the last posting of the numbers last week showing we were almost at the limit.

H1B CAP update:

Jim Fitzsimmons advises that to be safe, beginning Wednesday January 26 we not data enter the incoming FY11 CAP petitions until the contractor has received and counted all of them, that number is sent here to HQ and he determines if we can accept all of them or not. Accordingly please do instruct the contractor to rack and stack these petitions on Wednesday and send me the numerical count once the final incoming mail for the day is received, including Fedex and UPS.

Second, you should have barcoded labels prepared in advance for the contractor to apply should Jim determine we have to accept a portion, but not all , of a day's petitions. In this instance he'll run a random number generated program based on the barcoded numbers you send back. The lottery winners will be selected by the RNG. Instruct the contractor to follow existing procedures for the "Last-day" barcoding was done in December 2009 as it will be the same this year should it be necessary.

Denis,

The projections in the table assume no surge this week. If that turns out to be true, then the final receipt date will be Friday.

Therefore, racking and stacking should begin on Wednesday in order to be safe.

Jim – is your target still 85,550 combined petitions? If we ended last Friday at 82,800 that leaves us 2,750 under your target. Last week's count went up by 2,066 over the previous week.

The four weeks since December 24 we gained 7,023 in total. Unless there is an uptick this week we should be able to get through Friday. Then Mondays being our typically heavy volume day, we may get close to an additional 1,000 next Monday.

What do you think? Anyone?

Yes, rich just reported they got 420 so we have over 900 racked and stacked combined. They have gotten the go ahead to start the barcoding. We should have that done by early afternoon.

There was definitely a little surge this week probably caused by the last posting of the numbers last week showing we were almost at the limit.

Chapter 3: Numerical Limitations and Limits on Periods of Stay

A. H-1B and Other Caps

1. The H-1B Cap. The number of new H-1B visas issued each year is limited by statute.[47] This limit, called the cap, has traditionally been set at 65,000 visas, although it has been increased by Congress in some years. The H-1B cap applies to each Fiscal Year, which begins on October 1st. Petitions for the upcoming Fiscal Year are accepted no earlier than the preceding April 1st (or the first working day after that date) because an H-1B petition may not be filed or approved more than six months before the date of actual need.[48]

The H-1B cap only applies to the principal H-1B and not to the spouse and children of the beneficiary, who obtain their visas under the H-4 classification.[49]

In addition to the regular H-1B cap, a separate cap exists for one of the exemptions to the regular H-1B cap. H-1B beneficiaries who possess a Master's degree or higher from a US institution are exempt from the cap. This exemption is discussed below and in Chapter 4 of this Part. This exemption from the cap is itself capped at 20,000 per year.

Beginning with fiscal year (FY) 1992, the H-1B cap has historically been set and met as follows.

| FY | Number of H-1B Visas | Date Cap Met |
|---|---|---|
| 1992 to 1996 | 65,000 | Cap not met |
| 1997 | 65,000 | September 1, 1997 |

2. The H-1B1 Cap. 1,400 professionals from Chile and 5,400 professional from Singapore are allowed to enter the US as H-1B1s in a fiscal year. Only the principal H-1B1 visa holder counts against the cap; spouses and children do not count. Only the first admission or conferral of status counts against the cap; subsequent extensions do not count until the sixth extension (which would be for the seventh year as an H-1B1). All subsequent extensions after the sixth extension counts against the H-1B cap.

The Chile and Singapore Free Trade Agreements affect the regular H-1B cap numbers as follows:

| Classification | Limitation |
|---|---|
| HSC – from Chile | 1,400 |
| HSC – from Singapore | 5,400 |
| H-1B – from all other countries | 58,200 |
| Total | 65,000 |

The H-1B1 cap is a set-aside from the regular H-1B cap. USCIS subtracts the H-1B1 cap from the regular H-1B cap at the beginning of the fiscal year and allocates those positions to H-1B1 petitions throughout the course of the year. At the end of the fiscal year, any H-1B1 slots that went unused are allocated to pending H-1B petitions so that the full allotment of H-1B cap slots are used.

3. The E-3 cap. E-3 visas are limited to 10,500 per year. These visas do not count against the H-1B cap. Spouses and children of E-3s do not count against the cap.

4. Petitions not subject to the cap. Not all H-1B petitions count against the cap. Petitions requesting an extension of H-1B status do not count against the cap unless the H-1B would be eligible for a new six-year period of admission.[51]

When multiple petitions are approved on behalf of an alien, only one approval is counted against the cap. For example, if an H-1B changes employers pursuant to the filing of a petition by a new employer, the second petition will not count against the cap unless the H-1B would be eligible for a new six-year period. This is also the case when an H-1B requests concurrent employment with another H-1B petitioner.

As noted above, dependent family members do not count against the cap.

When an alien previously in H-1B status who left the US is seeking to return to complete the remainder of the previously approved petition, the second petition does not count against the cap unless the alien would be eligible for a new six-year period of admission. This is known as "remainder time" and will be discussed in Chapter 5.

In addition to petitions that are not subject to the cap, there are several exemptions from the cap. These will be discussed in more detail in Chapter 4 of this Part. The cap exemptions include petitions filed by:

- Institutions of higher education, as defined in section 101(a) of the Higher Education Act of 1965, 20 U.S.C. § 1001(a);
- Nonprofit entities related to or affiliated with an institution of higher education; and
- Nonprofit research organizations or governmental research organizations.[52]

They also include situations in which:

- The beneficiary possesses a Master's degree or higher from a US university (limited to 20,000 per year);
- The beneficiary will be working exclusively within Guam and/or the Commonwealth of the Northern Marianas Islands;[53]
- The beneficiary was admitted to the United States as a J-1 nonimmigrant in order to receive graduate medical training and has received a waiver of the two-year foreign residence requirement to practice primary care or specialty care medicine in a medically underserved area or for an interested federal or state agency.[54] This is often referred to as a "Conrad 20" or "Conrad 30" waiver.

5. Cap for DOD H-1B2 Petitions. DOD researchers who provide services of an exceptional nature relating to DOD research and development projects or coproduction projects are classified as H-1B2. The H-1B2 classification has its own, separate numerical limitation. A maximum of 100 H-1B2 workers can be employed at any time.[55]

6. Petitioner Choice. There may be situations in which a petitioner files an H-1B petition as subject to the cap, but upon review of the petition the officer determines that the beneficiary qualifies for an exemption, or the petitioner itself is cap exempt. In all such cases, the petitioner's choice regarding cap applicability should be used.

7. Cap Determination is Made Prior to Acceptance of Petition. The determination of an available cap slot or an exemption must be made before the H-1B petition is accepted and adjudicated. If the numerical limitation for the current fiscal year has not been reached, USCIS will accept the petition for cap-subject employment and adjudication may commence. If the cap-subject petition is approved, employment may not commence until October 1st of the cap fiscal year, or the requested start date, whichever is later.

If the numerical limitation for the current fiscal year has been reached, USCIS may not accept the petition for cap-subject employment.

B. Limitations on Periods of Stay

1. H-1B Time Limit. Generally, an H-1B may be admitted for a maximum period of six years.[56] This is typically divided into two three-year validity periods separated by a request for an extension. [57] Exceptions that will allow extensions of H-1B status beyond six years are discussed later in this chapter.

Barring the applicability of one of these exceptions, generally the alien must be outside the United States for one year before he or she can return as an H-1B.

Time spent in L nonimmigrant status applies to the H-1B time limit. In other words, an L nonimmigrant who changes status to H-1B would only be eligible for a three-year period of admission as an H-1B. Similarly, time spent as an H-1B counts against the applicable time limits for the L nonimmigrant category.[58]

[54] INA 214(l)(2)(A).
[55] 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(i)(B).
[56] INA 214(g)(4); 8 CFR 214.2(h)(13)(iii).
[57] 8 CFR 214.2(h)(9)(iii)(A)(1).
[58] The L-1A and L-1B time limits are seven and six years, respectively. Thus an H-1B who has completed the six year period could change status to L-1A for one year if eligible, but not to L-1B.

2. Spouse and Dependents.H-1B time limits apply only to the principal H-1B nonimmigrant and do not apply independently to the principal's spouse and children.

Time spent as an H-4 dependent does not count against the maximum allowable period of stay available to principals in H-1B status. Thus, an alien who was previously an H-4 and subsequently becomes an H-1B principal is eligible for the maximum period of stay. Conversely, an H-1B principal who subsequently changes to H-4 status may remain in the derivative status for as long as the principal alien spouse maintains that principal status.

3. Intermittent Employment. The H-1B time limits do not apply to someone who does not reside continually in the United States and whose employment in the United States is seasonal or intermittent or for an aggregate of six months or less per year.

Further, the limitations do not apply to aliens who reside abroad and regularly commute to the United States to engage in part-time employment. To qualify for this exception, the petitioner and the alien must provide clear and convincing proof that the alien qualifies for such an exception. Such proof shall consist of evidence such as arrival and departure records, copies of tax returns, and records of employment abroad.

4. H-1B1 Time Limits. H-1B1s for national of Chile and Singapore are approved in one-year increments. Extensions may be granted indefinitely in one-year increments.

5. E-3 Time Limits. An E-3 is subject to the same initial time limits as an H-1B. The E-3 may be approved for a three year period and may obtain extensions in three year increments. Unlike the H-1B, however, the E-3 may obtain extensions indefinitely so long as nonimmigrant intent is maintained.

C. Exemptions from H-1B Time Limits

1. Pending Application for Labor Certification or Immigrant Classification. AC21 created an exception to the six-year limit in H-1B status for aliens who were the subject of "lengthy adjudications."[59] These changes apply to H-1Bs who are in the process of seeking permanent residence based on their employment. The changes reflect Congress' recognition of the fact that seeking and obtaining permanent residence is a long process, often through no fault of the alien. They also evidence a desire to avoid imposing the costs of government processing timelines on these aliens and on their employers, as often it is the H-1B employer who is also the immigrant petitioner, and whose operations would be disrupted by the H-1B worker having to leave the US during processing of the immigrant petition.

The six-year H-1B time limit does not apply to the petition when, as of the date of filing an extension request:

[59] Sections 104(c) and 106(a) of P.L. 106-313.

- 365 or more days have passed since the filing of any application for labor certification with DOL to obtain status as an immigrant; and the labor certification, if approved, has not been revoked, is unexpired or has been timely filed with an EB petition within the labor certification's validity period; or

- 365 or more days have passed since the filing of an EB immigrant petition that is still pending; or;

- The alien is the beneficiary of an approved EB immigration petition and is not able to file to adjust status to lawful permanent residence based on the unavailability of an immigrant visa number.

A request for H-1B time beyond six years should not be granted if it is based on a labor certification having been filed and at the time of the request, the labor certification has expired by virtue of not having been timely filed in support of an EB immigrant petition during its validity period, as specified by DOL.

So long as one or more of the above requirements are met, there is no limit on how long the exemption applies, and thus how long the qualifying H-1B may remain in H-1B status.

Officers should be aware of the fact that in the second bullet above, the employment-based petition need not be one that requires a labor certification. For example, a qualifying religious organization may employ an H-1B as a nonimmigrant and then seek to obtain permanent residence on the worker's behalf through the filing of an I-360, which does not require labor certification. As this section of the statute merely requires an employment-based immigrant petition, if 365 days have passed since the filing of the petition, the H-1B may qualify for additional time beyond the initial six years.

2. Effect of Decision on a Labor Certification or Immigrant Petition. USCIS will grant an extension of stay to such H-1B nonimmigrants in one-year increments until a final decision is made to:

(i) Deny the application for labor certification; or if the labor certification is approved, to deny the EB immigrant petition that was filed pursuant to the approved labor certification;

(ii) Deny the EB immigrant petition; or

(iii) Grant or deny the beneficiary's application for an immigrant visa or for adjustment of status.

If the application is denied or revoked, the employer is advised that there is a period of time within which the decision may be appealed to the Board of Alien Labor Certification Appeals (BALCA):

- For denied Form ETA 750 labor certification applications filed prior to March 28, 2005, the employer must file an appeal within 90 days.

- For denied or revoked Form ETA 9089 labor certification applications, the employer must file an appeal within 30 days.

If the employer does not file an appeal within the required timeframe, the denial becomes the final decision of the Secretary of Labor. USCIS will not consider a DOL decision to be final until either the time for appeal has run and no appeal has been filed or, if an appeal is taken, the date a decision is issued by BALCA.

The labor certification will still be considered "pending" while the denial or revocation of the labor certification application may be appealed, or while the appeal is actually pending, for the purposes of determining if an H-1B nonimmigrant is eligible for extension of stay.

I-140 petition denials should also not be considered final for purposes of AC21 § 106(b) during the 33 day appeal period permitted or, if an appeal is filed, during the time the appeal is pending.

3. Request for 7th Year of H-1B and Beyond. A request for additional H-1B time will usually be in the form of a petition with a request for extension of stay by the current H-1B employer. However this is not a requirement. The extension request may come from the current H-1B employer or it may come with a request for a change of employment to a new H-1B employer. Also, the employer for whom the H-1B will be working beyond the sixth year need not be the same employer who is the intending employer on the immigrant petition or labor certification.

A qualified alien need not be in H-1B status in order to obtain additional H-1B time. The alien may obtain such additional periods of H-1B admission through a petition to change status from another nonimmigrant classification, or through H-1B visa issuance at a U.S. consulate and admission from abroad. This is because the statute does not speak in terms of an extension or in terms of H-1B status, but simply states that if one of the qualifying conditions are met, then the time limits contained in the INA[60] simply do not apply.

4. Combined 6th and 7th Year Requests. A petitioner may simultaneously request the remaining H-1B time left in the initial six-year period of admission with the additional time allowed by AC21. Seventh year extension requests under section 106(a) of AC21 may be made in a petition that also contains a request for an extension that reaches the maximum six-year limit. USCIS officers should first determine the amount of H-1B extension time that may be granted to reach the six-year limitation of stay, then determine if the permanent labor certification or Form I-140 petition was filed at least 365 before the conclusion of the six year limitation of stay. If so, then the additional one year extension may be granted. If the beneficiary would no longer be in H-1B status at the time that 365 days from the filing of the permanent labor certification or immigrant petition has run, then the additional time beyond the six years cannot be granted.

In no case may the total time given by an H-1B approval exceed three years.

5. Documentation in Support of a Request for H-1B Time beyond Six Years.

(a) Based on Labor Certification. USCIS will accept the following documents as evidence that a labor certification filed on behalf of the H-1B beneficiary is still pending, or has been certified and is still valid:

- If the labor certification is a Form ETA 750 that is still pending with DOL, a screen-print from the DOL Public Disclosure System (PDS) that shows the status of the labor certification is 'In Process' or is actively 'On Appeal' that includes the name of the petitioning employer, the date that the Form ETA 750 was filed, the name of the beneficiary, and the case number assigned to the pending Form ETA 750; or

- If the labor certification application was certified before July 16, 2007, a complete copy of the Form ETA- 750 or Form ETA- 9089 which shows the date of certification and a copy of the Form I-140 petition receipt notice for the petition filed on behalf of the H-1B beneficiary; or

- If the labor certification was certified on or after July 16, 2007, a complete copy of the Form ETA-750 or Form ETA-9089 which shows the date of certification and the date the labor certification will expire, along with a copy of the Form I-140 petition receipt notice for the petition filed on behalf of the H-1B beneficiary.

- If an applicant for extension of stay cannot present a screen print from the PDS, he or she may present a letter from DOL issued within the previous 60 days prior to the filing of the extension petition instead. The DOL letter must explain why the PDS screen print is unavailable and verify that an application for a labor certification is pending.

(b) Based on Visa Unavailability. USCIS interprets section 104(c) of AC21 as only applicable when a beneficiary, who has an approved Form I-140 petition, is eligible to be granted lawful permanent resident (LPR) status but for application of the per country limitations. Any petitioner seeking an H-1B petition extension on behalf of an H-1B beneficiary pursuant to section 104(c) of AC21 must establish that at the time of filing for such extension, the beneficiary is not eligible to be granted LPR status on account of the per country immigrant visa limitations.

USCIS will accept a copy of the H-1B beneficiary's Form I-140 petition approval notice which shows that an immigrant visa is not immediately available to him or her based on the approved petition's priority date as evidence of the H-1B beneficiary's eligibility for an extension of H-1B status under the provisions of section 104(c) of AC21.

Officers are instructed to review the DOS Immigrant Visa Bulletin that was in effect at the time of the filing of the Form I-129 in which a request for a section 104(c) of AC21 H-1B extension request is made. If the H-1B beneficiary is shown to be ineligible to be granted LPR status because of the per country visa limitations, then the H-1B extension request under the provisions of section 104(c) of AC21 may be granted for a maximum of three-year increments, until such time as the beneficiary's application for adjustment of status has been processed and a decision made thereon.

6. Recapture of Time. Time spent outside the United States does not count toward the limit on time spent as an H-1B. An H-1B petitioner who can document time spent abroad by the beneficiary may seek to add back or "recapture" that time to an H-1B approval so that the beneficiary obtains the full six years of time spent in the US as an H-1B.

(a) Basis for Recapture

The statute[61] limits H-1B time based on the "period of authorized admission." Because "admission" is defined as "the lawful entry of the alien into the United States after inspection and authorization by an immigration officer", only time spent in the United States as an H-1B counts towards the maximum. Thus, an H-1B petitioner may request that full days spent outside the U.S. during the period of petition validity by the beneficiary be recaptured and added back to the total maximum period of stay. As always, it is the applicant/petitioner's burden to demonstrate eligibility, and appropriate evidence, such as copies of passport stamps I-94's, and/or plane tickets must be submitted. The time spent outside the U.S. need not have been meaningfully interruptive of the H-1B stay. The reason for the absence is not relevant to the question of whether the time may be recaptured. Any trip of at least one 24-hour day outside the U.S. for any purpose, personal or business, can be recaptured.

(b) Evidence

The burden of proof remains with the H-1B petitioner to submit evidence documenting any and all exact periods of physical presence outside the United States when seeking an extension of petition validity and extension of stay for the H-1B nonimmigrant. While petitioners often submit a summary and/or charts of travel and the number or days spent out of the United States, which eases review of the accompanying documentation, petitioners are also required to submit independent documentary evidence establishing that the alien was outside of the United States during all the days, weeks, months etc. that he or she seeks to recapture (e.g. photocopies of passport stamps and/or Form I-94 arrival-departure records).

The fact that the burden may not be met for some claimed periods, or has been met for some claimed periods, has no bearing on the remaining claimed periods. Any periods of time for which the burden has been met may be added to the eligible period of admission upon approval of the application for extension of status. An alien may not be granted an extension of stay for periods of time that are not supported by independent documentary evidence. A Request for Evidence should not be sent to the petitioner for any claimed periods unsupported by evidence.

In some instances, the petition may not be approved for the entire period of time requested because the evidence submitted does not establish eligibility for the entire period of stay requested. In those situations, the approval notice should be issued for the period of time for which eligibility has been demonstrated.

The status of an H-4 dependent of an H-1B nonimmigrant is subject to the same period of admission and limitations as the principal alien. For example, if an H-1B alien is able to recapture a two-week business trip abroad for each year for five years in a row (for a total of 10 weeks), then his or her H-4 dependents, if seeking extension of stay, should be given an extension of stay up to the new expiration of the H-1B alien's stay.

The statute and regulations allow H-4 status only "if [the dependents] are accompanying or following to join the beneficiary in the United States." If it appears that the dependent is not using or is not intending to use H-4 status primarily to accompany or follow to join the principal H-1B alien, such as a situation in which the principal only is physically present or intends to be physically present in the United States for a small proportion of his or her period of H-1B admission and the dependents are using H-4 status to evade the limitations of or eligibility rules of the nonimmigrant options that otherwise would be available, then the H-4 extension of stay may be denied, limited or revoked on notice giving the H-4 the opportunity to provide evidence that his or her intention is primarily to accompany the principal.

I've already informed Christine, Heidi and Larry, but will let the others know.

Shelly is not in the office; however, I requested reject letters from VSC and CSC hoping to give Shelly an opportunity to review them. Mind you, perhaps she already has them, but I'm not certain. I will let Christine, Heidi and Larry know not to mail reject letters until Monday.

1,157 cases receipted yesterday at Vermont, a heavy day. However I believe some of the undone cases (1475 + 571) shown at the end of the day will also be found to be CAP eligible once data entry begins. They only do a rough initial sort in the mailroom.

I'm going to send you some emails to bring you up to date on this because it appears you may be involved in sending out instructions on Friday. Our visa CAP for this program is 85,000 annually. Jim Fitzsimmons calculates we need 86,200 or thereabouts applications. We are close to his target.

I think it's possible. We should get this report again same time tomorrow, and before the end of tomorrow's second shift the contractors should send me the 'racked & stacked" count that comes in Wednesday.

Friday we should have pretty good numbers to review before sending out guidance.

1,157 cases receipted yesterday at Vermont, a heavy day. However I believe some of the undone cases (1475 + 571) shown at the end of the day will also be found to be CAP eligible once data entry begins. They only do a rough initial sort in the mailroom.

Would you send these volume estimates to VETS so they are duly notified of this incremental amount of work they will be receiving. Since the entire 485/765/131bundle can come in with these they could see a new increase of several hundred forms to receipt each month.

I think they have been ready to get this for some time but if either they or TSC-NSC records have any questions or concerns about it please bring it to my attention.

Denis

Jim had provided us a report in the past. It seems that USCIS received about 10,000 E13 filings in FY11. We figure that 850 filings would be filed monthly per month. Based on PP percentages for other 1st preferences categories, SCOPS provided the centers with the following estimates of E13 PP filings per month.

- Low estimate: 95 (11%)
- Mid estimate: 165 (19%)

- High estimate: 275 (32%)

Based on current filing instructions and jurisdictional issues, NSC anticipates that it will receive 102 E13 PP filings per month. TSC anticipates that it will receive 200 E13 PP filings per month.

Also, if there are pending E13s they can upgrade to PP. NSC indicated they had 1267 pending E13 case and, TSC had 2593.

Do you still need Jim to run a report?

Hi

Mostly volume estimates, for the contractors to be prepared for. If we know how many a month in total come in we could estimate that maybe – 10 or 15% would be premium filings?

Also I am guessing that upgrades will be allowable for this category already sitting on the shelf at these centers. Upgrades can be a little more problematic. Can Jim have a query run to determine how many are currently pending?

All,
After a relatively slow start, the volume of H-1B regular and masters-exempt cap petitions combined for FY 2012 has caught up with last year's volume as of late September. Particularly noticeable has been the increase in volume of regular cap petitions during the last several weeks. The volume was 2,200 last week. If this trend continues, then the FY 2012 cap season will end in mid-January, two weeks earlier than FY 2011 cap season.

Thanks! You are still tracking it, right?

Are you able to bounce the receipt #s off CLAIMS to get the Petitioner names?

We tracked it by receipt number on a log since the fee had to be manually deposited.

Importance: High

All,

We just received a high level inquiry into our collection of the Public Law 111-230 fees for H1Bs and Ls ($2000 for H1Bs; $2250 for Ls). This is an urgent request, so please respond ASAP.

The CFO is going to provide the dollar amount that has been collected so far. Are VSC and CSC able to give us the number of petitioners that have paid the fee? I'm not sure if the centers tracked the fee by petitioner name, by receipt number, or neither. If by receipt number, is it possible to bounce the receipt numbers against CLAIMS to get a list of the petitioners who paid it (and thereby the number of petitioners who paid it)? Is there another way to get this info?

Thanks!

Bobbie

Interesting to see how the masters to bachelors ratio is higher this year than ever and that trend probably continues into the future. In 10 years we will have two categories, the masters cap and the PhD Exemption.

Thanks Tom, and for my part here's the March fee register report for Vermont. Don't have the other yet.

Initial reports on H1B filing season are that it was very light, lower even than last year when we took in 19,000 petitions between April 1-7. This year it looks like fewer than 10,000 came in yesterday. This should mean the incumbent will have most of this year's filings data entry complete by cob April 15, perhaps all of them.

Importance: High

We're now current with data entering all incoming filings so we've switched our report this week from giving out raw data entry numbers and those in the queue, to the current status in CLAIMS. This gives a more accurate picture as we have reduced the total by those already adjudicated and denied. Our counts this week then would be 21,900 for Masters and 44,900 for nonMasters.

I would recommend no change to the update language from last week.

During the week of May 4 we received 1,135 filings in total; 684 at VSC and 451 at CSC.

Okay, I think we have all the relevant info in we need;

1) There is only 1 filing pre 12-21 to data enter, so that will not change the count
2) We did receipt at least 3 yesterday that came in yesterday, at VSC. We need to decide on how to handle these.
3) Otherwise, we have 911 that can be barcoded today and have the lottery run against the numbers. And get the message out to the public this afternoon (I hope). Shall we meet at 11:00 and decide our course of action?

Denis –

Have located four of the five –

- Three were data entered incorrectly - have a 12/21 date – should not have been keyed.
- One was received on 12/18 but entered as a 12/21 date in CLAIMS – will change to CLAIMS to reflect 12/18 date.

Barbara,

We have barcoded 39,700 Regular and 20,700 Masters. All received days 1-4 have been barcoded or are sitting in CRU for an acceptability determination (About 600 at Vermont)

The Premiums are 17,300 of the total – 28.65%

No count from on today's mail yet. 6,515 is Vermont's total mail, CAP and non CAP related. Yesterday's 9,000 pieces produced 1,444 applications so by that benchmark today's would bring about 1100.

Breakdown in applications by centers is about 58% Vermont, 42% California, identical to last year.

Here is the updated report. I plugged in CSC's numbers as well so all tabs should be updated. The only numbers I don't have yet are the mail numbers for today. So far I know we received approximately 6,515 pieces of mail.

Question for you....Do we need to continue to bar code the cases if we aren't going to need to run the RNG? If we could stop this step it would save time.

Package count was revised upward about 1,000, so that is not statistically significant enough to change our forecast. Still in the 65,000-67,000 range for day one, petition total.

Sorry if I caused concerns, but I was trying to get out the most up to date numbers.

I note though that California estimated their Masters filings were about 35% of the total, so we may hit the masters CAP by April 7.

Here are the correct numbers. Apparently the report clerk added some of the manifests that had already been counted and that is why the number jumped to 34,103. Please note that you should be seeing the number of opened and bar coded count jump up quite a bit from yesterday.

In summary we received 24,801 pieces of mail and of that 4,107 have been opened and bar coded.

Sorry for the confusion!

I think she means the petition count is about 4300 which would fit with my guess for Vermont at 6,000. So maybe we hit the 10,000 mark today.

In 2010 April petition count once finalized was VSC 8,356, CSC 6,623, total 14,978.

Great; okay it's back to the centers. Pull and process these and let us know how many are rejects. The unselected barcodes should be held. Today's incoming should be held but no need to barcode.

Notice advising the public of the CAP being reached should be posted before cob today.

Thanks and we will wait to hear when processing is done.

VSC and CSC we need the numbers the contractor is holding from Wednesday as soon as possible

We may very well have enough on hand to hit Jim's target. Jim I am coming in later, will you be in? Should we huddle and see if the announcement from OCOMM should be posted today that we have our limit?

The sooner we can post it the sooner the incoming mail gets turned off. Jim was 1300 short as of Monday and Tuesday we did almost 850.

1700 Premiums DE in California last night was excellent. Vermont managed 400 because they had some computer problems. Hopefully that will not impact them today. Even the 400 should be enough to last the first half of today and by then, they will have more processed and ready to work.

Assuming volume and data entry rates remain the same CSC should by fully current day-to-day by tomorrow and VSC by Friday. Premiums have been current day-to-day since Monday.

Jim, you should be able to do a query next Monday and have a complete count. I'll send a daily update until then. We're just under 12,000 through Tuesday's volume.

Both centers were completely current as of last night, including processing all of yesterday's incoming. We have 6,495 VSC and 5,543 petitions data entered. We have 200 CSC and 312 VSC rejects returned or being returned today. There are only a handful in CRU review not included in these two counts.

This will be my last update, starting Monday Jim Fitzsimmons will do queries in CLAIMS for Master's and Regular breakdowns. Those are included in the spreadsheets above for those who want more detail as is the premium vs. nonpremium breakdown.

Actually rounding errors account for the difference. These numbers are calculated based on a formula.

Just wanted to point out a small error in your numbers on the chart below. I think the total for 4/7 should be 338, which would make the grand total 10,240. The rest seem to add up.

The reports indicated 352 are racked at California and 559 at Vermont. I am trying to determine if they have any received before Monday not yet data entered. Let me get that information before we make any final decisions.

Also the 5 receipted in Vermont yesterday, whether that was in error. Have not heard back on that either.

Denis,

CSC' total count is 352 racked and stacked.

Subject: FW: H-1B cap numbers - we may reach target this friday, or next monday. my guess is it will be one or the other.

Jim – is your target still 85,550 combined petitions? If we ended last Friday at 82,800 that leaves us 2,750 under your target. Last week's count went up by 2,066 over the previous week.

The four weeks since December 24 we gained 7,023 in total. Unless there is an uptick this week we should be able to get through Friday. Then Mondays being our typically heavy volume day, we may get close to an additional 1,000 next Monday.

What do you think? Anyone?

Bill,

We received sufficient petitions to reach the H-1B regular cap on December 21. There will be a lottery on the petitions that were received yesterday. I have filled in the final receipt date and the issuance date on the update and removed all comments. I also removed the "draft" watermark. We would like this update to be posted today.

I am separately sending a cap count webpage change to New Media with a request that the webpage be posted simultaneously with the USCIS Update. I will copy you and the OCOMM box on that request.

Please let me know if you need anything else from SCOPS.

Thanks!

USCIS Update

Dec. 22, 2009

USCIS Reaches FY 2010 H-1B Cap

WASHINGTON – U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) announced today that it has received a sufficient number of petitions to reach the statutory cap for fiscal year (FY) 2010. USCIS is hereby notifying the public that December 21, 2009 is the "final receipt date" for new H-1B specialty occupation petitions requesting an employment start date in FY 2010.

The "final receipt date" is the date on which USCIS determines that it has received enough cap-subject petitions to reach the limit of 65,000. USCIS has also received more than 20,000 H-1B petitions filed on behalf of persons exempt from the cap under the "advanced degree" exemption. Properly filed cases will be considered received on the date that USCIS physically receives the petition; not the date that the petition was postmarked. USCIS will reject cap-subject petitions for new H-1B specialty occupation workers seeking an employment start date in FY 2010 that arrive after December 21, 2009.

USCIS will apply a computer-generated random selection process to all petitions that are subject to the cap and were received on December 21, 2009. USCIS will use this process to select petitions needed to meet the cap. USCIS will reject, and return the fee, for all cap-subject petitions not randomly selected.

Petitions filed on behalf of current H-1B workers who have been counted previously against the cap will not be counted towards the congressionally mandated FY 2010 H-1B cap. Therefore, USCIS will continue to process petitions filed to:

- Extend the amount of time a current H-1B worker may remain in the United States.
- Change the terms of employment for current H-1B workers.
- Allow current H-1B workers to change employers.
- Allow current H-1B workers to work concurrently in a second H-1B position.

H-1B in General: U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

Jim,

I was wondering if you might be able to assist with the exact date determination. OCOMM is looking for date on the master's cap to put into the attached chart for their media managers. I told Chris over the phone that we might not be able to get back to her until next week.

Bobbie and Claudia,

On a separate note, Chris mentioned that Luz will be our contact in the future for SCOPS business issues.

Thanks!

Shelly

Hey Shelly, I just saw that the H-1B cap for the masters degree 20,000 category has been reached. Can you give me the exact date that USCIS met that cap?
OComm has a chart (attached) that we use to explain the history of the cap... and I would like to add the date for the FY10 masters category to the chart and share with our media managers in case they are asked.

H-1B QUOTA EXHAUSTION TARGET - MARCH 2011

Something new I'm starting. USCIS puts out weekly data on the use of H-1B visas for the 2011 fiscal year which starts in October. I'm going to monitor that for readers and add my own projection on the months the caps are likely to be hit. The quota is 65,000 per fiscal year plus an additional 20,000 for folks with degrees from US advanced degree programs. Applications began being accepted on April 1st. In past years, the H-1B quota was exhausted almost immediately after the application period opened up. Last year, as a result of the recession and also as a result of USCIS and Congress' war on staffing companies, H-1B usage fell sharply and the general quota was not reached until December. This year, usage is even more anemic.

As of August 13th, 29,700 H-1Bs have been used in the 65,000 quota. 1200 H-1Bs were receipted last week which is about the same as the prior two weeks. That represents a pick up in usage over prior months where about 500 to 700 H-1Bs were used each week. This could represent a pick up in economic activity in the US. It might also reflect the fact that we're getting closer to October 1st and H-1B employers don't have to hire far in advance anymore. Based on current usage, the H-1B quota will be exhausted in 29 weeks which is in March 2011.

Masters cap cases are at 12,300. The usage has been about 300 a week and this has been typical since April. Based on current usage, that quota will be used up in 25 weeks which is in February 2011.

There was a surge in regular cap petitions last week: the count went from 29,700 to 33,900.

Also, the analysis in the blog below is sound in my judgment.

Bloggings On Immigration Law And Policy

H-1B QUOTA EXHAUSTION TARGET - MARCH 2011

Something new I'm starting. USCIS puts out weekly data on the use of H-1B visas for the 2011 fiscal year which starts in October. I'm going to monitor that for readers and add my own projection on the months the caps are likely to be hit. The quota is 65,000 per fiscal year plus an additional 20,000 for folks with degrees from US advanced degree programs. Applications began being accepted on April 1st. In past years, the H-1B quota was exhausted almost immediately after the application period opened up. Last year, as a result of the recession and also as a result of USCIS and Congress' war on staffing companies, H-1B usage fell sharply and the general quota was not reached until December. This year, usage is even more anemic.

As of August 13th, 29,700 H-1Bs have been used in the 65,000 quota. 1200 H-1Bs were receipted last week which is about the same as the prior two weeks. That represents a pick up in usage over prior months where about 500 to 700 H-1Bs were used each week. This could represent a pick up in economic activity in the US. It might also reflect the fact that we're getting closer to October 1st and H-1B employers don't have to hire far in advance anymore. Based on current usage, the H-1B quota will be exhausted in 29 weeks which is in March 2011.

Masters cap cases are at 12,300. The usage has been about 300 a week and this has been typical since April. Based on current usage, that quota will be used up in 25 weeks which is in February 2011.

All,
This chart shows the monthly volume of H-1B cap petitions based on the mailroom date. The volume declined in May June, and July. Since August, the volume has continued to rise. At 6,000 petitions, November was double May volume. In each of the last two weeks, about 2,200 petitions have been received. It appears the cap will be reached next week.

VSC & CSC,

Based on our overnight CISCOR count, we are still 1,000 applications under our target for the CAP. Unless you experience an abnormal mail volume today we think it is safe to go ahead and being receipting all CAP filings without waiting for a mailroom count first. This will help Jim do a precise query Monday morning and determine if we will run a lottery on Monday's volume or accept all of it.

Important: Please have the number remaining under CRU review at the end of tonight sent by email to me and everyone on this message, so we can also add that potential volume to our counts.

On Monday, do not proceed with receipting. Do a rack and stack of all the incoming volume until we get back. All the filings clearing the CRU review from today or previously should be receipted as they are approved.

Thanks for your prompt attention, we hope to have the message announcing the reaching of the FY2010 CAP on Monday.

Importance: High

Jim,

I was wondering if your branch might be able to get the combined RFE, denial and approval rates for H-1B cap cases for FY11 so far and the same data for the comparable time period for FY10 cap cases. Can the data also be broken down by service center? We would like the data as soon as possible as we have an urgent inquiry.

Finally, I know I'm reaching for the stars, but could we do the same with cap-exempt cases?

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks!

Subject: H-1B CAP is near limit. Wednesday Nov 23 mail will be held pending a count.

It's about that time of year again;

We are approaching our CAP limit for FY2012. Beginning tomorrow please instruct the contractors to sort and categorize the CAP filings and send us your counts when the final mail for the day is received, but do not data enter any until we can confirm those processed through today do not bring us to our limit.

In addition to this, please send me the number of CAP petitions you have at cob today unprocessed, whether under CRU review or otherwise. These can be processed on Wednesday (or later).

Also you should have your bar-coding preparations ready in advance should we require that to be done on Friday, Monday or thereafter. Should we implement a random lottery for the final day of petitions, each center should barcode that day's mail and send the results to us in an Excel Spreadsheet. The RNG will be done here at HQ and the "winners" will be sent back to each center for processing.

Please let me know who will be available on Wednesday, Friday and Monday for follow up emails.

Thanks in advance – looking forward to a smooth wrap up.

Subject: H1B CAP lottery update

Update at 430 pm; CSC has sent their barcoded manifest here, VSC is still completing theirs. It appears now that only ONE CAP filing was mistakenly received Monday and receipted Monday, vs. the earlier fear we had 3-4.

We should have the VSC spreadsheet ready to go in the morning, at worst. Hopefully we can run the RNG tomorrow and send them the selections for receipting on Wednesday night. With only 200 or so, they can complete it all on the second shift.

All right, well this is not as bad as first indicated. The top one, received yesterday, has to be barcoded like all the others received yesterday. The bottom four are okay to go, with the corrections done in claims.

We have the CSC barcoding spreadsheet in, if the contractor finishes tonight, we need your spreadsheet early tomorrow morning to run the RNG. We want to send you the selected numbers tomorrow in time for all to be pulled and those not selected sent to reject processing.

Steve,

We need you to research what happened with these 5 cases; did the contractor mistakenly enter Monday as the received date for work actually received last week, or did they in fact errorneously process a few that came in on Monday? Here are the receipt numbers.

If they misdated the received date, it is okay to continuing processing them (correcting the received date and recording it as a contractor error however). If they processed 5 from yesterday's mail, try to intercept the receipt notices if you can before they go out. Suspend them from further processing until we determine the best course of action.

Thanks,

Denis Peck

Allowing for a projected 1,000 Chile and Singapore cap petitions under Free Trade Agreements, the maximum number for FY 2010 is 84,000 approved petitions counting towards combined H-1B regular and masters FY 2010 caps as of September 30, 2010. Revocations of previously approved FY 2010 cap petitions will increasingly occur during FY 2010, reducing the number of approved cap petitions.

NOTE----The potential cap count for regulars declined last week. A significant number of regular cases (from one employer in particular) were denied that had been RFEd. The number of denials exceeded by far the number of new filings that trickled in resulting in the potential cap count going down.

Did they send any updates on the HB-1 visas? Lauren mentioned this am that they still haven't reached their limit for the non-master degree category. Would be good to include in the WH report.

Subject: H1B CAP plans for Monday

While I am out on Monday, with Dee acting branch chief, I will be monitoring my email. We are very close to being at the CAP limits for H1B. Jim Fitzsimmons runs a query in CISCORS in the morning to determine the current count. Vermont and California will have the contractor do a rack and stack of Monday's mail until we give them further notice on what to do. That decision will be based on Jim's numbers.

Rich Nicholson the CSC ACD is on leave, I believe Jessy is acting ACD on Monday. I have a few extra people copied just as insurance that this message is widely distributed as a precaution. We are under a severe storm watch through Sunday and there is a chance the government will not be open on Monday. If that happens we may not have an H1B count to send out. Just rack and stack Monday's CAP filings and we will be in touch no later than Tuesday.

Greg,

The Service Centers received more than sufficient petitions to reach the regular cap yesterday. The SCs will begin bar coding those cap-subject petitions that were received yesterday (December 21) and run a lottery on those petitions. We will send OCOMM the cleared USCIS Update with the final receipt date of December 21 for posting today.

I can ask for the data on how many rejects we've done since December 21, but Wright did use the word denials in his message. The rejects dry up pretty fast though, once the Website posts that the CAP season is closed.

Rich – Steve – Can you get an updated count to us of how many CAP rejects we have done since December 21, including the ones from December 21 that lost out in the lottery?

Jim – Got a call from CBS News in Los Angeles. Producer wants to know if we can give them a total number of petitions that were filed for the FY10 program that were not accepted/denied, etc. (she's mainly interested in those after the cap was reached).

Also (doubt you'll have this), can we determine from which countries those denials refer?

Because we have more accurate numbers now, I changed the reporting from only how many have been received to how many have been DE into Claims and how many remain in the data entry queue. This reduced our numbers by about 1,200 rejects we have processed thus far. All numbers are through COB Friday April 24.

Thus for updating our weekly information to the public I recommend we retain our statement regarding the Masters as is and update the nonMasters total to 45,000 received.

Other data;

For the week of April 20 we received 1,161 filings – 418 at CSC, 743 at VSC.

We have DE 18,056 Premiums thus far. We have also begun receiving Premium upgrades separate from the original filings. Virtually all Premiums were handled within the 15 day window required.

We anticipate being current with Data Entry by cob April 30 at CSC and mid next week at VSC.

All,
After a relatively slow start, the volume of H-1B regular and masters-exempt cap petitions combined for FY 2012 has caught up with last year's volume as of late September. Particularly noticeable has been the increase in volume of regular cap petitions during the last several weeks. The volume was 2,200 last week. If this trend continues, then the FY 2012 cap season will end in mid-January, two weeks earlier than FY 2011 cap season.

H1B CAP update:

Jim Fitzsimmons advises that to be safe, beginning Wednesday January 26 we not data enter the incoming FY11 CAP petitions until the contractor has received and counted all of them, that number is sent here to HQ and he determines if we can accept all of them or not. Accordingly please do instruct the contractor to rack and stack these petitions on Wednesday and send me the numerical count once the final incoming mail for the day is received, including Fedex and UPS.

Second, you should have barcoded labels prepared in advance for the contractor to apply should Jim determine we have to accept a portion, but not all , of a day's petitions. In this instance he'll run a random number generated program based on the barcoded numbers you send back. The lottery winners will be selected by the RNG. Instruct the contractor to follow existing procedures for the "Last-day" barcoding was done in December 2009 as it will be the same this year should it be necessary.

The projections in the table assume no surge this week. If that turns out to be true, then the final receipt date will be Friday.
Therefore, racking and stacking should begin on Wednesday in order to be safe.

Jim – is your target still 85,550 combined petitions? If we ended last Friday at 82,800 that leaves us 2,750 under your target. Last week's count went up by 2,066 over the previous week.

The four weeks since December 24 we gained 7,023 in total. Unless there is an uptick this week we should be able to get through Friday. Then Mondays being our typically heavy volume day, we may get close to an additional 1,000 next Monday.

What do you think? Anyone?

All,
In case you have not heard, the H-1B cap season closed on November 22. A surge occurred early last week. Almost 3,000 petitions were received on Monday and another 2,000 on Tuesday.

Below is a table showing the latest cap counts. In the table below, the approval rates shown are based on April filings since nearly all of them have been adjudicated. As the far right column shows, if the approval rate on 34,400 petitions pending adjudication matches the approval rate on petitions filed in April, then the number of approvals for FY 2012 will be 65,100 for regular cap.

Below are latest numbers. We are still on track for reaching cap in two to three weeks. I expect receipts to gradually increase until then.
The next set of numbers will be tabulated on Tuesday.
The target is 85,550 based on allowing 1,000 denials on 16,000 petitions currently pending and 450 Chile/Singapore petitions.

OK, folks, here's the issue:

We can give these numbers to OCOMM and update the webpage today with Jim's numbers below. However, due to the IT problems Jim is experiencing, we don't have the approved/pending numbers.

If we give these numbers and then find that there were more denials/withdrawals/revocations then next week's numbers will be lower and we will have to answer the "Why?" questions again.

I am thinking we hold off until at least tomorrow morning to see if IT can fix the issue so we can get a more accurate number. If the IT issue can't be fixed by tomorrow, we run with these numbers. What are your thoughts?

Thanks,
Claudia

June 15-19 receipts
Regular cap cases 470
Masters cap cases 149

As of June 19th, count of potential regular cap receipts is approximately 44,700.
That is based on adding to 470 to 44,200 (last week's number).
I am not going to be able to provide approval counts today because of server storage issue resting with OIT.

I think I misused the term applications. I know we had more denials and revokes than that. Jim F's target in past years was over 90,000 applications total.

He'll be in on Monday, but what he told me was with the approvals we already had , 69,000, plus about 16,500 pendings, taking out the denials that will happen, we would end up with the 85,000 approvals. He also reserves about 1,000 of the 85,000 for chile Singapore and that factors into his calculations.

Ali,

I asked folks to put together just a few bullets that you might find informative relative to our reaching the cap:

* USCIS reached the FY2011 H1B Cap on January 26, 2011 vs. December 21, 2009 in FY2010

* On the final day we received 916 applications. 24 were rejected, 683 were randomly selected by programmed software and processed. 209 were not selected and will be rejected back.

* Our total target for applications accepted was 85,550. This allows us to deny some of the pending applications and still issue the CAP target of 85,000 visas.

* The 20,000 visas allotted to Master's Degree holders only was reached in late December; since then, all applications from Master's Degree holders have been applied to the 65,000 visa cap.

* Planning is underway for FY2012 CAP season beginning April 1. Overtime for some agency personnel may be authorized in order to successfully service the large number of Premium Processing filings usually received during the initial days of the new filing period.

We have this down to a science now, but it wasn't always that way.

I hope this is helpful,

I think she means the petition count is about 4300 which would fit with my guess for Vermont at 6,000. So maybe we hit the 10,000 mark today.

In 2010 April petition count once finalized was VSC 8,356, CSC 6,623, total 14,978.

Okay, I think we have all the relevant info in we need;

1) There is only 1 filing pre 12-21 to data enter, so that will not change the count
2) We did receipt at least 3 yesterday that came in yesterday, at VSC. We need to decide on how to handle these.
3) Otherwise, we have 911 that can be barcoded today and have the lottery run against the numbers. And get the message out to the public this afternoon (I hope). Shall we meet at 11:00 and decide our course of action?

Congratulations to everyone involved. We are done with the intake portion of FY2011 CAP except for any cases still under CRU review from prior to last Wednesday or the rare appealed case that may still get accepted for good cause. The OCOMM posting is online since late Thursday and the applications still coming in should be dropping off very quickly.

We should reject back in date order; let's wait one more day and if there are no hitches the contractors can start rejecting these on Wednesday, with last Wednesday's unselected cases being the first to go back.

Vermont, would you take the next two files off the spreadsheet – rows 25 and 26 – and receipt them in. CSC had two rejects from their replacement batch.

Note, row 27 is also one of your files so if 25 or 26 is a reject that one goes next.

Both centers have completed processing the batch of 683 selectees from Wednesday's mail. There were 24 rejects. Accordingly, Jim prepared in advance this random sequence of the 283 remaining from Wednesday's mail to replace them. There are 12 VSC and 12 CSC barcodes randomly picked in order. We may very well have enough on hand to hit Jim's target. Jim I am coming in later, will you be in? Should we huddle and see if the announcement from OCOMM should be posted today that we have our limit?

The sooner we can post it the sooner the incoming mail gets turned off. Jim was 1300 short as of Monday and Tuesday we did almost 850.

I don't have the experience Jim and Denis do at this, but I would think we need to hold for one more day (at this week's average daily rate) to get a sufficient cushion. Does that sound about right?

Great; okay it's back to the centers. Pull and process these and let us know how many are rejects. The unselected barcodes should be held. Today's incoming should be held but no need to barcode.

Notice advising the public of the CAP being reached should be posted before cob today.

Combined total, 64,110.

The new filings on April 9 were 398. 76 Masters and 322 nonMasters.

21 of these were Premiums.

Since it appears it will be some time before this is over I won't send a daily summary after today unless I hear back that you require it. Data entry is going well and we will catch up and be current sooner than we anticipated. We data entered 3,778 yesterday – all premiums – and the total increases each day as the operators learning curve improves.

Subject: RE: CISOMB Inquiry: Questions Regarding the H-1B Cap

All,

I've pulled together some draft responses to the Ombudsman's questions, but would like Jim to weigh in before I send to counsel as statistics and numbers are not my strong point. I didn't know how in-depth we should go on the approval and denial rates (ie. should we state exactly what rates we are using?), so at this point I left the response general. Jim, please let me know if I've got anything wrong.

1) 6,800 cap numbers are held in reserve each year for Chile/Singapore H-1B1s. The unused Chile/Singapore numbers are then rolled over into the next fiscal year's regular cap. For example, the unused Chile/Singapore numbers for FY08 were rolled into the FY09 regular cap and the unused Chile/Singapore numbers for FY09 were rolled into the FY10 regular cap and were made available on April 1, 2009.

2) There were approximately 6,100 unused Chile/Singapore H-1B1s in FY09. That number was added to the 58,200 regular cap numbers available for FY10 to get 64,300 regular cap visas available for FY10 (this excludes the 20,000 master's exemption). This year is different from previous years as we are able to use actual data on approvals to determine when to end the filing period for the regular cap. We apply historical data on approval, denial, withdrawal, etc. rates from the cases that have already been adjudicated to our pending cap-subject petitions to estimate how many of the pending petitions may be eligible for a cap number. We then add that number to the number of petitions that have already been approved for an FY10 cap number. When the estimated cap eligible number reaches 64,300, we close the filing period. We needed to run a lottery on the filings received on Monday, December 21st since we only needed a portion of those filings to reach the cap.

Thanks!

Shelly

Subject: CISOMB Inquiry: Questions Regarding the H-1B Cap

Good afternoon,

We received the below inquiry from the CISOMB:

We have received very positive feedback from stakeholders regarding the weekly updates on the H-1B cap. As you likely are aware, recently USCIS stated that 61,100 cases have been filed. However, this information could be much more valuable if USCIS would also explain the total size of the pool against which cases are being counted. While the statutory H-1B cap is 65,000, there are two issues that make this number less clear:

(1) How are the H-1B1 numbers for Singapore and Chile counted? We know that the 6,800 numbers for this category are subtracted from the regular cap, reducing it to 58,200. Are the H-1B1 numbers being returned to the regular H-1B cap? If so, when and how many?

(2) We believe that USCIS accepts more H-1B petitions than there are cap numbers because of an assumption that a certain percentage of petitions will be denied or withdrawn. What is total number of filings that USCIS will accept this year to achieve the statutory number of H-1B approvals?

Without the answers to these questions, the USCIS cap reports do not allow employers to predict when the cap will be reached. Overly optimistic assumptions will make employers start on the process of extending job offers and filing LCAs. Overly pessimistic assumptions will make employers either prematurely decide not to proceed with an application or create an artificial panic leading to a surge of applications.

Can you assist with these questions?

Thanks,
Drew

Barbara,
An announcement is not necessary soon since Masters petitions roll over into regular cap after Masters cap has been reached. I will talk to Shelly about modifying the cap webpage to reflect this situation. In 2010, the H-1B cap webpage showed the combined cap count after the Masters cap was reached.

CSC/VSC,

Tomorrow, please have the contractors count and prepare the incoming applications but hold off on beginning receipting until we give a go ahead. Jim Fitzsimmons will have a receipted count through today by late morning and we would like a check of what we receive before we give the go ahead. The contractors can receipt any applications received today or earlier that were held up in the CRU or otherwise. If we give the go ahead to receipt on Thursday afternoon, we will repeat the same process Friday.

I understand this will delay the contractor's normal routine; they should be told to plan on doing most H1B work on second shift from now until we reach the CAP limit. Also we will not penalize them if they fail to complete the day's incoming volume due to the late starting time.

So again, pls. send me the incoming application count when it is ready, plus whatever the number in the CRU as of the end of today is.

They'd better. Seriously, I think they know our plan.

We were 1400 under cap this morning, and we added 170 from CSC late data entry yesterday. That would make about 1230 under the cap. It sounded from the preliminary counts that we had 600-700 today maximum. Unless tomorrow is lighter than expected it should be the last date. Stay tuned.

Ok. I can update the cap webpages a little more starting next week. I've already reached out to OCOMM to make sure that they've dusted off the USCIS Update.

I've never heard of the SSM history action code. Do we know how that is applied? Is it something that would be done at data entry? Or is it something that would be done by the adjudicator?

This would make the petition count more like 50,000 and our first day total with California 80,000. They said it was due to an updated manifest provided by FEDEX.

USCIS Update

Dec. 22, 2009

USCIS Reaches FY 2010 H-1B Cap

WASHINGTON—U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) announced today that it has received a sufficient number of H-1B petitions to reach the statutory cap for fiscal year (FY) 2010. USCIS is hereby notifying the public that Dec. 21, 2009 is the "final receipt date" for new H-1B specialty occupation petitions requesting an employment start date in FY 2010.

The "final receipt date" is the date on which USCIS determines that it has received enough cap-subject petitions to reach the limit of 65,000. USCIS has also received more than 20,000 H-1B petitions filed on behalf of persons exempt from the cap under the "advanced degree" exemption. Properly filed cases will be considered received on the date that USCIS physically receives the petition; not the date that the petition was postmarked. USCIS will reject cap-subject petitions for new H-1B specialty occupation workers seeking an employment start date in FY 2010 that arrive after Dec. 21, 2009.

USCIS will apply a computer-generated random selection process to all petitions that are subject to the cap and were received on Dec. 21, 2009. USCIS will use this process to select petitions needed to meet the cap. USCIS will reject, and return the fee, for all cap-subject petitions not randomly selected.

Petitions filed on behalf of current H-1B workers who have been counted previously against the cap will not be counted towards the congressionally mandated FY 2010 H-1B cap. Therefore, USCIS will continue to process petitions filed to:

- Extend the amount of time a current H-1B worker may remain in the United States.
- Change the terms of employment for current H-1B workers.
- Allow current H-1B workers to change employers.
- Allow current H-1B workers to work concurrently in a second H-1B position.

H-1B in General: U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

Revocations of previously approved FY 2010 cap petitions will increasingly occur during FY 2010, reducing the number of approved cap petitions.

NOTE----The potential cap count for regulars declined last week. A significant number of regular cases (from one employer in particular) were denied that had been RFEd. The number of denials exceeded by far the number of new filings that trickled in resulting in the potential cap count going down.

Greg,

The Service Centers received more than sufficient petitions to reach the regular cap yesterday. The SCs will begin bar coding those cap-subject petitions that were received yesterday (December 21) and run a lottery on those petitions. We will send OCOMM the cleared USCIS Update with the final receipt date of December 21 for posting today.

Thanks!

I can ask for the data on how many rejects we've done since December 21, but Wright did use the word denials in his message. The rejects dry up pretty fast though, once the Website posts that the CAP season is closed.

Rich – Steve – Can you get an updated count to us of how many CAP rejects we have done since December 21, including the ones from December 21 that lost out in the lottery?

Jim – Got a call from CBS News in Los Angeles. Producer wants to know if we can give them a total number of petitions that were filed for the FY10 program that were not accepted/denied, etc. (she's mainly interested in those after the cap was reached).

Also (doubt you'll have this), can we determine from which countries those denials refer?

ThanX!

Because we have more accurate numbers now, I changed the reporting from only how many have been received to how many have been DE into Claims and how many remain in the data entry queue. This reduced our numbers by about 1,200 rejects we have processed thus far. All numbers are through COB Friday April 24.

All,
After a relatively slow start, the volume of H-1B regular and masters-exempt cap petitions combined for FY 2012 has caught up with last year's volume as of late September. Particularly noticeable has been the increase in volume of regular cap petitions during the last several weeks. The volume was 2,200 last week. If this trend continues, then the FY 2012 cap season will end in mid-January, two weeks earlier than FY 2011 cap season.

H1B CAP update:

Jim Fitzsimmons advises that to be safe, beginning Wednesday January 26 we not data enter the incoming FY11 CAP petitions until the contractor has received and counted all of them, that number is sent here to HQ and he determines if we can accept all of them or not. Accordingly please do instruct the contractor to rack and stack these petitions on Wednesday and send me the numerical count once the final incoming mail for the day is received, including Fedex and UPS.

Second, you should have barcoded labels prepared in advance for the contractor to apply should Jim determine we have to accept a portion, but not all , of a day's petitions. In this instance he'll run a random number generated program based on the barcoded numbers you send back. The lottery winners will be selected by the RNG. Instruct the contractor to follow existing procedures for the "Last-day" barcoding was done in December 2009 as it will be the same this year should it be necessary.

Denis,
The projections in the table assume no surge this week. If that turns out to be true, then the final receipt date will be Friday.
Therefore, racking and stacking should begin on Wednesday in order to be safe.

Jim – is your target still 85,550 combined petitions? If we ended last Friday at 82,800 that leaves us 2,750 under your target. Last week's count went up by 2,066 over the previous week.

The four weeks since December 24 we gained 7,023 in total. Unless there is an uptick this week we should be able to get through Friday. Then Mondays being our typically heavy volume day, we may get close to an additional 1,000 next Monday.

What do you think? Anyone?

All,
In case you have not heard, the H-1B cap season closed on November 22. A surge occurred early last week. Almost 3,000 petitions were received on Monday and another 2,000 on Tuesday.

Below is a table showing the latest cap counts. In the table below, the approval rates shown are based on April filings since nearly all of them have been adjudicated. As the far right column shows, if the approval rate on 34,400 petitions pending adjudication matches the approval rate on petitions filed in April, then the number of approvals for FY 2012 will be 65,100 for regular cap.

The next set of numbers will be tabulated on Tuesday.
The target is 85,550 based on allowing 1,000 denials on 16,000 petitions currently pending and 450 Chile/Singapore petitions.

OK, folks, here's the issue:

We can give these numbers to OCOMM and update the webpage today with Jim's numbers below. However, due to the IT problems Jim is experiencing, we don't have the approved/pending numbers.

If we give these numbers and then find that there were more denials/withdrawals/revocations then next week's numbers will be lower and we will have to answer the "Why?" questions again.

I am thinking we hold off until at least tomorrow morning to see if IT can fix the issue so we can get a more accurate number. If the IT issue can't be fixed by tomorrow, we run with these numbers. What are your thoughts?

Thanks,

June 15-19 receipts
Regular cap cases 470

As of June 19th, count of potential regular cap receipts is approximately 44,700.
That is based on adding to 470 to 44,200 (last week's number).
I am not going to be able to provide approval counts today because of server storage issue resting with OIT.

I think she means the petition count is about 4300 which would fit with my guess for Vermont at 6,000. So maybe we hit the 10,000 mark today.

In 2010 April petition count once finalized was VSC 8,356, CSC 6,623, total 14,978.

Okay, I think we have all the relevant info in we need;

1) There is only 1 filing pre 12-21 to data enter, so that will not change the count
2) We did receipt at least 3 yesterday that came in yesterday, at VSC. We need to decide on how to handle these.
3) Otherwise, we have 911 that can be barcoded today and have the lottery run against the numbers. And get the message out to the public this afternoon (I hope). Shall we meet at 11:00 and decide our course of action?

Congratulations to everyone involved. We are done with the intake portion of FY2011 CAP except for any cases still under CRU review from prior to last Wednesday or the rare appealed case that may still get accepted for good cause. The OCOMM posting is online since late Thursday and the applications still coming in should be dropping off very quickly.

We should reject back in date order; let's wait one more day and if there are no hitches the contractors can start rejecting these on Wednesday, with last Wednesday's unselected cases being the first to go back.

Vermont, would you take the next two files off the spreadsheet – rows 25 and 26 – and receipt them in. CSC had two rejects from their replacement batch.

Note, row 27 is also one of your files so if 25 or 26 is a reject that one goes next.

This should finish us off. Let us know, thanks.

Both centers have completed processing the batch of 683 selectees from Wednesday's mail. There were 24 rejects. Accordingly, Jim prepared in advance this random sequence of the 283 remaining from Wednesday's mail to replace them. There are 12 VSC and 12 CSC barcodes randomly picked in order. Steve and Rich, have your center's 12 pulled and processed and let us know when complete.

We may very well have enough on hand to hit Jim's target. Jim I am coming in later, will you be in? Should we huddle and see if the announcement from OCOMM should be posted today that we have our limit?

The sooner we can post it the sooner the incoming mail gets turned off. Jim was 1300 short as of Monday and Tuesday we did almost 850.

Combined total, 64,110.

The new filings on April 9 were 398. 76 Masters and 322 nonMasters.

21 of these were Premiums.

Since it appears it will be some time before this is over I won't send a daily summary after today unless I hear back that you require it. Data entry is going well and we will catch up and be current sooner than we anticipated. We data entered 3,778 yesterday – all premiums – and the total increases each day as the operators learning curve improves.

An announcement is not necessary soon since Masters petitions roll over into regular cap after Masters cap has been reached. I will talk to Shelly about modifying the cap webpage to reflect this situation. In 2010, the H-1B cap webpage showed the combined cap count after the Masters cap was reached.

Hold the news until I can get a better verification, but Vermont sent me a spreadsheet showing the package count for day one is now 34,000 vs 23,000. This would make the petition count more like 50,000 and our first day total with California 80,000. They said it was due to an updated manifest provided by FEDEX.

H1B CAP update:

Jim Fitzsimmons advises that to be safe, beginning Wednesday January 26 we not data enter the incoming FY11 CAP petitions until the contractor has received and counted all of them, that number is sent here to HQ and he determines if we can accept all of them or not. Accordingly please do instruct the contractor to rack and stack these petitions on Wednesday and send me the numerical count once the final incoming mail for the day is received, including Fedex and UPS.

Second, you should have barcoded labels prepared in advance for the contractor to apply should Jim determine we have to accept a portion, but not all , of a day's petitions. In this instance he'll run a random number generated program based on the barcoded numbers you send back. The lottery winners will be selected by the RNG. Instruct the contractor to follow existing procedures for the "Last-day" barcoding was done in December 2009 as it will be the same this year should it be necessary.

The projections in the table assume no surge this week. If that turns out to be true, then the final receipt date will be Friday.
Therefore, racking and stacking should begin on Wednesday in order to be safe.

Jim – is your target still 85,550 combined petitions? If we ended last Friday at 82,800 that leaves us 2,750 under your target. Last week's count went up by 2,066 over the previous week.

The four weeks since December 24 we gained 7,023 in total. Unless there is an uptick this week we should be able to get through Friday. Then Mondays being our typically heavy volume day, we may get close to an additional 1,000 next Monday.

Beginning this week we're doing twice weekly tabulations of the remaining visas for the 2011 H1B CAP. It's very important that the contractor keep current with the withdrawal requests coming in. These will impact the number of filings we can accept. At VSC, if they can't keep up with all requests they must at a minimum keep current with any impacting the CAP and process them within one day. Let me know if there are any problems with this.

Otherwise we remain on schedule to hit our limit on or about February 1.

Shelly/Denis,

Below are latest numbers. We are still on track for reaching cap in two to three weeks. I expect receipts to gradually increase until then.

The next set of numbers will be tabulated on Tuesday.

The target is 85,550 based on allowing 1,000 denials on 16,000 petitions currently pending and 450 Chile/Singapore petitions.

Steve, Rich,

Because we are nearing the CAP limit it's important that CGI prioritize processing withdrawal requests on the same day they are received, so that adjudications can immediately act on revoking prior approvals or denying pending cases. This will allow the maximum number of available visas to be used.

As of cob Tuesday there were 493 pending withdrawals of all cases at VSC and 120 at CSC. We want to see these numbers as close to 0 each day as they can get until CAP season is closed. Adjudications will be getting similar guidance on their responsibilities.

As of cob last Friday Vermont had 516 unprocessed withdrawal letters and California had 77. These are a separately reported item for the contractor. However there is no breakdown for how many apply to the current FY H1B CAP. For me to require them to get current with same day processing will only help though if the adjudicative end is also same day killing off the cases.

For a short period of two weeks, to make the CAP season as accurate and fair as possible, I have no problem putting this as a top priority for the contractor to see to if you can send the same guidance on your end.

Regular RFE responses seem to be getting processed timely. I have no idea what the outstanding RFE inventory is for the CAP cases.

Good question. Before I can respond, I'd like to ask you a few additional questions. How far behind are they on letters? Does the contractor separate out the withdrawal requests from the regular RFE responses? If so, are they behind in RFE responses as well? Theoretically, any response to an RFE/ITD could ultimately result in a denial. It really comes down to what is contained in the response.

And this leads for a question for Jim...have you already factored potential withdrawals into your calculations for the target?

Shelly as we approach the cap limit is it important for the incoming withdrawal letter requests to be processed as denials or revocations the same day? Our contractor at VSC is not keeping entirely current with the incoming letters but if it's vital, we can prioritize that they get them completely up to the same day as received. But are the officers keeping up with them as fast? Does it matter, in the bigger picture?

Shelly/Denis,
Below are latest numbers. We are still on track for reaching cap in two to three weeks. I expect receipts to gradually increase until then.
The next set of numbers will be tabulated on Tuesday.
The target is 85,550 based on allowing 1,000 denials on 16,000 petitions currently pending and 450 Chile/Singapore petitions.

Beginning this week we're doing twice weekly tabulations of the remaining visas for the 2011 H1B CAP. It's very important that the contractor keep current with the withdrawal requests coming in. These will impact the number of filings we can accept. At VSC, if they can't keep up with all requests they must at a minimum keep current with any impacting the CAP and process them within one day. Let me know if there are any problems with this.

Otherwise we remain on schedule to hit our limit on or about February 1.

H-1B QUOTA EXHAUSTION TARGET - MARCH 2011

Something new I'm starting. USCIS puts out weekly data on the use of H-1B visas for the 2011 fiscal year which starts in October. I'm going to monitor that for readers and add my own projection on the months the caps are likely to be hit. The quota is 65,000 per fiscal year plus an additional 20,000 for folks with degrees from US advanced degree programs. Applications began being accepted on April 1st. In past years, the H-1B quota was exhausted almost immediately after the application period opened up. Last year, as a result of the recession and also as a result of USCIS and Congress' war on staffing companies, H-1B usage fell sharply and the general quota was not reached until December. This year, usage is even more anemic.

As of August 13th, 29,700 H-1Bs have been used in the 65,000 quota. 1200 H-1Bs were receipted last week which is about the same as the prior two weeks. That represents a pick up in usage over prior months where about 500 to 700 H-1Bs were used each week. This could represent a pick up in economic activity in the US. It might also reflect the fact that we're getting closer to October 1st and H-1B employers don't have to hire far in advance anymore. Based on current usage, the H-1B quota will be exhausted in 29 weeks which is in March 2011.

Masters cap cases are at 12,300. The usage has been about 300 a week and this has been typical since April. Based on current usage, that quota will be used up in 25 weeks which is in February 2011.

Also, the analysis in the blog below is sound in my judgment.

Jim,

Is this the cycle time at CSC for all I-129s? Is it possible to know what the processing time is at CSC and VSC for H1Bs specifically, and also for L1As and L1Bs? I'm hearing that both centers have a 4-month PT for H1Bs, and that Ls are behind as well.

Thanks!

Bobbie

Barbara,

I am showing a cycle time for the I-129's at CSC of 2.1 months for July, this a slight improvement from June of 2.2 months. The I-129 are coming in a little later this year than last, this would result in a larger pending at the end of July:

I-129 Receipts

| | July | June | May | April |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| FY | | | | |
| 2010 | 15,112 | 17,692 | 15,624 | 23,675 |
| 2009 | 12,277 | 15,680 | 17,851 | 37,188 |
| Change from 2009 to 2010 | 2,835 | 2,012 | (2,227) | (13,513) |

Let me know if you need additional information or have any further questions.

Jim M: maybe I am making a mountain out of a molehill, but the numbers are lower this year as far as receipts so I am having trouble understanding why our pending is higher. I would think that this year we actually have more capacity (at least in California. I understand VSC has overlapping TPS). What troubles me is that CSC had been reporting a 60 day processing time on I-129s and then when we did the ACD switch it jumped to 4 months. So not sure how the cases were being reported in the past. Could you let me know if I need to bring this to the centers' attention or if we are okay as far as backlog etc. Thanks

As of cob last Friday Vermont had 516 unprocessed withdrawal letters and California had 77. These are a separately reported item for the contractor. However there is no breakdown for how many apply to the current FY H1B CAP. For me to require them to get current with same day processing will only help though if the adjudicative end is also same day killing off the cases.

For a short period of two weeks, to make the CAP season as accurate and fair as possible, I have no problem putting this as a top priority for the contractor to see to if you can send the same guidance on your end.

Regular RFE responses seem to be getting processed timely. I have no idea what the outstanding RFE inventory is for the CAP cases.

Good question. Before I can respond, I'd like to ask you a few additional questions. How far behind are they on letters? Does the contractor separate out the withdrawal requests from the regular RFE responses? If so, are they behind in RFE responses as well? Theoretically, any response to an RFE/ITD could ultimately result in a denial. It really comes down to what is contained in the response.

And this leads for a question for Jim...have you already factored potential withdrawals into your calculations for the target?

Shelly as we approach the cap limit is it important for the incoming withdrawal letter requests to be processed as denials or revocations the same day? Our contractor at VSC is not keeping entirely current with the incoming letters but if it's vital, we can prioritize that they get them completely up to the same day as received. But are the officers keeping up with them as fast? Does it matter, in the bigger picture?

Jim – is your target still 85,550 combined petitions? If we ended last Friday at 82,800 that leaves us 2,750 under your target. Last week's count went up by 2,066 over the previous week.

The four weeks since December 24 we gained 7,023 in total. Unless there is an uptick this week we should be able to get through Friday. Then Mondays being our typically heavy volume day, we may get close to an additional 1,000 next Monday.

What do you think? Anyone?

Interesting to see how the masters to bachelors ratio is higher this year than ever and that trend probably continues into the future. In 10 years we will have two categories, the masters cap and the PhD Exemption.

I can ask for the data on how many rejects we've done since December 21, but Wright did use the word denials in his message. The rejects dry up pretty fast though, once the Website posts that the CAP season is closed.

Rich – Steve – Can you get an updated count to us of how many CAP rejects we have done since December 21, including the ones from December 21 that lost out in the lottery?

Jim – Got a call from CBS News in Los Angeles. Producer wants to know if we can give them a total number of petitions that were filed for the FY10 program that were not accepted/denied, etc. (she's mainly interested in those after the cap was reached).

Also (doubt you'll have this), can we determine from which countries those denials refer?

ThanX!
Bill

Denis,

The projections in the table assume no surge this week. If that turns out to be true, then the final receipt date will be Friday.

Therefore, racking and stacking should begin on Wednesday in order to be safe.

Jim – is your target still 85,550 combined petitions? If we ended last Friday at 82,800 that leaves us 2,750 under your target. Last week's count went up by 2,066 over the previous week.

The four weeks since December 24 we gained 7,023 in total. Unless there is an uptick this week we should be able to get through Friday. Then Mondays being our typically heavy volume day, we may get close to an additional 1,000 next Monday.

What do you think? Anyone?

H1B CAP update:

Jim Fitzsimmons advises that to be safe, beginning Wednesday January 26 we not data enter the incoming FY11 CAP petitions until the contractor has received and counted all of them, that number is sent here to HQ and he determines if we can accept all of them or not. Accordingly please do instruct the contractor to rack and stack these petitions on Wednesday and send me the numerical count once the final incoming mail for the day is received, including Fedex and UPS.

Second, you should have barcoded labels prepared in advance for the contractor to apply should Jim determine we have to accept a portion, but not all , of a day's petitions. In this instance he'll run a random number generated program based on the barcoded numbers you send back. The lottery winners will be selected by the RNG. Instruct the contractor to follow existing procedures for the "Last-day" barcoding was done in December 2009 as it will be the same this year should it be necessary.

Denis,

The projections in the table assume no surge this week. If that turns out to be true, then the final receipt date will be Friday.

Therefore, racking and stacking should begin on Wednesday in order to be safe.

Yes, rich just reported they got 420 so we have over 900 racked and stacked combined. They have gotten the go ahead to start the barcoding. We should have that done by early afternoon.

There was definitely a little surge this week probably caused by the last posting of the numbers last week showing we were almost at the limit.

Below are latest numbers. We are still on track for reaching cap in two to three weeks. I expect receipts to gradually increase until then.
The next set of numbers will be tabulated on Tuesday.
The target is 85,550 based on allowing 1,000 denials on 16,000 petitions currently pending and 450 Chile/Singapore petitions.

Denis: Given that this years CAP will be the same or less than last year and a lottery not necessary, should we consider keying from day one?

Beginning this week we're doing twice weekly tabulations of the remaining visas for the 2011 H1B CAP. It's very important that the contractor keep current with the withdrawal requests coming in. These will impact the number of filings we can accept. At VSC, if they can't keep up with all requests they must at a minimum keep current with any impacting the CAP and process them within one day. Let me know if there are any problems with this.

Otherwise we remain on schedule to hit our limit on or about February 1.

Shelly/Denis,
Below are latest numbers. We are still on track for reaching cap in two to three weeks. I expect receipts to gradually increase until then.
The next set of numbers will be tabulated on Tuesday.
The target is 85,550 based on allowing 1,000 denials on 16,000 petitions currently pending and 450 Chile/Singapore petitions.

Mariela,

We followed up on these issues below raised by AILA and can provide the following responses:

1. Transfer of files from one service center to another. When this occurs, the CRIS system is updated to indicate that the "file has been transferred". However, it doesn't indicate to which office it has been transferred – making follow up difficult. More disconcertingly, it doesn't provide any further updates on the application status. So, for example, if an RFE is issued, it is not updated in CRIS. If the attorney or petitioner do not receive the RFE, they may get a denial due to abandonment, particularly if Service records indicate that the notice was mailed. I understand that CRIS is a customer service function, so perhaps you could bring this to their attention.

The Customer Service Directorate has advised that there is a scheduled release for this weekend that should correct this issue. This has been an existing issue where the some of the action codes entered in the Claims systems did not transfer over to the CRIS system during the daily feeds. Once the release is implemented, we can further review and determine if any issues still exist.

2. AFM 10.1 – as was discussed during our meeting, this chapter indicates that petitions may not be rejected because they are sent to the wrong office. Rather, it clearly states that such petitions should be receipted, and then routed to the appropriate office. Ms. Stanley clarified that the Lockbox is following this procedure. However, Mr. Neufeld indicated that he did not think this applied to petitions filed directly at the Service Centers – such as I-129 petitions, I-539 etc. It would be very helpful if we could get clarification on this issue.

There are known exceptions for premium processing cases and H1B cases filed during a lottery window where these applications are rejected. However, Service Center Operations is confirming that, apart from the exceptions noted, applications and petitions received at the wrong center are forwarded to the appropriate office for receipting and follow up.

Thanks,

Mary

Mariela,

I just wanted to follow up with you on your November 5th email, to see if there are any updates on these two issues:

1. Transfer of files from one service center to another. When this occurs, the CRIS system is updated to indicate that the "file has been transferred". However, it doesn't indicate to which office it has been transferred – making follow up difficult. More disconcertingly, it doesn't provide any further updates on the application status. However, Mr. Neufeld indicated that he did not think this applied to petitions filed directly at the Service Centers – such as I-129 petitions, I-539 etc. It would be very helpful if we could get clarification on this issue.

We would really appreciate any information you may have on resolving these issues.

Thank you,

I think that Rich and Marvin may have closed this out with me in March, but I can't seem to find anything after this point in my email archives. Do you happen to have record of the final response? GAO asked about this last week, and I just wanted to make sure that I gave them the latest information.

Thanks for the clarification. One last question, since CSC doesn't distinguish between the different I-129 categories, can we assume that the H-1B cap cases that CSC rejected in 2007 and 2008 for not winning the lottery are included in their data? I only ask because the CSC overall data is so much smaller than the VSC's H-1B specific data.

Here is the corrected spreadsheet for H1B. As April Villahermosa stated, the CSC I-129 count under the manual reject log includes all I-129 filing categories. CSC has no way of identifying just the H1B cases. They do have count for H1B Cap in CRIS. Would you want that count?

Mark,

OSI is USCIS' liaison with the GAO. All meetings or information provided to the GAO are handled through OSI. I was not at the meeting where GAO requested the reject counts, so I do not have a frame of reference for that particular data request. However, this GAO project (130916) is a Congressionally mandated review of the impact of the H-1B visa cap on U.S. competitiveness. Before the entrance meeting last summer, GAO indicated that their key objectives are analyzing:

- the impact of the H-1B cap (or its expansion) on domestic employment, labor costs for U.S. companies, domestic investments in research and development, and the outsourcing of U.S. jobs overseas
- the correlation between the H-1B program and the willingness of foreign companies to hire American workers; and
- the current requirements for ensuring that American workers are not disadvantaged by the H-1B program.

Thanks!

Steve / Rich,

I'm not sure why they are asking, I was not at the meeting where they discussed this. I do know that this is the third time we have gone to the centers asking for manual reject data for I-129 H1B. Denis originally asked for a period of three months during CAP season to determine which cases that were rejected might have had an opportunity to re-file before the deadline if we were not backlogged at the time. The second time was a request that Office of Policy and Strategy wanted us to send out was for a month's worth of manual reject data during the CAP season (I need to follow up on this one still) and now this request from GAO and OSI for everything from 2000 to 2008. All we are able to provide them is counts since manual rejects at the centers do not have unique identifiers associated with them.

Shelly, are you able to shed any light on what GAO or OSI is going to use these counts for?

Records ACDs,

GAO and OSI would like counts for the number of manual rejects performed at each center for I-129 / I-129 H1B cases from year 2000 to 20008.
Please send me what counts you can put together for each year during this time frame by 2/18/10 if your center processed I-129 during this time frame.
If additional time is needed due to un-archiving records, please let me know.

Mark,

We need to help BEST if we can to respond to the GAO data request below. Contact all four centers and ask them to have a thorough search done and respond with information they have for manual rejects done between fiscal years 2000- 2008 on the H1B petition, form I-129. If they can provide numbers for the I-129 form as a whole only, have them provide that. If they have neither, they should provide that.

CSC and VSC should have I-129 H1B CAP reject data at least since FY2007. The request below is for all H1B during the entire year, not just the CAP filings.

Thanks – Shelly is your POC for any further information.

Good morning Shelly-

I spoke with GAO and I hope this clarifies what they are looking for:

When we met last week, the officials we spoke to mentioned that there are manual logs of those petitions that are rejected during the sorting process in the mail room. Further, they said that they could compile data for us on how many petitions were manually rejected. We would be interested in getting this information for H-1B petitions for each year from fiscal year 2000 through fiscal year 2008.

Please let me know if this makes sense or if you need further clarification.

Holly,

We have a quick question regarding the data being requested in the third bullet for the January 19th meeting. Is GAO requesting data on manual rejects for each fiscal year's cap season or H-1B manual rejects during that fiscal year?

Thanks!

Shelly

Subject: RE: GAO 130916: H-1B Visa Cap - information requests

Good afternoon-

Thank you Sandra and OIT for you quick response and for all the information you have provided.

The 2 sub-bullets regarding the December 16th meeting have been addressed. The GAO is looking for further information regarding the following from December 16th:

- GAO is looking for standard operating procedures or regulations or guidance that describes the lottery process. During the meeting in December, it was mentioned that DHS has specific procedures for running a lottery in years such as April 2008 when a great deal more petitions were received beyond the number that were eligible for the cap. Further, it was stated that we would see what other guidance there might be for other years, such as those in which the cap has not been reached. The GAO is looking for documentation that would describe these types of processes in greater detail.

The below information is still needed regarding the January 19th meeting:

- Information on whether an employer is required to complete the fields on part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (these questions pertain to the numerical limitation exemption information)
- Regulations, standard operating procedures, or guidance used to determine who is counted against the cap
- Data for fiscal year 2000 through 2008 on the number of manual rejections of I-129 petitions for H-1B workers

Thanks everyone for your assistance and please let me know if you have any questions or concerns.

December 16, 2010 Meeting (OIT)

In regards to question 1, are you looking for OIT to provide this information? The I-129 form captures the same fields no matter which "type". However, I do not think I have the information on how the business team DE's these cases.

January 19, 2010 Meeting (OIT)

- Name of variable in CLAIMS3 mainframe data used to determine whether a petition is new, an extension, etc. The data is associated with the R2NISTAT table.

The field is FSRRCPT-APP-PART-2-2 which can be found in the RCPT.txt file.

- Name of variable in CLAIMS3 mainframe data used to determine whether an individual is eligible for the higher education cap, and the associated table values for this variable.

This would be the field where the Data would be stored on the Mainframe. However, the upload process does not capture this data. In reviewing the upload process, only data from questions 4, 5, and 6 of Part C (Numerical Limitation Exemption Information) would be uploaded question 7 is not.

This data is captured in CLAIMS 3 LAN but it NOT uploaded to the MF.

Subject: GAO 130916: H-1B Visa Cap - information requests

Good morning everyone-

Acting on behalf of Carmen Nemeth while she is out of the office this week, I am following up in regards to requests for information from GAO following both the December 16th meeting, and the teleconference which took place Tuesday, January 19, 2010.

Outstanding items from the meeting held December 16, 2010 and subsequent emails:

- Documentation regarding the lottery process for the cap (e.g. standard operating procedures)

1) What fields from the I-129 L-Classification Supplement are captured in the CLAIMS3 data that was provided to GAO.

2) Based on the updated spreadsheet you provided, it looks like CLAIMS3 does not capture all fields from part C of the I-129 H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement. How does DHS determine whether a firm (not a beneficiary) is exempt from the numerical limitation for the cap?

During the January 19, 2010 meeting, we agreed to provide the following information to GAO:

- Name of variable in CLAIMS3 mainframe data used to determine whether a petition is new, an extension, etc. The data is associated with the R2NISTAT table.
    - The field is FSRRCPT-APP-PART-2-2 which can be found in the RCPT.txt file.

- Name of variable in CLAIMS3 mainframe data used to determine whether an individual is eligible for the higher education cap, and the associated table values for this variable.
    - This would be the field where the Data would be stored on the Mainframe. However, the upload process does not capture this data. In reviewing the upload process, only data from questions 4, 5, and 6 of Part C (Numerical Limitation Exemption Information) would be uploaded question 7 is not.
    - This data is captured in CLAIMS 3 LAN but it NOT uploaded to the MF.

- Information on whether an employer is required to complete the fields on part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (these questions pertain to the numerical limitation exemption information)
- Regulations, standard operating procedures, or guidance used to determine who is counted against the cap
- Data for fiscal year 2000 through 2008 on the number of manual rejections of I-129 petitions for H-1B workers

This information is needed ASAP for the December 16th information which has been previously requested. And the additional requests for information from the January 19th meeting are needed by January 29, 2010. Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns regarding the above requests.

Thank you!

Chris,

Can you do some adding on this and tell me exactly how many forms were pending due to "CRU returns" and how many were "VAWA"? I want to get to the bottom of why Vermont has so many of these at the end of each day.

Gentlemen –

Serco does keep documentation on manual reject counts on the portal exclusively for the TSC; as part of our invoice reconciliation review. I see the GAO and OSI would like counts for the number of manual rejects performed at each center for I-129 / I-129 H1B cases from year 2000 to 20008. I highlighted the area of interest on Serco's internal TSC MAAG for Nov 2009.

I can make a request to Serco for their internal MAAGs for the NSC and TSC since Dec 2007. I suspect we can find JHM MAAGs on the shared drive prior to Dec 2007 for the requested information.

Unless I hear otherwise – I'll move forward and take appropriate action.

When I was at the TSC I had access to the SI (Now SERCO) Portal. Don't remember if you could find data that old using the Portal.

Mark,

We need to help BEST if we can to respond to the GAO data request below. Contact all four centers and ask them to have a thorough search done and respond with information they have for manual rejects done between fiscal years 2000- 2008 on the H1B petition, form I-129. If they can provide numbers for the I-129 form as a whole only, have them provide that. If they have neither, they should provide that.

CSC and VSC should have I-129 H1B CAP reject data at least since FY2007. The request below is for all H1B during the entire year, not just the CAP filings.

Thanks – Shelly is your POC for any further information.

Good morning Shelly-

I spoke with GAO and I hope this clarifies what they are looking for:

When we met last week, the officials we spoke to mentioned that there are manual logs of those petitions that are rejected during the sorting process in the mail room. Further, they said that they could compile data for us on how many petitions were manually rejected. We would be interested in getting this information for H-1B petitions for each year from fiscal year 2000 through fiscal year 2008.

Please let me know if this makes sense or if you need further clarification.

We have a quick question regarding the data being requested in the third bullet for the January 19th meeting. Is GAO requesting data on manual rejects for each fiscal year's cap season or H-1B manual rejects during that fiscal year?

Thanks!

Subject: RE: GAO 130916: H-1B Visa Cap - information requests

Good afternoon-

Thank you Sandra and OIT for you quick response and for all the information you have provided.

The 2 sub-bullets regarding the December 16th meeting have been addressed. The GAO is looking for further information regarding the following from December 16th:

- GAO is looking for standard operating procedures or regulations or guidance that describes the lottery process. During the meeting in December, it was mentioned that DHS has specific procedures for running a lottery in years such as April 2008 when a great deal more petitions were received beyond the number that were eligible for the cap. Further, it was stated that we would see what other guidance there might be for other years, such as those in which the cap has not been reached. The GAO is looking for documentation that would describe these types of processes in greater detail.

The below information is still needed regarding the January 19th meeting:

- Information on whether an employer is required to complete the fields on part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (these questions pertain to the numerical limitation exemption information)
- Regulations, standard operating procedures, or guidance used to determine who is counted against the cap
- Data for fiscal year 2000 through 2008 on the number of manual rejections of I-129 petitions for H-1B workers

Thanks everyone for your assistance and please let me know if you have any questions or concerns.

December 16, 2010 Meeting (OIT)

In regards to question 1, are you looking for OIT to provide this information? The I-129 form captures the same fields no matter which "type". However, I do not think I have the information on how the business team DE's these cases.

January 19, 2010 Meeting (OIT)

- Name of variable in CLAIMS3 mainframe data used to determine whether a petition is new, an extension, etc. The data is associated with the R2NISTAT table.

The field is FSRRCPT-APP-PART-2-2 which can be found in the RCPT.txt file.

- Name of variable in CLAIMS3 mainframe data used to determine whether an individual is eligible for the higher education cap, and the associated table values for this variable.

This would be the field where the Data would be stored on the Mainframe. However, the upload process does not capture this data. In reviewing the upload process, only data from questions 4, 5, and 6 of Part C (Numerical Limitation Exemption Information) would be uploaded question 7 is not.

This data is captured in CLAIMS 3 LAN but it NOT uploaded to the MF.

Subject: GAO 130916: H-1B Visa Cap - information requests

Good morning everyone-

Acting on behalf of Carmen Nemeth while she is out of the office this week, I am following up in regards to requests for information from GAO following both the December 16th meeting, and the teleconference which took place Tuesday, January 19, 2010.

Outstanding items from the meeting held December 16, 2010 and subsequent emails:

- Documentation regarding the lottery process for the cap (e.g. standard operating procedures)

1) What fields from the I-129 L-Classification Supplement are captured in the CLAIMS3 data that was provided to GAO.

2) Based on the updated spreadsheet you provided, it looks like CLAIMS3 does not capture all fields from part C of the I-129 H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement. How does DHS determine whether a firm (not a beneficiary) is exempt from the numerical limitation for the cap?

During the January 19, 2010 meeting, we agreed to provide the following information to GAO:

- Name of variable in CLAIMS3 mainframe data used to determine whether a petition is new, an extension, etc. The data is associated with the R2NISTAT table.
    - The field is FSRRCPT-APP-PART-2-2 which can be found in the RCPT.txt file.

- Name of variable in CLAIMS3 mainframe data used to determine whether an individual is eligible for the higher education cap, and the associated table values for this variable.
    - This would be the field where the Data would be stored on the Mainframe. However, the upload process does not capture this data. In reviewing the upload process, only data from questions 4, 5, and 6 of Part C (Numerical Limitation Exemption Information) would be uploaded question 7 is not.
    - This data is captured in CLAIMS 3 LAN but it NOT uploaded to the MF.

- Information on whether an employer is required to complete the fields on part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (these questions pertain to the numerical limitation exemption information)
- Regulations, standard operating procedures, or guidance used to determine who is counted against the cap
- Data for fiscal year 2000 through 2008 on the number of manual rejections of I-129 petitions for H-1B workers

This information is needed ASAP for the December 16th information which has been previously requested. And the additional requests for information from the January 19th meeting are needed by January 29, 2010. Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns regarding the above requests.

Thank you!

Contact all four centers and ask them to have a thorough search done and respond with information they have for manual rejects done between fiscal years 2000- 2008 on the H1B petition, form I-129. If they can provide numbers for the I-129 form as a whole only, have them provide that. If they have neither, they should provide that.

CSC and VSC should have I-129 H1B CAP reject data at least since FY2007. The request below is for all H1B during the entire year, not just the CAP filings.

Thanks – Shelly is your POC for any further information.

Good morning Shelly-

I spoke with GAO and I hope this clarifies what they are looking for:

When we met last week, the officials we spoke to mentioned that there are manual logs of those petitions that are rejected during the sorting process in the mail room. Further, they said that they could compile data for us on how many petitions were manually rejected. We would be interested in getting this information for H-1B petitions for each year from fiscal year 2000 through fiscal year 2008.

Please let me know if this makes sense or if you need further clarification.

Holly,

We have a quick question regarding the data being requested in the third bullet for the January 19th meeting. Is GAO requesting data on manual rejects for each fiscal year's cap season or H-1B manual rejects during that fiscal year?

Thanks!

Subject: RE: GAO 130916: H-1B Visa Cap - information requests

Good afternoon-

Thank you Sandra and OIT for you quick response and for all the information you have provided.

The 2 sub-bullets regarding the December 16th meeting have been addressed. The GAO is looking for further information regarding the following from December 16th:

- GAO is looking for standard operating procedures or regulations or guidance that describes the lottery process. During the meeting in December, it was mentioned that DHS has specific procedures for running a lottery in years such as April 2008 when a great deal more petitions were received beyond the number that were eligible for the cap. Further, it was stated that we would see what other guidance there might be for other years, such as those in which the cap has not been reached. The GAO is looking for documentation that would describe these types of processes in greater detail.

The below information is still needed regarding the January 19th meeting:

- Information on whether an employer is required to complete the fields on part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (these questions pertain to the numerical limitation exemption information)
- Regulations, standard operating procedures, or guidance used to determine who is counted against the cap
- Data for fiscal year 2000 through 2008 on the number of manual rejections of I-129 petitions for H-1B workers

Thanks everyone for your assistance and please let me know if you have any questions or concerns.

December 16, 2010 Meeting (OIT)

In regards to question 1, are you looking for OIT to provide this information? The I-129 form captures the same fields no matter which "type". However, I do not think I have the information on how the business team DE's these cases.

January 19, 2010 Meeting (OIT)

- Name of variable in CLAIMS3 mainframe data used to determine whether a petition is new, an extension, etc. The data is associated with the R2NISTAT table.

The field is FSRRCPT-APP-PART-2-2 which can be found in the RCPT.txt file.

- Name of variable in CLAIMS3 mainframe data used to determine whether an individual is eligible for the higher education cap, and the associated table values for this variable.

This would be the field where the Data would be stored on the Mainframe. However, the upload process does not capture this data. In reviewing the upload process, only data from questions 4, 5, and 6 of Part C (Numerical Limitation Exemption Information) would be uploaded question 7 is not.

This data is captured in CLAIMS 3 LAN but it NOT uploaded to the MF.

Subject: GAO 130916: H-1B Visa Cap - information requests

Good morning everyone-

Acting on behalf of Carmen Nemeth while she is out of the office this week, I am following up in regards to requests for information from GAO following both the December 16th meeting, and the teleconference which took place Tuesday, January 19, 2010.

Outstanding items from the meeting held December 16, 2010 and subsequent emails:

- Documentation regarding the lottery process for the cap (e.g. standard operating procedures)

1) What fields from the I-129 L-Classification Supplement are captured in the CLAIMS3 data that was provided to GAO.

2) Based on the updated spreadsheet you provided, it looks like CLAIMS3 does not capture all fields from part C of the I-129 H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement. How does DHS determine whether a firm (not a beneficiary) is exempt from the numerical limitation for the cap?

During the January 19, 2010 meeting, we agreed to provide the following information to GAO:

- Name of variable in CLAIMS3 mainframe data used to determine whether a petition is new, an extension, etc. The data is associated with the R2NISTAT table.
    - The field is FSRRCPT-APP-PART-2-2 which can be found in the RCPT.txt file.

- Name of variable in CLAIMS3 mainframe data used to determine whether an individual is eligible for the higher education cap, and the associated table values for this variable.
    - This would be the field where the Data would be stored on the Mainframe. However, the upload process does not capture this data. In reviewing the upload process, only data from questions 4, 5, and 6 of Part C (Numerical Limitation Exemption Information) would be uploaded question 7 is not.
    - This data is captured in CLAIMS 3 LAN but it NOT uploaded to the MF.

- Information on whether an employer is required to complete the fields on part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (these questions pertain to the numerical limitation exemption information)
- Regulations, standard operating procedures, or guidance used to determine who is counted against the cap
- Data for fiscal year 2000 through 2008 on the number of manual rejections of I-129 petitions for H-1B workers

This information is needed ASAP for the December 16th information which has been previously requested. And the additional requests for information from the January 19th meeting are needed by January 29, 2010. Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns regarding the above requests.

Thank you!

Denis,
Yes.
That is almost a 10% reject rate.
In preparation for FY 2011 cap season, I would like to know the number of rejects by cap category (regular vs. masters) in FY 2010. Do you think the centers have those numbers?
Thanks.

Jim, this makes 25 rejects of the 270 lottery selections. Do you feel we should draw a final group to replace these - let's all discuss tomorrow.

VSC and CSC,

I have confirmed with Jim that there are approximately 4,000 cap numbers left as of COB 12/8. This was calculated by subtracting 80,000 (estimated count) from 84,000 (65,000 minus 1,000 for Chile/Singapore plus 20,000 for Masters).

Rob, can you let BEST know what the contractor front log estimate is?

Julie,

As for the DAAG, it was a miscommunication between the supervisors that left the forms in the deposit room overnight.

We have spoken to them to ensure this does not happen again.

As for G-23, let me check again with Dan, slipped my mind.

Sorry.

Tom

Okay. Also, the G-23 "receipt files" line item – have you finished that yet? I know Erin said you've been doing it the same way since day one, but the procedure I sent you – have you seen this before? It should have been part of the transition – the whole Field Manual is about ½ inch thick – it's called the G-23 Performance Analysis System (PAS)...Kristen would remember...

Many Thanks,

I-129 H1B CRIS (CAP Receipt Information System) Database:

Purpose of Report: The CRIS database was designed to aid the California Service Center (CSC) in the tracking and processing of H1B CAP cases. The CRIS database is an Access database that require the Contractor to input the RNG number and/or receipt number of the respective H1B CAP case and input the H1B cap case data information such as petitioner, attorney and beneficiary name, address, DOB, COB, EIN number and reason for rejection when rejecting the H1B cap cases. CRIS information is also used to respond to the inquiries from the petitioner and the attorneys. The database has a search capability to search for a H1B cap case by CAP number, petitioner/beneficiary's name and box number etc. The database has capability to produce reject and/or acknowledgement letters.

Type of report: Database.

Report Name/number: CSC- CRIS

Frequency: Daily during the H1B CAP open season.

How to print the report: The contractor will maintain the RNG lottery CAP number information and the other case information into CRIS database to ensure that all H1B CAP cases received at CSC are accounted for. The information relating to the rejected cap cases is entered into CRIS database. The Contractor selects the appropriate reject letter stored in the CRIS database and then prints the reject letter by clicking the print button.

Hello Bobbie and Claudia,

Thank you for reaching out to David Cartier for the eCISCOR outage information. Based on the information he provided on the rarity of occurrences when eCISCOR is down, we would like to propose that the Lockbox system shall retry to connect to eCISCOR for up to 24 hours to receive a response for an application. If a response is not received 24 hours after the initial request, the Lockbox will reject the application. We want to confirm with you if you agree that this process should be put into place for the rare case that eCISCOR is down for an extended period of time.

Thanks,
Mallika

PP percentage was unfortunately a little lower than last year. They processed 4,703 Premiums through last night and none of the 600 remaining in DE are premiums.

4,703/20,600 total DE is 22.83%

Of the 22,000 filings thus far, VSC had only 110 from Thursday and CSC 490 from Tuesday-Thursday remaining to data enter, so we are virtually current.

Thursday's mail was 236 VSC, 224 CSC.

This will be the last daily update. Some stats from this year's incoming –

The split of filings was 57% VSC 43% CSC, very similar to previous years.

The reject rate is 816/21,400 completed, a little under 4%

The good side to all this is it won't take the contractor long to get current again.

Re your voicemail I just got - if there's anything you want to discuss call again or I can call back. No need to wait until May to talk about it.

Thanks Walter,

We'll start data entry then on the Premium filings tomorrow morning as planned. Take all the steps to downsize the project that can be done based on the first three days results, as we expect no change from here on. H1B season will continue for several months at least.

I know, but I'd really rather have the complete and final numbers after the Friday mail is all opened and sorted. It can't take them much longer to get done with 2,071 pieces.

Denis –

I have attached our CAP report for Thursday and Friday. The 2071 that are unidentified are packages that were picked up at the post office late Friday afternoon. Let me know if you have any questions.

This is how we wanted them to report it. So just as soon as this is completed up there we can update upper mgt down here on what the numbers for the first two days are. As you can see they dropped off over 1,300 from the initial estimates.

Chris: We do not have concrete numbers for cap yet, the contactor depends upon NFTS which was down Friday all day. The below numbers are estimates based on an average box numbers. As soon as the contractor downloads the numbers from the Dolphins we will get a solid count by category this morning.

We did finish CAP Presort for all petitions received on both Days 1 and 2 today at 4PM.

NFTS is still down. We may not get you the exact CAP numbers (box ranges from NFTS).

Attached is an estimated count for Days 1 and 2.

The estimate is a box count based on last year's average of 22.5 files per box.

Day 1 estimated total is 7,932 and Day 2 estimated total is 833 for a grand total of 8,765 for the first two days.

The following is taken from the attached report and breaks the days down by CAP category:

| Estimated Daily Receipts | (Estimate based on 600 per cage / 22.5 per box / 20 per bucket) | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | 4/1/10 | 4/2/10 | 4/3/10 | 4/5/10 | 4/6/10 | 4/7/10 | Total |
| (CRN) H1B CAP | 4,759 | 495 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 5,254 |
| (CRP) H1B CAP - Premium | 934 | 113 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1,047 |
| (CMN) H1B Masters | 1,609 | 180 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1,789 |

| Total | 7,932 | 833 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 8,765 |

Chy's team is auditing Day 1 and Day 2 boxes. They will upload and run a box range for each day if NFTS comes back up tonight.

If NFTS comes back up; Chy will send out an updated CAP count to all e-mailed above.

Have a great weekend.

Well we can revisit this because it is an ongoing objective for us and the lockboxes to reduce the rejection rate. If our pilot from last december is working out well why not expand it to include PP filings and PP upgrades. So long as we don't start the 15 day clock until arrival by mail at the correct center, what is the downside? We could specifically state that we will not do this during the initial 5 day H1B season.

Also, I would like us to start forwarding misfiled 751s between CSC and VSC if there are no complications that would result. Cost savings are one of the biggest value added steps we can provide right now, and are very much sought after at HQ.

Hi Shelly,

Rich Nicholson just shared the below. I guess PP filings will be rejected for wrong jurisdiction.

Thanks.

Mary Lou,

We've discussed forwarding here and decided that at least on a pilot basis, we should do it. Rich, adding you in.

For I-129s (including any I-539s) filed at your centers with jurisdiction at your counterpart center, please forward instead of rejecting. This will not be extended to I-129 Premium filings and in lieu of the imminent reaching of H1B CAP, it will not include those filings either. In other words just your plain vanilla I-129s. If you want to include the I-129F as well, that can be included.

Forward them as we are doing the lockbox applications, unreceipted, manifested with fees attached and via Fedex 2nd day delivery. The official received date will be when received at the proper center of jurisdiction. I will let you all work out any other details. If anyone sees a significant problem in this plan please respond back. Minimizing the reject rate has become both a Lockbox and a SCOPS objective and this will help our metrics.

Thanks,

Denis Peck

Subject: Premium Processing Webpage

We have been reviewing the webpage for premium processing, and noticed that it contains the below sentences:

If a petitioner or applicant erroneously filed a concurrent or standalone Form I-907 relating to a Form I-129 or standalone relating to a Form I-140 petition at the wrong service center, USCIS will not reject the filing, but instead will forward the filing to the correct service center having jurisdiction over the petition or application[sas1] . For these incorrectly filed Forms I-907, the 15 calendar-day period will start on the date the file is received at the correct service center as indicated in the Form I-907 filing instructions.

We believe that this sentence may be inaccurate for the I-129. Are concurrent I-907/I-129s filed in wrong jurisdiction rejected (or is that just the H-1B PP cap cases)? Are the standalone I-907s still forwarded to the correct office for receipting?

1 billion dollars in receipts and successfully adjudicated over 133,000 premium processing cases accounting in over[u1] $133,000,000 in revenue.

2.4 Manage resources effectively to improve performance and mission capabilities

SCOPS oversaw the realignment of center workloads in an effort to meet overall center goals. All four service centers assessed workload capacity and realigned workloads and priorities in a joint effort resulting in the shipment of various discrete workloads to leverage available capacity. Workload realignment in the I-130s, I-129, I-539, I-730, and I-140s resulted in achieving processing time goals and production goals at each center. SCOPS oversaw the successful management of the H1B cap as well as the expansion of I-129 R premium processing and reestablishment of I-140 premium. SCOPS oversaw the centralization of the EB5 workload resulting in a more focused adjudicative approach to a sensitive workload and more predictable decisional outcomes. SCOPS realigned portfolios to ensure full coverage and cooperation with the field and internal stakeholders. Managers implemented tracking tools to ensure proper oversight of projects and integration of key players for each project design. New reports for administrative functions allowed proper oversight and quick resolution of issues resulting in success in overall resource management. SCOPS finished FY09 with only $15,850 in Prompt Payment interest, equaling $183 per million.

2.5 Improve SCOPS mission accomplishment capabilities through input and development along with implementation of policy development, business reengineering, transformation, development of

- If you want to add the thing we did with asylum in March, SCOPS worked with RAIO to implement the new legislative requirement for unaccompanied minors to now file for asylum directly with USCIS vs. the immigration courts. The new filing option was put into place by the March 23, 2009 deadline with the NSC selected as the service center for accepting these cases.

- If you want to add to the T and U background, you could refer to the fact that SCOPS worked with VSC to implement the new I-929 in January 2009, the petition for U visa family members.

- You could refer to SCOPS working in coordination with the IDP branch to implement use of the new Secure Mail envelope for remailing PONDS cards and travel documents, in September 2009.

Just little bits to consider.

All,
After discussing this matter, Denis and I agreed that the preferred way is to use MAS for MASTERS and STD for REGULAR because for cap counting purposes we won't know until all the petitions have been adjudicated on which date the MASTERS cap was actually reached.

Lisa,

I would defer to Jim Fitzsimmons, as he is responsible for the cap numbers. However, at VSC, we have not changed CLAIMS from MAS to STD in Adjudications and I would prefer not to do so. From Jim's prior communication, I don't believe he is expecting us to do so.

Of course, at our current rate of receipts, it is questionable whether we will even hit the "Regular" cap (including the MAS spillover). If not, then it really is a moot point anyway.

Thanks Shannon. The goal here to ensure that CSC and VSC are processing the intake of these consistently. I have not seen CSC's guidelines. I don't know if we are stretching the adjudication aspect a little bit too much here on the TLC where the labor cert does not match the start date. If the petitioner indicates a start date after 10/1 we should accept and adjudication makes the determination whether the date is correct. There could be situations where an amended petition is filed where the employer was not able to obtain all benes at one time. Just throwing that out for thought.

Denis & Kurt,

See my edits in red. Please note, that petitions requesting an "Amended Petition" (Part 2, Item 2.f. is checked) are exempt this requirement. Petitions filed for FY 2009 (requesting a starting date before October 1, 2009) are also exempt this requirement. We need to make sure that the contractor is clear about these two exceptions if we are going to allow them to reject petitions for this provision in the regulations. I had thought that at CSC petitions were not being rejected for this issue, because it was considered too complicated for them to process. Is that not the case?

Could you also send me a copy of the checklist CSC uses? Or are both Service Centers now going to use this checklist?

This is the reject for LCAs (needed with H1Bs). We review for all of the items listed on the reject.

Your I-129 petition, supporting documents and fee are being returned to you for the following reason:

____ A valid Labor Condition Application was not submitted with your filing.

____ The petitioner's signature is missing on the Labor Condition Application.

____ The Department of Labor official's signature is missing on the Labor Condition Application.

____ The starting and/or ending dates are missing on the Labor Condition Application.

This is the reject for ETAs (needed with H2Bs). We review for all of the items listed on the reject.

Your I-129 petition, supporting documents and fee are being returned to you for the following reason:

____ The starting date listed in part 5 of your petition does not match the starting date listed

Rob and I thought the reason why it was 24,000 instead of 20,000 was to account for the denials and rejects. Therefore we thought Jim was using the number received.

Not really; you are just counting up the data entered figures. Jim is querying C3 to determine how many are approved or pending. There have been about 600-700 denials already and these he's deducted from the totals. It could be a few more weeks before he give the word that we have enough.

We can give these numbers to OCOMM and update the webpage today with Jim's numbers below. However, due to the IT problems Jim is experiencing, we don't have the approved/pending numbers.

If we give these numbers and then find that there were more denials/withdrawals/revocations then next week's numbers will be lower and we will have to answer the "Why?" questions again.

I am thinking we hold off until at least tomorrow morning to see if IT can fix the issue so we can get a more accurate number. If the IT issue can't be fixed by tomorrow, we run with these numbers. What are your thoughts?

Thanks,
Claudia

June 15-19 receipts
Regular cap cases 470
Masters cap cases 149

As of June 19th, count of potential regular cap receipts is approximately 44,700.
That is based on adding to 470 to 44,200 (last week's number).
I am not going to be able to provide approval counts today because of server storage issue resting with OIT.

Denis,

Attached please find the actual compiled by forms/process from the Dec-08-Apr09 MAAG reports for SERCO and STANLEY. Note that Fee Collections only have four months of CPF invoices from Dec08-Mar09 versus the MAAG's of five. The full Option Year 1 projection costs are calculated based on average monthly processed units multiply by average cost per form multiply by 12. Denis,

Can I put these two pieces of information together that:

1) Since the total amount receive as of 4/17/09 was 66,354
2) Approximately 32,500 have been data entered.

Does this mean that as of 4/17, there were less than 34,000 application waiting to be data processed with the payments attached?

If this is a correct understanding, one further question for the next Monday up is when does VSC & CSC currently estimate that they will catch up on data entering the applications?

If front log isn't expected to be cleared by April 30th, then we should have those two service centers update their front log form submitted at the end March to show the end of April balances.

Jim says our magic number is 24K for the masters so we are okay. We don't need a cushion because they just fold into the regular cap. It is my understanding we just close the cap when we hit it. I am including Jim in case I am saying something wrong. Also, Denis once we hit the master's cap do we update differently to roll into the regular cap?

Hi,

Do we have a cushion number for Masters? I'm not sure if we have a strategy and when/if we need to rack and stack for a Masters RNG or if they should start being out into the regular cap?

24,000 (Masters only) plus another 76,000 combining Regular and other (rolled over) Masters. Grand total is 100,000.

Makes sense rolling them into the regular cap.

We do need some type of cushion in the regular cap though because we will have denials/withdrawals, etc. What's our overall magic number?

Denis,

I modified the report I sent on Saturday (Cap Report2. xls) because I had flip-flopped the VSC numbers for Regular Masters and Premium Masters.

The combined totals for VSC & CSC should be:

Reg. Cap – 21,551
PP Cap - 10,003
Total Reg. – 31,584

Reg. Masters – 11,704
PP Masters - 5,787
Total Master – 17,491

PP Cap - 10,003
Total Reg. – 31,584

Reg. Masters – 11,704
PP Masters - 5,787

Denis –

The LCA field is not a required field for Data Entry; C3 will save and issue a receipt number without anything in this field.

The LCA field is however a required field for an adjudicative decision update. Officers cannot update C3 with an approval or denial decision without something in this field.

Please let me know if you have any further questions.

Thanks

Lisa, can you have someone verify for me that this is not a required field (as in the record will save even if you leave it blank, and we don't manually reject if blank either). I think I've had this question in the past and that is what we found out but I'm not certain anymore.

After that, how about a report on how things are going. California said they would have all their petitions categorized this morning for the first two days – about 26,000.

Here are the correct numbers. Apparently the report clerk added some of the manifests that had already been counted and that is why the number jumped to 34,103. Please note that you should be seeing the number of opened and bar coded count jump up quite a bit from yesterday.

In summary we received 24,801 pieces of mail and of that 4,107 have been opened and bar coded.

Sorry for the confusion!

Denis,

This morning our CRU received '135' H1B Cap cases filed to early (yesterday). 95 of them were from "Satyam" and the remaining ones were from various companies. I was also informed that our mailroom received several call from UPS asking to pull these filings because they were delivered too early. CRU performed the reject notices on these filings and they were all sent out in the mail today.

As for the improper rejects here are the counts for three months:

December - 278
January - 254
February - 202

No, if you have an improper reject count send it for me.

Agreed, there is no need to continue this level of auditing.

But do audit what they plan to reject from today's H1B extensions mail. As for new non CAP H1B's, are you comfortable with them not putting any in by mistake? Your call.

Because when I asked you to do a 100% review that's all I wanted. A review for correct rejection. The typos and the log - that's not crucial enough for a 100% review. The timeliness , maybe that was worth checking on.

Thank god. I was thinking in terms of standard 4 errors. You only had one of those. The rest I can live with. There's no monetary deduction for being out of the time compliance.

Actually that's pretty good, only one incorrect decision out of 1,203.

How many CAP rejects today? Are you all ready for tomorrow?

FEDEX is our single biggest courier source. Their package count is down 44% from last year. I think this will hold up over the remainder of the day with all other courier companies.

USPS mail was about 50% of last year's package count. I see no reason there would be a difference in applications per package vs. last year, so it is safe to guess we will be no higher than 60% of last years count by days end, probably a little less.

STILL EARLY.

Carol and Denis,

As discussed in the last couple of conference calls, the five-day filing period was introduced as in interim rule in Federal Register Vol. 73, No. 57 on Monday, March 24, 2008. The five-day filing period is discussed in Part III A on page 15392 of the attached rule.

The attached Fact Sheet dated March 19, 2008 discusses Premium Processing and the fact that the premium processing clock cannot start until after the random selection process has been completed. If we do not receive enough filings to run the random generator, I would still advocate that the clock should not begin until after all mail is received and counted. In the event we do not receive enough filings, I believe we should recommend to OCC a start date of 4/8/09 (day after five day filing window).

We will follow up with Stanley locally on the issue of tracking cases in the USG provided Access DB in lieu of the CHRIS database. We have been meeting with Stanley for over a month now and this was not portrayed as a major issue. We will also discuss and work out a process for the Masters non-selectees that are eventually selected in the regular cap (assuming that we receive the 23-24K that Jim intends to accept).

Thanks,

Rob

Petitions Filed on Behalf of H–1B Temporary Workers Subject to or Exempt From the Annual Numerical Limitation

AGENCY: U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, DHS.

ACTION: Interim rule with request for comments.

SUMMARY: The Department of Homeland Security is amending its regulations governing petitions filed on behalf of alien workers subject to the annual numerical limitations applicable to the H nonimmigrant classification. This rule precludes a petitioner from filing more than one petition based on the H–1B nonimmigrant classification on behalf of the same alien temporary worker in a given fiscal year if the alien is subject to a numerical limitation or is exempt from a numerical limitation by virtue of having earned a master's or higher degree from a U.S. institution of higher education. Additionally, this rule makes accommodations for petitioners seeking to file petitions on the first day on which filings will be accepted for the next fiscal year on behalf of alien workers subject to the annual numerical limitation or U.S. master's or higher degree holders exempt from this limitation. This rule also clarifies the treatment of H nonimmigrant petitions incorrectly claiming an exemption from the numerical limitations. Finally, the rule removes from the regulations unnecessary language regarding the annual numerical limitation applicable to the H–1B nonimmigrant classification. These changes are necessary to clarify the regulations and further ensure the fair and orderly adjudication of petitions subject to numerical limitations.

II. Background

The ability of employers to fill available U.S. jobs on a timely basis with alien temporary workers otherwise eligible for the H–1B nonimmigrant classification generally depends on when they filed petitions for such workers and the number of such petitions that USCIS has approved with respect to the relevant fiscal year (i.e., October 1 through September 30). With a few exceptions, the total number of aliens who may be accorded H–1B nonimmigrant status during any fiscal year currently may not exceed 65,000 (referred to as the "cap" or "numerical limitation"). See Immigration and Nationality Act (INA) sec. 214(g), 8 U.S.C. 1184(g). USCIS may only accord status to qualified aliens in the order in which the H–1B petitions are filed. See INA sec. 214(g)(3), 8 U.S.C. 1184(g)(3). This interim final rule will improve USCIS' ability to administer the cap by modifying the filing procedures for H–1B petitions submitted by employers on behalf of aliens.

A. The H–1B Petition Process

An H–1B nonimmigrant is an alien employed to perform services in a specialty occupation, services related to a Department of Defense cooperative research and development project or coproduction project, or services of distinguished merit and ability in the field of fashion modeling. INA sec. 101(a)(15)(H), 8 U.S.C. 1101(a)(15)(H); 8 CFR 214.2(h)(4). To qualify as a specialty occupation, the position must meet one of the following requirements: (1) The minimum entry requirement for the position normally is a bachelor's or higher degree or its equivalent; (2) the degree requirement is common to the industry or the position is so complex or unique that it can be performed only by an individual with a degree; (3) the employer normally requires a degree or its equivalent for the position; or (4) the nature of the specific duties is so specialized and complex that the knowledge required to perform the duties is usually associated with attainment of a bachelor's or higher degree. 8 CFR 214.2(h)(4)(iii)(A).

Before employing an H–1B temporary worker, a U.S. employer first must file an H–1B petition with USCIS on behalf of the worker on Form I–129, "Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker" together with the forms, "H Classification Supplement to Form I–129" and "H–1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement." The worker must be named on the petition. 8 CFR 214.2(h)(2)(iii). For a petition filed on behalf of a temporary worker in a specialty occupation, the employer also must file a Labor Condition Application (LCA) that has been certified by the Department of Labor (DOL). 8 CFR 214.2(h)(4)(i)(B)(1). The LCA specifies the job, salary, length, and geographic location of employment. The petitioner must pay several different fees with the H–1B petition. The base filing fee is $320. 8 CFR 103.7(b)(1) (listing Form I–129 filing fee). In addition, a petition filed by an employer with 26 or more full-time employees must pay a $1,500 fee; a petition filed by an employer with 25 or fewer full-time employees must pay a $750 fee. INA 214(c)(9)(B), 8 U.S.C. 1184(c)(9)(B). Most employers filing an initial H–1B petition, and H–1B employers filing a petition on behalf of an alien currently employed as an H–1B temporary worker by another employer, must pay a fraud prevention and detection fee of $500. INA 214(c)(12)(A) and (C). Finally, an employer requesting expedited processing of the H–1B petition must pay an extra $1,000 premium processing fee with the expedited processing request. INA 286(u), 8 U.S.C. 1356(u); 8 CFR 103.2(f)(2). These fees are not refundable. 8 CFR 103.2(a)(1).

Once USCIS accepts the H–1B petition, it adjudicates the petition and issues a written decision notifying the petitioner whether USCIS requires additional information before it can issue a decision or whether the petition is approved or denied. 8 CFR 103.2(a)(8) and 214.2(h)(9) and (10). USCIS may revoke a petition that has been previously approved, even after expiration of the petition. 8 CFR 214.2(h)(11). A petitioning employer, following receipt of the written decision, may appeal to USCIS the denial or revocation of a petition. 8 CFR 214.2(h)(12). An approved H–1B petition is valid for a period of up to three years.[1] See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(9)(iii)(A)(1). Prior to the expiration of the initial H–1B petition, the petitioning employer may apply for an extension of stay, or a different employer may petition on behalf of the temporary worker. 8 CFR 214.2(h)(2)(i)(D) and (15)(ii)(B). However, any such extension only may only be granted for a period of time such that the total period of the temporary worker's admission does not exceed six years.[2] INA sec. 214(g)(4), 8 U.S.C. 1184(g)(4); 8 CFR 214.2(h)(13)(iii)(A). At the end of the six-year period, such alien must either seek permanent resident status or depart the United States.[3] See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(13)(iii)(A). The alien may be eligible for a new six-year period of admission in H–1B nonimmigrant status if he or she remains outside the United States for at least one year. Id.

B. H–1B Nonimmigrants Subject to the 65,000 Cap

Most aliens seeking H–1B nonimmigrant classification are subject to the 65,000 cap. Exempt from the 65,000 cap are aliens who: (1) Are employed at, or have received offers of employment from, an institution of higher education, or a related or affiliated nonprofit entity; (2) are employed at, or have received offers of employment from, a nonprofit research organization or a governmental research organization; or (3) have earned a master's or higher degree from a U.S. institution of higher education. INA sec. 214(g)(5), 8 U.S.C. 1184(g)(5). A cap of 20,000 applies to the exemption based on an alien's U.S. master's or higher degree ("20,000 cap on master's degree exemptions"). INA sec. 214(g)(5)(C), 8 U.S.C. 1184(g)(5)(C). Based on the employer's answers to the questions on the "H–1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement" to Form I–129, USCIS determines whether the alien beneficiary qualifies for one of the exemptions.

The spouses and children of H–1B aliens, classified as H–4 nonimmigrants, are exempt from the 65,000 or 20,000 cap. See INA sec. 214(g)(2); 8 U.S.C. 1184(g)(2); 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(ii)(A). In addition, USCIS does not apply the 65,000 or 20,000 cap in the following cases: requests for petition extensions or extensions of stay in the United States; and petitions filed on behalf of aliens who are currently in H–1B nonimmigrant status but are seeking to change the terms of current employment, change employers, or work concurrently under a second H–1B petition. Such aliens have already been counted towards the cap(s). See INA sec. 214(g)(7), 8 U.S.C. 1184(g)(7); 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(ii)(A).

C. Random Selection Process

In order to ensure that the 65,000 and 20,000 caps are not exceeded, USCIS monitors the number of H–1B petitions it receives. The first day on which petitioners may file H–1B petitions can be as early as six months ahead of the employment start date. 8 CFR 214.2(h)(9)(i)(B). Therefore, a petitioner requesting an employment start date of October 1, the first day of the next fiscal year, may file the H–1B petition as early as April 1 of the current fiscal year. When USCIS determines, based on the number of H–1B petitions it has received, that the applicable cap will be reached, it announces to the public the final day on which it will accept such petitions for adjudication in that fiscal year. USCIS refers to this day as the "final receipt date." See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(ii)(B). USCIS then randomly selects the number of petitions necessary to reach the cap from the petitions received on the final receipt date. Id. If USCIS receives sufficient H–1B petitions to reach the cap for the next fiscal year on the first day that filings may be made, that day is the final receipt date. USCIS then randomly applies all of the cap numbers among the H–1B petitions filed on that day and the following day. Id.

Following the random selection process conducted for the 65,000 cap, USCIS rejects any petitions that are not selected or that are received after the final receipt date (or the day following the final receipt date, if applicable). Id.; 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(ii)(D). With respect to the 20,000 cap, USCIS will count any non-selected or subsequently filed H–1B petitions towards the 65,000 cap. If the 65,000 cap already has been reached, however, USCIS will reject such petitions.

The procedures at 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(ii)(B) for assigning cap numbers also apply to other H nonimmigrant petitions that are subject to numerical limitations. See 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(i). However, because demand for other H categories has not been as great as for the H–1B classification, USCIS has only had to apply the random selection procedures to H–1B petitions subject to the overall 65,000 cap or the 20,000 cap on master's degree exemptions.

D. Random Selection Process Under the 65,000 Cap for Fiscal Year 2008

On Monday, April 2, 2007, the first available filing day for fiscal year (FY) 2008, USCIS received H–1B petitions totaling nearly twice the 65,000 cap. See USCIS Update at http://www.uscis.gov/files/pressrelease/H1BFY08Cap040307.pdf. This was the first time since the random selection process regulations were promulgated that USCIS received more petitions than [1] Initial H–1B petitions involving a DOD research and development or co production project may be approved for a period of up to five years. 8 CFR 214.2(h)(9)(iii)(A)(2).

[2] Aliens entering the United States in H–1B status to perform services of an exceptional nature in a research, development and/or co production project administered by the Department of Defense may remain in the United States for a maximum period of ten years. 8 CFR 214.2(h)(13)(iii)(B).

[3] Certain aliens are exempt from the six-year maximum period of admission under sections 104(c) and 106(a) and (b) of the American Competitiveness in the Twenty-First Century Act of 2000, Pub. L. No. 106–313, 114 Stat. 1251 (2000).

available cap numbers on the first available filing day. USCIS believes that petitioners rushed to file H–1B petitions for FY 2008 on the first available filing day because the cap had been reached very early in the previous fiscal years, and petitioners may have anticipated that a similar shortage of H–1B cap numbers would occur for FY 2008.[4] In order to ensure receipt of a petition by USCIS on April 2, H–1B petitioners incurred significant costs to send their petitions via overnight courier. The huge volume of filings scheduled for delivery on April 2 caused logistical problems for overnight couriers and on the two USCIS service centers where filings could be made.

Using the petitions received on April 2 and April 3, USCIS conducted the random selection process and thereafter rejected all petitions that were not randomly selected. When adjudicating the selected petitions, USCIS found approximately 500 instances where a single beneficiary had been named on at least two petitions filed by the same petitioner in what appears to have been an attempt to increase the chances of being selected in the random selection process. As a general practice, when USCIS approved a petition for a specifically-named individual, it denied any duplicate petitions subsequently adjudicated. Under current procedures, because H–1B cap numbers are allotted per alien, and not per petition, no adverse consequences befall a petitioner that seeks to exploit the system through filing multiple petitions. By statute, USCIS may only allot one cap number per alien beneficiary, regardless of the number of petitions that were filed on the alien's behalf. INA section 214(g)(7), 8 U.S.C. 1184(g)(7).

Based on its experience administering the 65,000 cap, USCIS has determined that the current procedures applicable to petitions filed on behalf of cap-subject aliens pose three problems. First, USCIS has determined that accepting duplicate filings over the course of the fiscal year, as well as for the random selection process, undermines the fair and orderly administration of the cap. When USCIS receives enough H–1B petitions to meet the cap on the first filing day for the coming fiscal year, then conducts an early random selection process, the filing of duplicative petitions increases the odds that USCIS will select at least one of the duplicative petitions for adjudication. Such petitioners thereby gain an unfair advantage over other petitioners participating in the random selection process who filed a single petition for a given beneficiary and job offer. Moreover, the filing of duplicative petitions results in unnecessary adjudications. Such unnecessary adjudications slow the overall processing of H–1B petitions, creating disadvantages for employers and otherwise eligible alien beneficiaries who need to make advance arrangements for the beneficiaries' upcoming employment.

Second, since the current regulations provide that the final receipt date is the first day on which filings will be accepted if the cap is reached on that day, and USCIS understands that petitioners anticipate the cap being reached on the first day for future fiscal years, petitioners feel pressured to file petitions on that day for fear of being excluded from the random selection process. USCIS faces significant logistical difficulties in order to handle such a large number of filings being made on the same day. While the current regulations at 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(ii)(B) provide some relief by authorizing USCIS to include in the random selection process petitions filed on the first day and the following day, this relief has proved to be insufficient to alleviate these difficulties.

Third, the filing of duplicate or multiple petitions may result in USCIS making available more than one receipt number to the same beneficiary, making it more difficult for USCIS to achieve an accurate projection of the number of petitions needed to generate the required number of approvals to reach the cap. In turn, USCIS may prematurely determine that the cap has been reached and either subsequently reject timely-filed petitions or close the opportunity for other prospective H–1B employers to file petitions.

E. Cap on Master's Degree Exemptions

Just as with the 65,000 cap, the 20,000 cap on master's degree exemptions has been exhausted earlier and earlier for each fiscal year since the cap exemption was added to the law. See Omnibus Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 2005, Div. J, Tit. IV, section 425, Public Law 108–447, 118 Stat. 2809 (2004) (establishing the master's degree exemption). For FY 2006, the 20,000 cap was reached on January 17, 2006. For FY 2007, the cap was reached on July 26, 2006, less than four months after petition filings began on April 1, 2006. For FY 2008, the cap was reached on May 4, 2007, just over one month after petition filings began on April 2, 2007. For each of these fiscal years, USCIS announced a final receipt date and conducted the random selection process. See USCIS Update at http://www.uscis.gov/files/pressrelease/H1Bfy08CapUpdate050407.pdf. USCIS rejected any non-selected or subsequently filed petitions since the 65,000 cap on H–1B petitions already had been reached by the time USCIS conducted the random selections.

USCIS believes that the trend of exhausting the 20,000 cap on master's degree exemptions at an earlier date will continue. Should both the 20,000 and 65,000 caps be reached on the same day that numbers become available (e.g., April 1 of the preceding fiscal year), no regulatory mechanism is in place to facilitate administration of the 20,000 cap in relation to the 65,000 cap. In addition, while USCIS is not aware of duplicative or multiple H–1B petitions being filed in past fiscal years on behalf of the same aliens eligible for the master's degree exemption, USCIS anticipates the possibility of such filings for future fiscal years as the H–1B classification becomes increasingly oversubscribed. In fact, USCIS believes that for FY 2009, it is likely that petitioners will rush to file H–1B petitions on behalf of aliens eligible for the master's degree exemption on the first available filing days, in anticipation that there will be a shortage of master's degree exemptions.

The filing of duplicative or multiple H–1B petitions on behalf of an alien eligible for the master's degree exemption would place employers filing such petitions at an unfair advantage over employers filing only a single petition by increasing the chances that one of the duplicative or multiple petitions would be selected. This problem would be exacerbated were the 20,000 cap to be reached prior to or at the same time as the 65,000 cap, since all petitions not selected in the random selection process for the 20,000 cap would be considered twice—at the time of the random selection for the 20,000 cap and, thereafter, for the 65,000 cap. This would reduce the availability of H–1B numbers for single petition filers. The same problem holds true if employers of aliens subject to the master's degree exemption seek to increase the chances of obtaining an H–1B number by filing concurrent petitions for the same aliens under both the master's degree exemption and the 65,000 cap. In its administration of the 65,000 and 20,000 caps, USCIS must remove any potential for unfairness and ensure that the H–1B petitions filed on behalf of aliens subject to either or both caps have an equal chance of being selected.

III. Changes in This Interim Rule

A. Final Receipt Date When Cap Numbers Are Used Up Quickly

This rule provides that USCIS will include petitions filed on all of those first five business days in the random selection process if USCIS receives a sufficient number of petitions to reach the applicable numerical limit (including limits on exemptions) on any one of the five business days on which USCIS may accept petitions. This will eliminate filing problems resulting from a rush of filings made on the first day on which employers may file petitions for the upcoming fiscal year. See revised 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(ii)(B). USCIS has determined that a filing period of five business days is sufficient to account for a wider range of mail delivery times offered by the various mail delivery providers available to the public.

This rule also provides that, if both the 65,000 and 20,000 caps are reached within the first five business days available for filing H–1B petitions for a given fiscal year, USCIS must first conduct the random selection process for petitions subject to the 20,000 cap on master's degree exemptions before it may begin the random selection process of petitions to be counted towards the 65,000 cap. See revised 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(ii)(B). After conducting the random selection for petitions subject to the 20,000 cap, USCIS then must add any non-selected petitions to the pool of petitions subject to the 65,000 cap and conduct the random selection process for this combined group of petitions. Therefore, those petitions that otherwise would be eligible for the master's degree exemption that are not selected in the first random selection will have another opportunity to be selected for an H–1B number in the second random selection process. This rule also clarifies that those petitions not selected in either random selection will be rejected. See id.

B. Elimination of Multiple Filings

To ensure the fair and equitable distribution of cap numbers, this rule precludes a petitioner (or its authorized representative) from filing, during the course of any fiscal year, more than one H–1B petition on behalf of the same alien beneficiary if such alien is subject to the 65,000 cap or qualifies for the master's degree exemption. See new 8 CFR 214.2(h)(2)(i)(G). This preclusion applies even if the petitions are not duplicative.

USCIS recognizes that, by statute, multiple filings of H–1B petitions are contemplated. See INA sec. 214(g)(7), 8 U.S.C. 1184(g)(7). Nevertheless, USCIS finds that this rule's preclusion of duplicative H–1B filings is consistent with the statute. Section 214(g)(7) of the INA, 8 U.S.C. 1184(g)(7), states that "[w]here multiple petitions are approved for 1 alien, that alien shall be counted only once." USCIS interprets this statutory language as applying to an alien who has multiple petitions filed on his or her behalf by more than one employer. Therefore, an alien who will be performing H–1B duties on behalf of two separate petitioners will be counted only once against the cap. USCIS does not believe that the statutory language at section 214(g)(7) of the INA, 8 U.S.C. 1184(g)(7), was intended to allow a single employer to file multiple H–1B petitions on behalf of the same alien. Such a broad interpretation would undermine the purpose of the H–1B numerical cap since multiple filings can result in the misallocation of the total available cap numbers.

USCIS recognizes that, on occasion, an employer may extend the same alien two or more job offers for distinct positions and therefore have a legitimate business need to file two or more separate H–1B petitions on behalf of the same alien. This rule precludes this practice if the alien beneficiary is subject to the numerical limitations or qualifies for the master's degree exemption. First, allowing multiple filings by one employer on behalf of the same alien could create a loophole for employers that seek to exploit the random selection process to the competitive disadvantage of other petitioners. Such employers could file multiple petitions on behalf of the same alien under the guise that the petitions are based on different job offers, when the employment positions are in fact the same or only very slightly different.

Second, requiring USCIS adjudicators to distinguish between multiple petitions filed by one employer for one alien based on different job offers and duplicative petitions for one alien for the same, single position would require a significant expenditure of limited USCIS adjudicative resources. USCIS could not make such determinations on the face of the petition, but would need to substantively examine and compare the merits of the petition and any other petition filed by the same employer on behalf of the alien. This would defeat the purpose of the random selection process, which is not intended to be a decision on the merits, but instead, an expeditious way for USCIS to determine which petitions are eligible for consideration on the merits.

Finally, prohibiting employers from filing multiple petitions on behalf of the same alien should have no impact on the unusual situation where an employer may have the same alien in mind for materially distinct employment positions. Once an alien is allocated an H–1B number based on one petition, the employer is able to file an amended petition or a petition for concurrent employment to reflect the different nature of the duties that are associated with the beneficiary's second employment position. Since the alien would have already been counted against the cap, such amended or additional petition would not be affected by the prohibition on multiple petition filings. See INA sec. 214(g)(7), 8 U.S.C. 1184(g)(7).

For these reasons, USCIS believes that it must curtail both duplicative and multiple petition filings by the same employer in order to prevent future fairness problems similar to those USCIS experienced with its administration of the FY 2008 random selection process for the 65,000 cap. Accordingly, this rule provides that USCIS will deny all the petitions filed by an employer (or authorized representative) for the same fiscal year with respect to the same alien subject to the 65,000 or 20,000 caps. See new 8 CFR 214.2(h)(2)(i)(G). In cases where USCIS does not discover that duplicative or multiple petitions were filed until after approving them, this rule also provides that USCIS may revoke all such petitions if they were approved after this rule becomes effective. Id.

This rule does not, however, preclude related employers from filing petitions on behalf of the same alien. USCIS recognizes that an employer and one or more related entities (such as a parent, subsidiary or affiliate) may extend the same alien two or more job offers for distinct positions and therefore have a legitimate business need to file two or more separate H–1B petitions on behalf of the same alien.

For example, a Fortune 500 company may be the parent company of numerous U.S.-based subsidiaries whose business is to engage in either the food, beverage or snack industries. Each line of business may, in turn, be divided into several business units and operate distinct companies (restaurant, bottled beverage plant, cereal manufacturer, etc) with different EIN numbers, addresses, etc. Although all the subsidiaries are ultimately related to the parent company through corporate ownership, this rule does not prohibit different subsidiaries from filing one H–1B petition each on behalf of the same alien so long as each employer/subsidiary has a legitimate business need to hire such alien for a position within that subsidiaries' corporate structure. Thus, in this example, if the bottled beverage plant owned by the Fortune 500 company and the cereal manufacturing company owned by the same Fortune 500 company are each in need of the services of a Chief Financial Officer, both may file one petition each on behalf of the same alien. A subsidiary should not file an H–1B petition for an alien just to increase the alien's chances of being selected for an H–1B number where that subsidiary has no legitimate need to employ the alien and is, instead, only filing a petition to facilitate the alien's hiring by a different, although related, subsidiary.

USCIS may issue a request for additional evidence or notice of intent to deny, or notice of intent to revoke for any or each petition if it determines that the employer and related entity(ies) filed a duplicate petition as defined in this regulation. See 8 CFR parts 103 and 214.2(h)(11). The burden rests with the employer to establish that it has a legitimate business need to file more than one H–1B petition on behalf of the same alien. If the employer does not meet its burden, USCIS may deny or revoke each petition, as appropriate. Without such authority, a loophole would exist for related employers to file multiple petitions on behalf of the same alien under the guise that the petitions are based on different job offers, when the true purpose of filing the petitions is to secure employment for the alien with a single employer seeking his or her services. As an example, one target of this provision is the unscrupulous employer that establishes or uses shell subsidiaries or affiliates to file additional petitions on behalf of the same alien in order to increase the alien's chances of being allotted an H–1B number. USCIS believes that these consequences are warranted in order to deter unfair filing practices and further ensure the integrity of the H–1B cap counting process.

To date, USCIS has identified the problems resulting from multiple filings only in the context of H–1B petitions. For this reason, this rule limits the bar on multiple petition filings to H–1B petitions.

C. Denial of Petitions After Cap Numbers Are Used

Over the past few years, USCIS has received a significant number of petitions that claim to be exempt from the 65,000 cap, but are determined after the final receipt date or after all cap numbers have been used to be subject to the cap. The current regulations do not specifically address treatment of such petitions. This rule amends the regulations to clarify that such petitions will be denied rather than rejected. See revised 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(ii)(B) and (D). USCIS has determined that denial of these petitions is appropriate because USCIS must adjudicate them in order to make a determination on whether the alien beneficiary is subject to the numerical cap. USCIS only rejects filings before an adjudication takes place. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7). Because USCIS must adjudicate these petitions, it will not return the petition and refund the filing fee.

D. Technical Changes

1. Removal of References To Cap Numbers

This rule revises 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(i)(A) to remove specific references to the H–1B numerical cap. The revised paragraph now generally refers to the numerical limitations set forth in section 214(g)(1) of the INA, 8 U.S.C. 1184(g)(1). USCIS has determined that specifying the cap numbers in the regulations is not necessary and may cause confusion in the future should Congress change the INA.

2. Inclusion of 20,000 Cap

This rule revises 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(ii)(B) to clarify that the random selection process applies to the administration of the 20,000 cap on master's degree exemptions. The current provision generally refers to "numerical limitations," "the numerical limit," or "cap." To maintain consistent terminology, this rule also replaces references in 8 CFR 214.2(h)(8)(ii)(B) and (D) to the "cap" with the statutory term, "numerical limitations."

IV. Regulatory Requirements

A. Administrative Procedure Act

This final rule addresses requirements that are procedural in nature and does not alter the substantive rights of applicants or petitioners for immigration benefits. Accordingly, this final rule is exempt from the notice and comment requirements under the Administrative Procedure Act (APA) at 5 U.S.C. 553(b)(A). This rule does not change the eligibility rules governing any immigration benefit. It will not confer rights or obligations upon any party. This rule clarifies existing USCIS regulations and modifies the filing requirements for petitioners submitting H–1B petitions.

In addition, USCIS believes that good cause exists to implement this change effective immediately upon publication in the Federal Register as an interim final rule without first providing notice and the opportunity for public comment. The APA provides that an agency may dispense with notice and comment rulemaking procedures when an agency, for "good cause," finds that those procedures are "impracticable, unnecessary, or contrary to the public interest." See 5 U.S.C. 553(b)(B). The exception excuses notice and comment, in emergency situations, or where "the delay created by the notice and comment requirements would result in serious damage to important interests." Woods Psychiatric Institute v. United States, 20 Cl. Ct. 324, 333 (Cl. Ct. 1990) aff'd 925 F.2d 1454 (Fed. Cir. 1991); also National Fed'n of Fed. Employees v. National Treasury Employees Union, 671 F.2d 607, 611(D.C. Cir. 1982).

This rule is necessary to preclude the potential for abuse by those petitioners who might seek an unfair advantage in obtaining one of the limited number of H–1B petition approvals. As discussed above, last year was the first year that the 65,000 H–1B cap was reached on the same day that petitioners could begin to file petitions. USCIS believes that the practice of filing multiple petitions in an effort to exploit the random selection process has become more wide-spread over the past year as fears are raised that the 65,000 H–1B cap and 20,000 cap on master's degree exemptions for FY 2009 will be reached on April 1, 2008. Delay in issuing this regulation to consider public comment, would not allow USCIS to ameliorate the problem by removing this loophole in time for the April 1, 2008 filing start date. This would adversely impact a large number of companies, in particular smaller businesses that cannot afford to pay multiple petition fees to secure an H–1B visa for their employees.

Accordingly, USCIS is implementing these amendments as an interim rule effective immediately upon publication in the Federal Register. USCIS nevertheless invites comments on this rule and will consider all timely comments in the preparation of a final rule.

B. Regulatory Flexibility Act

The Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA) (5 U.S.C. 603(b)), as amended by the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement and Fairness Act of 1996 (SBREFA), requires an agency to prepare and make available to the public a regulatory flexibility analysis that describes the effect of a proposed rule on small entities (i.e., small businesses, small organizations, and small governmental jurisdictions) when the agency is required "to publish a general notice of proposed rulemaking for any proposed rule." Because this rule is being issued as an interim rule, on the grounds set forth above, a regulatory flexibility analysis is not required under the RFA.

C. Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995

This rule will not result in the expenditure by State, local, and tribal governments, in the aggregate, or by the private sector, of $100 million or more in any one year, and it will not significantly or uniquely affect small governments. Therefore, no actions were deemed necessary under the provisions of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995.

D. Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act of 1996

This rule is not a major rule as defined by section 804 of the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Act of 1996. This rule will not result in an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more; a major increase in costs or prices; or significant adverse effects on competition, employment, investment, productivity, innovation, or on the ability of United States-based companies to compete with foreign-based companies in domestic and export markets.

E. Executive Order 12866 (Regulatory Planning and Review)

This rule has been designated as a "significant regulatory action" by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) under Executive Order 12866, section 3(f), Regulatory Planning and Review. Accordingly, an analysis of the economic impacts of this rule has been prepared and submitted to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for review. This rule imposes no additional costs on the public, or any regulated entity that is subject to its provisions. This rule does not preclude any petitioner from filing a legitimate petition, only the filing of the same petition more than once. The race to meet the filing date of each fiscal year has become a ritual for H–1B petitioners and USCIS expects the 65,000 and 20,000 maximums to be met easily every year. Thus, the volume of applications and fee income are not expected to change from current levels. This rule may result in a fee being collected instead of returned if the prohibition against duplicate petitions is violated, because while in 2007 only the duplicate petition was denied if the first one adjudicated was approved, this rule provides that both petitions will be denied. Nonetheless, all employers and employees that are the subject of a timely filing will have the same chance as all others for their petition to be selected for processing. This rule does not change that. Hence, this rule will benefit both petitioners and alien beneficiaries by making sure that all petitioners have an equal chance to have their petition considered. A copy of the complete analysis is available in the rulemaking docket for this rule at www.regulations.gov, under Docket No. USCIS–2007–0060, or by calling the information contact listed above.

F. Executive Order 13132 (Federalism)

This rule would have no substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the National Government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Therefore, this rule does not have sufficient federalism implications to warrant the preparation of a federalism summary impact statement.

G. Paperwork Reduction Act

Under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995, Public Law 104–13, all Departments are required to submit to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), for review and approval, any reporting requirements inherent in a rule. This rule does not impose any new reporting or record-keeping requirements under the Paperwork Reduction Act.

(G) Multiple H–1B petitions. An employer may not file, in the same fiscal year, more than one H–1B petition on behalf of the same alien if the alien is subject to the numerical limitations of section 214(g)(1)(A) of the Act or is exempt from those limitations under section 214(g)(5)(C) of the Act. If an H–1B petition is denied, on a basis other than fraud or misrepresentation, the employer may file a subsequent H–1B petition on behalf of the same alien in the same fiscal year, provided that the numerical limitation has not been reached or if the filing qualifies as exempt from the numerical limitation. Otherwise, filing more than one H–1B petition by an employer on behalf of the same alien in the same fiscal year will result in the denial or revocation of all such petitions. If USCIS believes that related entities (such as a parent company, subsidiary, or affiliate) may not have a legitimate business need to file more than one H–1B petition on behalf of the same alien subject to the numerical limitations of section 214(g)(1)(A) of the Act or otherwise eligible for an exemption under section 214(g)(5)(C) of the Act, USCIS may issue a request for additional evidence or notice of intent to deny, or notice of intent to revoke each petition. (B) When calculating the numerical limitations or the number of exemptions under section 214(g)(5)(C) of the Act for a given fiscal year, USCIS will make numbers available to petitions in the order in which the petitions are filed. USCIS will make projections of the number of petitions necessary to achieve the numerical limit of approvals, taking into account historical data related to approvals, denials, revocations, and other relevant factors. USCIS will monitor the number of petitions (including the number of beneficiaries requested when necessary) received and will notify the public of the date that USCIS has received the necessary number of petitions (the "final receipt date"). The day the news is published will not control the final receipt date. When necessary to ensure the fair and orderly allocation of numbers in a particular classification subject to a numerical limitation or the exemption under section 214(g)(5)(C) of the Act, USCIS may randomly select from among the petitions received on the final receipt date the remaining number of petitions deemed necessary to generate the numerical limit of approvals. This random selection will be made via computer-generated selection as validated by the Office of Immigration Statistics. Petitions subject to a numerical limitation not randomly selected or that were received after the final receipt date will be rejected. Petitions filed on behalf of aliens otherwise eligible for the exemption under section 214(g)(5)(C) of the Act not randomly selected or that were received after the final receipt date will be rejected if the numerical limitation under 214(g)(1) of the Act has been reached for that fiscal year. Petitions indicating that they are exempt from the numerical limitation but that are determined by USCIS after the final receipt date to be subject to the numerical limit will be denied and filing fees will not be returned or refunded. If the final receipt date is any of the first five business days on which petitions subject to the applicable numerical limit may be received (i.e., if the numerical limit is reached on any one of the first five business days that filings can be made), USCIS will randomly apply all of the numbers among the petitions received on any of those five business days, conducting the random selection among the petitions subject to the exemption under section 214(g)(5)(C) of the Act first.

* * * * *

(D) If the total numbers available in a fiscal year are used, new petitions and the accompanying fee shall be rejected and returned with a notice that numbers are unavailable for the particular nonimmigrant classification until the beginning of the next fiscal year. Petitions received after the total numbers available in a fiscal year are used stating that the alien beneficiaries are exempt from the numerical limitation will be denied and filing fees will not be returned or refunded if USCIS later determines that such beneficiaries are subject to the numerical limitation.

CHANGES TO THE FY2009 H-1B PROGRAM

WASHINGTON – U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) issued an interim final rule today that prohibits employers from filing more than one petition for an H-1B visa for a single employee in a fiscal year. The change is intended to promote a fair and systematic process for H-1B petitioners. This rule ensures that companies filing H-1B petitions that are subject to numerical limits will have an equal chance to receive consideration for an H-1B worker.

The interim final rule will become effective upon publication in the Federal Register and may be accessed via USCIS' website at www.uscis.gov.

BACKGROUND

U.S. businesses utilize the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in fields that require theoretical and practical expertise in specialized occupations requiring a bachelor's degree or higher (or its equivalent), such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers. By law, USCIS cannot grant more than 65,000 new H-1B visas per fiscal year, subject to certain limited exceptions. The first 20,000 H-1B petitions filed on behalf of aliens with U.S.-earned masters' or higher degrees are exempt from the H-1B numerical limitation of 65,000. USCIS administers a separate "20,000 cap" for such exempt petitions.

USCIS will use a random selection process for all the master's degree or higher cap-exempt cases received on the first five business days available for filing H-1B petitions for a given fiscal year, if necessary. In the event that the U.S. master's exemption limit is reached on the first five business days, USCIS will first conduct the random selection process for such petitions before it begins random selection for petitions to be counted toward the 65,000 cap. Petitions eligible for the U.S. master's degree or higher exemption that are not selected to receive an H-1B visa number from the 20,000 cap will be considered with the other H-1B petitions in the random selection for the 65,000 cap filed on the first five business days.

CAP-EXEMPT PETITION

USCIS also notes that petitions for new H-1B employment are exempt from the cap if the aliens will work at the defined institutions of higher education or a related or affiliated nonprofit entities, or at nonprofit research organizations or governmental research organizations. Thus, employers may continue to file petitions for these exempt H-1B categories regardless of H-1B visa number availability.

CAP PROCEDURES

USCIS will use the following process for handling H-1B petitions subject to the FY 2009 cap:

- April 1, 2008 is the first day petitions may be received for an October 1, 2008 start date. When it is determined that the numerical limitations have been reached, USCIS employs a random selection process to choose among the petitions received on the "final receipt date." If the "final receipt date" falls within any one of the first five business days, the random selection will be run using all the cap-subject petitions received on those five days.

- USCIS will reject and return the filing fee(s) for all cap-subject H-1B petitions that are not selected in the process described above. The new rule clarifies that this provision only applies to petitions that indicate they are cap-subject. If a petitioner claims to be exempt from the cap and is later found to be subject to the cap, USCIS will not refund or return fees and that petition will be denied if no cap numbers are available.

- Petitions for the FY 2009 cap received before April 1, 2008 will be rejected. A petition is considered received when USCIS takes possession of and stamps the petition as received, not by the date the petition is postmarked.

In order to fully utilize its data entry and initial processing capacity, USCIS may choose to distribute filings received at one service center to other service centers for data entry. In the event that USCIS exercises this option, petitioners may receive receipt notices or other correspondence from a service center other than the one to which their H-1B petition was mailed.

PREMIUM PROCESSING

Cap-subject petitions requesting premium processing that are received on the "final receipt date," or during the initial five business day period mentioned above, cannot be processed until after the random selection has been completed. The premium processing 15-day adjudication period (processing deadline) will not begin until such time as USCIS has completed the random selection process.

The number of master's exemption cases received cannot be determined until all the petitions have been sorted and counted. The same holds true for the master's exemption premium processing cases. In accordance with established guidelines, USCIS will refund premium processing fees for any filings for which it cannot meet processing deadlines. Even if USCIS issues a refund of the premium processing fee, it will continue to provide premium processing for these filings until completion.

CURRENT H-1B WORKERS

Petitions filed on behalf of current H-1B workers do not count towards the congressionally mandated H-1B cap. Accordingly, this rule does not affect USCIS processing of petitions filed to:

- Extend the amount of time a current H-1B worker may remain in the United States;
- Change the terms of employment for current H-1B workers;
- Allow current H-1B workers to change from one cap-subject position to a different cap-subject position with a different employer; or
- Allow current H-1B workers to work concurrently in a second H-1B position.

Revised May 9, 2008

USCIS ANNOUNCES INTERIM RULE ON H-1B VISAS

Rule Modifies Petition Selection Process and Prohibits Multiple Filings

What is the H-1B visa program?

The H-1B visa program is used by U.S. businesses to employ foreign workers in occupations that require theoretical and practical application of highly specialized knowledge and a bachelor's degree or higher (or its equivalent), such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

What is the purpose of the new rule?

The overall goal of the new rule is to promote equal opportunity for prospective petitioners seeking visas for H-1B workers.

What are the specific modifications under the new rule?

1. USCIS will now either deny or revoke multiple petitions filed by an employer for the same H-1B worker.
2. USCIS will not refund filing fees for duplicative or multiple H-1B petitions.
3. In years when USCIS implements the random selection process for petitions, USCIS will include petitions in the random selection process that are filed during the first five business days available for filing H-1B petitions for a given fiscal year, rather than just the first two such days.
4. If a petition incorrectly indicates that it is exempt from any of the H-1B numerical limits, the petition will be denied if no H-1B visa numbers are available and the filing fees will not be returned.

Do the new rules referencing multiple filings on behalf of one worker apply to a parent company and its affiliated entities?

The rule does not prevent related employers (such as a parent company and its subsidiary) from filing petitions on behalf of the same alien for different positions, based on legitimate business need.

How long did it take for the prior FY2008 congressionally mandated H-1B caps to be reached?

April 2, 2007 was the first day H-1B petitions could be received for Fiscal Year 2008. On that day USCIS received enough petitions to fill the 65,000 cap for Fiscal Year 2008. On April 30, 2007, USCIS received enough petitions to fill the 20,000 advanced degree cap.

What are the FY2009 congressionally mandated H-1B caps?

By law, the congressionally mandated cap is 65,000 for new H-1B visas per fiscal year, subject to certain limited exceptions. The advanced degree exemption is 20,000 H-1B visas.

When can employers file an H-1B petition for fiscal year 2009?
April 1, 2008 is the first day petitions may be received for an October 1, 2008 start date.

What happens when the cap is reached?
When it is determined that the numerical limitations have been reached, USCIS employs a random selection process to choose among the petitions received on the "final receipt date." If the "final receipt date" falls within any one of the first five business days, the random selection will be run using all the cap-subject petitions received during those five days.

If the limits are reached during that period:

- 20,000 Reached - USCIS randomly selects from these petitions ahead of selection for the 65,000 limit.
- Over 20,000 Not Selected - Considered with other H-1B petitions in the random selection for the 65,000 limit.
- Under 20,000 – Ongoing approvals counted toward the 20,000 cap until the limit is reached.

If USCIS finds out that an employer is filing multiple petitions for the same potential employee, will USCIS disqualify that employer entirely?

USCIS will handle all duplicate filings in accordance with the interim final rule published on March 24, 2008 in the Federal Register. USCIS will deny or revoke all petitions filed by an employer for the same H-1B worker if more than one is filing is discovered. If duplicate or multiple petitions are discovered, whether one or more such petitions are approved, USCIS will data enter all those duplicative petitions, retain all fees, and either deny the petitions or, if a petition was approved, revoke the petition. The petitions will not be returned to the petitioner.

USCIS RUNS RANDOM SELECTION PROCESS FOR H-1B PETITIONS

WASHINGTON – U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) today conducted the computer-generated random selection processes on H-1B petitions, to select which H-1B petitions for fiscal year 2009 (FY 2009) would continue to full adjudication. If approved these H-1B petitions will be eligible to receive an H-1B visa number.

USCIS conducted two random selections, first on petitions qualifying for the 20,000 "master's or higher degree" (advanced degree) exemption, and second on the remaining advance degree petitions together with the general H-1B pool of petitions, for the 65,000 cap.

The approximately 163,000 petitions received on the first five days of the eligible filing period for FY 2009 (April 1 through April 7, 2008) were labeled with unique numerical identifiers. USCIS has notified the appropriate service centers which numerical identifiers have been randomly selected, so each center may continue with final processing of the petitions associated with those numerical identifiers.

Petitioners whose properly filed petitions have been selected for full adjudication should receive a receipt notice dated no later than June 2, 2008. USCIS will return unselected petitions with the fee(s) to petitioners or their authorized representatives. As previously announced, duplicate filings will be returned without the fee. The total adjudication process is expected to take approximately eight to ten weeks.

For cases selected through the random selection process and initially filed for premium processing, the 15-day premium processing period begins today (April 14), the day of the random selection process.

USCIS has "wait-listed" some H-1B petitions, meaning they may possibly replace petitions chosen to receive an FY-2009 cap number, but that subsequently are denied, withdrawn, or otherwise found ineligible. USCIS will retain these petitions until a decision is made whether they will replace a previously selected petition. USCIS will send a letter to the wait list petitioners to inform them of their status

USCIS expects that for each of these wait-listed petitions, it will either issue a receipt notice or return the petition with fees within six to eight weeks.

USCIS TO ALLOW F-1 STUDENTS OPPORTUNITY TO REQUEST CHANGE OF STATUS

Short-term, Immediate Measure for Beneficiaries of Selected H-1B Petitions

WASHINGTON—U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) announced today that it would allow F-1 students who are the beneficiaries of selected H-1B petitions for fiscal year (FY) 2009 to request a change of status in lieu of consular notification.

This short-term measure follows an April 8, 2008 interim final rule that, among other actions, automatically extends the F-1 status of qualifying students who are the beneficiaries of approved H-1B petitions to cover the gap between the expiration of a student's F-1 status and the H-1B employment start date of October 1. To obtain the automatic extension, a student must be the beneficiary of an H-1B petition filed for the next fiscal year (with an October 1 employment start date) and have requested a change of status. For F-1 student beneficiaries of petitions that USCIS subsequently rejects, denies, or revokes, or for those who violate their status, the automatic extension terminates at that time.

Since the rule was published after the filing period had closed for new FY 2009 H-1B petitions, many petitioners of F-1 students did not include a request for a change of status with the H-1B petition. Instead, petitioners requested consular notification based on the assumption that these students would have been required to leave the United States to obtain an H-1B visa at a consular office abroad.

USCIS has determined that it will allow petitioners of F-1 students whose H-1B petitions were randomly selected to receive an H-1B visa number for FY2009 following the closure of the filing period, to now request a change of status on behalf of qualified beneficiaries, if such requests are received within 30 days of the issuance of the receipt notice.

To request a change of status in lieu of consular notification, petitioners (or authorized representatives) should send an e-mail with the request to the USCIS service center where their petition is pending within 30 days of the issuance of the receipt notice. Special email addresses for each service center have been established specifically for this purpose. These addresses are listed below and are posted on USCIS' website. Petitioners should e-mail their requests for change of status in lieu of consular notification upon receipt of the notice so the agency has the request before completing H-1B petition adjudication. The requests should include the receipt number and both the petitioner's and beneficiary's name, date of birth, I-94 (Arrival/Departure Record) number, and Student and Exchange Visitor Information System (SEVIS) number. Please do not contact the service center about requesting a change of status until after receiving the receipt notice.

E-mail addresses for requesting change of status are:

- Vermont Service Center
  - Premium Processing cases: VSCPPCAPGAP.Vscppcapgap@dhs.gov
  - Non-Premium cases: VSCNONPPCAPGAP.Vscnonppcapgap@dhs.gov
- California Service Center
  - Premium Processing cases: CSC.ppcapgap@dhs.gov
  - Non-Premium cases: CSC.nonppcapgap@dhs.gov

NOTE: If an F-1 student, who is the beneficiary of a selected 2009 H-1B petition, has a pending request to change to a status other than H-1B but now wants to file under the process outlined above, he or she should withdraw the previously filed change in accordance with established regulations.

USCIS RELEASES PRELIMINARY NUMBER OF FY 2009 H-1B CAP FILINGS

WASHINGTON – U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) today announced a preliminary number of nearly 163,000 H-1B petitions received during the filing period ending on April 7, 2008. More than 31,200 of those petitions were for the advanced degree exemption.

USCIS expects next week it will conduct the computer-generated random selection process, beginning with the selection of the 20,000 petitions under the advanced degree exemption. Those petitions not selected under the advanced degree exemption will join the random selection process for the regular 65,000 cap.

USCIS will reject, and return filing fees for all cap-subject petitions not randomly selected, unless found to be a duplicate. USCIS will handle duplicate filings in accordance with the interim final rule published on March 24, 2008 in the Federal Register.

USCIS will provide regular updates as the processing of FY 2009 H-1B cap cases continues.

USCIS TO ACCEPT H-1B PETITIONS SENT TO CALIFORNIA OR VERMONT SERVICE CENTERS

Temporary Accommodation Made for FY-09 Cap-Subject H-1B Petitions

WASHINGTON – U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) announced today that it will not reject an H-1B petition that is subject to the fiscal year 2009 cap solely on the grounds that it was received at the wrong service center (e.g., the petition may have been inadvertently mailed to the California Service Center instead of the Vermont Service Center or vice versa).

It is important to note this accommodation does not apply if the petitions were sent to the Texas or Nebraska Service Centers.

USCIS is taking this limited, short-term measure to alleviate concerns from the public where an H-1B petition has been received by USCIS but at the incorrect Service Center. This measure applies only to H-1B petitions subject to the fiscal year 2009 cap that are received by USCIS before the close of business on the "final receipt date". USCIS will announce the final receipt date once the agency determines it has received the number of petitions needed to fill the congressionally mandated limitations of 65,000 new H-1B visas and 20,000 U.S. advanced degree exemptions per fiscal year. For more information on the H-1B program, please visit the USCIS website.

CHANGES TO THE FY2009 H-1B PROGRAM

WASHINGTON – U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) issued an interim final rule today that prohibits employers from filing more than one petition for an H-1B visa for a single employee in a fiscal year. The change is intended to promote a fair and systematic process for H-1B petitioners. This rule ensures that companies filing H-1B petitions that are subject to numerical limits will have an equal chance to receive consideration for an H-1B worker.

The interim final rule will become effective upon publication in the Federal Register and may be accessed via USCIS' website at www.uscis.gov.

BACKGROUND

U.S. businesses utilize the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in fields that require theoretical and practical expertise in specialized occupations requiring a bachelor's degree or higher (or its equivalent), such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers. By law, USCIS cannot grant more than 65,000 new H-1B visas per fiscal year, subject to certain limited exceptions. The first 20,000 H-1B petitions filed on behalf of aliens with U.S.-earned masters' or higher degrees are exempt from the H-1B numerical limitation of 65,000. USCIS administers a separate "20,000 cap" for such exempt petitions.

USCIS will use a random selection process for all the master's degree or higher cap-exempt cases received on the first five business days available for filing H-1B petitions for a given fiscal year, if necessary. In the event that the U.S. master's exemption limit is reached on the first five business days, USCIS will first conduct the random selection process for such petitions before it begins random selection for petitions to be counted toward the 65,000 cap. Petitions eligible for the U.S. master's degree or higher exemption that are not selected to receive an H-1B visa number from the 20,000 cap will be considered with the other H-1B petitions in the random selection for the 65,000 cap filed on the first five business days.

CAP-EXEMPT PETITION

USCIS also notes that petitions for new H-1B employment are exempt from the cap if the aliens will work at the defined institutions of higher education or a related or affiliated nonprofit entities, or at nonprofit research organizations or governmental research organizations. Thus, employers may continue to file petitions for these exempt H-1B categories regardless of H-1B visa number availability.

(more)

CAP PROCEDURES

USCIS will use the following process for handling H-1B petitions subject to the FY 2009 cap:

- April 1, 2008 is the first day petitions may be received for an October 1, 2008 start date. When it is determined that the numerical limitations have been reached, USCIS employs a random selection process to choose among the petitions received on the "final receipt date." If the "final receipt date" falls within any one of the first five business days, the random selection will be run using all the cap-subject petitions received on those five days.

- USCIS will reject and return the filing fee(s) for all cap-subject H-1B petitions that are not selected in the process described above. The new rule clarifies that this provision only applies to petitions that indicate they are cap-subject. If a petitioner claims to be exempt from the cap and is later found to be subject to the cap, USCIS will not refund or return fees and that petition will be denied if no cap numbers are available.

- Petitions for the FY 2009 cap received before April 1, 2008 will be rejected. A petition is considered received when USCIS takes possession of and stamps the petition as received, not by the date the petition is postmarked.

In order to fully utilize its data entry and initial processing capacity, USCIS may choose to distribute filings received at one service center to other service centers for data entry. In the event that USCIS exercises this option, petitioners may receive receipt notices or other correspondence from a service center other than the one to which their H-1B petition was mailed.

PREMIUM PROCESSING

Cap-subject petitions requesting premium processing that are received on the "final receipt date," or during the initial five business day period mentioned above, cannot be processed until after the random selection has been completed. The premium processing 15-day adjudication period (processing deadline) will not begin until such time as USCIS has completed the random selection process.

The number of master's exemption cases received cannot be determined until all the petitions have been sorted and counted. The same holds true for the master's exemption premium processing cases. In accordance with established guidelines, USCIS will refund premium processing fees for any filings for which it cannot meet processing deadlines. Even if USCIS issues a refund of the premium processing fee, it will continue to provide premium processing for these filings until completion.

CURRENT H-1B WORKERS

Petitions filed on behalf of current H-1B workers do not count towards the congressionally mandated H-1B cap. Accordingly, this rule does not affect USCIS processing of petitions filed to:

- Extend the amount of time a current H-1B worker may remain in the United States;
- Change the terms of employment for current H-1B workers;
- Allow current H-1B workers to change from one cap-subject position to a different cap-subject position with a different employer; or
- Allow current H-1B workers to work concurrently in a second H-1B position.

USCIS ANNOUNCES INTERIM RULE ON H-1B VISAS

Rule Modifies Selection Process and Prohibits Multiple Filings

WASHINGTON – U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) transmitted an interim final rule to the Federal Register today that prohibits employers from filing multiple H-1B petitions for the same employee. These changes will ensure that companies filing H-1B petitions subject to congressionally mandated numerical limits have an equal chance to employ an H-1B worker. To ensure a fair and orderly distribution of available H-1B visas, USCIS will deny or revoke multiple petitions filed by an employer for the same H-1B worker and will not refund the filing fees submitted with multiple or duplicative petitions.

This rule does not preclude related employers (such as a parent company and its subsidiary) from filing petitions on behalf of the same alien for different positions, based on a legitimate business need. The interim final rule becomes effective upon publication in the Federal Register.

Last August, President Bush announced that the Administration would be undertaking a series of immigration and border security reforms. The changes to the H-1B filing process under this rule are an important part of that initiative.

On April 1, 2008, employers may file petitions requesting H-1B workers for fiscal year 2009 employment starting on October 1, 2008. For fiscal year 2009, Congress has set a limit of 65,000 for most H-1B workers. Additionally, the first 20,000 H-1B workers who have a U.S. master's degree or higher are exempt from the cap. Under current procedures, which are not changed by this rule, once USCIS receives 20,000 petitions for aliens with a U.S. master's degree or higher, all other cases requesting the educational exemption are counted toward the 65,000 cap. Once the 65,000 cap is reached for a fiscal year, USCIS will announce that the cap has been filled and reject further petitions subject to the cap.

This rule also stipulates that if USCIS determines the number of H-1B petitions received meets the cap within the first five business days of accepting applications for the coming fiscal year, USCIS will apply a random selection process among all H-1B petitions received during this time period. If the 20,000 advanced degree limit is reached during the first five business days, USCIS will randomly select from those petitions ahead of conducting the random selection for the 65,000 limit. Petitions subject to the 20,000 limit that are not selected in that random selection will be considered with the other H-1B petitions in the random selection for the 65,000 limit.

The rule further clarifies that USCIS will deny petitions that incorrectly claim an exemption from any H-1B numerical limits. Those filing fees will not be returned.

This interim final rule can be viewed, along with additional information on this rule and the H-1B program, at USCIS' website at www.uscis.gov.

USCIS ANNOUNCES CENTRALIZED FILING LOCATION FOR CERTAIN H-1B CAP EXEMPT PETITIONERS

WASHINGTON – U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) announced today a new customer service initiative to streamline the adjudication of H-1B petitions. Effective today, USCIS will employ a special unit dedicated to processing these types of H-1B cap exempt petitions at the USCIS California Service Center (CSC). Aliens employed by certain types of educational, nonprofit or governmental organizations, as defined below (normally referred to as "cap exempt," aliens employed by such entities are not subject to the H-1B numerical limitations). See section 214(g)(5)(a) and (b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA); and 8 CFR 214.2 (h)(8)(A).

H-1B "cap exempt" petitions, as referenced here, include petitions filed by:

- Institutions of higher education, as defined in section 101(a) of the Higher Education Act of 1965, 20 U.S.C. 1001(a);
- Nonprofit organizations or entities related to or affiliated with institutions of higher education; and
- Nonprofit research organizations or governmental research organizations, as defined in 8 CFR 214.2(h)(19)(iii)(C).

Such institutions and organizations can indicate that their H-1B filing is cap exempt by marking Form I-129 (Petition of Non-Immigrant Worker) with a "yes" answer to questions 1, 2, or 3 in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (page 10).

H-1B petitioners are now encouraged to use the following special mailing address for qualifying H-1B cap exempt petitions. To determine if your petition qualifies, please make sure your institution or organization fits one of the categories listed above.

For Direct Mail:

U. S. Citizenship and Immigration Services
California Service Center
ATTN: CAP EXEMPT H-1B Processing Unit
P.O. BOX 30040
Laguna Niguel, CA 92607-3004

For non-United States Postal Service (USPS) deliveries (e.g. private couriers):

U. S. Citizenship and Immigration Services
California Service Center
ATTN: CAP EXEMPT H-1B Processing Unit
24000 Avila Road, Room 2312
Laguna Niguel, CA 92677

Each H-1B petitioner is encouraged to mark the outside of the envelope and the top margin of the I-129 form, with "EXEMPT." This will ensure quick identification of the H-1B filing throughout the petition's processing at CSC.

If a cap exempt H-1B petition is received at a different Service Center, that Service Center will expeditiously forward the petition to the CSC for processing. In the near future, USCIS will post special filing instructions to Form I-129 requiring all[1] qualifying H-1B cap exempt petitions to be filed at the CSC.

Please note, the highest volume of H-1B filings occurs during the month of April (Six months before the new fiscal year). This may result in longer than average receipting times or other interruptions in processing times. The public is reminded that petitioners may file a qualifying H-1B cap exempt petition at any time of the year dependent on the petitioner's need, and no earlier than six months ahead of the intended start date.

– USCIS –

[1] H-1B "cap exempt" petitions, as referenced here, do not cover H-1B petitions filed on behalf of beneficiaries requesting an exemption from the cap on account of holding a U.S. Master's degree or higher, requesting an extension of stay, or change of employer, or petitions requesting an amendment. These types of petitions, while also "exempt" should continue to be filed in accordance with the filing charts on uscis.gov and the Form I-129 instructions.

Summary through April 23:

1. Reject rates: California 1.58% (325 of 20,568), Vermont 5.15% (901 of 17,540) Combined 3.22% (1,226 of 38,108)
2. Stage of completion: California, 57.4% data entered or rejected, Vermont 28.5%
3. Remaining: 97,000 – 38,108 = 58,892 remaining.
4. Projected finishes (by myself): California, May 2. Vermont, May 16.

Significant findings: 1. No cushion is going to be required. 97,000 initially identified applications will be sufficient.

2. 10-20 Premium Processing cases are being found each day at each center, misfiled with the non PP filings. We will incur lost revenue due to this. I will instruct both centers to record the numbers found after next Monday, the expiration of the PP clock. These checks will not be desposited unless they are included as a single payment check, in which case we will deposit and refund the $1,000 portion.
3. California must vacate their leased workroom May 2. If there will be a cushion they desire to know asap so they can pull the cases before moving to a consolidated storage/work area.

Denis: Come May 2nd we no longer have the room we are currently using to stage H1bs. If we going to select cushion cases we need to get a list before we have to move from the room. If we don't pull before vacating the room it will be an added burden to find and pull cushion cases.

325 rejects out of 20,568 combined data entered and rejects is 1.6% rejection rate and really not rising very much. I think at this point we have to decide if a cushion is going to be needed at all. I will send Vermont's statistics on when they come in this morning.

If they can meet the deadline fine – but that would mean ADJ would have about 6,500 cases ready by COB tomorrow and I don't think that will happen. The other part is the quality of work we are seeing (or lack of I should say).

It's your call.

You're right, but, they only have to do 10,872 PP cases. According to the spreadsheet through yesterday, they did 3,911. That leaves just under 7,000. If they sustain the rate they did Wednesday, they would finish by cob Monday, counting some rejects. So I don't think we need to push the panic button yet. Unless these figures aren't correct, but I'm going by them.

I'm going to ask Jerry if he will stand by completing all PP by cob Monday. If he verifies they will meet that goal, are you in agreement?

Here is the official report. As you will see they did not come close to the 2,830 mark on the second day – nor did they meet it on the third day of data entry. We are now on day four and at this rate will not have enough cases in the pipeline to keep Adjudicators busy over the weekend – which we should be doing if we intend to adjudicate everything in 15 days.

That was a cut and paste from the press release posted earlier on the H-1B rule...
I have another question from Computer World magazine regarding the approx 163,000 H-1B visas ....

Senator Grassley's office is saying that the 163K number includes H-1B visas that are exempt from that cap, i.e., visas that are going to non-profits, academic institutions or are renewals. Consequently, it is arguing that the actual number of visas that will be counted against the cap and distributed via the lottery is less than the 163K.

Does the 163K represent all the H-1B petitions that the USCIS received, including those H-1B visas that are not counted in the cap?

NO. We accept those types of H-1B petitions not counted against the CAP all year long. These are not included here. During April 1-7 they were processed as usual.

These 163,000 are just for those received April 1-7 that apply against the annual, FY2009 65,000 visa and 20,000 visas H-1B CAPS for nonmasters and masters degree petitioners, respectively. .

If that's the case, the how many H-1B visas out of the 163K are actually subject to the cap's limits?

Chris -

I have highlighted a sentence in red. I don't think this interpretation is accurate. I do not think we are keeping the fees of petitions that are not selected if they are duplicates. I believe we are keeping the fees of a petition that is selected for the lottery if a duplicate petition is later found and returning the fees and petition for the duplicate that is not found. See below.

Duplicate Petitions A & B – Scenario 1
Petition A selected for lottery (fee retained)
Petition B not selected for lottery (fee and petition returned)

Duplicate Petitions A & B – Scenario 2
Petition A not selected for lottery (fee and petition returned)
Petition B not selected for lottery (fee and petition returned)

Please run by OCC for their take on this. I have cc:ed Sunny Choi given the timing issue of having this up today. Perhaps I have read it too many times. I would take out the sentence in red to avoid all confusion.

Thanks.

USCIS expects (when – can we say next week) to conduct the computer-generated random selection process beginning with the selection of s for advanced degree exemption petitions.
Those not selected will join the random selection process under the cap-subject 65,000 limit.

Good morning –

Kevin Cummings has asked me to send the following data below regarding H-1B petitions received during the cap time. He would like a web posting placed on the website today informing the public of the numbers of petitions filed. SCOPS has specifically asked that all numbers be listed as approximate as these below data represents only 99% of the final count. Please let me know if you have any questions. I have also included Denis Peck as he is the Branch Chief who works closely with the contractors and knows the numbers.

GRAND TOTAL of H1B petitions received: 162,713

TOTAL H1B petitions filed under Regular cap: 131,436 or 81% of total filings

TOTAL H1B petitions filed under the Masters cap: 31,277 or 19% of total filings

I am also working on a second web posting that we would like to be posted on Monday and will send that later today for your review.

USCIS Releases Preliminary Number Of FY 2009 H-1B Cap Filings

WASHINGTON – U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) today announced a preliminary number of nearly 163,000 H-1B petitions received during the filing period ending on April 7, 2008. More than 31,200 of those petitions were for the advanced degree category.

USCIS expects next week it will conduct the computer-generated random selection process, beginning with the selection of the 20,000 petitions under the advanced degree exemption. Those petitions not selected under the advanced degree category will join the random selection process for the cap-subject 65,000 limit.

USCIS will reject, and return filing fees for all cap-subject petitions not randomly selected, unless found to be a duplicate. USCIS will handle duplicate filings in accordance with the interim final rule published on March 24, 2008 in the Federal Register.

USCIS will provide regular updates as the processing of FY 2009 H-1B cap cases continues.

That is not something we can answer. We try to approve right at or as close as possible to those cap marks and have to track closely for the entire fiscal year. Is the question how many we accept into the queue to adjudicate? That too is based on complex algorithms taking into account abandonment and denial rates to get us as close to the approval at the cap levels as possible. The question really is rather confusing.

Disregard that last message and let me clarify a little. How many applications, above the 85,000 (so that's the 65,000 + 20,000) will USCIS actually approve? It's my understanding that, in order to ensure that all 85,000 slots are filled, several thousand applications above the cap will be approved. If that's the case, what's the number?

Denis/Rose

I have done a quick analysis on the percentages of cases that were filed for H1B status at both Centers. The numbers I used were those submitted by Stanley, which reflect about 99% completion rate. The only cases left to be included in the VSC counts are those which are currently being reviewed by our Records employees. That number is very small and should not have much of an impact on the final counts.

These conclusions are based on the information that has been received to date:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| GRAND TOTAL of H1B petitions received: | 162,713 | | |
| TOTAL H1B petitions filed under Regular cap81% of total filings | 131,436 | or | |
| TOTAL H1B petitions filed under the Masters capof total filings | 31,277 | or | 19% |
| TOTAL H1B petitions filed asking for Premium Processingof total fillings | 28,915 | or | 18% |
| TOTAL H1B petition filed NOT asking for Premium Processing82% of total filings | 133,798 | or | |

BREAKDOWN ESTIMATES:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| GRAND TOTAL OF H1B petitions received: | 162,713 | | |
| TOTAL Regular petitions | 131,436 | | |
| RNG Selection estimate for Regular Capof Reg. filings | 70,000 | or | 53% |
| TOTAL Masters petitions | 31,277 | | |
| RNG Selection estimate for Masters Capof Masters filings | 25,000 | or | 80% |

IF THE SAME LOGIC HOLDS TRUE WE CAN EXPECT TO RECEIVE:

- 34% of the Masters filings requested premium processing

- 34% of the 25,000 RNG selections would be: 8,500

- 18% of the Regular filings Requested premium processing
  - 14% of 70,000 RNG selections would be 9,800

TOTAL OF ANTICIPATED PREMIUM CASES SELECTED 18,300

- ASSUMING THAT VSC WILL RECEIVE 2/3 OF THE CASEWORK 12,078
  ASSUMING THAT CSC WILL RECEIVE 1/3 OF THE CASEWORK 6,039

This information is only a preliminary estimate and a more accurate analysis will have to be conducted.

Sandy,

Thanks for doing that sample. This is good hard data we can digest and make adjustments from. Maybe California could take an identical sample and see if they get similar results. A 15% error rate presents problems.

Denis,

We reviewed a total of 100 cap cases to see if they would pass the eligibility review if selected by the RNG. We did find some deficiencies which when calculated resulted in approximately 85% of those cases would have met the acceptability requirements.

Here is a breakdown of the 100 randomly selected cases:

47 – Regular CAP – Non-premium cases reviewed

- Ø 7 - Start date errors
- Ø 1 - Page 11 all blank
- Ø 1 - Incorrect fee

12 – Regular CAP – Premium Cases reviewed

- Ø 1 - Incorrect Fee

33 – Masters – Non-premium cases reviewed

- Ø 2 - Start date errors
- Ø 1 - No page 10 included in filing
- Ø 1 - No signature on Page 4

4 – Masters – Premium

Ø 1 – Start date error

The review also revealed that 2 files that passed the acceptability review would need to be transferred out by Adjudications because no DOB was able to be located for the beneficiary.

Denis, I was surprised at the fact that only 85% of the cases reviewed would have passed through the process. At that rate HQ may want to either review more cases to see if that figure holds true, or add to the number of "cushion" cases that need to be held in abeyance at the Centers.

Just another point of interest: We did receive a petition today that had been Xeroxed and had the RNG barcode from last year. When we reviewed the LCA it is still valid and therefore eligible for submission once again. Having the old bar code throw the clerk off, but we are seeing just about everything at this point.

We received this information from Stanley - VSC still has about 1/3 of the 4/1 mail to go through for barcoding.

I know it's late but I just want to give a quick update on the piece count for H1B's:

On 4/1/08 we received 49,191 pieces (many in boxes and we have about 1/3 of that amount left to review and barcode)

On 4/2/08 we received 14,952 pieces (still unopened)

On 4/3/08 we received 5,471 pieces (still unopened)

We are progressing on opening the mail and as you can see our mail count is dropping each day. I will have a more definitive count for you all in the morning that will be broken down by the category and number of cases we have reviewed for masters, premium masters, regular, and premium regular cases. We have identified a few Chile/Singapore cases, but very, very few.

Just thought I would send you a little good news in light of the FedEx situation.

USCIS Update

April 10, 2008

USCIS RELEASES PRELIMINARY NUMBER OF FY 2009 H-1B CAP FILINGS

WASHINGTON – U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) today announced a preliminary number of nearly 163,000 H-1B petitions received during the filing period ending on April 7, 2008. More than 31,200 of those petitions were for the advanced degree category.

USCIS expects next week it will conduct the computer-generated random selection process, beginning with the selection of the 20,000 petitions under the advanced degree exemption. Those petitions not selected under the advanced degree category will join the random selection process for the cap-subject 65,000 limit.

USCIS will reject, and return filing fees for all cap-subject petitions not randomly selected, unless found to be a duplicate. USCIS will handle duplicate filings in accordance with the interim final rule published on March 24, 2008 in the Federal Register.

USCIS will provide regular updates as the processing of FY 2008 H-1B cap cases continues.

H-1B in General: U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in fields, such as scientists, engineers or computer programmers. As part of the H-1B program, the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) and the Department of Labor (DOL) require U.S. employers to meet specific labor conditions to ensure that American workers are not adversely impacted, while DOL's Wage and Hour Division safeguards the treatment and compensation of H-1B workers.

Good morning –

Kevin Cummings has asked me to send the following data below regarding H-1B petitions received during the cap time. He would like a web posting placed on the website today informing the public of the numbers of petitions filed. SCOPS has specifically asked that all numbers be listed as approximate as these below data represents only 99% of the final count. Please let me know if you have any questions. I have also included Denis Peck as he is the Branch Chief who works closely with the contractors and knows the numbers.

GRAND TOTAL of H1B petitions received: 162,713

TOTAL H1B petitions filed under Regular cap: 131,436 or 81% of total filings

TOTAL H1B petitions filed under the Masters cap: 31,277 or 19% of total filings

I am also working on a second web posting that we would like to be posted on Monday and will send that later today for your review.

Thank you and regards.

Denis/Rose

I have done a quick analysis on the percentages of cases that were filed for H1B status at both Centers. The numbers I used were those submitted by Stanley, which reflect about 99% completion rate. The only cases left to be included in the VSC counts are those which are currently being reviewed by our Records employees. That number is very small and should not have much of an impact on the final counts.

These conclusions are based on the information that has been received to date:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| GRAND TOTAL of H1B petitions received: | 162,713 | | |
| TOTAL H1B petitions filed under Regular cap81% of total filings | 131,436 | or | |
| TOTAL H1B petitions filed under the Masters capof total filings | 31,277 | or | 19% |
| TOTAL H1B petitions filed asking for Premium Processingof total fillings | 28,915 | or | 18% |
| TOTAL H1B petition filed NOT asking for Premium Processing82% of total filings | 133,798 | or | |

BREAKDOWN ESTIMATES:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| GRAND TOTAL OF H1B petitions received: | 162,713 | | |
| TOTAL Regular petitions | 131,436 | | |
| RNG Selection estimate for Regular Capof Reg. filings | 70,000 | or | 53% |
| TOTAL Masters petitions | 31,277 | | |
| RNG Selection estimate for Masters Capof Masters filings | 25,000 | or | 80% |

IF THE SAME LOGIC HOLDS TRUE WE CAN EXPECT TO RECEIVE:

- 34% of the Masters filings requested premium processing

- 34% of the 25,000 RNG selections would be: 8,500

- 18% of the Regular filings Requested premium processing
  - 14% of 70,000 RNG selections would be 9,800

TOTAL OF ANTICIPATED PREMIUM CASES SELECTED 18,300

- ASSUMING THAT VSC WILL RECEIVE 2/3 OF THE CASEWORK 12,078
  ASSUMING THAT CSC WILL RECEIVE 1/3 OF THE CASEWORK 6,039

This information is only a preliminary estimate and a more accurate analysis will have to be conducted.

Keith,

Did the VSC's processing times regress this week or was there a typo on last week's report (see attached email)?

Thanks!

Frank -

The VSC Cap processing date is 9/21/2010 (distributed to officers), and the EOS processing date is 6/15. We are approaching 60 days processing time on the cap cases and once we reach said benchmark, we will focus our efforts on staying within 60 days on the cap cases while we look to decrease the Non-Cap backlog.

Shelly,

Our continued decrease in adjudicative actions during this period resulted from our continued push to get premium filings under control as we head into the long Thanksgiving weekend. VSC will continue to concentrate our efforts on the PP workload over the next several weeks. This increased focus on working our PP backlog down is an effort to position us well for the upcoming holiday season wherein we will experience high leave usage for those who process our PP work. Yesterday we did see a significant spike in premium receipts, upwards of 800 filings.

We are currently issuing the following non-premium H1B work with mailroom dates to officers:

CAP: 10/13/2010
EXT: 6/21/2010

Shelley -

We have found some pockets of work that should have been distributed to adjudicators before other cases that have later received dates. We are working to ensure that, in the future, cases are issued in chronological order based on receipt. With the overtime that we now have available, we are hoping to work through these newly discovered pockets as quickly as possible. That is the reason for the regression.

Sorry for the confusion.

Keith,

Did the VSC's processing times regress this week or was there a typo on last week's report (see attached email)?

Thanks!

Shelly

Frank -

The VSC Cap processing date is 9/21/2010 (distributed to officers), and the EOS processing date is 6/15. We are approaching 60 days processing time on the cap cases and once we reach said benchmark, we will focus our efforts on staying within 60 days on the cap cases while we look to decrease the Non-Cap backlog.

I apologize for the late response...just saw the follow-up message. The dates have not moved since last week due to our focus on PP. Thus, the VSC Cap processing date is 9/8/2010 (distributed to officers), and the EOS processing date is still 6/4.

Many thanks for the information below. Would it be possible to get the VSC's current processing date for cap and EOS cases? SCOPS has our monthly teleconference with AILA and they have requested an update on our current processing times.

Shelly,

Decreased adjudicative actions during this period resulted from the four-day workweek. As an FYI, VSC will be primarily concentrating our efforts of the PP workload over the next several weeks. This increased focus on working our PP backlog down is an effort to position us well for the upcoming holiday season wherein we will experience high leave usage for those who process our PP work.

Barbara,

You'll notice below that we have quite a chunk of notices sitting with clerical. We're focusing our clerical efforts tomorrow and on Monday (holiday work) on this workload. We'll also be taking a look at why this happened and how to prevent this from occurring, such as getting these cases to clerical sooner during the 60-day clock to give them the time they need to issue the notices.

Please let me know if you have additional questions or concerns.

Thanks!

Subject: H-1B Report

Mark/Frank:

I have changed the report slightly in the hopes of making it clearer. If you have any suggestions to this, please let me know. The dates I provide from this date forward will indicate cases that are distributed to the officers on the floor. I would like to give some explanatory notes to help in the understanding of how this report works for our purposes and how CSC works this report to identify the status of cases in the work flow and determine where we are in processing.

PDA (our analysts) runs this initial report in CLAIMS3 (C3). There are many codes in C3 that define or identify a "pending" case for the purposes of the G-22 and this report. Many of these codes considered "pending" for the purposes of the G-22 and this report are in fact, when further or individually analyzed, closed. The CSC continually has to manually review the report to identify the cases that come up as "pending" that are not actually pending. The cases that are identified on this report as "pending" but are actually closed for some reason or other are eventually closed out and removed from the report. This will explain why some cases may come up as passed a reported time on this report.

Also, various other anomalies occur each week and may appear on the report as passed reported times. Some examples of anomalies include cases that have gone to BCU for IBIS resolution or CARRP review, CFDO for fraud, have been adjudicated but were never updated, have been misrouted, are placed on adjudicative hold for non security or fraud reasons, placed out of JIT order by the contractor, etc. Anomalies are continually being identified and are either closed out or adjudicated if possible, or continue to be held in abeyance if required by BCU or CFDO.

Many cases have been reviewed by the officer and supervisor prior to the reported time, but only need clerical updating. These cases usually get updated within 1-3 days. This is why I have added the "w/clerical" part of the report.

Please keep in mind that the majority of the cases "W/officer" and with supervisors are resubmits which means that they have already been RFEd.

Finally, there are a small number of cases that "fall through the cracks" and must be identified and picked up for adjudication. We identify these cases immediately and send e-mail messages to the officer, supervisor, or ACD to have these adjudicated immediately and keep them within reported times. Currently, we have 6 divisions adjudicating H-1Bs, so it takes some tracking and effort to ensure everyone gets those cases that fall through the cracks done.

In the past I have used the most accurate times possible, or a time that most reflects the reality of the vast majority of cases vs. using the proportionately small number of cases that are open, are anomalies, or simply fall through the cracks, as the reported date. The reported time included a review of the JIT shelves, both physically and on paper, a review of the reports provided by our analysts, and a physical review of what is on the floor.

To help avoid confusion in the future, I will now report the time that cases are being distributed to the floor as the reported time.

- Joe

Anna – I wish I could provide you something concrete today; but, quite frankly, there's just no way of gauging the numbers on the first day. We will be monitoring the number of petitions received; we should have a better indication after one week. I'll be happy to give you an update next Thursday. But, what I can tell you is that we always prepare for large numbers of petitions. We'll just have to wait and see.

For some historical perspective, the cap was not reached between FY92-FY96 and FY01-03. For the FY10 program last year, we did reach the Congressionally-mandated cap of 65,000 petitions; but, not until Dec. 21, 2009. Contrast that with the FY2009 program -- opened April 1, 2008 and reached the cap within one day.

Hope this is helpful.

Thanks, Bill. What would probably be most helpful is some information today on how many applications you're expecting/ how many you receive. We may report this information in the program this evening. Were application numbers down last year, and do you expect to see similar numbers?

Thanks again!

Thanks again for your help,

Anna – As discussed, first link below is the release we put out earlier this month about the FY11 H-1B program. Second link will provide you much detailed information on the program in general.

Let me know if I can help further.

Bobbie,

The total number isn't problematic. When I break it out, we had 21,000+ advanced degree and 41,000+ regular cap. In our public updates last year we always stated that we had received approximately 20,000 advanced degree petitions. I believe it was done to prevent confusion and let them know that we were still accepting petitions for the advanced degree exemption based on the denials, revocations, etc. Are we ok with saying that we had received approximately 21,500 advanced degree petitions and 41,800 regular cap petitions or do we want to simply say that our combined total was a little over 63K last year during the same time frame?

Thanks!

Shelly

I found this old update I sent out on the same date last year. Not surprisingly some companies figured out they can save the money and get the same results in sufficient time.

Barbara, Greg, and Frank,

Here is a synopsis of this week's report from the CSC and the VSC. Please note that production is a bit lower as last week was a short week due to the holiday:

CSC:

The CSC reported that they are at a 9/1 processing date for regular cap cases (last week was 8/22) and a 9/23 processing date for master's cap (last week was 9/22). Cap exempt is at 9/5 (same as last week). The processing date for EOS has moved slightly to 7/16 (last week it was at 7/10). As of November 16, there were 5,972 initial H-1B petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. Of that number 2,760 have had an RFE/NOID issued but have not been worked to completion (either pending response or response not yet adjudicated). There were 12,826 EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal. Of that number, 532 have had an RFE/NOID issued already.

From 11/8 to 11/12, the CSC approved 1,119 non premium cases, denied 109 non premium cases, and issued an RFE on 251 non premium cases. CSC also approved 990 premium cases, denied 61 premium cases, and issued an RFE on 232 premium cases during the same time period.

VSC:

The VSC has not yet provided their updated processing date for cap or EOS cases. They did indicate that they are focusing right now on premium filings and may continue to do so for a few weeks. As of November 15, there were 2,314 untouched cap petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. There were 12,566 untouched EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal.

From 11/7 to 11/13, the VSC approved 754 non premium cases, denied 98 non premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 320 non premium cases. VSC also approved 1,272 premium cases, denied 91 premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 285 premium cases during the same time period.

Thanks!

Bobbie,

Here is a synopsis of this week's report from the VSC and the CSC:

CSC:

The CSC reported that they are at an 8/9 processing date for regular cap cases and an 8/15 processing date for master's cap. This is an improvement of a couple of days for the regular cap workload. The processing date for master's cap is the same as last week. Cap exempt is at 7/17 (last week this was at 7/11). The processing date for EOS moved forward slightly to 6/15 (last week was 6/9). As of October 18, there were 6,575 initial H-1B petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. Of that number 2,523 have had an RFE/NOID issued and are pending response. The initial pending outside of 2 months has shot up from last week by about 1,600. I believe that this increase reflects the surge of petitions we received just prior to the PL 111-230 fee taking effect. There were 12,415 EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal. Of that number, 488 have had an RFE/NOID issued and are pending response.

From 10/11 to 10/15, the CSC approved 511 non premium cases, denied 42 non premium cases, and issued an RFE on 214 non premium cases. CSC also approved 1,016 premium cases, denied 55 premium cases, and issued an RFE on 234 premium cases during the same time period.

VSC:

The VSC changed their processing date reporting to mimic the way that CSC reports its processing date. The VSC reported that they are at a 8/16 processing date for cap cases, which is no change from last week. The processing date for EOS is at 5/27. As of October 18, there were 3,022 untouched cap petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. The initial pending outside of 2 months has shot up from last week by about 1,175. As with CSC, I believe that this increase reflects the surge of petitions we received just prior to the PL 111-230 fee taking effect. There were 11,242 untouched EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal.

From 10/10 to 10/16, the VSC approved 948 non premium cases, denied 102 non premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 134 non premium cases. VSC also approved 1,395 premium cases, denied 89 premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 361 premium cases during the same time period.

Thanks!

Barbara, Greg, and Frank,

Here is a synopsis of this week's reports from the CSC and the VSC:

CSC:

The CSC reported that they are at a 10/6 processing date for regular cap cases (it was 10/5 last week) and a 10/5 processing date for master's cap (it was 9/28 last week). Cap exempt is at 10/1 (last week was 9/21). The processing date for EOS has moved to 9/22 (the previous week it was at 8/11). As of December 6, there were 5,357 initial H-1B petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. Of that number 3,035 have had an RFE/NOID issued but have not been worked to completion (either pending response or response not yet adjudicated). There were 10,142 EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal. Of that number, 697 have had an RFE/NOID issued already.

From 11/28 to 12/4, the CSC approved 4,714 non premium cases, denied 226 non premium cases, and issued an RFE on 521 non premium cases. CSC also approved 1,583 premium cases, denied 89 premium cases, and issued an RFE on 440 premium cases during the same time period. Total actions during that time period was 7,573.

VSC:

The VSC reported that they are at a 10/22 processing date for cap cases (they reported 9/21 last week). The processing date for EOS is at 7/7 (they reported 6/15 last week). As they are now within 60 days on cap cases, the VSC plans to shift focus to staying with 60 days and eliminating the EOS backlog. As of December 6, there were 2,028 untouched cap petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. There were 12,922 untouched EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal.

From 11/28 to 12/4, the VSC approved 1,588 non premium cases, denied 249 non premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 215 non premium cases. VSC also approved 1,957 premium cases, denied 93 premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 409 premium cases during the same time period. Total actions during that time period was 4,511.

The VSC Cap processing date (being distributed to officers), is 10/22/2010 and the EOS processing date 7/12/10. We are now within 60 days processing time on the cap cases and thus, we will focus our efforts on staying within 60 days on the cap cases while we continue to decrease the non-cap backlog.

Now that we are within 60 days on cap filings, do you still need us to report out weekly on this subset of H-1B filings?

I apologize that is late. Below is the report:

VSC's H-1B processing dates (dates distributed to officers) is as follows:

Cap: 1/6/2011
EOS: 1/13/2011

* Please note that the EOS date fell backward due to a significant number of cases being identified as shelved separate from the main workload. This was not a contractor error as the contractor was fully aware of this.

He's speaking about FY12 for cap, as VSC is current on FY11 cap cases. You are correct; VSC only assigned a receipt date of 4/7 to PP cases.

Mack,

When Keith says, 4/1 below, is he talking FY11 or FY12? I'm a little confused as the tables are all specific to FY10 or FY11 data... If FY12 (which I am thinking might be the case), how do they tell those cases apart from the rest of the petitions that were filed during the first 5 business days? Weren't they all given a data entry receipt date of April 7? Or was that only the PP cases?

Thanks!

Frank: Our process does entail adjudications…see below:

I-129 withdrawals do not go to adjudication to be processed. The contractor creates a text file and sends the file to IT, then waits 30 day and then the contractor interfiles the letters.

Excerpts from SOP:

Access the O: Common drive and select the Microsoft Access file name "I-129 Auto Rev Letter Generator"

An e-mail containing the receipt number text files and ITSR will be sent to the IT Department POC. The IT POC will update the cases in CLAIMS 3 as "Revocation Notice Ordered" and "Revocation Notice Sent".

Steve, Rich,

Because we are nearing the CAP limit it's important that CGI prioritize processing withdrawal requests on the same day they are received, so that adjudications can immediately act on revoking prior approvals or denying pending cases. This will allow the maximum number of available visas to be used.

As of cob Tuesday there were 493 pending withdrawals of all cases at VSC and 120 at CSC. We want to see these numbers as close to 0 each day as they can get until CAP season is closed. Adjudications will be getting similar guidance on their responsibilities.

Beginning this week we're doing twice weekly tabulations of the remaining visas for the 2011 H1B CAP. It's very important that the contractor keep current with the withdrawal requests coming in. These will impact the number of filings we can accept. At VSC, if they can't keep up with all requests they must at a minimum keep current with any impacting the CAP and process them within one day. Let me know if there are any problems with this.

Otherwise we remain on schedule to hit our limit on or about February 1.

Mark -

This week's CAP/EXT dates and information are as follows:

- CAP being distributed to officers: 12/30/10
- EXT being distributed to officers: 11/29/10

Despite our adjudicating over 3,300 cases last week, you'll notice that the processing date did not change from what I had most recently reported to you. This is due to the following three reasons:

1. The cases returned from CFDO that were introduced into normal workflow (see message from last week);
2. The continued level of PP receipts (which results in a reduction of backlog, but does not necessarily reflect a movement of processing dates); and
3. The identification of a number of older cases on the shelf (not pulled in date order) that we are now pulling and distributing to ISO's. The number of these older cases is not significant enough to trigger a change in the distribution date above. However, when combined with the other two factors listed above, it has led to our not distributing cases beyond the processing dates provided to you last week.

Mark H -

This week's CAP/EXT dates and information are as follows:

CAP being distributed to officers: 12/30/10
EXT being distributed to officers: 11/29/10

Now that we have reached the cap and there are no longer incoming cap cases, we expect to be able to make inroads into the EOS backlogs while we seek to maintain a 60-day cap processing time.

I'll also note that the processing dates did not move significantly since last week due to our releasing many cases from the CFDO into the normal adjudicative workflow. There were many cases from CFDO that were awaiting adjudication by our fraud team. Since the SOF's were dated and the concerns outlined in the SOF's are now addressed in the normal adjudication of the cases using the EE memo, there was no reason for these cases to remain bottlenecked with our fraud team.

We are now within 60 days processing time on the cap cases and thus, we will focus our efforts on staying within 60 days on the cap cases while we continue to decrease the non-cap backlog.

Now that we are within 60 days on cap filings, do you still need us to report out weekly on this subset of H-1B filings?

Shelly,

No I don't think the charts below show those figures (other than some of the initial pending with the contractor are cases that have actually been RFEd but CLAIMS doesn't show the update yet). Those figures would be available on our local CAP report but I'm not sure how easy they would be to get for the EOS cases.

Pete,

One last quick question...do the pending numbers below also include cases where an RFE/ITD was issued and we are either waiting a response or a response has arrived but the case hasn't been worked to completion yet?

Thanks!

Shelly,

Our Cap processing time is June 11th, 2010 (however what we are distributing to the floor is mid-August).

Our EOS processing time is still May 21, 2010 – we should see this jump very soon as we have begun handing out EOS cases to some of our newly trained resources.

Shelly,

Here is our snapshot of H-1B processing for last week. We have both the Cap (non-premium >60 days, and premium processing), and the EOS (non-premium processing, and premium).

This represents NON Premium Processing H1B cases. Below...
The left is FY11 CAP that includes cases filed on and after 1-APR-10.
The right is FY10 and FY11 H1B EOS cases filed on or after 1-OCT-09. .
The Initial pending sections represent only untouched cases that are older than 60 days.
The actions in this section are last week's NON PP actions (on cases filed in the same timeframes.)

Shelley -

The VSC Cap processing date is 9/8/2010 (distributed to officers), and the EOS processing date is still 6/4. We are approaching 60 days processing time on the cap cases and once we reach said benchmark, we will focus our efforts on staying within 60 days on the cap cases while we look to decrease the Non-Cap backlog.

Shelly,

Sorry it is late here is this weeks report. From this point on Keith or one of the Division 4 supervisors will be getting you this weekly report. As discussed last week, the overall Premium receipts remain high and is affecting our ability to move more of the non-premium workloads for either the H-1B Cap and EOS cases. The Cap processing date is 9/1/2010 (distributed to officers), and the EOS processing date is still 6/1 to 6/3 (as most of the officers working this work were put on premium processing the last two weeks and are just getting back to working their non-premium workload).

Shelly,

Here is this weeks report. We are changing our processing dates to be in line with California so currently our processing time (what we are distributing to officers) is 8/16/2010. I don't have this week's pending reports yet so I can't give you a back end date showing what we have worked through.

Our EOS date appears to be 5/27/2010.

Many thanks for the information below. Would it be possible to get the VSC's current processing date for cap and EOS cases? SCOPS has our monthly teleconference with AILA and they have requested an update on our current processing times.

Shelly,

Decreased adjudicative actions during this period resulted from the four-day workweek. As an FYI, VSC will be primarily concentrating our efforts of the PP workload over the next several weeks. This increased focus on working our PP backlog down is an effort to position us well for the upcoming holiday season wherein we will experience high leave usage for those who process our PP work.

Keith

Barbara, Greg, and Frank,

Here is a synopsis of this week's reports from the CSC and the VSC:

CSC:

The CSC reported that they are at a 10/8 processing date for regular cap cases (it was 10/6 last week) and a 10/8 processing date for master's cap (it was 10/5 last week). Cap exempt is at 10/1 (same as last week). The processing date for EOS has moved to 10/8 (the previous week it was at 9/22). As of December 13, there were 4,934 initial H-1B petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. Of that number 2,892 have had an RFE/NOID issued but have not been worked to completion (either pending response or response not yet adjudicated). There were 8,897 EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal. Of that number, 881 have had an RFE/NOID issued already.

From 12/5 to 12/11, the CSC approved 3,238 non premium cases, denied 226 non premium cases, and issued an RFE on 450 non premium cases. CSC also approved 1,337 premium cases, denied 88 premium cases, and issued an RFE on 263 premium cases during the same time period. Total actions during that time period was 5,602.

VSC:

The VSC reported that they are at a 10/22 processing date for cap cases (same as last week). The processing date for EOS is at 7/12 (they reported 7/7 last week). As of December 13, there were 1,349 untouched cap petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. There were 12,410 untouched EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal.

From 12/5 to 12/11, the VSC approved 2,139 non premium cases, denied 214 non premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 600 non premium cases. VSC also approved 1,252 premium cases, denied 135 premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 220 premium cases during the same time period. Total actions during that time period was 4,560.

The VSC has asked whether they need to keep providing weekly reports on H-1B cap processing since they are now within 60 days. Please advise if you would like reports to continue for this group of filings or if reports should continue for the time being.

Thanks!

Shelly

The VSC Cap processing date (being distributed to officers), is 10/25/2010 and the EOS processing date 8/3/10. We are now within 60 days processing time on the cap cases and thus, we will focus our efforts on staying within 60 days on the cap cases while we continue to decrease the non-cap backlog.

VSC's H-1B processing dates (dates distributed to officers) are as follows:

Cap: All cases have been distributed to officers
EOS: 3/5/11

Please note that these are dates currently being distributed to officers. With the availability of overtime, we have recently distributed a large number of cases to the ISOs. As such, the majority of our pending cases over 60 days old are with ISO's awaiting adjudication.

Vermont finished Monday's work sooner than expected. Our total Monday filings were 833 – 520 VSC, 313 CSC.

I confirmed with Stanley that they should commence DE tomorrow morning. They've already stopped calling in many of the temporaries they initially hired.

USCIS Continues to Accept FY 2011 H-1B Petitions

WASHINGTON—U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) today announced it continues to accept H-1B nonimmigrant petitions subject to the Fiscal Year 2011 (FY 2011) cap. USCIS will monitor the number of petitions received for both the 65,000 general cap and the 20,000 U.S. master's degree or higher educational exemption.

USCIS has received approximately 13,500 H-1B petitions counting toward the 65,000 cap. The agency has received approximately 5,600 petitions for individuals with advanced degrees.

USCIS will provide regular updates on the processing of FY 2011 H-1B petitions. These updates and helpful filing information can be found at USCIS' Web site. Should USCIS receive the necessary number of petitions to meet the cap, it will issue an update to advise the public, that the FY 2011 H-1B cap has been met as of a certain date (the "final receipt date"). The final receipt date will be based on the date USCIS physically receives the petition, not the date that the petition has been postmarked. The date USCIS informs the public that the cap has been reached may differ from the actual final receipt date.

To ensure a fair system, USCIS may randomly select the number of petitions required to reach the numerical limit from the petitions received on the final receipt date. USCIS will reject cap subject petitions that are not selected, as well as those received after the final receipt date.

For cases filed for premium processing during the initial five-day filing window of April 1-7, the 15-day premium processing period began April 7. For cases filed for premium processing after the filing window, the premium processing period begins on the date that the petition is physically received at the correct USCIS Service Center.

Petitions filed by employers who are exempt from the cap or petitions filed on behalf of current H-1B workers who have been counted previously against the cap within the past six years will not count toward the congressionally mandated H-1B cap.

Therefore, USCIS will continue to process all petitions filed. For more information on USCIS and its programs, visit www.uscis.gov.

H-1B in General: U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2012 Cap Season

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2012 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 17 through 19) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2012 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 153,2600 | 6/131/2011 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 109,2300 | 6/131/2011 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Cap Amounts

The current annual cap on the H-1B category is 65,000. Not all H-1B nonimmigrants are subject to this annual cap. Please note that up to 6,800 visas are set aside from the cap of 65,000 during each fiscal year for the H-1B1 program under the terms of the legislation implementing the U.S.-Chile and U.S.-Singapore Free Trade Agreements. Unused numbers in this pool are made available for H-1B use for the next fiscal year.

When to File an FY 2012 H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

We will begin accepting H-1B petitions that are subject to the FY 2012 cap on April 1, 2011. You may file an H-1B petition no more than 6-months in advance of the requested start date.

Petitions seeking an FY 2012 H-1B cap number with an Oct. 1, 2011 start date can be filed no sooner than April 1, 2011.

Note: If you request a start date for a FY 2012 cap-subject H-1B petition that is prior to Oct. 1, 2011 or submit a cap-subject petition prior to April 1, 2011, your petition will be rejected.

How to Ensure USCIS Considers Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition Properly Filed

Please comply with the following to ensure that your petition is properly filed:

Complete all sections of the Form I-129 petition, including the H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 11 and 12 of Form I-129) and the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (pages 17 through 19). We accept Form I-129 with a revision date of November 23, 2010, or later.

Original signatures, preferably in blue ink, are required on each form.

Include a signed check or money order with the correct fee amount.

Ensure that all required documentation and evidence is submitted with the petition at the time of filing to ensure timely processing.

Note: It is your responsibility to ensure that Form I-129 is completed accurately. Failure to complete Form I-129 with the correct information and provide the required fees or documentation may result in the rejection or denial of the H-1B petition.

Additionally, be sure to file the petition at the correct USCIS Service Center. We will reject all H-1B petitions filed at the wrong location. See section below on "Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition."

Additional Documents Required With Your Petition

Labor Condition Application (LCA)

You must submit a certified Department of Labor (DOL) LCA (Form ETA 9035) at the time of filing your petition. A copy of the LCA is acceptable.

Note: USCIS encourages petitioners to keep DOL LCA processing times in mind when preparing the H-1B petition and plan accordingly. If the LCA certified by DOL is for multiple positions, you must provide the name and USCIS case receipt number of any alien who has previously utilized the LCA.

Petitioners should ensure that they have signed the LCA prior to the LCA being submitted with the petition to USCIS.

Please see Department of Labor's Office of Foreign Labor Certification website for further information on the LCA process.

Evidence of Beneficiary's Educational Background

You must submit evidence of the beneficiary's educational degree at the time of filing. If all of the requirements for the degree have been met, but the degree has not yet been awarded, the following alternate evidence may be submitted:

A copy of the beneficiary's final transcript; or

A letter from the Registrar confirming that all of the degree requirements have been met (if the educational institution does not have a Registrar, such letter must be signed by the person in charge of the educational records where the degree will be awarded).

If you are indicating that the beneficiary is qualified based on a combination of education and experience, please provide substantiating evidence at time of filing.

A Duplicate Copy of the H-1B Petition

You must submit a duplicate copy of your H-1B petition at the time of filing if the beneficiary will be seeking nonimmigrant visa issuance abroad. USCIS will not make a second copy if one is not provided.

You may also choose to submit a duplicate copy of the petition if the beneficiary is requesting a change of status to H-1B or an extension of stay in case the beneficiary later decides to seek visa issuance abroad or the H-1B petition is approved but the beneficiary's concurrent change of status or extension of stay request is denied.

You may review the Department of State website to make sure that the consulate indicated on Form I-129 is able to process the beneficiary's nonimmigrant visa application and for any other consulate-specific special instructions.

Multiple or Duplicative Filings

On March 19, 2008, USCIS announced an interim final rule on H-1B visas to prohibit employers from filing multiple or duplicative H-1B visas for the same employee. To ensure fair and orderly distribution of available H-1B visas, USCIS will deny or revoke multiple or duplicative petitions filed by an employer for the same H-1B worker and will not refund the filing fees submitted with multiple or duplicative petitions.

Where to Mail Your H-1B Cap-Subject Petition

You must file your petition at the correct Service Center depending on the jurisdiction of the H-1B beneficiary's work location as specified in the petition. We have established specific mailing addresses for purposes of identification and processing of H-1B cap-subject cases.

To determine which jurisdiction you are in, see our Web page Direct Filing Addresses for Form I-129, Petition for Nonimmigrant Worker.

Note: A separate mailing address has been established for certain types of educational or nonprofit organizations which file H-1B petitions on behalf of beneficiaries that are exempt from the H-1B numerical limitations.

Please read the filing instructions very carefully. If you file your petition incorrectly, we will reject the petition. Rejected petitions will not retain a filing date.

Required Fees

There are different fees depending on the type of H-1B petition you are submitting. Please refer to Fee Exemption and/or Determination (pages 17 and 18 of Form I-129) for detailed instructions on fees.

The following fees may be required with a cap-subject petition:

Base filing fee:

$325

American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA) fee

(see H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement, Part B):

$750 for employers with 1 to 25 full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

$1,500 for employers with 26 or more full-time equivalent employees, unless exempt

Fraud Prevention and Detection fee:

$500 to be submitted with the initial H-1B petition filed on behalf of each beneficiary by a petitioner (does not apply to Chile/Singapore H-1B1 petitions)

Public Law 111-230

$2,000 to be submitted by a petitioner which employs 50 or more employees in the United States where more than 50 percent of its employees in the United States are in H-1B or L-1 nonimmigrant status.

Premium Processing fee:

$1,225 for employers seeking Premium Processing Service

Checks

Make checks payable to the Department of Homeland Security or U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, dated within the last 6-months, and include the proper guarantee amount and signature.

Money Orders

Money orders must be properly endorsed.

Non-payable Checks or Other Financial Instruments

USCIS will reject all applications or petitions submitted with the incorrect filing fee. Rejected petitions and petitions in which the check or other financial instrument used to pay the filing fee is returned as non-payable will not retain a filing date. See 8 CFR 103.2(a)(7)(i).

While petitioners are generally provided the opportunity to correct a fee deficiency, pursuant to the regulations, the filing date is not established until and unless the fee deficiency has been corrected. H-1B cap-subject petitions with non-payable fees will be given a new filing date the day the fee deficiency has been corrected, as long as the cap has not been met. If the new filing date is after the cap has been met, the petition will be rejected.

Premium Processing Service

H-1B petitions are eligible for the Premium Processing Service. Petitioners may choose to file a Request for Premium Processing Service (Form I-907) to have their petition processed within 15 calendar days. To request premium processing submit:

the Form I-907 and the filing fee of $1,225 (this fee is in addition to the required base filing and other applicable fees and cannot be waived).

You can file the Form I-907 and corresponding fee:

at the same time as Form I-129 or at any time after you file Form I-129 while it is still pending.

If filed after the Form I-129, be sure to include the receipt number (e.g., EAC 11 123 51234) of the Form I-129 in the pertinent section of Form I-907.

Note: We will only accept the 08/10/09N (or later) edition of Form I-907.

Please see the link to the right for more information concerning the Premium Processing program.

Organizing your H-1B package

Clearly label all H-1B cap cases, preferably in red ink, on the top margin of Form I-129. Use the following codes:

Regular Cap (65,000 regular cap cases, not including Chile/Singapore cap cases)

C/S Cap (Chile/Singapore H-1B1s)

U.S. Master's (20,000 exemption for beneficiaries with U.S. master's or higher degrees)

A separate check for each applicable filing fee (Form I-129, Premium Processing, Fraud Fee, ACWIA fee, and Public Law 111-230) is preferred. Applicable fees should be stapled to the bottom right corner of the top document.

Preferred order of documents at time of submission:

Form I-907 (if filing for Premium Processing Service)

Form G-28 (if represented by an attorney or accredited representative)

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement

All supporting documentation to establish eligibility

Provide a Table of Contents for supporting documentation

Tab items as listed in Table of Contents

Arrival-Departure Record (Form I-94) if the beneficiary is in the U.S.

SEVIS Form I-20 if the beneficiary is a current or former F-1 student or F-2 dependent

SEVIS Form DS-2019 if the beneficiary is a current or former J-1 or J-2

Form I-566 if the beneficiary is a current A or G nonimmigrant

DOL certified LCA, Form ETA 9035

Employer/attorney/representative letter(s); and

Other supporting documentation.

Duplicate copy of the petition, if necessary. Clearly indentify the duplicate copy of the petition as "COPY", so that it is not mistaken for a duplicate filing.

How to mail multiple petitions together

If multiple petitions will be included in the same courier service or Post Office package, please place individual petitions into separate envelopes within the package. Individual petition envelopes should be marked with the following labels to reference the type of petition:

Master's Premium

Master's

Regular Premium

Regular

Chile/Singapore

Filing Tips:

Form G-28, Notice of Entry of Appearance as Attorney or Representative

If the petitioner will be represented by an attorney or other accredited representative, a properly executed Form G-28 should be submitted. Each Form G-28 should include the following:

All sections completed

The printed name and signature of the representative

The original signature of the petitioner.

Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker

Complete all sections of the form accurately.

Ensure that the petition is properly signed. Please see the Related Links section for more information on properly signing the petition.

Provide the petitioner name and address on the USCIS petition form. It is critical that petitioners accurately provide their name and address on the USCIS petition form. This facilitates USCIS in matching information from the petition with information received from the Independent Information Provider (IIP) through the Validation Instrument for Business Enterprises (VIBE). Listing an attorney or representative's address in the "Petitioner Information" section of the form may result in the issuance of an RFE.

Ensure the beneficiary's name is spelled properly and that his/her date of birth is displayed in the proper format (mm/dd/yyyy). Also, country of birth/citizenship and the I-94 number (if applicable) should be reviewed for accuracy.

If the beneficiary will ultimately be seeking issuance of a visa at a consular office abroad, a copy of the petition and supporting documentation should be included with the filing. For cases where the beneficiary will be seeking a change of status or extension of stay in the United States, a copy is suggested, but not necessary.

If the beneficiary is seeking an extension or change of status, the petition should include evidence (e.g. Form I-94 or Form I-797 approval notice) to establish that the beneficiary will have maintained a valid nonimmigrant status through the employment start date being requested.

Include a copy of the beneficiary's valid passport.

H Classification Supplement to Form I-129 (pages 11 and 12 of Form I-129)

Please be sure to complete all sections of the form accurately.

In listing previous periods of stay in H/L classification (question 3), please also include the actual nonimmigrant classification held (e.g. H-1B or L-1).

Petitioner must sign the form, preferably in blue ink.

H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Supplement form (pages 17 through 19 of Form I-129)

Please be sure to complete all sections of the form accurately.

Please enclose page 17 through 19 of the Form I-129 (with a revision date of November 23, 2010 or later).

Be sure to answer appropriately in Part A, question 5 and Part C, question 2 if the beneficiary has earned a master's degree or higher from a U.S. educational institution.

If the answer to the first question in Part D on page 19 is "No," that the beneficiary will not be assigned to work at an off-site location, then responses to the remaining two questions in Part D are not required.

Form I-907, Request for Premium Processing

Please be sure to complete all sections of the form accurately with original signatures. Note: We will accept the 08/10/09 edition of Form I-907 (or later)

The representative may sign in both Parts 3 and 4 of the Form I-907 if there is a valid Form G-28 with the filing. Otherwise, the petitioner's signature is required. Preferably, the signature(s) should be in blue ink.

Please include a copy of the Form I-129 receipt notice along with the Form I-907 when Form I-907 is filed after the filing of Form I-129.

Keith and Joe,

Since we're approaching the new fiscal year, SCOPS would like each center to provide the number of F-1 COS H-1B FY12 cap petitions you have that were filed on or before August 1, 2011 that are still pending? In addition, can you break these petitions into following categories: untouched, pending supervisory review, RFE/NOID issued (awaiting response), and RFE/NOID response received?

Thanks!

I think she means the petition count is about 4300 which would fit with my guess for Vermont at 6,000. So maybe we hit the 10,000 mark today.

In 2010 April petition count once finalized was VSC 8,356, CSC 6,623, total 14,978.

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2012 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 17 through 19) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2012 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 36,300 | 9/23/2011 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 17,900 | 9/23/2011 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2012 Cap Season

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2012 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 17 through 19) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

Subject: FW: CSC H-1B Initial Report

Corinna and Claudia,

On Friday, the VSC reported that they are at a 6/27 processing date for cap cases while the CSC is at 8/8. That's almost a month and a half difference in processing times. At this point, the CSC is within the 2-month processing goal, while the VSC is (obviously) not. For EOS cases (last report was from 9/8), the VSC was again further back in case distribution by a little over a month. They were distributing cases with a filing date of 6/10 while the CSC was distributing cases with a filing date of 7/22.

I just wanted to see about your availability to discuss VSC and CSC H-1B processing times this week. The VSC has indicated that they are behind due to an influx of premium receipts. I also know that they had to move resources to try to get within the statutory and regulatory processing times for Ls, Os and Ps. I don't see the processing time getting any better for the VSC anytime soon as I anticipate premium filings remaining high as immediate H-1B employment start dates are now possible and there aren't any overtime funds available anymore (that I am aware of). I'm guessing that we will start hearing about the processing time disparity from stakeholders in the near future, so thought we should talk about next steps.

Thanks!

Shelly

Thank you for providing the below inventory list. Although a two month processing time for all F-1 to petitions remains our ultimate goal, BEST understands that this processing time may not be possible as of October 1 of this year due to competing priorities. To mitigate potential harm to cap gap students, BEST proposes both centers prioritize completion of all F-1 COS cap cases filed before 8/1/11 for non-premium work. In this context completion means issuance of an RFE/NOID, approval notice, denial notice, etc. If an RFE/NOID response is received, it should be worked to completion if at all possible.

Once these pre 8/1/11 F-1 COS cap cases are completed, the centers should revert to date order processing for non-premium work. This instruction does not apply to premium cases. Premium cases should be worked as usual. BEST believes that a month and a half lead time will be sufficient to complete this prioritization. Please advise ASAP if you do not believe that this will be feasible for your center.

Thanks!

Keith and Joe,

Since we're approaching the new fiscal year, SCOPS would like each center to provide the number of F-1 COS H-1B FY12 cap petitions you have that were filed on or before August 1, 2011 that are still pending? In addition, can you break these petitions into following categories: untouched, pending supervisory review, RFE/NOID issued (awaiting response), and RFE/NOID response received?

Thanks!

Shelly

Looks like the big snow storm will miss them ☺

FedEx delivery is in about 30 minutes.

Looks like there are around 5,000 "packages". (verses 5,700 "packages" last year).

I'll send you info from CSC later this morning.

Thank you, Walter

Corinna,

Below is a summary of the centers' FY12 H-1B cap processing report. Please note that this report doesn't show much movement as the two weeks reported below included Christmas and New Year's. As such, there was high leave usage at both centers.

VSC:

The VSC reported that it is distributing cap cases that were received on 8/25. Two weeks ago at this time, the VSC was distributing cap cases that were received on 8/16. The VSC currently has 9,775 pending cap cases that are over the two-month processing goal (8,049 are untouched). The total number of pending cap cases at the VSC is 15,036 (12,683 of these are untouched). Two weeks ago at this time, the VSC had 8,933 pending cap cases that were outside of the two-month processing goal (7,298 were untouched). At that time, the total number of pending cap cases at the VSC was 16,217 (13,562 of which were untouched).

CSC:

The CSC reported that it is distributing regular cap cases that were received on 9/26, master's cap cases that were received on 10/4, and cap exempt petitions that were received on 9/27. Two weeks ago at this time, the CSC was distributing regular cap cases that were received on 9/20, master's cap cases that were received on 9/28, and cap exempt cases that were received on 9/22. The CSC currently has 5,533 pending initial filings that are over the two-month processing goal (3,581 are untouched on a shelf and 660 with an officer, which includes RFE/NOID responses). The total number of pending initial cases at the CSC is 9,666 (7,626 are untouched on a shelf and 686 with an officer, which includes RFE/NOID responses). Two weeks ago at this time, the CSC had 4,672 pending initial cases that were outside of the two-month processing goal (2,673 were untouched on a shelf and 694 with an officer, which included RFE/NOID responses). At that time, the total number of pending initial cases at the CSC was 10,150 (8,078 were untouched on a shelf and 713 with an officer, which included RFE/NOID responses).

I have saved this summary on the shared drive under the following pathway for future reference.

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2012 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 17 through 19) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher. Unless otherwise exempt from the cap, petitions filed on behalf of beneficiaries who have obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher will be counted against the regular cap once USCIS has received sufficient petitions to reach the advanced degree exemption.

FY 2012 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 496,200 | 10/281/2011 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Give me a call.

According to USCIS's weekly report last week, "As of November 14th U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) received 76,300 H-1B petitions (temporary work visas for specialty occupations) requesting FY 2012 employment – 56,300 regular petitions and 20,000 petitions from aliens with a master's degree or higher. USCIS will continue to accept H-1B petitions until meeting the Congressionally-mandated cap of 65,000 regular petitions and 25,000 master's exemption petitions; thus far, USCIS has approved 32,000 regular petitions and 16,900 master's exemption petitions."

Is the master's exception cap 20k or 25k?

Same language….different dates. Last couple of years, we did have a paragraph about applying a 'computer-generated random selection process' to select the remaining few petitions to meet the cap. Wasn't necessary this year, since we were able to accept all of the properly-filed petitions that were submitted on the final receipt date (yesterday)….so, that paragraph was omitted.

I will send the webpage update to OCOMM tomorrow and request posting on Monday. We have maintained our regular updating schedule in the past when Jim gave updates ahead of time because he was going on vacation. This was done to prevent giving stakeholders who are monitoring the webpage the erroneous impression that we have started updating the numbers more than once a week.

Thanks!

Keith and Joe—

Thank you for your hard work in ensuring that VSC and CSC are current on H-1B cap and EOS cases. Now that numbers are current, SCOPS would like to reduce the frequency of the Centers' H-1B reporting to SCOPS, keeping in mind that if we fall behind in processing times, then SCOPS may ask you to report more often.

- For H-1B EOS cases, please send a monthly report by the 10th of each month.
- For H-1B Cap cases, please send a bi-weekly report by the Friday in the middle of the pay period.

The reports can be sent to me, Shelly Sweeney and Tinnina Lauver.

As for the data to include in the reports, please continue to provide the information you have been giving us. In addition, for cases that are outside the 60-day processing time, could VSC also include the number of cases that have been issued an RFE/NOID?

Please let me know if you have any questions. Thanks and have a great weekend.

Mack/Frank –

As we are now accounting for a new fiscal years' worth of cap cases, let me know what information SCOPS finds useful from the reports below, and if there are any changes that you need as we start reporting/accounting for FY12 H-1B cases. It would also be good to know if this reports need to continue now that we are so current with H-1B's.

If SCOPS is primarily concerned with the high level pending numbers, is it possible to have SCOPS (i.e. Jim Fitzsimmons) run these numbers when needed and rely on the Centers to report distribution dates? Just trying to streamline/minimize the reporting of data (if possible) since there are so many different reports issued by the Centers on a regular basis.

Lastly, if these reports are to continue, please let me know of there are any modifications that need to be made to the list of recipients. Not sure if Claudia wants to be copied, Frank wants to be removed, others added/removed, etc...

Keith

Subtracting out the normal daily volume would leave maybe 4,000 H1B packages at best. That could mean 6,000 total filings averaging 1.5 per package.

The bloom appears to be off the high tech visa rose.

Walter just so I am sure, this is the gross mail count with CAP and nonCAP mail altogether, right? Assuming that assumption is correct the amount of CAP packages in this should be 4,000 at most.

All,

Please see e-mail chain below. It has been determined to post H1B cap numbers on the web bi-weekly instead of weekly. As we get closer to the cap deadline/reaching the cap, we will go back to producing/posting the report weekly.

Please let me know if you have any questions and/or concerns.

Barbara,
We would like to begin posting the H1B numbers bi-weekly instead of weekly. Before we reach out to OCOMM, I wanted to ensure you were okay with the bi-weekly reporting. We would go back to weekly once we start getting close to the cap.
Thanks,
Claudia

Barbara, Greg, and Claudia—

Here is a synopsis of the April 25th cap reports from the CSC and the VSC:

CSC:

The CSC reported that they are at a 4/12/11 processing date for regular FY12 cap cases (it was 4/11/11 last week) and at a 4/11/11 processing date for FY12 master's cap cases (it was at 4/11/11 last week).

Cap exempt is at 2/22/11 (it was 2/18/11 last week). The processing date for EOS is at 3/22/11 (the previous week it was at 3/21/2011). As of April 25th, there were 1,083 initial H-1B petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. Of that number 393 have had an RFE/NOID issued but have not been worked to completion (either pending response or response not yet adjudicated). There were 758 EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two month processing goal. Of that number, 302 have had an RFE/NOID issued already.

From 4/17 to 4/23, the CSC approved 937 non premium cases, denied 86 non premium cases, and issued an RFE on 118 non premium cases. CSC also approved 1,084 premium cases, denied 49 premium cases, and issued an RFE on 200 premium cases during the same time period. Total actions during that time period were 2,474.

VSC:

The VSC reported that they are at 4/1/11 for FY12 cap cases (it was 4/7/11 last week; however, that date reflected only FY12 premium cases, not brown files). The processing date for EOS is at 4/14/11 (They reported 4/1/11 last week). As of April 25th, there were 359 untouched cap petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal. There were 428 untouched EOS petitions still pending that are outside of the two-month processing goal.

From 4/17 to 4/23, the VSC approved 1,571 non premium cases, denied 224 non premium cases and issued an RFE/NOID on 473 non premium cases. VSC also approved 686 premium cases, denied 141 premium cases, and issued an RFE/NOID on 133 premium cases during the same time period. Total actions during that time period were 3,228.

USCIS Update

Nov. 23, 2011

USCIS Reaches Fiscal Year 2012 H-1B Cap

WASHINGTON—U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) announced today that it has received a sufficient number of H-1B petitions to reach the statutory cap of 65,000 for fiscal year (FY) 2012. USCIS is notifying the public that yesterday, Nov. 22, 2011, was the final receipt date for new H-1B specialty occupation petitions requesting an employment start date in FY 2012.

Properly filed cases will be considered received on the date that USCIS physically receives the petition; not the date that the petition was postmarked. USCIS will reject cap-subject petitions for new H-1B specialty occupation workers seeking an employment start date in FY 2012 that arrive after Nov. 22, 2011.

As of Oct. 19, 2011, USCIS had also received more than 20,000 H-1B petitions filed on behalf of persons exempt from the cap under the 'advanced degree' exemption. USCIS will continue to accept and process petitions that are otherwise exempt from the cap. In addition, petitions filed on behalf of current H-1B workers who have been counted previously against the cap will not be counted toward the FY 2012 H-1B cap. Accordingly, USCIS will continue to accept and process petitions filed to:

- extend the amount of time a current H-1B worker may remain in the U.S.;
- change the terms of employment for current H-1B workers;
- allow current H-1B workers to change employers; and
- allow current H-1B workers to work concurrently in a second H-1B position.

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields such as scientists, engineers or computer programmers.

Shelly –

We are currently distributing H-1B cap cases received on 7/20. With the overtime SCOPS has made available and the expected decrease in PP Cases due to our recently hitting the cap, we expect to make some progress on decreasing the number of cases over 60 days old in the weeks to come.

Importance: High

Shelly –

Below you will find this week's H-1B report for EOS cases. We are currently distributing cases received on 7/6. Now that we have worked through the cap gap cases that were received prior to 8/1, we will focus our attention on PP cases as a first priority, and then working non-PP cases in date order. We still continue to see a very high level of PP receipts daily. We are working on a plan to address/reduce H-1B processing times.

It is noted that although we are distributing cases received on 7/6, many cases that were received after 7/6 have been pulled and completed as a result of PP requests and the cap gap initiative.

Lastly, with the arrival of the new fiscal year, overtime is no longer available. This has lead to a decrease in the number of actions. If you compare this email to last weeks, it shows a much greater drop than actual because the Grand Total row included CAP actions and this one only includes the EOS actions where are shown here.

Quick question on the caseswith the CFDO...could the VSC provide a synopsis of the reason(s) why these cases are at the CFDO? Were these students from TVU or UNVA? Was the petitioner on the red list? Or were these referrals for other reasons?

Thanks!

Barbara,
We would like to do the same plan as last year if that works for you (see attached). To be honest, we don't see VSC getting back within 2 months anytime soon due to the L backlog. We would like to start this now instead of September. Sound like a plan?

Claudia,

The CSC reports indicate that they are within the two-month processing time for initial petitions. VSC now appears to be approaching a three-month processing time for initial H-1B petitions. Keith noted in his message this morning that he may lose some of his officers to L adjudication to help get within the regulatory 30-day processing time.

With that in mind, I've been trying to think about plans for the beginning of the new fiscal year. Last year we prioritized F-1 COS (cap gap) H-1B petitions that were outside of the two-month processing time when we got backed up (see attached email). Since we are falling behind, do we want to keep this in mind for this year? While I don't believe SCOPS ever publicly announced the prioritization, stakeholders still found out about it and are hinting about for this year.

Thanks!

Shelly

Just as an FYI...

The number of initial H1B EOS cases pending outside the 60 day processing goal has continued to increase at the VSC. As you will note, as of 8/1/2011, they had 3,335 initial H1B EOS cases outside the processing goal. On 7/5/11, the VSC had 1,694 cases, 358 cases on 6/6/11and 321 cases on 5/16/11.

Here is VSC's report, to include both initials and extensions. For both groups of cases, we are currently distributing petitions received on 5/20. We are set to train additional ISOs this week, as well as add additional resources to this workload. As VSC's primary focus is on the L's at present, we may temporarily divert a few of our H-1B ISOs to ensure we continue to reduce the L backlog to come within regulatory processing times in the near future.

Claudia,

The CSC reports indicate that they are within the two-month processing time for initial petitions. VSC now appears to be approaching a three-month processing time for initial H-1B petitions. Keith noted in his message this morning that he may lose some of his officers to L adjudication to help get within the regulatory 30-day processing time.

With that in mind, I've been trying to think about plans for the beginning of the new fiscal year. Last year we prioritized F-1 COS (cap gap) H-1B petitions that were outside of the two-month processing time when we got backed up (see attached email). Since we are falling behind, do we want to keep this in mind for this year? While I don't believe SCOPS ever publicly announced the prioritization, stakeholders still found out about it and are hinting about for this year.

Thanks!

Shelly

Shelly -

Here is VSC's report, to include both initials and extensions. For both groups of cases, we are currently distributing petitions received on 5/20. We are set to train additional ISOs this week, as well as add additional resources to this workload. As VSC's primary focus is on the L's at present, we may temporarily divert a few of our H-1B ISOs to ensure we continue to reduce the L backlog to come within regulatory processing times in the near future.

Shelly,

VSC has distributed all of its FY12 cap cases to officers, who continue to step up and work the overtime to reduce our backlog. We will now turn our focus to distributing H-1B extensions, while continuing to work the cap RFE's as they come in. We are in line with our cap plan that we had provided to SCOPS.

Rob,

Did VSC train and move I-539 folks or individuals from other product lines to H1Bs? If not, is that something that will occur? I know you and I had discussions in the past on training progression, as well as shifting resources to address Ls and H1Bs.

Could you please give us the latest on what the plan is to get caught up on H1Bs? Please keep Claudia copied on any messages related to this, as I will be on leave beginning Friday.

Thanks!

Bobbie

Shelly -

Below is the VSC report for cap cases. We are currently distributing cap cases received on June 27. It is noted that premium receipts are still very high, most likely resulting from a combination of the approaching 10/1 start date and our current processing times. As discussed in prior messages, this diverts resources away from the non-PP H-1B cases. Now that we have worked though most all cap gap cases, we expect to be able to start working into our backlog on non-PP H-1B cases. However, our weekly output will now be reduced due to the end of the fiscal year and our no longer having an overtime funding stream.

The data below is the result of a query run on 9/26. Due to technical issues, we were unable to run that query again today, but plan to run it early next week. As you'll see, the vast majority of pending cap gap cases (that were received before 8/1) are either with the CFDO or await a response to an RFE. At the beginning of this week, we had a little over 200 actionable cap gap cases. Throughout this week, we have taken steps to ensure as many of these cases as possible were completed.

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2012 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 17 through 19) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher. Unless otherwise exempt from the cap, petitions filed on behalf of beneficiaries who have obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher will be counted against the regular cap once USCIS has received sufficient petitions to reach the advanced degree exemption.

FY 2012 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Date of Last Count |

| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 20,000 | 11/142/2011 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Good morning.

We are getting close to hitting the master's cap. Once the master's cap is met, all other master's petitions will rollover into the regular cap pool. SCOPS is currently projecting that we should hit the regular cap sometime in December. As such, we would like to once again begin issuing cap count updates on a weekly basis. Attached is the update for this week.

I will be working with OCC to clear language to this webpage to remind the public that master's petitions will roll into the regular cap pool once the master's exemption is met.

Thanks!

Corinna,

Here is an updated summary of H-1B cap processing at the centers:

CAP PROCESSING--

VSC

- VSC is working cap cases received on 9/15.
- Two weeks ago, they were working 8/25.
- Currently:
  - 11,371 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (9,383 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 13,028 total pending cap cases (10,843 untouched including those cases with an officer)
- Two Weeks ago:
  - 9,775 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (8,049 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 15,036 total pending cap cases (12,683 untouched including those cases with an officer)

CSC

- CSC is working regular cap cases received on 10/6, master's received on 10/18 and exempt cases that were received on 10/7.
- Two weeks ago, they were working regulars from 9/26, master's from 10/4 and exempt from 9/27.
- Currently:
  - 6,500 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (4,474 untouched, 691 with an officer)
  - 8,293 total pending cap cases (6,228 untouched, 695 with an officer)
- Two weeks ago:
  - 5,533 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (3,581 untouched, 660 with an officer)
  - 9,666 total pending cap cases (7,626 untouched, 686 with an officer)

ANALYSIS--

- Potential contributing factors:
  - There was a spike in cap filings right before the cap closed in November. Once we push through that spike we will be in good shape.
- Please note that while the number of cases outside the two month processing goal has gone up at both centers, the number of total pending has gone down.

Thanks!

Corinna,

Here is an updated summary of H-1B cap processing at the centers:

CAP PROCESSING--

VSC

- VSC is working cap cases received on 9/30.
- Two weeks ago, they were working 9/15.
- Currently:
  - 11,055 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (8,956 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 11,056 total pending cap cases (8,957 untouched including those cases with an officer)

CSC

- CSC is working regular cap cases received on 10/26, master's received on 10/19 and exempt cases that were received on 10/18.
- Two weeks ago, they were working regulars from 10/6, master's from 10/18 and exempt from 10/7.
- Currently:
  - 7,228 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (5,028 untouched, 814 with an officer)
  - 7,509 total pending cap cases (5,223 untouched, 849 with an officer)
- Two weeks ago:
  - 6,500 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (4,474 untouched, 691 with an officer)
  - 8,293 total pending cap cases (6,228 untouched, 695 with an officer)

ANALYSIS--

- Please note that while the number of cases outside the two month processing goal has gone up at the CSC, the number of total pending has gone down.
- Both the number of cases over the two month processing goal and total pending cases have decreased at the VSC since two weeks ago.
- The over two month report and the total pending at the VSC is nearly identical. This is because we hit the cap over two months ago and no new filings were accepted after that point (the one case is most likely a cap case that was accidentally rejected initially and was later accepted for processing).
- The cases in the total pending report at the CSC that is in excess of the over two month cases are probably all cap-exempt filings.

Thanks!

  - 7,509 total pending cap cases (5,223 untouched, 849 with an officer)

ANALYSIS--

- Both the number of cases over the two month processing goal and total pending cases have decreased by about 2K at each center since the last report two weeks ago.
- The VSC's work distribution date went from a little over 4 months to about 3.5 months. The CSC's work distribution date went from almost 3.5 months to around 3 months for regular cap. Master's and cap exempt work being distributed to the floor remains at about 3.5 months.
- The over two month report and the total pending at the VSC is nearly identical. This is because we hit the cap over two months ago and no new filings were accepted after that point (the one case is most likely a cap case that was accidentally rejected initially and was later accepted for processing).
- The cases in the total pending report at the CSC that is in excess of the over two month cases are probably all cap-exempt filings.

Thanks!

Corinna,

Here is an updated summary of H-1B cap processing at the centers:

CAP PROCESSING--

VSC

- VSC has distributed all FY12 cap cases to officers (cap closed on 11/22).
- Two weeks ago, they were working 10/31.
- Currently:
  - 5,531 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (2,806 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 5,532 total pending cap cases (2,807 untouched including those cases with an officer)
- Two Weeks ago:
  - 9,054 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (7,045 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 9,055 total pending cap cases (7,046 untouched including those cases with an officer)

CSC

- CSC has distributed all FY12 cap cases (both regular and master's) to officers. They are distributing cap exempt petitions with a receipt date of 11/29.
- Two weeks ago, they were working regulars from 11/17, master's from 11/3 and exempt from 11/2.
- Currently:
  - 4,164 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (1,718 untouched, 1,004 with an officer)
  - 4,351 total pending cap cases (1,718 untouched, 1,006 with an officer)
- Two weeks ago:
  - 5,605 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (2,860 untouched, 930 with an officer)
  - 5,807 total pending cap cases (3,048 untouched, 931 with an officer)

ANALYSIS--

- The VSC appears to have made a major dent in their FY12 cap backlog. Pending over two months decreased by a little over 3.5K since two weeks ago.
- All cap cases have been distributed to officers at both centers. The CSC's cap exempt petitions remain at about a little over 90 days out.

Thanks!

Claudia,

This is just a quick message to determine if we should consider posting the H1B cap numbers on a bi-weekly basis? According to the most recent report, the number of H-1B regular cap eligible petitions is 29,000 and the number of H1B master cap eligible petitions is 15,800. As we get closer to the deadline, we can always go back to producing/posting the report weekly.

Thanks!

All,
After a relatively slow start, the volume of H-1B regular and masters-exempt cap petitions combined for FY 2012 has caught up with last year's volume as of late September. Particularly noticeable has been the increase in volume of regular cap petitions during the last several weeks. The volume was 2,200 last week. If this trend continues, then the FY 2012 cap season will end in mid-January, two weeks earlier than FY 2011 cap season.

All,
In case you have not heard, the H-1B cap season closed on November 22. A surge occurred early last week. Almost 3,000 petitions were received on Monday and another 2,000 on Tuesday.

Below is a table showing the latest cap counts. In the table below, the approval rates shown are based on April filings since nearly all of them have been adjudicated. As the far right column shows, if the approval rate on 34,400 petitions pending adjudication matches the approval rate on petitions filed in April, then the number of approvals for FY 2012 will be 65,100 for regular cap.
Jim

| | Approvals | Pending | Approval rate[1] | Future Approvals[2] | Cap Count[3] | Adjusted Cap Count[4] |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Regular | 35,800 | 29,600 | 92% | 27,100 | 62,900 | 65,100 |
| Masters | 17,600 | 4,800 | 97% | 4,600 | 22,200 | 20,000 |
| Combined | 53,400 | 34,400 | 92% | 31,700 | 85,100 | 85,100 |

Data available as of close of business, November 25

Counts may not add due to rounding

[1] Percentage of petitions filed in April that have been approved

[2] Pending multiplied by approval rate

[3] Approvals plus estimated future approvals

[4] Adjusted for 22,200 masters rolling over into regular cap

Subject: H-1B Processing Summary

Corinna,

As we discussed here is a summary of H-1B processing at the centers. Please note that we track processing information on a biweekly basis for the cap cases and a monthly basis for the EOS cases:

CAP PROCESSING--

VSC

- VSC is working cap cases received on 8/25.
- Two weeks ago, they were working 8/16.
- Currently:
  - 9,775 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (8,049 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 15,036 total pending cap cases (12,683 untouched including those cases with an officer)
- Two weeks ago:
  - 8,933 pending over 2 months processing goal (7,298 untouched including those cases with an officer).
  - 16,217 total pending cap cases (13,562 untouched including those cases with an officer)

CSC

- CSC is working regular cap cases received on 9/26, master's received on 10/4 and exempt cases that were received on 9/27.
- Two weeks ago, they were working regulars from 9/20, master's from 9/28 and exempt from 9/22.
- Currently:
  - 5,533 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (3,581 untouched, 660 with an officer)
  - 9,666 total pending cap cases (7,626 untouched, 686 with an officer)
- Two weeks ago:
  - 4,672 pending over 2 months processing goal (2,673 untouched, 694 with an officer).
  - 10,150 total pending cap cases (8,078 untouched, 713 with an officer)

EOS PROCESSING--

VSC

- VSC is working EOS cases received on 8/25.
- One month ago, they were working 8/3.
- Currently:
  - 9,811 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (8,340 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 15,126 total pending EOS cases (13,155 untouched including those cases with an officer)
- One month ago:
  - 10,945 pending over 2 months processing goal (9,458 untouched including those cases with an officer).
  - 16,577 total pending EOS cases (14,493 untouched including those cases with an officer)

CSC

- CSC is working EOS cases received on 10/8.
- One month ago, they were working 9/16.
- Currently:
  - 5,290 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (3,611 untouched, 1,079 with an officer)
  - 9,993 total pending EOS cases (8,242 untouched, 1,083 with an officer)
- One month ago:
  - 4,677 pending over 2 months processing goal (3,100 untouched, 805 with an officer).
  - 9,662 total pending cap cases (7,962 untouched, 822 with an officer)

ANALYSIS--

- Potential contributing factors:
  - Last month (and more specifically, the last two weeks) included two holidays and high leave usage at both centers.
  - There was a spike in cap filings right before the cap closed in November. Once we push through that spike we will be in good shape.
  - There was likely a spike in EOS filings in the months of August, September and/or October since many beneficiaries who received an FY09 cap number (the last time we hit the cap right away in April) would need their employers to file an extension before October 1, 2011 since their status would be set to expire around that time
  - Premiums filings and upgrades were relatively high in 2011 and continue to come in.
- While the CSC appears to be in better shape than the VSC currently re: processing times, the CSC appears to be falling further behind while the VSC has been making further strides in reducing their processing times.
- The CSC was within two months through much of the summer (while VSC was not). However, CSC was using officers from other units with excess capacity (Ls, Os, Ps). Excess capacity is no longer there as processing times in those categories (which are mandated by statute or regs) fell behind.

Thanks!

Shelley,

As you know, we are in the process of revamping our H-1B report to include FY11 cap, FY12 cap, and EOS data in categories Claudia had previously requested. It may be a couple weeks before that report is available. For now, there is information below that details where we currently stand with each of these caseloads. As soon as the revised report is available, we'll forward the information in that format.

Current dates being distributed to officers:

1,157 cases receipted yesterday at Vermont, a heavy day. However I believe some of the undone cases (1475 + 571) shown at the end of the day will also be found to be CAP eligible once data entry begins. They only do a rough initial sort in the mailroom.

Subject: 1,795 CAP cases receipted on Monday

1,157 cases receipted yesterday at Vermont, a heavy day. However I believe some of the undone cases (1475 + 571) shown at the end of the day will also be found to be CAP eligible once data entry begins. They only do a rough initial sort in the mailroom.

I think she means the petition count is about 4300 which would fit with my guess for Vermont at 6,000. So maybe we hit the 10,000 mark today.

In 2010 April petition count once finalized was VSC 8,356, CSC 6,623, total 14,978.

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2012 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 17 through 19) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2012 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 25,300 | 8/12/2011 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2012 Cap Season

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2012 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 17 through 19) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher.

FY 2012 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 20,500 | 7/15/2011 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

CSC just came in. Here's what I count for these two days:

| Center | Monday DE | Tuesday DE | Tuesday pending | Totals |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| CSC | 638 | 975 | 0 * | 1613 |
| VSC | 1157 | 954 | 1779  | 3890 |
| | | | | |
| | 1795 | 1929 | 1779 | 5503 |

Their DAAG lists 828 nonCAP 129s pending, some of which may re-categorized as CAP during data entry

VSC gross CAP pending, some of which will be found unacceptable and not be receipted. All of these will be DE today or at a minimum reviewed and determined acceptable or not acceptable.

The math is correct. However, a higher cushion of 2,400 can be justified. On 35,000 pending adjudications, a 7 percent non-approval rate is 2,450 non-approvals (rejects, denials, revocations, double counting of beneficiaries ). Historically, revocations and denials begin to rise sharply after cap season closes. Unfortunately, these trends are difficult to project. I also suspect several hundreds of those 5,503 receipts are not cap-eligible.

We never gave them a solid required date but they committed to processing a minimum of 1,000 FY12s a day and they're averaging about 1,150. Given that rate and the daily intake, I believe they will be fully current at the end of tonight, as in all mail received through today will be data entered or identified for rejection, or routed to the CRU for review. At worst it will be tomorrow; tomorrow they will work a half day and begin shutting down at 2 pm for contract closeout. The new contractor will be moving in on Saturday.

I think we can also get all the manual rejects mailed out and it would be better for the current contractor to be responsible for that if possible. Should we give the order to do that?

Jim Fitz should be able to run a completely current query on Monday for the weekly website update.

Keith and Joe,

Thank you for providing the below inventory list. Although a two-month processing time for all H-1B petitions remains our ultimate goal, BEST understands that this processing time may not be possible as of October 1 of this year due to competing priorities. To mitigate potential harm to cap gap students, BEST proposes both centers prioritize completion of all F-1 COS cap cases filed before 8/1/11 for non-premium work. In this context completion means issuance of an RFE/NOID, approval notice, denial notice, etc. If an RFE/NOID response is received, it should be worked to completion if at all possible.

Once these pre 8/1/11 F-1 COS cap cases are completed, the centers should revert to date order processing for non-premium work. This instruction does not apply to premium cases. Premium cases should be worked as usual. BEST believes that a month and a half lead time will be sufficient to complete this prioritization. Please advise ASAP if you do not believe that this will be feasible for your center.

Thanks!

Since we're approaching the new fiscal year, SCOPS would like each center to provide the number of F-1 COS H-1B FY12 cap petitions you have that were filed on or before August 1, 2011 that are still pending? In addition, can you break these petitions into following categories: untouched, pending supervisory review, RFE/NOID issued (awaiting response), and RFE/NOID response received?

Thanks!

Can you add Marguerite (Mack) Bolog to your mailing list for the H-1B cap count? She is handling the cap while she's on detail.

Good question. Before I can respond, I'd like to ask you a few additional questions. How far behind are they on letters? Does the contractor separate out the withdrawal requests from the regular RFE responses? If so, are they behind in RFE responses as well? Theoretically, any response to an RFE/ITD could ultimately result in a denial. It really comes down to what is contained in the response.

And this leads for a question for Jim...have you already factored potential withdrawals into your calculations for the target?

Shelly as we approach the cap limit is it important for the incoming withdrawal letter requests to be processed as denials or revocations the same day? Our contractor at VSC is not keeping entirely current with the incoming letters but if it's vital, we can prioritize that they get them completely up to the same day as received. But are the officers keeping up with them as fast? Does it matter, in the bigger picture?

H-1B Fiscal Year (FY) 2012 Cap Season

The H-1B Program

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields, such as scientists, engineers, or computer programmers.

For more information about the H-1B program, see the link to the left under temporary workers for H-1B Specialty Occupations and Fashion Models.

How USCIS Determines if an H-1B Petition is Subject to the FY 2012 Cap

We use the information provided in Part C of the H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption Supplement (Form I-129, pages 17 through 19) to determine whether a petition is subject to the 65,000 H-1B numerical limitation (the "cap"). Some petitions are exempt from the cap under the advanced degree exemption provided to the first 20,000 petitions filed for a beneficiary who has obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher. Unless otherwise exempt from the cap, petitions filed on behalf of beneficiaries who have obtained a U.S. master's degree or higher will be counted against the regular cap once USCIS has received sufficient petitions to reach the advanced degree exemption.

FY 2012 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap Eligible Petitions | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | ~~56,300~~61,800 | 11/1~~8~~4/2011 |

Cap Eligible Petitions

This is the number of petitions that USCIS has accepted for this particular type of cap. It includes cases that have been approved or are still pending. It does not include petitions that have been denied.

Corinna,

Here is an updated summary of H-1B cap processing at the centers:

CAP PROCESSING--

VSC

- VSC is working cap cases received on 9/15.
- Two weeks ago, they were working 8/25.
- Currently:
  - 11,371 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (9,383 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 13,028 total pending cap cases (10,843 untouched including those cases with an officer)
- Two Weeks ago:
  - 9,775 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (8,049 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 15,036 total pending cap cases (12,683 untouched including those cases with an officer)

CSC

- CSC is working regular cap cases received on 10/6, master's received on 10/18 and exempt cases that were received on 10/7.
- Two weeks ago, they were working regulars from 9/26, master's from 10/4 and exempt from 9/27.
- Currently:
  - 6,500 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (4,474 untouched, 691 with an officer)
  - 8,293 total pending cap cases (6,228 untouched, 695 with an officer)
- Two weeks ago:
  - 5,533 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (3,581 untouched, 660 with an officer)
  - 9,666 total pending cap cases (7,626 untouched, 686 with an officer)

ANALYSIS--

- Potential contributing factors:
  - There was a spike in cap filings right before the cap closed in November. Once we push through that spike we will be in good shape.
- Please note that while the number of cases outside the two month processing goal has gone up at both centers, the number of total pending has gone down.

Subject: H-1B Cap Processing Summary 3-5-12

Corinna,

Here is an updated summary of H-1B cap processing at the centers:

CAP PROCESSING--

VSC

- VSC has distributed all FY12 cap cases to officers (cap closed on 11/22).
- Two weeks ago, they were working 10/31.
- Currently:
  - 5,531 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (2,806 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 5,532 total pending cap cases (2,807 untouched including those cases with an officer)
- Two Weeks ago:
  - 9,054 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (7,045 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 9,055 total pending cap cases (7,046 untouched including those cases with an officer)

CSC

- CSC has distributed all FY12 cap cases (both regular and master's) to officers. They are distributing cap exempt petitions with a receipt date of 11/29.
- Two weeks ago, they were working regulars from 11/17, master's from 11/3 and exempt from 11/2.
- Currently:
  - 4,164 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (1,718 untouched, 1,004 with an officer)
  - 4,351 total pending cap cases (1,718 untouched, 1,006 with an officer)
- Two weeks ago:
  - 5,605 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (2,860 untouched, 930 with an officer)
  - 5,807 total pending cap cases (3,048 untouched, 931 with an officer)

ANALYSIS--

- The VSC appears to have made a major dent in their FY12 cap backlog. Pending over two months decreased by a little over 3.5K since two weeks ago.
- All cap cases have been distributed to officers at both centers. The CSC's cap exempt petitions remain at about a little over 90 days out.

- Two weeks ago, the CSC had already distributed all regular and master's cap cases and were distributing cap exempt petitions filed on 11/29.
- Currently:
  - 3,292 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (152 untouched, 627 with an officer)

  - 4,351 total pending cap cases (1,718 untouched, 1,006 with an officer)

ANALYSIS--

- Based on recent production, both centers are on target to touch all FY12 cases before the end of March.

Thanks!

Corinna,

I will send the webpage update to OCOMM tomorrow and request posting on Monday. We have maintained our regular updating schedule in the past when Jim gave updates ahead of time because he was going on vacation. This was done to prevent giving stakeholders who are monitoring the webpage the erroneous impression that we have started updating the numbers more than once a week.

Thanks!

Subject: H-1B Processing Summary

Corinna,

As we discussed here is a summary of H-1B processing at the centers. Please note that we track processing information on a biweekly basis for the cap cases and a monthly basis for the EOS cases:

CAP PROCESSING--

VSC

- VSC is working cap cases received on 8/25.
- Two weeks ago, they were working 8/16.
- Currently:
  - 9,775 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (8,049 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 15,036 total pending cap cases (12,683 untouched including those cases with an officer)
- Two weeks ago:
  - 8,933 pending over 2 months processing goal (7,298 untouched including those cases with an officer).
  - 16,217 total pending cap cases (13,562 untouched including those cases with an officer)

CSC

- CSC is working regular cap cases received on 9/26, master's received on 10/4 and exempt cases that were received on 9/27.
- Two weeks ago, they were working regulars from 9/20, master's from 9/28 and exempt from 9/22.
- Currently:
  - 5,533 pending cap cases over 2 month processing goal (3,581 untouched, 660 with an officer)
  - 9,666 total pending cap cases (7,626 untouched, 686 with an officer)
- Two weeks ago:
  - 4,672 pending over 2 months processing goal (2,673 untouched, 694 with an officer).
  - 10,150 total pending cap cases (8,078 untouched, 713 with an officer)

EOS PROCESSING--

VSC

- VSC is working EOS cases received on 8/25.
- One month ago, they were working 8/3.
- Currently:

- 9,811 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (8,340 untouched including those cases with an officer)
- 15,126 total pending EOS cases (13,155 untouched including those cases with an officer)

- One month ago:
  - 10,945 pending over 2 months processing goal (9,458 untouched including those cases with an officer).
  - 16,577 total pending EOS cases (14,493 untouched including those cases with an officer)

CSC

- CSC is working EOS cases received on 10/8.
- One month ago, they were working 9/16.
- Currently:
  - 5,290 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (3,611 untouched, 1,079 with an officer)
  - 9,993 total pending EOS cases (8,242 untouched, 1,083 with an officer)
- One month ago:
  - 4,677 pending over 2 months processing goal (3,100 untouched, 805 with an officer).
  - 9,662 total pending cap cases (7,962 untouched, 822 with an officer)

ANALYSIS--

- Potential contributing factors:
  - Last month (and more specifically, the last two weeks) included two holidays and high leave usage at both centers.
  - There was a spike in cap filings right before the cap closed in November. Once we push through that spike we will be in good shape.
  - There was likely a spike in EOS filings in the months of August, September and/or October since many beneficiaries who received an FY09 cap number (the last time we hit the cap right away in April) would need their employers to file an extension before October 1, 2011 since their status would be set to expire around that time
  - Premiums filings and upgrades were relatively high in 2011 and continue to come in.
- While the CSC appears to be in better shape than the VSC currently re: processing times, the CSC appears to be falling further behind while the VSC has been making further strides in reducing their processing times.
- The CSC was within two months through much of the summer (while VSC was not). However, CSC was using officers from other units with excess capacity (Ls, Os, Ps). Excess capacity is no longer there as processing times in those categories (which are mandated by statute or regs) fell behind.

Thanks!

Keith and Joe—

Thank you for your hard work in ensuring that VSC and CSC are current on H-1B cap and EOS cases. Now that numbers are current, SCOPS would like to reduce the frequency of the Centers' H-1B reporting to SCOPS, keeping in mind that if we fall behind in processing times, then SCOPS may ask you to report more often.

- For H-1B EOS cases, please send a monthly report by the 10th of each month.
- For H-1B Cap cases, please send a bi-weekly report by the Friday in the middle of the pay period.

The reports can be sent to me, Shelly Sweeney and Tinnina Lauver.

As for the data to include in the reports, please continue to provide the information you have been giving us. In addition, for cases that are outside the 60-day processing time, could VSC also include the number of cases that have been issued an RFE/NOID?

Please let me know if you have any questions. Thanks and have a great weekend.

Mack/Frank –

As we are now accounting for a new fiscal years' worth of cap cases, let me know what information SCOPS finds useful from the reports below, and if there are any changes that you need as we start reporting/accounting for FY12 H-1B cases. It would also be good to know if this reports need to continue now that we are so current with H-1B's.

If SCOPS is primarily concerned with the high level pending numbers, is it possible to have SCOPS (i.e. Jim Fitzsimmons) run these numbers when needed and rely on the Centers to report distribution dates? Just trying to streamline/minimize the reporting of data (if possible) since there are so many different reports issued by the Centers on a regular basis.

Lastly, if these reports are to continue, please let me know of there are any modifications that need to be made to the list of recipients. Not sure if Claudia wants to be copied, Frank wants to be removed, others added/removed, etc...

This is what I was able to compile based upon what both centers submitted:

| CSC/VSC FY12 H1B CAP Completed Actions (5-15-11 to 5-21-11) | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|

| VSC | 265 | 6 | 67 | 338 |

Unfortunately, the CSC and VSC submitted different types of reports in regards pending FY12 CAP cases. That is, CSC provided NFTS locations; whereas, the VSC provided initial receipts, response received, etc. I am unable to convert one of the center's chart into the other based upon the information provided. Therefore, what type of format do we want to provide to SCOPS management? Something like this???

Got it...so the latest report is below with the attached spreadsheet. I am not sure if this has already been submitted to Greg, Barbara and Bobbie. If not should I send or is this something that should be sent from Claudia??

Below please find a summary of the May 23, 2001 H1B Cap Reports from the CSC and VSC:

CSC:
The CSC reported that they are distributing cases based upon the following receipt dates:
Regular FY 12 CAP = 4/28/2011
Master FY12 CAP = 4/23/2011
CAP Exempt = 4/08/2011
EOS = 4/15/2011

As of 5/23/2011, the CSC had 814 initial H1B petitions pending outside the 60 day processing goal. 564 of the 814 cases have had an RFE/NOID issued and are awaiting a response or awaiting final adjudication. In addition, the CSC reported that as of 5/23/2011, they had 955 H1B EOS cases outside the 60 day processing goal, of which 534 cases have had an RFE/NOID already issued.

From 5/15/2011 to 5/21/2011, the CSC approved 790 non-premium FY12 CAP cases, denied 82 and issued an RFE on 221 cases. For premium FY12 CAP cases, CSC approved 601 cases, denied 20 cases and issued an RFE on 141 cases. The CSC reported a total of 1,855 completed actions during the time period.

VSC:
The VSC indicated that they are distributing cases based upon the following receipt dates:
FY12 CAP = 4/13/2011
EOS = 4/18/2011

As of 5/23/2011, the VSC did not have any initial H1B petitions pending outside the 60 day processing goal. The VSC also reported that as of 5/16/2011, they had 321 H1B EOS cases that are outside the processing goal.

From 5/15/2011 to 5/21/2011, the VSC approved 468 non-premium FY12 CAP cases, denied 3 and issued an RFE on 116 cases. For premium FY12 CAP cases, VSC approved 265 cases, denied 6 cases and issued an RFE on 67 cases. The VSC reported a total of 925 completed actions during the time period.

Shelly –

We are currently distributing H-1B cap cases received on 7/20. With the overtime SCOPS has made available and the expected decrease in PP Cases due to our recently hitting the cap, we expect to make some progress on decreasing the number of cases over 60 days old in the weeks to come.

I'm reading this to say that the VSC alone received 2,733 H-1B regular and master's cap petitions (both premium and non-premium filings). The contractors have receipted 954 of these cases and haven't yet finished the remaining 1,779. It sounds like we don't know what CSC got yesterday.

Jim

There was a big surge yesterday; the contractor is prioritizing processing all of the undone CAP cases from yesterday. Hopefully they will all be in by tonight. California said they also did not finish last night but I don't have their final numbers. We may have hit the limit yesterday. Will get you CSC numbers when they come in.

Everything today is just being counted and racked.

The contractor did a good job getting this report out before noon today.

Shelly,

VSC has distributed all of its FY12 cap cases to officers, who continue to step up and work the overtime to reduce our backlog. We will now turn our focus to distributing H-1B extensions, while continuing to work the cap RFE's as they come in. We are in line with our cap plan that we had provided to SCOPS.

VSC is currently distributing EOS cases that were received on October 11. We have recently put forth a significant effort to reduce our consular returns that had built up due to our focus on Cap and EOS backlogs for the past many months. We are now concentrating largely on the FY12 cap cases.

Importance: High

Shelly –

Below you will find this week's H-1B report for EOS cases. We are currently distributing cases received on 7/6. Now that we have worked through the cap gap cases that were received prior to 8/1, we will focus our attention on PP cases as a first priority, and then working non-PP cases in date order. We still continue to see a very high level of PP receipts daily. We are working on a plan to address/reduce H-1B processing times.

It is noted that although we are distributing cases received on 7/6, many cases that were received after 7/6 have been pulled and completed as a result of PP requests and the cap gap initiative.

Lastly, with the arrival of the new fiscal year, overtime is no longer available. This has lead to a decrease in the number of actions. If you compare this email to last weeks, it shows a much greater drop than actual because the Grand Total row included CAP actions and this one only includes the EOS actions where are shown here.

Our CFDO was able to provide me with some insight into why we are holding these cases. None of the files being held are related to either UNVA or Tri Valley. They are being held for a combination of ICE involvement and VSC IO investigation. If you need any further information or assistance, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Rob,

Did VSC train and move I-539 folks or individuals from other product lines to H1Bs? If not, is that something that will occur? I know you and I had discussions in the past on training progression, as well as shifting resources to address Ls and H1Bs.

Could you please give us the latest on what the plan is to get caught up on H1Bs? Please keep Claudia copied on any messages related to this, as I will be on leave beginning Friday.

Thanks!

Shelly -

Below is the VSC report for cap cases. We are currently distributing cap cases received on June 27. It is noted that premium receipts are still very high, most likely resulting from a combination of the approaching 10/1 start date and our current processing times. As discussed in prior messages, this diverts resources away from the non-PP H-1B cases. Now that we have worked though most all cap gap cases, we expect to be able to start working into our backlog on non-PP H-1B cases. However, our weekly output will now be reduced due to the end of the fiscal year and our no longer having an overtime funding stream.

The data below is the result of a query run on 9/26. Due to technical issues, we were unable to run that query again today, but plan to run it early next week. As you'll see, the vast majority of pending cap gap cases (that were received before 8/1) are either with the CFDO or await a response to an RFE. At the beginning of this week, we had a little over 200 actionable cap gap cases. Throughout this week, we have taken steps to ensure as many of these cases as possible were completed.

Vermont Service Center I-129 Status Report

FY11 I-129 Projected Receipts vs. Actual Receipts

According to IMAPS, the projected number of I-129 receipts at the VSC for fiscal year 2011 was 172,584 (14,382 per month X 12 months). Although September data has not been loaded into IMAPS at this point, I-129 receipts for the month totaled 18,278, bringing our yearly total to 178,430. This figure represents a total of 5,846 more receipts then what was projected.

For comparison purposes, it appears that the actual number of I-129 receipts at the CSC will be at or below projected receipts (14,784 per month X 12 months = 177,408).

In order to comply with this directive and keep up with the increase in premium processing receipts, resources were diverted away from working "older" H1B non-premium cap and EOS filings.

March 18, 2011

USCIS to Start Accepting H-1B Petitions for FY 2012 on April 1, 2011

WASHINGTON—U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) announced today it will start accepting H-1B petitions subject to the fiscal year (FY) 2012 cap on April 1, 2011. Cases will be considered accepted on the date USCIS receives a properly filed petition for which the correct fee has been submitted; not the date that the petition is postmarked.

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise. Such workers include scientists, engineers, and computer programmers, among others.

The cap (the numerical limit on H-1B petitions) for FY 2012 is 65,000. The first 20,000 H-1B petitions filed on behalf of individuals with U.S. master's degrees or higher are exempt.

USCIS will monitor the number of H-1B petitions received and will notify the public of the date when the numerical limit of the H-1B cap has been met. This date is known as the final receipt date. If USCIS receives more petitions than it can accept, it may on the final receipt date randomly select the number of petitions that will be considered for final inclusion within the cap. USCIS will reject petitions that are subject to the cap and are not selected, as well as petitions received after it has the necessary number of petitions needed to meet the cap.

In addition to petitions filed on behalf of people with U.S. master's degrees or higher, certain other petitions are exempt from the congressionally mandated cap.

Petitions for new H-1B employment are exempt from the annual cap if the beneficiaries will work at:

- Institutions of higher education or related or affiliated nonprofit entities;
- Nonprofit research organizations; or
- Governmental research organizations.

Petitions filed on behalf of beneficiaries who will work only in Guam or the Commonwealth of the Northern Marianas Islands are exempt from the cap until Dec. 31, 2014. Employers may continue to file petitions for these cap-exempt H-1B categories for beneficiaries who will start work during FY 2011 or 2012.

Petitions filed on behalf of current H-1B workers who have been counted previously against the cap do not count towards the H-1B cap. USCIS will continue to process petitions filed to:

- Extend the amount of time a current H-1B worker may remain in the United States;
- Change the terms of employment for current H-1B workers;
- Allow current H-1B workers to change employers; and
- Allow current H-1B workers to work concurrently in a second H-1B position.

H-1B petitioners should follow all statutory and regulatory requirements as they prepare petitions, to avoid delays in processing and possible requests for evidence. USCIS has posted on its website detailed information, including a processing worksheet, to assist in the completion and submission of a FY2012 H-1B petition.

USCIS Update

USCIS Continues to Accept FY 2012 H-1B Petitions

WASHINGTON—U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) today announced it continues to accept H-1B nonimmigrant petitions that are subject to the fiscal year (FY) 2012 cap. The agency began accepting these petitions on April 1, 2011.

USCIS is monitoring the number of petitions received that count toward the congressionally mandated annual H-1B cap of 65,000 and the 20,000 U.S. master's degree or higher cap exemption.

USCIS has received approximately 5,900 H-1B petitions counting toward the 65,000 cap, and approximately 4,500 petitions toward the 20,000 cap exemption for individuals with advanced degrees.

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise. Such workers include scientists, engineers and computer programmers, among others.

USCIS will provide regular updates on the processing of FY 2012 H-1B petitions. These updates and helpful filing information can be found at USCIS's website highlighting the H-1B program. Should USCIS receive the number of petitions needed to meet the cap, it will issue an update advising the public that the FY 2012 H-1B cap has been met as of a certain date, known as the "final receipt date."

The date USCIS informs the public that the cap has been reached may differ from the actual final receipt date.

To ensure a fair system, USCIS may, on the final receipt date, randomly select the number of petitions that will be considered for final inclusion within the cap. The agency will reject petitions subject to the cap that are not selected, as well as those received after the final receipt date. Whether a petition is received by the final receipt date will be based on the date USCIS physically receives the petition, not the date that the petition has been postmarked.

Cases for premium processing (faster processing of certain employment-based petitions and applications) of H-1B petitions filed during an initial five-day filing window are undergoing a 15-day processing period that began April 7. For all other H-1B petitions filed for premium processing, the processing period begins on the date that the petition is physically received at the correct USCIS Service Center.

Meanwhile, petitions filed by employers who are exempt from the cap, as well as petitions filed on behalf of current H-1B workers who have been counted previously against the cap within the past six years, will not count toward the cap.

USCIS Reaches Fiscal Year 2012 H-1B Cap

WASHINGTON—U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) announced today that it has received a sufficient number of H-1B petitions to reach the statutory cap of 65,000 for fiscal year (FY) 2012. USCIS is notifying the public that yesterday, Nov. 22, 2011, was the final receipt date for new H-1B specialty occupation petitions requesting an employment start date in FY 2012.

Properly filed cases will be considered received on the date that USCIS physically receives the petition; not the date that the petition was postmarked. USCIS will reject cap-subject petitions for new H-1B specialty occupation workers seeking an employment start date in FY 2012 that arrive after Nov. 22, 2011.

As of Oct. 19, 2011, USCIS had also received more than 20,000 H-1B petitions filed on behalf of persons exempt from the cap under the 'advanced degree' exemption. USCIS will continue to accept and process petitions that are otherwise exempt from the cap. In addition, petitions filed on behalf of current H-1B workers who have been counted previously against the cap will not be counted toward the FY 2012 H-1B cap. Accordingly, USCIS will continue to accept and process petitions filed to:

- extend the amount of time a current H-1B worker may remain in the U.S.;
- change the terms of employment for current H-1B workers;
- allow current H-1B workers to change employers; and
- allow current H-1B workers to work concurrently in a second H-1B position.

U.S. businesses use the H-1B program to employ foreign workers in specialty occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise in specialized fields such as scientists, engineers or computer programmers.

We are currently distributing H-1B cap cases received on 7/20. With the overtime SCOPS has made available and the expected decrease in PP Cases due to our recently hitting the cap, we expect to make some progress on decreasing the number of cases over 60 days old in the weeks to come.

Shelly –

Here is the VSC cap report. We are currently distributing cases that were received on August 25. Low production numbers last week reflect the limited capacity we had available due to leave over the holidays. With the holidays over and the bills coming due, we expect increased capacity into the foreseeable future as a result of the anticipated use of overtime funds.

Shelly –

Here is the VSC H-1B cap report. We are currently distributing non-PP cases that were received on July 14. We began the use of the overtime that was made available on Sunday and expect to see the increase in actions starting this week. The OT has allowed us to maintain the PP cases and continue to work though many of the in-process cases (i.e. responses to RFE's). PP receipts remain high and steady...

Below is the VSC report on H-1B EOS cases. We are currently distributing initial H-1B's that were received on June 10. As mentioned last week (in the Cap report), our focus is currently on maintaining PP and completing cap-gap cases by 10/1. As a result of this focus, we are moving very little other H-1B work.

Although not EOS cases, I am also including a chart outlining the status of cap-gap cases filed prior to 8/1 as an FYI... Despite the 937 cases listed as "untouched", these cases have been distributed to officers and are being worked as I type.

Shelly,

VSC has distributed all of its FY12 cap cases to officers, who continue to step up and work the overtime to reduce our backlog. We will now turn our focus to distributing H-1B extensions, while continuing to work the cap RFE's as they come in. We are in line with our cap plan that we had provided to SCOPS.

VSC is currently distributing EOS cases that were received on October 11. We have recently put forth a significant effort to reduce our consular returns that had built up due to our focus on Cap and EOS backlogs for the past many months. We are now concentrating largely on the FY12 cap cases.

Here is the information regarding the H-1B cap cases at the VSC. We were distributing cap cases received on 6/1 as of the date we prioritized F-1 COS cap-gap cases. Please note that with our current priorities being Premium Processing and cap-gap cases (as well as a commitment of resources to L/O/P priorities), we do not envision movement of non-PP or non-cap-gap H-1B cases in the immediate future. This includes responses to RFEs, motions, appeals, etc. We will continue to monitor the levels of priority work and will complete the non-priority work as resources allow.

Here is VSC's report, to include both initials and extensions. For both groups of cases, we are currently distributing petitions received on 5/20. We are set to train additional ISOs this week, as well as add additional resources to this workload. As VSC's primary focus is on the L's at present, we may temporarily divert a few of our H-1B ISOs to ensure we continue to reduce the L backlog to come within regulatory processing times in the near future.

Shelly/Tina –

Here is VSC H-1B report for initial filings. We are currently distributing cap cases that were received on June 16, 2011. We continue to see significant increases in PP filings, most likely as a result of the approaching 10/1 date and our processing times. We continue to work at eliminating cap-gap cases received prior to 8/1.

Shelly -

Below is the VSC report for cap cases. We are currently distributing cap cases received on July 6. It is noted that premium receipts are still very high, most likely resulting from our current processing times. We recently started working premium in both St. Albans and Essex sites to ensure enough resources toward the climbing workload. As discussed in prior messages, this diverts resources away from the non-PP H-1B cases. We have worked though most all cap gap cases but due to the extremely high premium receipts will not be able to start digging out of our backlog on non-PP H-1B cases. However, our weekly output will now be reduced due to the end of the fiscal year and our no longer having an overtime funding stream.

The data below is the result of a query run on 10/12. As you'll see, the vast majority of pending cap gap cases (that were received before 8/1) are either with the CFDO or await a response to an RFE. Throughout this week, we have taken steps to ensure as many of these cases as possible were completed.

Importance: High

All,

Based upon our calculations here at HQ, we hit the cap yesterday. We will NOT need to run a random selection process on yesterday's receipts. You may begin data entry on yesterday's receipts. Since yesterday was the final receipt date, H-1B cap petitions received today will be rejected.

Thanks!

Shelly

While we wait to discuss this here after the seeing today's query update from CISCOR, would you both verify that ALL the mail from yesterday has been opened and counted and that these are the true numbers waiting in the queues -- 2,104 CAPS at VSC and 1,406 at CSC?

Shelly

Based on Gwen's count this morning that we were still 15,000 under our target, and even counting that there were about 900 CAPS in the data entry queue last night, we would need to receive more than 14,000 filings today and Friday to exceed our target. Neither center COTR has reported any abnormal surge today. The CSC acting COTR did not think there was a need for Friday. I'll wait to hear from VSC but I do not think tomorrow will be necessary to rack and stack.

There is a certain loss of productivity involved when we go to rack and stack and we are already in a frontlog situation. I don't want to do it if there really doesn't appear to be a danger.

Would both of you see to it that the contractor confirms we have all the mail picked up by cob on Friday – 5 pm local time or later – whether they go physically (preferred) or by contacting the postmaster. If there are even 10 pieces of mail there I want them picked up and included in the week's count. This is something we pledged to do and we must follow through.

Thank you for seeing to it,

Thanks Gwen, and to that we can add 700 that were in the VSC data entry queue. That gives us about 84,400. Today vsc said their count was 2300. CSC is usually a little less so they may be somewhere between 1700-2000. That gets us up to 88,000-89,000.

It turns out CSC did not finish their count yesterday. It appeared to me they did, but they will likely end with about 6,000 when they finish. This would make 15,500 for Monday vs. the original 13,000 estimate.

So it looks a little better but still unlikely we will reach our original guestimate of 30,000 for the week.

I used some incomplete data from CSC earlier today and they only completed their count within the hour. The final split was close to 50-50 between them. CSC actually got more Premiums.
These numbers come much closer to what we anticipated for day one. The 30,000 estimate for the week now looks very good.

We are making great progress. As you can see there has been some movement of CAP GAP filings out of our BCU and CFDO units. As these are released to adjudications we are working them as a priority.

I have done a test run based on FY12 H1B Cap data up to current date. Please see the test output and the real numbers in the Number Details section below. Please let me know of any corrections to be made in the reasoning process. The Chile/Singapore numbers are listed for your reference only.

FY 2011 H-1B Cap Count

| Cap Type | Cap Amount | Cap-Eligible Petitions | Date of Last Count |
|---|---|---|---|
| H-1B Regular Cap | 65,000 | 68,124 | 3/17/2012 |
| H-1B Master's Exemption | 20,000 | 20,000 | 3/17/2012 |

Number Details

| Cap Type | Approved | Pending |
|---|---|---|
| H1B Master's | 21,389 | 541 |
| H1B Regular | 59,107 | 7,087 |
| Reserved (Chile/Singapore) (USCIS) | 5 | 1 |
| Reserved (Chile/Singapore) (DOS) | 164 | N/A |

Since approved Master's number is over the limit of 20,000, the over-limit 1,389 is counted against Regular Cap.
Since approved Master's number is over the limit of 20,000, the pending number of 541 is counted against Regular Cap.
Regular approved = 59107 + 1389 = 60496
Regular pending = 7087 + 541 = 7628
Regular Cap-Eligible Petitions count = 60496 + 7628 = 68124

Thank you!

Denis,

-FedEx gave an update that "a lot" of today's CAP addressed pieces are large boxes. They are sending the big FedEx truck to deliver them because of the size of the boxes. So, even though the piece count is low we may end up having a large amount of petitions

-The FedEx truck should arrive at around 11:30 today.

-FCI is hoping to have a total piece count of yesterday's mail between noon and 2:30 today.

Preliminary numbers from earlier this morning (0745):

| Count / Estimate of Packages left to process | 2636 | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | | IDENTIFIED AS CAP | | |
| I-129 (H1B CAP) - VRN | 3272 | | | | |

| I-129 (PP H1B CAP) - VRP | 1366 | | | | |
| I-129 (PP Master H1B CAP) - VMP | 1014 | | | | |

Here are the pending numbers for 4/2 Mail.

9280 total based on "sum" of above

9500 estimated when we finish identifying the packages.

Don, Barbara

The final count is in for Monday's news release. FCi picked up everything the post office had on hand at the end of Friday at both centers and these were opened, counted and included below. Our original estimate of 30,000 turned out to be pretty accurate. The main surprise this year was how close the volume was between the two.

Unless we tell them otherwise the contractor will begin data entry Monday morning, using April 9 as the received date for all this week's filings until finished.
Their first goal is to have all the premiums completed no later than cob Wednesday. These files are mostly set up and ready to go.

If there's any reason for them to hold off starting let me know.

|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| VSC | 9,513 | 1,244 | 707 | 874 | 1,030 | 13,368 | 52.15% |

It turns out CSC did not finish their count yesterday. It appeared to me they did, but they will likely end with about 6,000 when they finish. This would make 15,500 for Monday vs. the original 13,000 estimate.

So it looks a little better but still unlikely we will reach our original guestimate of 30,000 for the week.

I just spoke with Tanya, and the VSC is processing EOS cases filed on 11/13/12. They have 123 petitions pending over 180 days, but 70 of those are with the CFDO. The remaining 53 are with officers or the contractors and they have been told to make those cases a priority.

I also asked her to include an accounting of the initial receipts that are sitting with the CFDO so that we can have a more accurate understanding of how many cases are in the regular pipeline. She will start doing this in future reports (located under a different tab) in the excel attachment.

I used some incomplete data from CSC earlier today and they only completed their count within the hour. The final split was close to 50-50 between them. CSC actually got more Premiums.
These numbers come much closer to what we anticipated for day one. The 30,000 estimate for the week now looks very good.

Subject: H-1B EOS Processing Summary 3-13-12

Corinna,

Here is an updated summary of H-1B EOS processing at the centers:

VSC

- VSC is working EOS cases received on 11/14.
- One month ago, they were working 10/11.
- Currently:
  - 7,838 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (6,294 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 13,722 total pending EOS cases (11,609 untouched including those cases with an officer)
- One month ago:
  - 7,555 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (5,974 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 12,745 total pending EOS cases (10,637 untouched including those cases with an officer)

CSC

- CSC is working EOS cases received on 1/12.
- One month ago, they were working 11/23.
- Currently:
  - 2,737 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (390 untouched, 1,277 with an officer)
  - 8,654 total pending EOS cases (6,095 untouched, 1,285 with an officer)
- One month ago:
  - 4,226 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (2,089 untouched, 1,147 with an officer)
  - 9,381 total pending EOS cases (7,067 untouched, 1,155 with an officer)

ANALYSIS

- The VSC's backlog number increased slightly since last month. Processing times seemed to have increased, as well. This is due to the fact that VSC is focusing on touching all FY12 cap cases by the end of March.
- The CSC's number of EOS petitions over 2 months old has decreased by about 1.5K. They are now almost at a 2-month processing time.

Thanks!

This makes sense, but the issue is a loss of ≈10% in processing time. They are spending more time RFE'ing than normal. Also, by not working the cases with returned RFE's the cycle time will increase, looks like CSC issued 8,736 in Sept but also received 8,900 returns that are not being worked if they are only working untouched cases.

Let me know if I need to better explain, it is rather confusing.

Thanks,
Jim

Does this make sense? The CSC RFE rate went up because they were only working untouched cases in the month of September which lead to the appearance of a higher RFE rate. Is there any way to validate this? Would it be appropriate to ask them for the RFE rates for each category of H-1B cases (cap initials, cap exempt initials, EOS) with a comparison to last year to help show that there really hasn't been a change? I'm just thinking if we'll be chewed up by the Front Office if we go in with this explanation and no data to back it up.

Barbara,

Quite right, the time lag doesn't allow for a fully accurate CISCOR query on the next day. The contractor actually did quite a bit better. These were all Premium cases.
I can provide the updated numbers each day until they are fully current again.

Subject: H-1B EOS Processing Summary 4/20/12

Shelly—

Here is an updated summary of H-1B EOS processing at the centers:

VSC

- VSC is working EOS cases received on 2/26/12.
- One month ago, they were working 11/14.
- Currently:
  - 1,186 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (1,186 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 8,340 total pending EOS cases (5,570 untouched including those cases with an officer)
- One month ago:
  - 7,838 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (6,294 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 13,722 total pending EOS cases (11,609 untouched including those cases with an officer)

CSC

- CSC is working EOS cases received on 3/12/12.
- One month ago, they were working 1/12.
- Currently:
  - 1,609 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (101 untouched, 357 with an officer)
  - 7,351 total pending EOS cases (4,536 untouched, 1,304 with an officer)
- One month ago:
  - 2,737 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (390 untouched, 1,277 with an officer)
  - 8,654 total pending EOS cases (6,095 untouched, 1,285 with an officer)

ANALYSIS

- The VSC's backlog of cases over 2 months old decreased by 6,652 cases, a significant drop from last month. This is due to the fact that VSC focused on EOS cases before the H-1B cap reopened and provided H-1B training in which EOS cases were handed out.
- The CSC's number of EOS petitions over 2 months old decreased by 1,128. Both centers are in good shape going into cap season.

Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns.

Thank you,

Tom,

Now that FY13 has opened, I'd like the centers to start providing the below report for FY13 cap cases (I understand that there won't be anything in the 60-day column for a while yet ☺).

For FY12 cap cases that are still pending, I no longer require a report since those cases were touched prior to the FY13 cases hitting the floor. However, I would ask that you let us know if you encounter any issues with finalizing the outstanding FY12 cap cases. We may also reach out at some point in the near future to check on the status.

Thanks!

Corinna,

Here is an updated summary of FY13 H-1B cap processing at the centers:

CAP PROCESSING--

VSC

- Currently:
  - There are 9,547 pending FY13 cap cases over the 2-month processing goal (8,788 untouched including those cases with an officer).
  - 40,291 total pending cap cases (38,361 untouched including those cases with an officer) as of 6/15/12.

- One Week Ago:
  - There were 8 pending FY13 cap cases over the 2-month processing goal.
  - 35,922 total pending cap cases (34,215 untouched including those cases with an officer) as of 6/8/12.

CSC

- Currently:
  - There are 10,915 pending FY13 cap cases over the 2-month processing goal (7,102 untouched, 1,594 with an officer). They are distributing cap exempt petitions with a receipt date of 3/30/12.
  - 33,683 total pending cap cases (28,276 untouched, 2,400 with an officer) as of 6/15/12.
- One Week Ago:
  - There were no pending FY13 cap cases over the 2-month processing goal. They were distributing cap exempt petitions with a receipt date of 3/28/12.
  - 27,843 total pending cap cases (24,226 untouched, 1,735 with an officer) as of 6/8/12.

ANALYSIS--

- While both centers have cases that are outside of the 2-month processing goal, it should be noted that the actual receipt date being distributed on the floor to officers is not that far outside of 2-months (e.g., CSC is distributing master's cap cases with a receipt date of 4/12 and regular cap cases with a receipt date of 4/19).
- CSC is aware that their cap exempt processing times have fallen behind. CSC has advised that they fell behind on working cap exempt cases when they put everyone on premium cap filings and that they have not fully recovered yet, but that they expect to be within the 2-month processing goal for cap exempt cases shortly.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks!

Shelly

Shannon,

Here is an updated summary of FY13 H-1B cap processing at the centers. I cannot seem to locate my last cap report from the centers (I think I forgot to complete it, so I used the June update to fill in the below.

CAP PROCESSING--

VSC

- Currently:
  - There are 22,738 pending FY13 cap cases over the 2-month processing goal (20,562 untouched including those cases with an officer).
  - 30,954 total pending cap cases (28,036 untouched including those cases with an officer) as of 8/3/12.

- A month and a half ago:
  - There are 9,547 pending FY13 cap cases over the 2-month processing goal (8,788 untouched including those cases with an officer).
  - 40,291 total pending cap cases (38,361 untouched including those cases with an officer) as of 6/15/12.

CSC

- Currently:
  - There are 18,715 pending initial cases over the 2-month processing goal (13,764 untouched, 2,265 with an officer). They are distributing cap exempt petitions with a receipt date of 6/7/12.
  - 28,771 total pending cap cases (23,264 untouched, 2,328 with an officer) as of 7/27/12.
- A month and a half ago:
  - There are 10,915 pending initial cases over the 2-month processing goal (7,102 untouched, 1,594 with an officer). They are distributing cap exempt petitions with a receipt date of 3/30/12.
  - 33,683 total pending cap cases (28,276 untouched, 2,400 with an officer) as of 6/15/12.

ANALYSIS--

- Both the VSC and CSC are outside of the two-month processing goal for cap petitions, which is not entirely surprising considering the heavy volume of cap filings received at the end of the filing period. The goal for the centers is to touch all cap cases by October 1. The CSC is still aiming for this goal and I have sent a message to the VSC to confirm whether they still feel that they are on track. In the interim, I do know that both centers are prioritizing cap gap cases.
- CSC's cap exempt initial filings are within the two-month processing goal.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks!

Shannon,

Here is an updated summary of FY13 H-1B cap processing at the centers.

CAP PROCESSING--

VSC

- Currently:
  - There are 21,718 pending FY13 cap cases over the 2-month processing goal (17,059 untouched including those cases with an officer).
  - 21,723 total pending cap cases (17,059 untouched including those cases with an officer) as of 8/31/12.

- At the beginning of August:
  - There are 22,738 pending FY13 cap cases over the 2-month processing goal (20,562 untouched including those cases with an officer).
  - 30,954 total pending cap cases (28,036 untouched including those cases with an officer) as of 8/3/12.

CSC

- Currently:
  - There are 22,679 pending initial cases over the 2-month processing goal (15,764 untouched, 3,903 with an officer). They are distributing cap exempt petitions with a receipt date of 6/19/12.
  - 23,059 total pending initial filings cases (16,111 untouched, 3,906 with an officer) as of 8/24/12.
- At the end of July:
  - There are 18,715 pending initial cases over the 2-month processing goal (13,764 untouched, 2,265 with an officer). They are distributing cap exempt petitions with a receipt date of 6/7/12.
  - 28,771 total pending cap cases (23,264 untouched, 2,328 with an officer) as of 7/27/12.

ANALYSIS--

- At this point, all pending cap filings are outside of the 2-month processing goal since the cap closed in mid-June. Cap exempt filings are about a week and a half outside of the 2-month processing goal.
- Both centers have been prioritizing initial H-1B petitions and utilizing OT. The CSC ran out of OT mid-month and only recently received additional OT funds. As such, they do not appear to have made as much progress as the VSC has in eliminating their backlog.
- The CSC noted in their processing report that they have added 12 more officers to regular production, which will help in the month of October; however, they also note that the decreased amount of OT funds could have a negative impact.
- CSC stated that they are now working cases by petitioner as an effort to streamline adjudication practice. Is SCOPS management ok with this practice? I know that there were concerns with a somewhat similar practice earlier this month by the VSC.

Shelly:

Here is an updated breakdown of what we have pending. We pulled more cases off the JIT this morning.

- Approximately 4,402 Untouched cases on the JIT
- Approximately 2,300 untouched cases on the floor

We may hit the October 1st date, but more likely than not, we will be through the first touch somewhere closer to the 5th.

Shelly—

Here is an updated summary of H-1B EOS processing at the centers:

VSC

- VSC is working EOS cases received on 2/26/12.
- One month ago, they were working 11/14.
- Currently:
  - 1,186 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (1,186 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 8,340 total pending EOS cases (5,570 untouched including those cases with an officer)
- One month ago:
  - 7,838 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (6,294 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 13,722 total pending EOS cases (11,609 untouched including those cases with an officer)

CSC

- CSC is working EOS cases received on 3/12/12.
- One month ago, they were working 1/12.
- Currently:
  - 1,609 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (101 untouched, 357 with an officer)
  - 7,351 total pending EOS cases (4,536 untouched, 1,304 with an officer)
- One month ago:
  - 2,737 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (390 untouched, 1,277 with an officer)
  - 8,654 total pending EOS cases (6,095 untouched, 1,285 with an officer)

ANALYSIS

- The VSC's backlog of cases over 2 months old decreased by 6,652 cases, a significant drop from last month. This is due to the fact that VSC focused on EOS cases before the H-1B cap reopened and provided H-1B training in which EOS cases were handed out.
- The CSC's number of EOS petitions over 2 months old decreased by 1,128. Both centers are in good shape going into cap season.

Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns.

Thank you,

Shannon and Tina,

Here is an updated summary of H-1B EOS processing at the centers:

VSC

- VSC is working EOS cases received on 4/30/12.
- One month ago, they were working 4/15.
- Currently:
  - 4,511 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (3,101 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 14,847 total pending EOS cases (12,839 untouched including those cases with an officer)
- One month ago:
  - 2,616 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (748 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 10,558 total pending EOS cases (8,114 untouched including those cases with an officer)

CSC

- CSC is working EOS cases received on 5/3/12.
- One month ago, they were working 4/18.
- Currently:
  - 4,662 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (2,307 untouched, 1,198 with an officer)
  - 17,181 total pending EOS cases (13,424 untouched, 1,642 with an officer)
- One month ago:
  - 1,813 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (306 untouched, 678 with an officer)
  - 11,491 total pending EOS cases (9,790 untouched, 853 with an officer)

ANALYSIS

- Both the VSC's and CSC's EOS pending over 2 months has increased since last month. This was expected as the VSC and CSC have been focusing their resources on completing the cap cases prior to 10/1 and adjudicating their premium workload.

Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns.

Thanks!

Shannon and Tina,

Here is an updated summary of H-1B EOS processing at the centers:

VSC

- VSC is working EOS cases received on 4/30/12.
- One month ago, they were working 4/30.
- Currently:
  - 7,374 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (6,286 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 18,726 total pending EOS cases (17,037 untouched including those cases with an officer)
- One month ago:
  - 4,511 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (3,101 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 14,847 total pending EOS cases (12,839 untouched including those cases with an officer)

CSC

- CSC is working EOS cases received on 5/14/12.
- One month ago, they were working 5/3.
- Currently:
  - 7,346 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (5,535 untouched, 613 with an officer)
  - 19,077 total pending EOS cases (16,155 untouched, 720 with an officer)
- One month ago:
  - 4,662 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (2,307 untouched, 1,198 with an officer)
  - 17,181 total pending EOS cases (13,424 untouched, 1,642 with an officer)

- Both the VSC's and CSC's EOS pending over 2 months has increased for two months in a row. In fact, the pending over 2 months at each center has come close to doubling each month. While an increase was expected as the VSC and CSC have been focusing their resources on completing the cap cases prior to 10/1 and adjudicating their premium workload, the numbers are quite high and will most likely lead to an increase in inquiries and premium upgrade requests.

Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns.

Shannon,

Here is an updated summary of H-1B EOS processing at the centers:

VSC

- VSC is working EOS cases received on 5/1/12.
- One month ago, they were working 4/30.
- Currently:
  - 9,973 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (9,034 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 21,029 total pending EOS cases (19,436 untouched including those cases with an officer)
- One month ago:
  - 7,374 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (6,286 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 18,726 total pending EOS cases (17,037 untouched including those cases with an officer)

CSC

- CSC is working EOS cases received on 5/18/12.
- One month ago, they were working 5/14.
- Currently:
  - 10,185 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (8,816 untouched, 830 with an officer)
  - 19,467 total pending EOS cases (17,819 untouched, 853 with an officer)
- One month ago:
  - 7,346 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (5,535 untouched, 613 with an officer)
  - 19,077 total pending EOS cases (16,155 untouched, 720 with an officer)

- Both the VSC's and CSC's EOS pending over two months has increased for three months in a row. Although the processing date has not moved far in the last three months (as nearly all resources are focused on cap cases), the overall pending EOS has not increased as much in the last month as it did in each of the two previous months. The pending over two months at each center came close to doubling each month between June and August. It appears that perhaps EOS filing rates may have decreased slightly between August and September (or everyone is filing premium ☺).
- While an increase was expected as the VSC and CSC have been focusing their resources on completing the cap cases prior to 10/1 and adjudicating their premium workload, the numbers are quite high and will most likely lead to an increase in inquiries and premium upgrade requests.

Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns.

Shelly:

We are currently over the 60 day processing time for regular and master cap cases and have shifted our priority to getting a "first touch" on all I-129 H-1B FY13 cap cases. Cap gap cases have been prioritized and worked, and we are now working cases by petitioner to streamline the process. We have added 12 officers to regular time production and are working cases on OT again after a brief pause, but funds for OT have decreased.

Cap exempt cases are being distributed at 6/19.

IMO they should begin rack & stack on Monday. Waiting on Gwen's query results before processing each day. We were still 20,000+ under target as of today. Although today's query numbers seemed to be about the same as yesterday's.

We are shooting for a higher target. Gwen's target for the regular CAP is 76,000 receipted petitions to provide for the denials and withdrawals, but we just spoke in the last half hour and she thinks it should perhaps be slightly lower than 76,000. She'll be in tomorrow. Shelly can we go over the target again in the morning so we are all in agreement?

Shelly

Based on Gwen's count this morning that we were still 15,000 under our target, and even counting that there were about 900 CAPS in the data entry queue last night, we would need to receive more than 14,000 filings today and Friday to exceed our target. Neither center COTR has reported any abnormal surge today. The CSC acting COTR did not think there was a need for Friday. I'll wait to hear from VSC but I do not think tomorrow will be necessary to rack and stack.

There is a certain loss of productivity involved when we go to rack and stack and we are already in a frontlog situation. I don't want to do it if there really doesn't appear to be a danger.

Thanks Gwen, and to that we can add 700 that were in the VSC data entry queue. That gives us about 84,400. Today vsc said their count was 2300. CSC is usually a little less so they may be somewhere between 1700-2000. That gets us up to 88,000-89,000.

Thanks Jessy

We calculate we were about 14,000 CAP filings under out target as of this morning. We've been averaging about 3200 a day the first three days this week. Unless something abnormal came in today I don't think we need to rack and stack on Friday. But if either center thinks there is any danger, instruct the contractor not to begin data entry on Fridays CAP filings until they can do a rough count of the mail. They can work on non Cap filings and stay fully busy if you want to delay until mid-day, to be safe.

Hello Mack –

The number of Cap Eligible Petitions noted below (rounded) are accurate as of the reporting date 5-May 2012.

As we discussed – I spoke with FCi today and they provided the following as to why pending figures did not change from Fri, 4-May to Sat, 5-May:
Only CAP temp employees reported for work on Sat, 5-May and those individuals have not been trained in keying – at all. Therefore, they spent their time setting up for today's data entry.

Tomorrow's DAAG will show how beneficial that endeavor was.

Regards,

Bruce

Let me know if you agree.

Very close! If I am correctly understanding the tables that Denis provided and if Data Entry and Adjudications stopped for a moment while Gwen ran her report, then the report is 84 over the contractor's count on Master's Cap (this could be because adjudicators identified master's cap cases and changed CLAIMS after the cases were data-entered) and the report is 733 under the contractor's count on Regular Cap (possibly because not all data entered cases, particularly at CSC, have had time to upload).

I think the PDA count picked up cases that we may not have counted in the manual count last Thursday, such as, cases that were "touched" by officers and only needed supervisory review.

The date that the RFE response was received.

I'm a little confused if the report does not include cap exempt. The cap closed over 2 months ago so all cap cases should be over 2 months old at this point. The report you sent on Thursday shows that there were a little under 7K untouched filings filed over 2 months ago. The reports are now showing 8-9K untouched cases. Am I missing something?

I am having PDA run a report on the RFEs. They may not have it until later this afternoon.

Also, for the RFEs, are you wondering the filings dates, or the dates the RFEs were sent out, or the dates responses were received?

Do you want to include cases located in:

- Clerical Staging (cases that have been reviewed and completed by officer and sup, but are awaiting clerical updating)
- CFDO (Fraud)
- BCU
- Supervisory Review

By the way we are having training today (4-6 hours). It had been planned several months ago. So we lose most of a day today.

Also, two sups called in sick and that delays supervisory reviews.

Hi Joe and Don,

After reviewing your center's H-1B Cap Plan, we have a bit of a twist … Has CSC considered whether you would be able to get current if we were to stop PP for whatever period of time they would need to get current? Do you think that might help your center catch up more quickly than the current process?

Shelly:

Here is CSC's basic plan for the H-1B cap cases:

- Goal is to do an initial review by October 1st.
- "First touch" will most likely be completed sometime between the 5th and 10th of October. This includes the supervisory review and clerical updating.
- CSC will add 12 officers from Divisions 2,4,5,6, and 12 to assist on regular time and overtime. These are experienced officers who received a refresher and 100% supervisory/senior review until quality is assured.
- CSC overtime funds will primarily be used for H-1Bs, including clerical updating.
- Officers in Division 9 who work H-1B extensions will work H-1 B initials on OT. These are former Division 1 officers who recently moved to Division 9 and are current and trained on H-1Bs initials.
- Division 1 management will coordinate all adjudicative and H-1B work flow information to ensure all officers from the various divisions working on H-1Bs are notified, including training, roundtables, OT information, adjudicative, HQ, or fraud alerts, VIBE, etc.
- RFEs will be distributed to the officers in date order once the initials are completed.
- Daily updates will be provided to SCOPS beginning next week.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

Joe

Shelly—

Here is an updated summary of FY13 H-1B cap processing at the centers:

CAP PROCESSING--

VSC

- Currently:
  - There are no pending FY13 cap cases over 2 month processing goal.
  - 26,072 total pending cap cases (24,803 untouched including those cases with an officer) as of 5/25/12.

- Two Weeks Ago:
  - There were no pending FY13 cap cases over 2 month processing goal.
  - 21,578 total pending cap cases (20,651 untouched including those cases with an officer) as of 5/11/12.

CSC

- Currently:
  - There are no pending FY13 cap cases over 2 month processing goal. They are distributing cap exempt petitions with a receipt date of 3/19, which is 6 days over the 2 month processing goal.
  - 21,528 total pending cap cases (17,856 untouched, 1,751 with an officer) as of 5/25/12.
- Two Weeks Ago:
  - There were no pending FY13 cap cases over 2 month processing goal. Cap exempt petitions were just over the 2 month processing goal.
  - 18,195 total pending cap cases (15,363 untouched, 1,073 with an officer) as of 5/11/12.

ANALYSIS--

- Both centers are within the 60 day processing time for touching all FY13 cap cases and CSC is now 6 days over the 60-day processing time for touching all cap exempt cases. The processing time for cap exempt cases could increase as we get closer to reaching the FY13 cap and will require closer monitoring.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thank you,

Here is an updated summary of FY13 H-1B cap processing at the centers:

CAP PROCESSING--

VSC

- Currently:
  - There are only 8 pending FY13 cap cases over the 2 month processing goal.
  - 35,922 total pending cap cases (34,215 untouched including those cases with an officer) as of 6/8/12.

- Two Weeks Ago:
  - There were no pending FY13 cap cases over 2 month processing goal.
  - 26,072 total pending cap cases (24,803 untouched including those cases with an officer) as of 5/25/12.

CSC

- Currently:
  - There are no pending FY13 cap cases over the 2 month processing goal. They are distributing cap exempt petitions with a receipt date of 3/28/12.
  - 27,843 total pending cap cases (24,226 untouched, 1,735 with an officer) as of 6/8/12.

  - 21,528 total pending cap cases (17,856 untouched, 1,751 with an officer) as of 5/25/12.

ANALYSIS--

- Both centers are within the 60 day processing time for touching all FY13 cap cases, except for 8 cases that VSC has identified with the contractor and is pursuing.
- CSC is now 11 days over the 60-day processing time for touching all cap exempt cases. CSC has advised that they fell behind on working cap exempt cases when they put everyone on PP CAP and that they have not fully recovered yet, but that they expect to be within 60 days on cap exempt cases in a week or so.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Corinna,

Here is an updated summary of FY13 H-1B cap processing at the centers:

CAP PROCESSING--

VSC

- Currently:
  - There are 9,547 pending FY13 cap cases over the 2-month processing goal (8,788 untouched including those cases with an officer).
  - 40,291 total pending cap cases (38,361 untouched including those cases with an officer) as of 6/15/12.

- One Week Ago:
  - There were 8 pending FY13 cap cases over the 2-month processing goal.
  - 35,922 total pending cap cases (34,215 untouched including those cases with an officer) as of 6/8/12.

CSC

- Currently:
  - There are 10,915 pending FY13 cap cases over the 2-month processing goal (7,102 untouched, 1,594 with an officer). They are distributing cap exempt petitions with a receipt date of 3/30/12.
  - 33,683 total pending cap cases (28,276 untouched, 2,400 with an officer) as of 6/15/12.
- One Week Ago:
  - There were no pending FY13 cap cases over the 2-month processing goal. They were distributing cap exempt petitions with a receipt date of 3/28/12.
  - 27,843 total pending cap cases (24,226 untouched, 1,735 with an officer) as of 6/8/12.

ANALYSIS--

- While both centers have cases that are outside of the 2-month processing goal, it should be noted that the actual receipt date being distributed on the floor to officers is not that far outside of 2-months (e.g., CSC is distributing master's cap cases with a receipt date of 4/12 and regular cap cases with a receipt date of 4/19).

- CSC is aware that their cap exempt processing times have fallen behind. CSC has advised that they fell behind on working cap exempt cases when they put everyone on premium cap filings and that they have not fully recovered yet, but that they expect to be within the 2-month processing goal for cap exempt cases shortly.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks!

Shannon,

Here is an updated summary of FY13 H-1B cap processing at the centers.

CAP PROCESSING--

VSC

- Currently:
  - There are 21,718 pending FY13 cap cases over the 2-month processing goal (17,059 untouched including those cases with an officer).
  - 21,723 total pending cap cases (17,059 untouched including those cases with an officer) as of 8/31/12.

- At the beginning of August:
  - There are 22,738 pending FY13 cap cases over the 2-month processing goal (20,562 untouched including those cases with an officer).
  - 30,954 total pending cap cases (28,036 untouched including those cases with an officer) as of 8/3/12.

CSC

- Currently:
  - There are 22,679 pending initial cases over the 2-month processing goal (15,764 untouched, 3,903 with an officer). They are distributing cap exempt petitions with a receipt date of 6/19/12.
  - 23,059 total pending initial filings cases (16,111 untouched, 3,906 with an officer) as of 8/24/12.
- At the end of July:
  - There are 18,715 pending initial cases over the 2-month processing goal (13,764 untouched, 2,265 with an officer). They are distributing cap exempt petitions with a receipt date of 6/7/12.
  - 28,771 total pending cap cases (23,264 untouched, 2,328 with an officer) as of 7/27/12.

ANALYSIS--

- At this point, all pending cap filings are outside of the 2-month processing goal since the cap closed in mid-June. Cap exempt filings are about a week and a half outside of the 2-month processing goal.
- Both centers have been prioritizing initial H-1B petitions and utilizing OT. The CSC ran out of OT mid-month and only recently received additional OT funds. As such, they do not appear to have made as much progress as the VSC has in eliminating their backlog.
- The CSC noted in their processing report that they have added 12 more officers to regular production, which will help in the month of October; however, they also note that the decreased amount of OT funds could have a negative impact.
- CSC stated that they are now working cases by petitioner as an effort to streamline adjudication practice. Is SCOPS management ok with this practice? I know that there were concerns with a somewhat similar practice earlier this month by the VSC.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks!

Subject: RE: H-1B EOS Processing Summary 5/17/12

Shelly—

Here is an updated summary of H-1B EOS processing at the centers:

VSC

- VSC is working EOS cases received on 4/1/12.
- One month ago, they were working 2/26.
- Currently:
  - 2,729 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (543 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 5,898 total pending EOS cases (3,049 untouched including those cases with an officer)
- One month ago:
  - 1,186 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (1,186 untouched including those cases with an officer)
  - 8,340 total pending EOS cases (5,570 untouched including those cases with an officer)

CSC

- CSC is working EOS cases received on 4/2/12.
- One month ago, they were working 3/12.
- Currently:
  - 1,524 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (174 untouched, 439 with an officer)
  - 8,085 total pending EOS cases (6,271 untouched, 769 with an officer)
- One month ago:
  - 1,609 pending EOS cases over 2 month processing goal (101 untouched, 357 with an officer)
  - 7,351 total pending EOS cases (4,536 untouched, 1,304 with an officer)

ANALYSIS

- The VSC's backlog of cases over 2 months old increased by 1,543 cases. This is likely due to the fact that the FY13 cap opened, which required most of VSC's H-1B resources.
- The CSC's number of EOS petitions over 2 months old decreased by 75. Both centers are currently in good shape.

Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns.

  - 8,085 total pending EOS cases (6,271 untouched, 769 with an officer)

ANALYSIS

- The VSC's backlog of EOS cases over 2 months old decreased by 113 cases since last month.
- The CSC's number of EOS petitions over 2 months old increased by 289. Both centers are currently in good shape; however, the number of EOS cases over the 2 month processing goal may increase as the centers work through the heavy load of cap cases that were recently filed.

Joe,

SCOPS Management had some concerns with prioritizing high volume filers out of filing order. It gives the appearance of preferential treatment to large companies over small entities. Barbara spoke with Dan about these concerns.

Is the CSC banding together filings for a petitioner for a particular number of days (say 3 days-worth of filings) or is the CSC moving all of the high filers to the front of the line, regardless of the date the petition was filed?

Thanks!

Shelly

Shelly:

We are currently over the 60 day processing time for regular and master cap cases and have shifted our priority to getting a "first touch" on all I-129 H-1B FY13 cap cases. Cap gap cases have been prioritized and worked, and we are now working cases by petitioner to streamline the process. We have added 12 officers to regular time production and are working cases on OT again after a brief pause, but funds for OT have decreased.

Cap exempt cases are being distributed at 6/19.

Do we know why the CSC is falling behind in cap exempt? Is it because of the number of premium in cap and EOS filings is so high that they can't make significant headway in cap exempt? Are there any other factors/challenges in the cap exempt arena?

Mack,

Do we know why the CSC is falling behind in cap exempt? Is it because of the number of premium in cap and EOS filings is so high that they can't make significant headway in cap exempt? Are there any other factors/challenges in the cap exempt arena?

Thanks!

Shelly

I hope you are enjoying the warm weather today!

We've been getting ready for H-1B cap season here at SCOPS and wanted to touch base with you to see what kind of volume you have been seeing with regards to LCA filing recently. How does it compare to last year at this time?

Thanks!

Can you contact me to discuss these? We need to know if the cases were punted incorrectly as cap by the contractor or if the petitioner is marking the box wrong on these.

Can you pull some of these files so we can review and determine what is occurring?

Thanks,

Ok. Let me know what you find out. If it turns out that they were cap exempt but failed to notate the correct questions on the form, we need to discuss how the contractor/officer can properly update the case in CLAIMS to account for the cap exemption. Otherwise, these cases will throw off our cap count. If they were cap subject, we need to discuss with the contractor and officers how to ensure these aren't accepted and approved outside of the cap filing season.

Barbara and Natalie,

Based on the data that I have received, I have created a chart to compare where each center is on a day to day basis.

| | 9/20/2012 | 9/20/2012 | 9/24/2012 | 9/24/2012 | 9/25/2012 | 9/25/2012 | 9/26/2012 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Untouched | Total Pending | Untouched | Total Pending | Untouched | Total Pending | Untouched |
| CSC | 9235 | 17239 | 9170 | 17279 | 8737 | 17113 | 8059 |
| VSC | 10416 | 16138 | 9124 | 14881 | 8623 | 14349 | 8116 |

I asked the CSC to yesterday to clarify the discrepancy between their 7K from last week and the 17K this week. The original 7K from last week was a manual count estimate of the population of their untouched cap cases. They did not include the 10K that have been touched but are still pending final action in his first email. In addition, the manual estimate was off by about 2K. They had provided us with a manual estimate as they were having trouble reconciling the data they were pulling from their systems last week.

With that said, I believe the CSC might be in more of a pickle than I originally thought when looking at the big picture. Although over half of the CSC untouched is on the floor and ¾ of the VSC's untouched appears to still be with the contractor on the shelf, the total number of pending for the CSC is nearly 3K higher than the VSC.

I have also reviewed each center's plans. The CSC is adding 12 officers from other divisions to work H-1Bs on regular and OT and the will have officers in Division 9 (Kurt's division) that are currently working EOS H-1Bs work initial H-1B petitions on OT. That said, I have some concerns with one of the bullets mentioned by the CSC in their plan: "RFEs will be distributed to the officers in date order once the initials are completed." While there is only a week left under their plan before they would go back to working cases with RFE/ITD responses, I would like to know how old their RFE responses are. To that end, I asked Joe yesterday how old their RFE responses are. I am waiting on a response.

Meanwhile, the VSC's plan banks on OT in FY13 and no change in current staffing levels. The plan does not mention adding additional ISOs on the workload. (Side note: they specifically list an assumption that they don't lose any officers to "details" or other workloads "DACA.") Their plan accounts for making a final decision within 30 days of receiving an RFE response for cap gap cases and within 60 days of receiving an RFE response on all other cases. At this juncture, I don't know that I see a benefit to treating the RFE responses on cap gap cases any differently than those for any other case, but wanted to check in with you to see if you disagree.

Would you like to meet to discuss further today or tomorrow?

Thanks!

Shelly

It was different last year as we were doing biweekly updates because filings were so low for many months. We pumped it up to weekly as we got closer and volume picked up, but I don't see where we did updates more frequently than that. I think we were planning to do a mid week update but then got surprised by hitting the cap, so the update was moot.

Monday incoming volume was heavy – 2200 I-129s is a lot – 766 I-751s is a lot – they are performing well considering but it is going to be a challenging June if the employers start a surge to get their H1Bs in for fear of being "capped out". We reached 58,000 CAPs through last Friday. Be assured it is on my radar scope every day and it will stay there until we're entirely caught up.

As a comparison in April 2011 VSC received 20,800 I-129s of all types and this year, 35,000. May 2011 129 volume was 17,000. This year we had 17,500 by last Friday.

We understand the concern and we are implementing the following steps to help increase our daily production capacity:

- One of the two 751 teams is currently being trained to handle the I-129 non-CAP backlog. They will be deployed in that area when their training is completed later this week.
- One of the CAP temporary employees that we did not originally bring on board has already started and we are in the process of bringing on all of the remaining available temps.
- Several QC clerks will begin work augmenting production starting tomorrow, 05-23-12.
- Management and Supervisors worked production on Saturday, 05-20-12, and will be working again on Saturday 06-02-12.

- We a confirming the counts and hours that the regular employees plan to work as plus time during the week of 05-28-12 and on Saturday, 06-02-12 due to the Memorial Day Holiday.

Once these additional efforts have been fully implemented, we believe that they will have a positive impact on the overall daily production.

Denis:
We understand the concern and we are implementing the following steps to help increase our daily production capacity:

- One of the two 751 teams is currently being trained to handle the I-129 non-CAP backlog. They will be deployed in that area when their training is completed later this week.
- One of the CAP temporary employees that we did not originally bring on board has already started and we are in the process of bringing on all of the remaining available temps.
- Several QC clerks will begin work augmenting production starting tomorrow, 05-23-12.
- Management and Supervisors worked production on Saturday, 05-20-12, and will be working again on Saturday 06-02-12.
- We a confirming the counts and hours that the regular employees plan to work as plus time during the week of 05-28-12 and on Saturday, 06-02-12 due to the Memorial Day Holiday.

Once these additional efforts have been fully implemented, we believe that they will have a positive impact on the overall daily production.

Let us know if you have any comments or suggestions.
Ann

Monday was pretty good production wise at VSC but with the volume continuing like this you can't ease up at all. If anything we need to keep thinking how you can expand capacity for a higher daily production rate.

Quite right, the time lag doesn't allow for a fully accurate CISCOR query on the next day. The contractor actually did quite a bit better. These were all Premium cases.

All,

The Contractor has about ¾ of the mail opened. It looks like the Cap, both Premium and Non-Premium is about twice what it was last year – about 4,000 Premium so far is the best estimate. We will have hard numbers for both Saturday and Monday at our 10:00a meeting tomorrow morning. I will publish as soon as received.

No food today. Jerry brought in the world's most unhealthy vegetable soup on Wednesday (it was so tasty!) and tex-mex turkey lettuce wraps yesterday, so I guess we have to starve today. ☹

They cap processing reports are due on a biweekly basis. Mark probably knows the schedule better than I do but I believe they are due around mid-month and the end of the month.

There is also a separate EOS report on a monthly basis (due around the 15th or so). Those should continue to be sent up as is.

Tom,

Now that FY13 has opened, I'd like the centers to start providing the below report for FY13 cap cases (I understand that there won't be anything in the 60-day column for a while yet ☺).

For FY12 cap cases that are still pending, I no longer require a report since those cases were touched prior to the FY13 cases hitting the floor. However, I would ask that you let us know if you encounter any issues with finalizing the outstanding FY12 cap cases. We may also reach out at some point in the near future to check on the status.

Thanks!

Barbara and Claudia,

Just a quick update on the VSC's L backlog reduction progress...Although the report we received today shows continued growth in the backlog up to this point, VSC will be pulling some resources from the H-1B to allocate to L due to lower than expected cap volume. In addition, they will be moving the L training for the new officers sooner. Therefore, we will hope to see some improvement within the next couple of months.

Thanks,
Emisa

Emisa,
I have received an update on the L resources issue at the VSC. According to the ACD, based on current H1B CAP receipt levels reviewed so far, as of today, none of the current L resources will be pulled for the H1B CAP. They anticipate a net gain of 2.5 FTEs onto L/O/P work this month. Additionally, it appears that they are looking at moving the next L training up from June to May. See the information below from the L SISO.

Received on April 5, 2012:
The cap numbers are lower than expected or feared, so we are actually pulling back people from Hs, so we are getting a little bit of a gain for the month of April. Rob (Perkins) has also spoken with Tom (Pearl) about moving the L training for 10 of his folks from June to May (space may be an issue depending on EODs and ELIS). But it is looking like we will be making some headway, enough that I feel confident that we will stop the slide and should see progress into the backlog by the end of the month.

All Division 5 officers that do Hs and Ls and/or O/Ps have been pulled off of Hs except for their t/i's and pipeline work. This was 3 O/P officers and 4 L officers. The net gain comes out to be about 2.5 FTEs recaptured from Hs to put toward L/O/P. Every gain on the O/P side trickles to the Ls through the officers that work both. I hope that helps.

These short range adjustments are in addition to the longer term plan that you already have. I will continue to monitor.

Emisa,

Here is some FYI information on the L situation at the VSC so that you have the historical data all in one place:

The L backlog over 30 days continues to creep up at the VSC. Below is the historical data that illustrates this trend. I continue to monitor the situation and be in contact with the ACD and SISO over the program. Their long range plans for reduction of this backlog have already been sent forward to you and shared with Barbara. Now that the 2013 H1B CAP initial filing period has begun and the VSC has gotten a sense of the receipt levels in the initial few days of filing (especially premium), I have asked for an update on the situation and their plan. I want to be sure they have accurate data on the H1B CAP levels, but preliminary indications are that the receipt level is lower than they expected. I should have an update for you early next week.

Here is the historical data on the "creep":

| Snapshot Date | I-129 L cases untouched over 30 days |

Shelly,
I take back my earlier rough estimate of the total filing count. I just completed another H-1B Cap report. The total receipts are not shown on the report. Up to last weekend (6/10), the total filing count is 90,900. If we add Monday's filing count of 3,510, the total filing count up to yesterday 6/11 is 94,410, which exceeds my target of 94,000. But I think it is ok to accept all from yesterday's filing and then stop right there. We don't even need lottery for today's.

This is just my comment. Please make a final judgment call.

Don, Barbara

The final count is in for Monday's news release. FCi picked up everything the post office had on hand at the end of Friday at both centers and these were opened, counted and included below. Our original estimate of 30,000 turned out to be pretty accurate. The main surprise this year was how close the volume was between the two.

Unless we tell them otherwise the contractor will begin data entry Monday morning, using April 9 as the received date for all this week's filings until finished.
Their first goal is to have all the premiums completed no later than cob Wednesday. These files are mostly set up and ready to go.

If there's any reason for them to hold off starting let me know.

| Center | Monday | Tuesday | Wednesday | Thursday | Friday | Cumulative | Percentages |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| VSC | 9,513 | 1,244 | 707 | 874 | 1,030 | 13,368 | 52.15% |

| MASTERS | | | | | | 8,185 | 31.93% |

Not included: 12 filings at CSC to be CRU reviewed Monday for eligibility.

CSC Premiums: 3,255
VSC Premiums: 3,231

You have not changed the target for CAPS, correct? We will accept 20,000 Masters, 76,000 for the regular cap (both master and 4 yr degrees) for 96,000 total right? We were at about 81,000 last night. I believe we will CAP on Tuesday or Wednesday.

We've had over 6200 filings the first two days this week. The true breakdown is more like 3600 Monday and 2600 Tuesday because VSC didn't barcode all of Monday's mail until Tuesday.

Both were back to fully current by cob Tuesday though – no unopened mail and none in the data entry queues.

Today will be a very good test. Wednesday is normally the smallest mail volume day.

USCIS will apply a computer-generated random selection process to all petitions that are subject to the cap and were received on Dec. XX, 2011. USCIS will use this process to select petitions needed to meet the cap. USCIS will reject all remaining cap-subject petitions not randomly selected and will return the accompanying fee.

Barbara and Natalie,

Based on the data that I have received, I have created a chart to compare where each center is on a day to day basis.

| | 9/20/2012 | 9/20/2012 | 9/24/2012 | 9/24/2012 | 9/25/2012 | 9/25/2012 | 9/26/2012 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Untouched | Total Pending | Untouched | Total Pending | Untouched | Total Pending | Untouched |
| CSC | 9235 | 17239 | 9170 | 17279 | 8737 | 17113 | 8059 |
| VSC | 10416 | 16138 | 9124 | 14881 | 8623 | 14349 | 8116 |

I asked the CSC to yesterday to clarify the discrepancy between their 7K from last week and the 17K this week. The original 7K from last week was a manual count estimate of the population of their untouched cap cases. They did not include the 10K that have been touched but are still pending final action in his first email. In addition, the manual estimate was off by about 2K. They had provided us with a manual estimate as they were having trouble reconciling the data they were pulling from their systems last week.

With that said, I believe the CSC might be in more of a pickle than I originally thought when looking at the big picture. Although over half of the CSC untouched is on the floor and ¾ of the VSC's untouched appears to still be with the contractor on the shelf, the total number of pending for the CSC is nearly 3K higher than the VSC.

I have also reviewed each center's plans. The CSC is adding 12 officers from other divisions to work H-1Bs on regular and OT and the will have officers in Division 9 (Kurt's division) that are currently working EOS H-1Bs work initial H-1B petitions on OT. That said, I have some concerns with one of the bullets mentioned by the CSC in their plan: "RFEs will be distributed to the officers in date order once the initials are completed." While there is only a week left under their plan before they would go back to working cases with RFE/ITD responses, I would like to know how old their RFE responses are. To that end, I asked Joe yesterday how old their RFE responses are. I am waiting on a response.

Meanwhile, the VSC's plan banks on OT in FY13 and no change in current staffing levels. The plan does not mention adding additional ISOs on the workload. (Side note: they specifically list an assumption that they don't lose any officers to "details" or other workloads "DACA.") Their plan accounts for making a final decision within 30 days of receiving an RFE response for cap gap cases and within 60 days of receiving an RFE response on all other cases. At this juncture, I don't know that I see a benefit to treating the RFE responses on cap gap cases any differently than those for any other case, but wanted to check in with you to see if you disagree.

Would you like to meet to discuss further today or tomorrow?

Thanks!

Shelly

Natalie and Shelly,

Here is the VSC H1B Cap Plan using data from the 9/17/2012 Weekly H1B Report:

1) Cap Gap Petitions – There were 116 untouched cap gap filings according to the 9/17/2012 Weekly H1B Report. We expect to take an initial action on said cases by 10/1.
2) Cap Gap Petitions - For those filings requiring a request for evidence, our goal is to take a follow-up action within 30 days of receiving a response to the request for evidence.
3) Regular Cap Petitions – There were 10,994 untouched regular cap filings according to the 9/17/2012 Weekly H1B Report. In the four week period from 8/20/2012 – 9/17/2012 VSC reduced the number of H1B Cap initial receipts by 11,387. We expect to continue this same pace, thus putting us on target to take an initial action on the remaining actionable filings (there may be a small population held in the BCU or CFDO) by October 15, 2012.
4) Regular Cap Petitions - For those filings requiring a request for evidence, our goal is to take a follow-up action within 60 days of receiving a response to the request for evidence.
5) I have attached an H1B calculator which includes all H1B filings (Cap and EOS). Assuming there are no major workload shifts (see assumptions below), I am projecting that we will be within normal processing times for the EOS workload by the end of January 2013, while we continue to complete final actions on cap cases requiring a request for evidence.

Assumptions:

- Overtime continues uninterrupted into FY13. Please note at this time VSC has not received overtime funding for FY13.
- We do not experience significant losses to the dedicated business resources to detail or other workloads (i.e. DACA).
- Projected EOS receipts do not significantly surpass projections.
- No major policy or procedural changes occur that would impact the H1B standard completion rate.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

If they can meet the deadline fine – but that would mean ADJ would have about 6,500 cases ready by COB tomorrow and I don't think that will happen. The other part is the quality of work we are seeing (or lack of I should say).

It's your call.

You're right, but, they only have to do 10,872 PP cases. According to the spreadsheet through yesterday, they did 3,911. That leaves just under 7,000. If they sustain the rate they did Wednesday, they would finish by cob Monday, counting some rejects. So I don't think we need to push the panic button yet. Unless these figures aren't correct, but I'm going by them.

I'm going to ask Jerry if he will stand by completing all PP by cob Monday. If he verifies they will meet that goal, are you in agreement?

Here is the official report. As you will see they did not come close to the 2,830 mark on the second day – nor did they meet it on the third day of data entry. We are now on day four and at this rate will not have enough cases in the pipeline to keep Adjudicators busy over the weekend – which we should be doing if we intend to adjudicate everything in 15 days.

USCIS Releases Preliminary Number Of FY 2009 H-1B Cap Filings

WASHINGTON – U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) today announced a preliminary number of nearly 163,000 H-1B petitions received during the filing period ending on April 7, 2008. More than 31,200 of those petitions were for the advanced degree category.

USCIS expects next week it will conduct the computer-generated random selection process, beginning with the selection of the 20,000 petitions under the advanced degree exemption. Those petitions not selected under the advanced degree category will join the random selection process for the cap-subject 65,000 limit.

USCIS will reject, and return filing fees for all cap-subject petitions not randomly selected, unless found to be a duplicate. USCIS will handle duplicate filings in accordance with the interim final rule published on March 24, 2008 in the Federal Register.

USCIS will provide regular updates as the processing of FY 2009 H-1B cap cases continues.

That was a cut and paste from the press release posted earlier on the H-1B rule...
I have another question from Computer World magazine regarding the approx 163,000 H-1B visas ....

Senator Grassley's office is saying that the 163K number includes H-1B visas that are exempt from that cap, i.e., visas that are going to non-profits, academic institutions or are renewals. Consequently, it is arguing that the actual number of visas that will be counted against the cap and distributed via the lottery is less than the 163K.

Does the 163K represent all the H-1B petitions that the USCIS received, including those H-1B visas that are not counted in the cap? If that's the case, the how many H-1B visas out of the 163K are actually subject to the cap's limits?

Chris -

I have highlighted a sentence in red. I don't think this interpretation is accurate. I do not think we are keeping the fees of petitions that are not selected if they are duplicates. I believe we are keeping the fees of a petition that is selected for the lottery if a duplicate petition is later found and returning the fees and petition for the duplicate that is not found. See below.

Duplicate Petitions A & B – Scenario 1
Petition A selected for lottery (fee retained)
Petition B not selected for lottery (fee and petition returned)

Duplicate Petitions A & B – Scenario 2
Petition A not selected for lottery (fee and petition returned)
Petition B not selected for lottery (fee and petition returned)

Please run by OCC for their take on this. I have cc:ed Sunny Choi given the timing issue of having this up today. Perhaps I have read it too many times. I would take out the sentence in red to avoid all confusion.

Thanks.

Denis/Rose

I have done a quick analysis on the percentages of cases that were filed for H1B status at both Centers. The numbers I used were those submitted by Stanley, which reflect about 99% completion rate. The only cases left to be included in the VSC counts are those which are currently being reviewed by our Records employees. That number is very small and should not have much of an impact on the final counts.

These conclusions are based on the information that has been received to date:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| GRAND TOTAL of H1B petitions received: | 162,713 | | |
| TOTAL H1B petitions filed under Regular cap81% of total filings | 131,436 | or | |
| TOTAL H1B petitions filed under the Masters capof total filings | 31,277 | or | 19% |
| TOTAL H1B petitions filed asking for Premium Processingof total fillings | 28,915 | or | 18% |
| TOTAL H1B petition filed NOT asking for Premium Processing82% of total filings | 133,798 | or | |

BREAKDOWN ESTIMATES:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| GRAND TOTAL OF H1B petitions received: | 162,713 | | |
| TOTAL Regular petitions | 131,436 | | |
| RNG Selection estimate for Regular Capof Reg. filings | 70,000 | or | 53% |
| TOTAL Masters petitions | 31,277 | | |
| RNG Selection estimate for Masters Capof Masters filings | 25,000 | or | 80% |

IF THE SAME LOGIC HOLDS TRUE WE CAN EXPECT TO RECEIVE:

- 34% of the Masters filings requested premium processing

- 34% of the 25,000 RNG selections would be: 8,500

- 18% of the Regular filings Requested premium processing
  - 14% of 70,000 RNG selections would be 9,800

TOTAL OF ANTICIPATED PREMIUM CASES SELECTED 18,300

- ASSUMING THAT VSC WILL RECEIVE 2/3 OF THE CASEWORK 12,078

Subject: H1B counts

I know it's late but I just want to give a quick update on the piece count for H1B's:

On 4/1/08 we received 49,191 pieces (many in boxes and we have about 1/3 of that amount left to review and barcode)

On 4/2/08 we received 14,952 pieces (still unopened)

On 4/3/08 we received 5,471 pieces (still unopened)

We are progressing on opening the mail and as you can see our mail count is dropping each day. I will have a more definitive count for you all in the morning that will be broken down by the category and number of cases we have reviewed for masters, premium masters, regular, and premium regular cases. We have identified a few Chile/Singapore cases, but very, very few.

Just thought I would send you a little good news in light of the FedEx situation.

Definitely, We should probably have a meeting with James Chiang, Jim Fitzsimmons and Denis Peck also so we are all on the same page. What do you think Kevin? Next week, Monday or so could you consider a meeting on this? We need to finalize some things.

Please note we ended up with 71 Premium files mis-sorted in with regulars, the $1000 fees were returned on all. We also found 321 files that were not barcoded, all these cases get a "free" CAP number.
